$9 Million Will Be Spent on Eastern Ontario Highways

Paving and Resurfacing Main Work Says Doucett

Toronto, Sept. 1 (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett of Ontario said today his department will spend $9,000,000 this year in paving, resurfacing and maintaining roads in the eastern section of the province.

The work will largely concern Highway No. 17 from Hawkesbury on the Ottawa River northeastward to Mattawa and No. 15 southeast from Ottawa to Kingston. The Minister's $9,000,000 estimate includes work in the area bound on the west by Muskoka and Belleville, Ont., and on the east by Ottawa and the St. Lawrence River.

GERMAN APPEALS COURT ACQUITS HJALMAR SCHACHT

Former Financial Wizard Not Considered Major Nazi Offender

Stuttgart, Sept. 1 — (AP) — A German appeals court today acquitted Hjalmar Schacht, former German financial wizard, of charges that he was a major Nazi offender. He was ordered freed.

He had been serving an eight-year term after conviction by the chamber at Stuttgart denazification court last year.

Schacht also went free from the courtroom where, just two years ago, when Hermann Goering, Joachim Von Ribbentrop and other close associates of Adolf Hitler were condemned to die for war crimes.

The court held that Schacht's participation in the Nazi opposition movement from 1938 onward "more than matched his earlier support of Hitler.

"Some of the civilians who participated in the resistance movement did more than Schacht," the appeals court ruled.

Released Immediately

Schacht will be released immediately from the Ludwigsburg camp here. German spectators in the courtroom cheered the verdict. Some handed flowers to the aged former president of the Reichsbank.

American officials were stunned when told of the verdict.

Charles M. Friedman, denazification director for the United States military government in Wuerttemberg - Baden, called it "incomprehensible."

Charles M. Lafollette, military governor of the state, declared:

"It's a German problem, but my comments would be unfavorable."

Some appeals courts criticized Schacht's early court of Hitler but noted that he became an opponent of the Nazi regime after the purge of June, 1942, and later suffered confinement in several sharp memoranda. His criticism of the conduct of the Nazi war in 1945 resulted in his dismissal as minister without portfolio, the court said, adding that there was proof to show Schacht was to have been killed in a Nazi concentration camp.

Foreign Aircraft Except Russian Cannot Operate

Nanking, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Chinese government has forbidden all foreign aircraft except Russian—operating in its far-west provinces, it was learned today.

First victim of the unpublicized order was the United States Minister, Leonard M. Gross, whose chartered plane was grounded by defence ministry officials at Lanchow while en route to inspect the American consulate at Tihwa, in Sikiang Province.

Soviet planes fly freely over Sinkiang Province under a 10-year airline agreement with China. One Nanking official said, however, the Chinese government already has given Moscow formal notification of its intention to terminate the agreement "soon" when its original term ends Sept. 9, 1948.

Detroit Baseball Club May Be Put on Carpet

Detroit, Sept. 1 (AP) — The Detroit News said today baseball commissioner Albert B. Chandler will crack down within a month or so on a set-up in one league baseball deals involving the Detroit Tigers of the American League.

The newspaper said it had learned Chandler is completing investigation of deals between the Detroit Baseball Company team and the Dallas team of the Texas League.

Player transactions involve at least nine players signed by the Tigers and "covered up" in the minor leagues, the News said.

A Detroit baseball club spokesman said the club would comment on the reports would have to come from Billy Evans, Tigers baseball manager. Evans was not available for comment.

The News said Chandler was aiming his blast principally at violations of the rule against so-called "gentlemen's agreements and executive sessions of baseball executives before him in Cincinnati as soon as the Texas League season ends.

Among players listed by the News as being involved in the deals under fire are:

Paul Richards, a right-hander now with Dallas but who has been "sold" to Buffalo, a Tiger farm club in the International League; Bill Serena, third baseman, also reported sold from Dallas to Buffalo this summer; catchers Clem Cola now playing with Austin, and Ralph Hamner, playing with Lubbock.

Others were listed as pitchers Bill MacDonald and Jerry Ahrens and outfielders Zeke Wilemon and Jack Cassini, first in the Central League.

Also listed was a player identified as pitcher Cosie Kolwe.

PASSENGER TRAIN HITS FREIGHT, THREE INJURED

Halifax-Sidney Express Involved in Accident

Bolsdale, N. S., Sept. 1 (CP)

Engineer Leslie Langley of the No. 7 Halifax - Sydney express spotted the freight train about 300 yards but was unable to stop in time. The locomotive broke into flames which were quickly subdued.

Fireman Alvin MacDonald leaped from the express car and rolled without injury down an embankment. The train was split by an iron bar where he had been sitting.

Langley said, "I could see nothing but box car doors passing before my eyes when we hit."

There were about 50 passengers aboard the nine-car express. The train, made up of 10 cars, cars off the rails while all but two of its own remained on the track.

Average Canadian Family Pays $103 A Year for Shoes

Ottawa, Sept. 1 (CP)—The average Canadian family with three children would spend $103 a year on shoes, a Commons Committee witness estimated today.

Under questioning by Mrs. Ray W. Gerrish, one of the Commissioners, O. C. Kealey, an Ottawa shoe retailer, said the latter would buy one pair of shoes a year, probably pay $13.50. His wife likely would buy three pairs averaging $10 each. Each child would require four pairs at an average cost of $8 a pair. A preschool-aged child's expense would run to three pairs at an average price of $6 each. The baby, the fifth member of the family would require two pairs and they would cost $3 a pair. In addition, the family might have to spend $20 on rubbers and overshoes. That brought the total to $103.

"I would say that is fair," Mrs. Sutherland remarked.

Mr. Kealey said his estimate of the price of shoes was fair in relation to the average family income.

Mr. Kealey said he did not claim that.

WORKERS SPLASHED

Phoenixville, Pa., Sept. 1 (AP) —Four workers were splashed and burned as a mould of white hot metal erupted in a plant of the Phoenix-Apollo Steel Company Tuesday. The molten metal erupted in two violent blasts that spread many of the community's 14,000 residents.

ASKED TO BOIL WATER

Oakville, Sept. 1 (CP) —Health officials today warned residents to boil drinking water after an apparent complete breakdown of the pumping system.

"It is purely a precautionary measure," Dr. J. Masters Medical Health Officer said.

Skibos Arouse Curiosity Of Prices Commissioners

Ottawa, Sept. 1 (CP)—For all you know, it may be a two-cent sou may make you buy him a pair of skiboots. And even though they are cut-down ski boots, he can do everything but ski in them.

They'll cost $14.

They are part of "high style" in shoes—new, in public demand, and by no means cheap.

The Prices Commission, probing the cost of shoes, has come across traces of "high style" before, but Tuesday the three commissioners set their ceiling. J. A. Dyde, really got their teeth into it.

Mr. Dyde spotted skibos in an advertisement the T. Eaton Co. ran in a Montreal newspaper and questioned Eaton officials there about their advent. He first questioned another witness, Harvey Pollock, owner of a Toronto shoe stores, about other aspects of high style.

Mr. Pollock assured the Commission that it affects men and women and children. Mr. Pollock's testimony was that a child, only by the very, very young show no interest in it.

Mr. Dyde was already armed with the information he had obtained from Mr. Pollock when he tackled Eaton's officials about skibos. They said they would not skibo.

"It's certainly not a conservative model," he began. "Is there a demand for freak shoes? Looking at this advertisement it looks like a freak shoe. It's a low shoe and looks like a ski boot."

"That's exactly what it is—a ski boot with the top cut off," W. Bowles, Eaton's Montreal shoe supervisor, said.

"I'll say it couldn't use it for skiing!" Mr. Dyde continued.

"No," Mr. Bowles agreed.

"Where's the best value?" Mr. Dyde asked in the course of his probe into "high style."

"Well, I'd say skiboots. He pointed to a conservative, attractive-looking ladies' shoe.

Mr. Dyde left high style-consciousness starts.

"I'll say it to make everybody style conscious," Mr. Bowles replied.

"What do you estimate to be the gain on the manufacturer?" Prof. C. A. Curtis, chairman, asked.

"We sell more shoes," Mr. Bowles explained.

Montreal, Sept. 1 (CP)— Pat Sullivan, former president of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union, "has been retired from the scene" and the union now affiliated with the Seafarers' International Union of North America (AFL), it was announced today.

The announcement was contained in a statement issued from the office of Frank Hall, Vice-President of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, who brought the parties together.

Mr. Hall said the agreement was reached Tuesday between the two unions "whereby the C.L.S.U. becomes a part of the Canadian district of the Seafarers' International Union embracing deep sea as well as Great Lakes operations."

The agreement was signed by representatives of both organizations, A. Sim, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian district signed for the S.I.U. Jack Chetkovich for the C.L.S.U. signed for his organization.

Bandits Rob Man In Toronto Hotel

Toronto, Sept. 1 (CP)— Two bandits held up a Chicago visitor as he was about to enter his suite on the 18th floor of the downtown hotel (Royal York) today and escaped with $150 and two bottles of liquor.

Police said it was the first holdup of its type on record here.

Fred J. McElwain, 45, representative of a firm exhibiting at the Canadian National Exhibition, told police he was walking into his suite when two men stepped against the back of his neck. He said he was forced into the room, told to lie on the bed and then a pillow was tied around his mouth to gag him.

The thugs first told him they were looking for someone from North Bay, Ont.

Three Crewmen Injured When Freights Collide

Georgetown, Sept. 1 — (CP) — Three train crew members were injured, two seriously, when an National Railways trains collided here, 28 miles west of Toronto.

C. N. R. officials said an east bound Palmerston-to-Toronto train collided with the rear of an empty freight on a Toronto - Stratford freight within the railway yards here. They said the Palmerston train was travelling at 50 miles an hour. About 20 cars were derailed, and 300 feet of track torn up.

Injured were Engineer H. Hendricks, broken leg; brakeman J. Metrapolis, minor cuts, and fireman Lou Hall, minor injuries. All three are from Toronto. A number of cattle were injured and had to be destroyed.

Hendricks, engineer of the Palmerston train, said he stopped his train when he saw the standing train loom out of the darkness. He jumped from the left door of the cab, while his fireman and brakeman Metrapolis followed but Metrapolis, lost his reach the door, was hurled to the tracks by the impact.

The broke out in the caboose of the Stratford train and was extinguished by railway volunteer firemen who fought the blaze for several hours.

FEDERAL LABOR CODE SLAPPED ON DAY OF ITS BIRTH

C.C.L. Says Measure Falls Short of Needs

Ottawa, Sept. 1 (CP)—The federal labor code ran into new union criticism as it became law by proclamation today.

Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, declared the measure "falls far short of what Canada needs."

Mr. Conroy's criticism was expressed in a statement issued as Ottawa and a group of key industries came under new collective bargaining and industrial disputes legislation adopted in the main at the last session of parliament.

The measure, which supplants wartime labor regulations, covers industries under federal jurisdiction, including launching, shipping, communications, aviation and radio and provincial enterprises generally.

One of its chief features is a "cooling off" procedure preceding strikes or lockouts. The cooling off period may run up to 60 days from the outbreak of a dispute.

Mr. Conroy said parts of the code on several grounds, but his strongest attack launched on what he termed its "narrow coverage." He said it was "unnecessarily restricted."

Many Shortcomings Claim

"The labor code as adopted, he declared, the Dominion lacks authority to deal with "all matters" which become of national concern.

"(The Congress had asked that the power to declare industries as "national" industries as coal, steel and meat-packing.)

Other features of the code criticized by Mr. Conroy:

1. The code prohibits "union security" and the union dues checkoff in all industries.

2. The fact that the legislation is applied to labor disputes rather than by the new Canada Labor Relations Board. The method of procedure for settlement is slow, doubtful and likely to be ineffective, he said.

3. Penalties provided for refusal to bargain collectively are "totally inadequate."

4. The provisions making collective agreements binding in law "present the possibility of lengthy and costly law suits."

5. Power of the Board to revoke the certification of a union where it has lost a majority of employees is a dangerous rule and "dangerous" to new unions. An employer could easily break up until the strength of a union was weakened and then launch proceedings to have the certification revoked.

6. The government had "failed effectively to outlaw company unions."

NEW UNIFORMS FOR ARMY

Ottawa, Sept. 1 — (CP) — New uniforms for Canadian army personnel can be expected after May 1, 1949, an army headquarters spokesman said Tuesday. Initial army personnel, including officers, will receive the new uniforms, the spokesman said. It will be at least 1949 before the new issue will be more of "walking out" dress than a "fighting uniform."

Berlin Currency Main Hurdle In Solving Crisis

Four Military Governors Hold Second Meeting

Berlin, Sept. 1 (CP)—The four military governors of Germany met for 1½ hours, again tonight to work out practical steps to end the currency split.

Three groups of experts met earlier to work out technical problems of the Berlin crisis, and indications were that the lifting of the Soviet blockade on one side of the city is under discussion.

The groups—four-power experts on transport, finance and economics—are to report their findings to the four military governors of Germany. Control of Berlin currency appeared to be the biggest hurdle in the attempt to solve the crisis, and it appeared slated for prime attention at the meeting.

The experts were believed to have been assigned specific tasks by the four commanders after the military governors held their first meeting here Tuesday since the Russians walked out of the allied control council March 30. The governors themselves broke up from their meeting shortly before the Moscow sessions of western representatives with Soviet leaders.

Roots of Crisis

An informed source said the problem centred on how the three western powers could introduce a single Soviet-backed currency into the Western sectors without the Russians to issue it.

The problem goes down to the roots of the 4-day-old Berlin crisis. For months the four powers wrangled over Soviet insistence on a separate Russian printing press in the proposed currency reform for all Germany.

The western Allies finally went ahead on their own and issued new currency for western Germany. This brought on the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

Acting on instructions from the four-power sessions in Moscow, the military governors got together for the first time in Berlin on Tuesday in the huge grey allied control building.

There has been no official indication here whether a limit has been set on the length of the Berlin meetings. One western source said five or six sessions were expected.

Orders from Moscow said the big four there would also continue meeting, presumably in London or Paris.

Cannot Answer Question

In Washington, the State Department said the military governors' meeting in Berlin was no business for lifting the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, said Tuesday he could not answer questions on that point.

ANDREI ZHDANOV, ONE OF BIG THREE, DIES IN MOSCOW

Moscow, Sept. 1 (AP)—Moscow radio announced today that Andrei A. Zhdanov, member of the powerful politburo and a founder of cominform, who died Tuesday at the age of 52. Moscow radio said he died of heart disease.

Red flags edged in black flutistered above the streets for this first time on such an occasion since former premier Michael I. Kalinin died in June, 1946.

Zhdanov was often referred to on occasions of ceremony as the Soviet Union's "second man" and "one of the closest associate of the great Stalin." There is no doubt that Zhdanov, who was also head of Foreign Minister Molotov, he was one of the Soviet Union's "Big Three."

(Abroad, Zhdanov often was regarded as a leading candidate for Stalin's job, when the time comes. Others believed in the running were Molotov and L. P. Beria, secret police boss. Stalin died in 1953.)

The Russian public was deeply shocked at the sudden news of Zhdanov's death, broadcast in a special bulletin at 9 p.m. and repeat before midnight. There had been no previous hint that he was ill.

In addition to being one of the 14 members of the vital politburo, Zhdanov was head of the ruling force behind the activities of the communist information or Cominform Bureau. He was present when that international organization was founded in Poland last year and participated in a conference in Moscow a few months ago at which Premier Tito of Yugoslavia was denounced.

Besides his duties with the politburo and cominform, Zhdanov was secretary of the communist party of the Soviet Union, a deputy of the Supreme Soviet and a former chairman of the presidium of the Supreme Council of the Union. He was a colonel-general in the army.

During the war he led the defence of Leningrad in perhaps the most famous siege of that besieged city for two years, through the worst periods of famine and bombing. When the northern city, he was a hero second only to Stalin. He was a communist party leader there before the war.

DENIED NEW TRIAL

Chicago, Sept. 1 (AP) — Roy Adams, 41, a former army sergeant Tuesday and sentenced to life imprisonment for murdering an eight-year-old girl. Adams was convicted Aug. 27 by a jury, which recommended the life imprisonment. Judge Harry M. Fisher, Adams pleaded guilty.

2,500 Men Building Ontario Hydro's Biggest Post-War Plant

Des Joachims, Que., Sept. 1 — (CP)— Astride Des Joachims' swirling rapids, men are building the ruins of a 17th-century trading post—and the biggest of Ontario hydro's biggest post-war projects.

It is the huge Des Joachims development of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Scheduled for completion in 1951 at a cost of $37,500,000, it will harness the broad, dark Ottawa River just upstream from Des Joachims.

The dam, backing up the swift-moving Ottawa, will form a "lake" a mile wide and 15 miles long, stretching upstream to Lake Temiscaming, Hydro's smaller La Cave development.

Des Joachims, 40 miles northwest of Pembroke, Ont., is a small village with Hydro took over a building site. Within two years, the project has created Dolphin, Que., across the river from Des Joachims.

In Dolphin are the headquarters of the gigantic undertaking. There are block on block of workmen's dormitories, a hospital, offices for hydro engineers and executives, dining halls, a post office and a few stores. Under construction is a school for Dolphin's children.

Incidental to construction of the project itself is the re-building of 11 miles of Canadian Pacific railway line, a section of the Ottawa-to-North Bay main-line of the railway, and 17 miles of highway. They replace track and pavement which will be flooded by the lake the dam forms.

A vital offshoot of the main development is the McConnell Lake dam, now under construction, five miles from the Dolphin headquarters.

The McConnell dam, handling the flow beyond Des Joachims capacity, will recreate a river which generations ago carried millions of years ago. This overflow will feed the Mattawa River, with slightly higher tempera-

The Des Joachims power is moving south of the smaller into the Ottawa River, giving rain throughout North Bay, Sudbury.

GERMAN APPEALS COURT ACQUITS HJALMAR SCHACHT

Former Financial Wizard Not Considered Major Nazi Offender

Stuttgart, Sept. 1 — (AP) — A German appeals court today acquitted Hjalmar Schacht, former German financial wizard, of charges that he was a major Nazi offender. He was ordered freed.

He had been serving an eight-year term after conviction on the charge by a Stuttgart denazification court last year.

Schacht also went free from the courtroom at Nuemberg two years ago when Chief Prosecutor Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Hitler associate Martin Bormann ordered Hitler were condemned to die by war crimes.

The latter said that Schacht's participation in the Nazi opposition movement during the war and more than outweighed his services to the Reich.

"Some of the civilians who participated in the resistance movement are now Schacht's schoolmates," the appeals court ruled.

Released Immediately

Schacht will be released immediately from the internment camp here, the court ordered. Before the courtroom cheered the verdict, Soviet handed flowers to the aged former president of the Reichsbank.

American officials were stunned when told of the verdict.

Charles M. Hamilton, denazification officer for the United States military government in Wuerttemberg - Baden, called it "incomprehensible."

"It's a German problem, but my comments would be unprintable."

The appeals court criticized Schacht's early support of Hitler but noted that he became an opponent of the Nazi regime after the purge of June, 1934, and later opposed rearmament in several letters addressed to Hitler criticism of the conduct of the war in 1943 resulted in his dismissal as minister without portfolio, the court said, adding that there was proof he drew Schacht was to have been killed in a Nazi concentration camp.

Foreign Aircraft Except Russian Cannot Operate

Nanking, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Chinese government has forbidden all foreign aircraft—except Russian—to operate within its border-west provinces, it was learned today.

First news of the unpublished order was the United States Minister, Lewis Clark, whose embassy plane has been used by defense ministry officials at Lanchow while on a mercy mission for the American Consulate at Tihwa, in Sinkiang Province.

Soviet planes fly freely over Sinkiang Province under a 10-year airline agreement with China. The Nanking official said, however, the Chinese government already has given Moscow formal notification of its intention to terminate the "monopoly" pact when the original term ends Sept. 9, 1949.

Detroit Baseball Club May Be Put on Carpet

Detroit, Sept. 1 (AP) — The Detroit News said today baseball Commissioner Albert B. Chandler will meet with Tigers' officials this month or so on a series of minor league matters, including the recent Detroit Tigers of the American League.

The newspaper said it had learned Chandler is completing an investigation into the weekend the Detroit major league team and the Dallas team of the Texas League.

The transactions involve at least eight players, all of the Tigers and "covered up" in the minor leagues, the News said.

A Detroit baseball club spokesman said the only comment on the reports would have to come from Billy Evans, Tigers' general manager. Evans was not available for comment.

The News said Chandler was aiming his blast principally at violations of the rule against so-called "gentlemen's agreements and evasions of the bonus rule."

The Detroit club was previously in 1946 put on probation by the late commissioner, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, for signing farm agents of 91 players owned by the Tigers and scattered through the baseball empire.

May Summon Executives

The News said Chandler is expected to summon several baseball executives here before June in Cincinnati as soon as the Texas League season closes.

Among players listed by the News as being involved in the deals under inquiry are:

Paul Henrichs, a right-hander now with Dallas but who has been "sold" to Toledo, a Tiger farm club in the International League. Bill Norman, third baseman transferred from Dallas to Buffalo this summer; catchers Clem Cole now playing at Austin, and Mike Dooley, playing with LaSalle.

Others were listed as pitchers Bill Meinert and Jerry Ahrens and outfielders Jack Wiemer and Jack Cerio of Flint in the Central League.

Also listed was a player identified as pitcher Ossie Kolwe.

Fostering of Public Goodwill Needed In Business Says Chain Store Head

Toronto, Sept. 1 (CP)—Leadership, efficiency and fostering public goodwill is needed in business, J. William Horsey of Toronto, president of a chain of food stores (Dominion) said today.

"I am convinced that if private enterprise is to survive, we in the field of distribution must learn to justify our right to exist by performing the functions of distribution more efficiently than any other service or method," he declared in an address prepared for delivery to a Canadian National Exhibition luncheon.

"More economical distribution will not simply automatically follow the 'future development-will have to be based on a more scientific approach to the whole problem."

Mr. Horsey said all other assets must be protected against depreciation, said Mr. Horsey.

He said most businessmen "still prefer to live within their plants, in other words, to live within themselves."

He noted that emphasis in large businesses was shifting from industrial production to sales based on public demand.

"Many operators still believe that money is made out of production; whereas money is actually made from sales . . . This adjustment in mental attitude requires those concerned to take direction living with the consuming public and be willing to specialize to the requirements of the public."

Average Canadian Family Pays $103 A Year for Shoes

Mr. Dyde spotted skibos in an advertisement the T. Eaton Co. ran in a Montreal newspaper and questioned Company Secretary Reuben about their advent. He first questioned another witness, Harvey Pollock, owner of 20 Toronto shoe stores, about other aspects of high style.

Mr. Pollock assured the Commission that it affects men, women and children. Mr. Pollock's testimony was that, as a client, by the very, very young show no interest in it.

Mr. Dyde was already armed with the information he had obtained from Mr. Pollock when he tackled Eaton's officials about high style." He started with the skibo.

"It's certainly not a conservative model," he began. "Is there a demand for frank shoes? Looking at this advertisement it looks like a regular shoe. It's a low shoe made like a ski boot."

"That's exactly what it is—a ski boot with the top cut off." W. W. Bowles, Eaton's Montreal shoe buyer, supplied.

"And you couldn't use it for skiing?" Mr. Dyde continued.

"No," Mr. Bowles agreed.

"There's the best witness!" Mr. Dyde stated in the course of his probe into "high style."

Mr. Bowles said he did. He pointed to a conservative, attractive looking ladies shoe.

Mr. Dyde asked how style-conscious the public is.

"We all try to make everybody style conscious," Mr. Bowles replied.

"What do you estimate to be the style of the advantage?" Prof. C. A. Curtis, chairman, asked.

"I'd say more shoes," Mr. Bowles explained.

Japan Places Huge Order For Ore From B.C. Coast Island

Vancouver, Sept. 1 (CP)—The industrial future was brighter today for areas such as Vancouver Island, 50 miles northwest of Victoria.

The Japanese Board of Trade has placed an order for 250,000 tons of iron ore from Texada Island, a 31-by-six mile strip between Vancouver Island and the B. C. mainland.

Japan, cut off from its Manchurian supply, needs iron ore for its steel mills. The contract will help toward the beginning of activity on Texada Island.

A geological report issued by the provincial government in 1919 estimated ore reserves on the island at 4,372,000 tons. However, no shipments have been made since 1893 prior to this 16,000 tons of ore were mined.

Besides providing the vast ore deposits, the huge transaction will speed the construction of a deep-sea wharf, installationan of new mining equipment and chartering of at least 25 ships.

The original contract called for shipments to commence this month but it is not believed facilities can be arranged in time. The ore is to be shipped at the rate of 50,000 tons a month which would require at least five ships. Each ship will call at the loaded.

Rich Texada deposits are relatively easy to work as there are big surface exposures which permit direct quarrying.

The contract was placed by the Japanese Board of Trade with China Mutual Trading Co of Seattle. The Company's President, said he expected the ore would be shipped to Japan in Canadian vessels.

The island property is owned by Texada Mines Ltd. Co. of San Francisco but an option is held by D. S. Tait, Vancouver mining

Pat Sullivan Forced Out, C.S.L.U. Now Part of AFL

Mr. Hall said agreement was reached Tuesday between the two unions whereby the C.S.L.U. becomes a part of the Canadian district of the Seafarers' International Union embracing deep sea as well as Great Lakes membership.

The agreement was signed by representatives of both organizations. J. D. Joyce, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian district signed for the S.I.U. Jack Chapman of Montreal, new president of the C.S.L.U. signed for his organization.

Bandits Rob Man In Toronto Hotel

Toronto, Sept. 1 (CP)— Two bandits held up a Chicago visitor as he was about to enter his suite on the 18th floor of the downtown hotel (Royal York) today and escaped with $150 and two bottles of liquor.

Police said it was the first holdup of the type discovered here.

Fred J. McIlwain, 45, representative of the Chicago Association of the Canadian National Exhibition, told police he was about to enter his suite when a gun was placed against his back and the neck. He said he was forced into the room, told to lie on the bed and then a pillow was tied around his mouth to gag him.

The thugs first told him they were looking for someone from the Bank Hotel.

FEDERAL LABOR CODE SLAPPED ON DAY OF ITS BIRTH

C.C.L. Says Measure Falls Short of Needs

Ottawa, Sept. 1 (CP)—The federal labor code ran into new union criticism as it became law on Labor Day holiday.

Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, declared the measure "falls far short of what Canada needs."

Mr. Conroy's criticism was expressed in a statement issued as workers in a large group of key industries came under new collective bargaining and industrial dispute legislation adopted in the dying days of the last parliament.

The measure, which supplants wartime labor regulations, covers industries under federal jurisdiction, such as railways, shipping, communications, aviation and radio and industries in new enterprises generally.

One of the chief features is a "cooling off" procedure preceding strikes or lockouts. The cooling off period may run up to 90 days from the outbreak of dispute.

Mr. Conroy was critical of the code on several grounds, but his main objection was directed to what he termed its "narrow coverage." He said it was "unnecessarily restricted."

Shortcomings Claims

Under the code as adopted, he declared, the Dominion lacks authority "to deal with labor disputes which become of national concern."

The Congress had asked that the code be broadened to include such "national" industries as coal, steel and asbestos mining.

Other aspects of the code criticized Mr. Conroy:

1. Failure to include "union security" and the union dues checkoff in the legislation.

2. The fact that the legislation is applicable to unions only after they by the new Canada Labor Relations Board. The recognition adopted would be "complicated, slow, doubtful and likely to be subject to litigation."

3. Penalties provided for refusal to bargain collectively are "totally inadequate."

4. The question making collective agreements binding in law "presents a problem of lengthy and costly legal actions."

5. Power of the Board to refuse to hear cases in any province where it has lost a majority of employees in any industry until the "dangerous" to new unions. An employer could refuse bargaining until the strength of a union was established by lengthy hearings and meetings to have its certification revoked.

6. The government had "failed effectively to outlaw company unions."

Berlin Currency Main Hurdle In Solving Crisis

Four Military Governors Hold Second Meeting

Berlin, Sept. 1 (CP)—The four military governors of Germany met at 3 p.m. again tonight to work out practical steps to end the currency split.

Three groups of experts met earlier to work out technical problems of the Berlin crisis, and indications were that the lifting of the Soviet blockade of the city is under discussion.

The groups—four-power experts on transport, finance and economics—were to report their findings to the four military governors of Germany. Control of Berlin currency appeared to be the main hurdle in the attempts to solve the crisis, and it appeared slated for prime attention at the meeting.

The experts were believed to have been assigned specific tasks by the four commanders after the military governors' second official meeting here Tuesday since the Russians walked out of the allied control council March 20. The governors themselves "are working hard" on the crisis from the Moscow sessions of western representatives with Soviet leaders.

Roots of Crisis

An informed source said the problem centered on how the three western powers could establish a single Soviet-backed currency for Berlin without submitting to the Russians to issue it.

The problem goes down to the roots of the 29-day-old Berlin crisis. For months the four powers have struggled over Soviet insistence on a separate Russian printing press in the proposed currency reform for all Germany.

The western Allies finally went ahead on their own and issued currency for western Germany. This brought on the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

Acting on instructions from the big-five conference in Moscow, the military governors got together in Berlin on the Soviet blockade Tuesday in the huge grey allied control building.

There has been no official indication here whether a limit has been put on the length of the session meetings. One western source said five or six sessions were expected.

Word from Moscow said the big four there would also continue meeting, presumably to discuss the Berlin crisis.

Cannot Answer Question

In Washington, the State Department said the military governors in Berlin have no instructions for lifting the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, on Tuesday he could not answer questions on that point.

Moscow, Sept. 1 (AP)—Moscow hung out morning flags today for Andrei A. Zhdanov, member of the powerful politburo and a founder of cominform, who died Tuesday at the age of 52. Moscow radio said he died of heart disease.

Red flags edged in black fluttered above the streets for the first time on such an occasion since former President Michael I. Kalinin died in June, 1946.

Zhdanov was often referred to on occasions of ceremony as "the closest associate of the great Stalin." There is no doubt that with Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov he was one of the Soviet Union's Big Three.

Abroad, Zhdanov often was referred to as a leading candidate for Stalin's job, when the time came. Others believed in the ruling were Molotov and Georgi Beria, secret police boss. Stalin now is 68.

The Russian public was deeply shocked at the sudden news of Zhdanov's death, broadcast in a brief bulletin just half an hour before midnight. There had been no previous hint that he was ill.

It entitles a being one of the 14 members of the vital policymaking politburo, the chief executive body of the communist party of the Soviet Union. He was a former chairman of the Council of the Union. He was a former leader in the red army.

During the war he led the defence of Leningrad in person, living inside the walls of that besieged city for two years, through the worst periods of famine and shelling in that northern city, he was a hero second only to Stalin. He was communist party leader there before the war.

2,500 Men Building Ontario Hydro's Biggest Post-War Plant

Des Joachims, Que., Sept. 1 — (CP)— At Des Joachims' building rapids, near the isolated ruins of a 17th-century trading post, 2,500 men are building Ontario hydro's biggest post-war plant.

It is the huge Des Joachims development of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Scheduled for completion in 1951 at a cost of $40,000,000, it will harness the broad, dark Ottawa River and produce 480,000 horsepower.

In Ontario, it will be second only to the 900,000 horsepower Queenston plant on the Niagara River.

The dam, backing up the swift-moving Ottawa, will form a lake 30 miles long, and a short, long, stretching upstream to Timiskaming and Hydro's smaller La Cave development.

Des Joachims, 40 miles northwest of Pembroke, Ont., is a quiet, remote village until Hydro took over. Besides the power house business, the project has created Hydro-ville, across the river from Des Joachims.

In Rolphton are the headquarters of the gigantic undertaking. There are block on block of workmen's houses, the bigger ones houses for hydro engineers and executives, dining halls, a post office and a hospital. Under construction is a school for Rolphton's children.

Incidental to construction of the power plant itself is the building of 11 miles of Canadian Pacific railway and the rerouting of Ontario two-lane highway. The railway and 10 miles of the highway are highway. They replace track and pavement which will be flooded when the dam is finished.

A vital offshoot of the main development is the Mcconnell Lake dam, now under construction, five miles from the Rolphton headquarters.

The McConnell dam, banking the flow beyond Des Joachims capacity, will recreate a river which disappeared several millions of years ago. This overflow will feed into Timiskaming and Mcconnell Lake, through a drainage channel deep water below the Des Joachims power house.

As in many a vast project where workers are housed on the ground, Des Joachims has claimed its share of tragedy. Four men were killed last November in a blasting accident. Another died last July when a section of derrick bridging toppled as they raised it over a concrete conveyor.

Among hydro people, Des Joachims is pronounced "Duhwash-im." There's a local legend which says it's a mixture of French and Indian. There were two brothers of that name, the story goes, and they used it to differ from each other. Historians, England, will be most specific.

DRYING PASTURES REDUCE MILK YIELD

Drying pastures as result of the hot sun of last week caused a drop of 10 to 30 per cent in the milk flow, city dairies reported this week. To fill their customers' demands local dairies were forced to take on additional producers, while in one or two instances dairies purchased milk from cheese factories to fill their needs.

One city dairy stated that five new producers had been taken on and more would be taken on when the demand for milk increased with the re-opening of school and the return of city dwellers from holidays. These producers would be kept on during the winter months. The milk supply was expected now to hold its own with the return of cooler weather.

GRASS FIRE MENACED FAIR GROUNDS SHEDS

A grass fire which threatened to get out of control west of the Northern Electric plant on Sidney Street, Wednesday afternoon endangered sheep and cattle housed at the Belleville fair grounds before it was brought under control by firemen. The fire ran over the dried grass very rapidly with firemen reporting that it left flames reaching within 12 feet of the sheep pens before it was extinguished.

The only other alarm answered by the department was on Coleman Flats for a grass fire. Neither blaze caused any damage.

Member of the Belleville Fire Department for 33 years and chief since 1929, Fire Chief William Lynch took his last official ride with the fire reels Tuesday evening as his associates at the fire hall gave him a gala send-off at the eve of his retirement.

Chief Lynch's place at the head of the department will be taken by Assistant Fire Chief Gerald Vance when duty assumes the role of chief of the department. The role of assistant chief will be dropped from the department.

It was really a gay party which the local fire fighters planned for their retiring chief. First, and possibly most important to the twenty-odd guests including aldermen, city officials and others was the banquet at the fire hall. Then the chief was honored in more tangible fashion as on behalf of the fire fighting personnel he was presented with a large set of carving knife and a handsome smoking stand and cellarette combination.

Chief William Lynch who is retiring as Chief. He has been a member of the department since 1915, being named assistant chief in 1929.

Gives Wrist Watch

On behalf of the city of Belleville the chief was presented with a handsomely engraved gold wrist watch was made by Mayor D. L. Ponton, who in making the presentation paid tribute to the chief's long service to the city and expressed some recognition of the deal.

It is understood there will be no substantial change in personnel. William Caton, president of Burford's since 1945, will remain as manager of the Picton office for Smith's.

Smiths will provide additional service to all principal and intermediate points in Eastern Ontario, Western and Northern New York State. Burford's had been running for many years between Belleville, Trenton and Toronto; and Picton to Ottawa.

Quarters Decorated

The living quarters of the fire hall were nicely decorated for the occasion with the banquet table being loaded with good things to eat. In the absence of Assistant Chief Vance, all the men "pitch in" to prepare the banquet while the chief was off duty, thus undoubtedly had much to do with the success of the food. Salads and chicken galore were the main fare of the banquet with the men topped off on lemon and pumpkin pie.

Chairman of the fire committee, Alderman Angus Duffy acted as master of ceremonies for the occasion. "It is not necessary to enumerate the many good qualities of the retiring fire chief," stated Alderman Duffy. "Chief's splendid fire protection afforded the city is evidence of the efficiency of the chief and the department. He is just a grand guy and that is all we are here."

Given Honorary Card

Fire Chief Lynch was presented with an honorary withdrawal card from the International Association of Fire Fighters. This was presented by Deputy Chief Jack and Charles Greatrix, two officials of the Belleville Fire Fighters' Association, Local 497.

Speakers who briefly enumerated the fine qualities of Fire Chief Lynch, both as head of the fire department and as a citizen, included George H. Stokes, M.P., Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., Chief Ford Argue; Ex-Mayor W. Harry Rollins; Mayor D. L. Ponton; Harold Seldon, representing the Board of Education; Police Chief Walter Probert and Harry Harrison, reeve of Thurlow township.

As chairman of the fire committee, Alderman Duffy presented Gerald Vance with his new chief's badge. In replying Chief Vance paid tribute to the retiring chief. "Chief Lynch has been a good fire chief, but he has also been a pal and friend to men and has stood behind the members of this department," he said. "It is a pleasure to accept this fire chief's badge and I will do my best to fulfill the trust you have placed in me."

Original Member

Retiring Fire Chief Lynch is an original member of the permanent fire department in Belleville which was formed in 1916. The department then consisted of ten men and chief as compared with the 22 men and chief at the present time. Chief Lynch became head of the department in 1929 following the death of Chief Brown who died of injuries while fighting fire at the Corbin Lock.

Worried Stranger Was Just Lucky

Some people are born lucky; others acquire it, so to speak, while yet others have luck thrust upon them.

Seated quietly on the Herrington Soft Drink Shop on Market Street, enjoying the warm sunshine, Wednesday noon, on the topics of the day, were Mr. Herrington, Ken Bateman, Harry Lummins and Mrs. Jimmy Matthews.

Mr. Matthews had just vacated his seat to attend to a customer, when a worried stranger came along, bought an ice cream cone and left the shop in a hurry. Chair he stayed for a few minutes, then left.

"You didn't by any chance," he asked on returning, "see an envelope lying around here?"

Heads were shaken in the negative. Then Matthews looked behind his chair, and there lay an unopened envelope. "Is this it?" he asked.

The stranger took it, opened it, then wiped a perspiring forehead.

"Boy, am I glad to see that," he exclaimed.

The group became curious.

"Why?" someone asked.

The stranger again opened the envelope and extracted five one-hundred dollar bills.

Tomato Crop Greatly Needs Heavy Rain

Rain is badly needed in the South Hastings district to save the tomato crop from serious loss and to officials of the Canada Packers plant said today.

Officials of the local canning factory state that last week's hot sun had materially reduced the tomato crop prospects. Estimates for the Hastings district indicate that the crop will be from 50 to 70 per cent of normal, but in other districts where the land is shallower it is reported the crop will be reduced to about 40 per cent.

"Tomatoes really took a scorching from the hot sun," reported the factory official. "It reduced the crop outlook and will also mean a lower quality pack."

The Belleville canning factory has been operating part time for tomatoes during the past week with today (Wednesday) being the first full day's operation. Tomatoes were stated to be coming in fairly good quantities this week.

Oshawa, Ont., Sept. 1 — Point Anne Cementmen faded from the O.H.A.A. championship playoff race here Tuesday night when they bowed to Oshawa Legionaires at the hands of the powerful Oshawa Pedlars who took the series in two straight.

With Jack McConkey pitching two-hit ball for seven innings and getting excellent support, it wasn't until eighth inning that Point Anne scored their first counter of the series. Green singled with one out, Genereux popped up for two out but Wardhaugh came through with a triple to deep left and Mallory followed with a single to centre. The right to score Wardhaugh with Point Anne's second and final run.

Marcelle started on the mound for Point Anne and walked Yourkevitch to start the inning. Black was safe on an error at first, then Yourkevitch was forced at second as Reid got a hike on Schwab's grounder. Bateman to load the bases. Kiwanians were beginning to worry and so on for Allen their suspicions, Ri-

Then Rotary moved up its heavy artillery in the form of substitutes. Doctor Marshall grounded out to the shortstop who fumbled but got both batsmen and on Pinkston scoring. Yealland singled in the next frame and Francis, batting for Allen who was playing the field, walked to first base (the cunning of it all) got to first on Fielder's choice that saw Hagerman tagged at second. It was for the first time in his career as a baseman.

Houston, with rare cunning, let Rotary first baseman make the occasion by committing his second error in thirty years. Mott was walked to reload the bases, and Pinkston crashed out a mighty triple, his second time at two of which were bonuses, to win the game.

White was distraught and 'tis heavy speculation that the Kiwanis song-leader will forsit his pitch for the two weeks because of the loss. The Rotarians took the first victory calmly, as befits men who have reached the age of campaign, had little to say.

Third baseman Marshall stated that it was a strategic win. Lloyd Fielder was the man that the team had played the game according to plan.

Where Was Moloney

One of the upsetting features of the Rotary defense was a manoeuvre entitled the "Marshall Plan," in which the centre fielder played as close to the left or right field as space permitted, short left field. Meanwhile the third baseman would be stationed on his cosiness, played with his hands in his sleeves, like a Tibetan Llama, which is not a fair comparison considering the icy polar blasts that swept the field. These clever moves upset the Kiwanis' attack to no end and contributed mightily to the Rotary victory.

Latest casualty figures indicate that five quarts of liniment, three pints of cotting, a half pitcher of Mother Myrtle's Old Home Remedy were used during the course of the hour and a half game.

Don Lee and Cy Young featured as arbiters of the Commercial Softball League tilt, called life and limb to umpire the game. A collection for the swimming pool fund netted $20.00.

Kiwanis—Fox, Schwab, White Pryke, Wood, Aitkens, Bruce Bothwell, Graham, Davies, Lloyd, Hughes, Riley.

Business Spotlight

Businessmen in British Columbia don't talk of recessions. They point to government reports to show that industrial activity is continuing at a high level.

Reports that the west coast is a bad employment risk have been disproved. Employment figures look bad — but there is an explanation.

There are 16,320 applications for jobs in B.C., and only 4,365 jobs available. A National Employment service officials say, a large number of applicants are people seeking part time employment to augment retirement pensions.

From industry come promising forecasts for the future. Major industries — timber, fishing and mining— increased activity, with production far ahead of a year ago.

The timber scale was up by 2.4 per cent over 1947 in the first five months of this year, the B.C. Bureau of Economics and Statistics reports. Gold production advanced 84 per cent, and the fish pack is at the highest level since 1945.

Salmon fishermen are in the money, and the tuna run in the first 10 days of July is bringing rich rewards in the harvest of the sea. Sockeyes is market price of around $600 a ton, with large exports to the United States. Now there is large-scale canning of tuna in British Columbia. In the past most of the pack went to American canneries.

There are other favorable indexes. Life insurance sales are up, available railway freight statistics show an increase, and electric power production is high to meet industrial demands.

Markets Tuesday

Oats and barley futures scored modest advances at Winnipeg with trading somewhat scattered in oats. Golds marched ahead on the Toronto exchange, in some cases as much as 25 cents, while for rail issues picked up in late trading at New York.

Many Sidney Area Schools Improved During Holidays

With the holiday season drawing to a close, the re-opening of school is now uppermost in the minds of many. The members of the Sidney School Area Board have been quite active during that time. Although no regular meetings were scheduled for the summer months, two special meetings were held, one on July 9th, and the other on Aug. 20th. These were chiefly to consider and arrange for the repairs and work to be done at the schools, in order to have them ready for the re-opening of school on Tuesday, Sept. 7th.

The Board is working on a plan whereby they hope in the course of three or four years to have completed a program of renovation and repairs as they are needed, which will include every school in the Area. Below these repairs which have been done in the schools before the toilet system of Avondale has been completely overhauled and put in working order. New toilet systems were installed to replace the worn out ones at Sidney and Melrose schools. Some redecorating was done at S. S. No. 4, Johnstown on Harder's school and Wallbridge, while the roof of S. S. 10 on the fourth was painted. Other minor repairs are being looked after as the need arises.

To Install Hydro Lights

Now that the hydro lines have been put past the Glen Ross public school and high school, the Board expects to have lights installed in them before the re-opening of school. This will have only a short time in the Area which has no power line close enough to supply it with electricity.

This year the Board is providing all the books for the public except text books, which in many cases the pupils like to have as their own. Those schools which have in the past also supplied the text books will continue to do so, as those books which they already have can, with few exceptions, be used this year as well.

About the usual number of changes in teaching personnel occurred this year. The following teachers have been hired to replace them: Avondale (S. S. 5A.), Miss Madeline Poole, Hastings; Bayside (S. S. 2B), Miss Beryl Gilbert, Trenton; Harder's School (S. S. 3), Mr. Bruce W. Patterson, Havelock; Upper Fourth (S. S. 10), Miss Leslie Homan, Corbyville; River Valley (S. S. 11), Mrs. Mary Coombes, Frankford, R. R. 3; Eggleton's (S. S. 3A), Miss Gertrude Gunter, Coe Hill.

Mr. Patterson, who was hired as secretary till August will now assume his full duties as Supervising Principal of the Area and Secretary of the Board.

Extensive Grass Fire Threatened Trent Rd. Homes

Believed to have been started from a cigaret butt carelessly tossed out by a passing motorist a grass fire, started at 4 p.m. at the Ontario School for the Deaf sidetracked and for a few uneasy moments early this afternoon before it was brought under control.

Several hundred feet of rail fence bordering the Ponton property east of the O.S.D. side road were destroyed by the fire which rapidly swept across the dried up grass in the pasture land. The fire swept toward residences on Marshall Road immediately to the south of the fair grounds and city firemen, aided by volunteers stamped and threshed out the flames in the grass.

Both city pumpers answered the grass fire alarm which had gained a considerable start in the pasture and rail fence on the Ponton property before being noticed.

VANCOUVER MAYOR DIES

Vancouver, Sept. 1 (CP) — Mayor Charles Jones, 66, who had been ill for several months, died early today in hospital.

Acting mayor following the death of G.G. McGeer late last year, he was elected Chief Magistrate in the fall elections, and assumed office Jan. 7, 1948.

BERLIN CURRENCY

While the military governors concentrated on the Berlin crisis another phase of Germany's future was being decided at Bonn.

There delegates from all western Germany convened to form a "provisional German republic." It has been bitterly opposed by the Soviet Union.

The drafters of the constitution plan to leave the door open for the Russian zone to participate, hoping thereby to counter Communist charges that they are splitting Germany.

The 65 delegates from the 11 states of the three western zones, represent all major parties of western Germany. Two Communists from the Ruhr are included.

Programs Eased

Meantime in Frankfurt, British and French authorities eased their programs of dismantling German factories installed as war industries.

The action followed recent German protests. The cabinets of the French zone states of South Baden and South Wuerttemburg resigned over the French dismantling plan.

The evacuation of heavy machinery they did not need Russian pressure against the non-Communist city government.

The Russians extended to Berlin today their currency distribution monopoly that only touched Communist organizations few leaders and newspapers Monday.

American officials said this monopoly already has effectively shut out western-licensed papers from the Soviet zone of Germany. Now the aim appears to be to extend the ban of eastern Berlin.

Slower But Safer

The tragic motor accident early Tuesday morning in which a young city businessman lost his life emphasizes, in a brutal way, the fact that no driver, no matter how experienced, is immune from accidents. A fatal mishap no matter what caused it cannot bring back the life that was so quickly snuffed out.

Each year innumerable lives are taken and bodies maimed because of an error in judgment or over-confidence in the enduring mechanical condition of the vehicle which failed at a critical time. How much better it is to take a little more time to reach a destination — five minutes or an hour longer — if by doing so the journey may be made in comfort and without hazard.

Generally speaking there is never much excuse for the gosh-awful hurry we see on our highways. A little earlier start, a little more thoughtfulness on the part of excessively slow drivers who hold back traffic needlessly, and a bit more patience on the part of every motorist would do much to reduce the terrific toll whenever cars are driven. Being sorry afterwards is poor consolation for the bereaved family nor will it breath life into the broken body from which the spark of vitality has been crushed.

The "Ex" Well Worth Attending

If anyone is hesitating about attending the Canadian National Exhibition wondering if it is worth the time and trouble here is a tip — go by all means. It is said that the "Ex" is Canada on display and that about sums it up. The exhibits are beautifully displayed in the various buildings and it is difficult to say which group is most interesting. However, the Manufacturers' and Process buildings are filled with exceptional displays and for those interested in flowers the Horticultural Building is a "must." The latter is a haven of fragrance, coolness and color that no words can portray.

India has a large exhibit in the Government Building that is well worth visiting. Here are shown rich brocades, reptile leather goods with beautiful workmanship, hammered silver and carved wood articles plus a host of other merchandise. In this same building the British manufacturers are well represented, particularly the motor car industry. Here are sport cars, mostly two seaters, the small type cars with which most of us are now becoming familiar plus a sprinkling of larger types of the deluxe class. The most expensive car shown was a sedan with interior finish of buff leather and solid walnut trim. Incidentally, this model's delivered price was fifty-one hundred dollars.

The evening performance I went to where the new grandstand is worth a trip alone to Toronto. Some acts are exquisitely beautiful, some smack of burlesque but very funny, others are spectacular. However, the whole is blended into a smooth running performance by those masters of the show business — Ward and Johnson — that, when the fire-works display concludes the program, it is with reluctance the audience leaves for home. It might be well to add that a new car is drawn for every evening. Who knows, you might be lucky.

Custom Governs Dress Habits

The recent spell of excessively warm weather certainly brings out the fact that when it comes to comfortable dress in the summer the women display much more common sense than the men. They find the heat hard enough to bear, but at least, they dressed appropriately for it. They may have felt uncomfortable, but most of them looked cool in light-weight clothing whereas the men felt it necessary to wear ties and often coats. That is particularly noticeable in the larger cities like Toronto and Montreal. Around here where most men merely sweat about their affairs in shirt-sleeves and tieless. Perhaps, the more informal life of the smaller urban centres makes them more informal.

Men's clothing has changed little for many decades beyond certain details of style. Men cling to stiff collars, ties and heavy clothing throughout most of the year. Most of them would feel as conspicuous without a tie as a woman does without lipstick. Perhaps it is just custom.

Reversing the seasons we find the men dressing sensibly while the ladies delight in exposing their throats and legs to the cold blasts of winter. Surely they cannot be comfortable when outside. Perhaps it is because our houses are kept too warm for heavy clothing. But the men wear heavier clothing still, so that cannot be the answer. Perhaps, again, it is just style and custom. We don't know, and anyway it is too warm to bother about it any more. Where is our coat and tie?

HUSBAND DEFECTS

Some faults disturb the married state,
And prove the man a sinner.
The one that every wife must hate
Is coming late for dinner.

Another flaw that no man sends,
But goes through life repeating,
Is staying down with business friends
The night the bridge club's meeting.

The third — and it's a grievous one —
That women keep deploring,
Is stretching out when supper's done,
To spend the evening snoring.

All husbands, howspe'er esteemed,
Possess these faults and others.
Their wives must wonder why they seemed
So perfect to their mothers.

STRENGTH for The Day

By Dr. Earl L. Douglass

WATCH THE ROAD SIGNS

An authority on mental diseases has, within the past few weeks, made the statement that thirty million people in this country need some form of mental hygiene treatment. Add to this the alarming reality that of the 1,200,000 hospital beds in this country half are occupied by mental cases, we can readily see that unless the tide turns for the better, there may some day be so many people in the asylums of the country that there will not be enough normal folks outside to take care of them.

What is the matter with the mind of America? Why does our population seem to be headed for a nervous breakdown on a national scale?

Evidently it is because of the way we live, because because of the things we do or the things we leave undone. One thing is sure—the American people are drinking too much whiskey. Fifteen per million of our population are permanently disabled because of drinking and the principle consumption is what it is, we may well begin to regard this problem with grave concern.

Another cause of widespread nervousness is the feverish persistence of our activities. Even on the holiday day of rest is filled now with so many activities that it takes most people two days and nights to recover from the weekend.

There are rules for the highway of life, and we need to observe them.

London Letter:

Romano's Restaurant, Scene of Gay Parties, Soon Will Cease to Exist

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept 1 — (CP) — The neat old gentleman with the chamois gloves and walking-stick looked around the room at the end of The Strand and shook his head incredulously. His gesture seemed to say: "Soon the living, let alone the dining, will be able to find their way around London."

The object of his melancholy contemplation was Romano's Restaurant — or what is left of it. Once it was the centre of gay Bohemian restaurant life in London. Today, shrunken by a wartime bomb-hit, it is a bar. Tomorrow it will disappear into handsome business premises.

Romano's was opened in the 1870's. When its founder died 30 years later it had established itself as the favored haunt of the champagne Charlies, the musical-hall favorites, fancy business men and peers and artists who had a taste for night life.

Promised Better Things

Through the years Romano's maintained its reputation, one of many "gay" restaurants in and around The Strand. The bomb hit that reduced it to a bar came in 1941. But its wrought-iron portico spotlight, with its dancing maiden, promised better things would return.

Romano's wine-cellar survived the war damage. It was sold off in 1944 for $12,000 ($60,000) — more than five times what it cost to meet the claims of creditors.

Gatti's, the Gaiety Restaurant, and Gow's are some of Romano's contemporaries which have closed their doors and "moved west" toward Piccadilly and Soho. Trumper's of The Strand, once famed for its roast beef, carries on with a more austere menu and the Savoy Hotel has its glittering after-theatre diners.

Old Days Gone

But the old days of champagne parties and the brown derby hat have gone. Men of discrimination are more likely to brag about the little place of their acquaintance in Soho where the cooks wonderful things with fragments of meat and doesn't charge more than £1 a bottle for wine.

Mackenzie's Column:

Communist Drive In East Growing More Menacing

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

The new and widespread Communist activities in the Far East is growing more menacing.

The latest development is a threat by the Russian puppet regime of North Korea to destroy the democratic government which recently was set up in the United States zone of South Korea, and Lt.-Gen. John R. Hodge, retiring United States commander in Korea, conceded that there is a possibility of civil war.

Of more immediate concern are the actual Communist rebellions raging in Burma, Malaya, Indo-China and Indonesia. This area is known as the Southeast Asiatic and one upon which many countries place colonies for essential supplies.

From these rich countries come rubber, tin, sugar, rice, oil and other essentials in war and in peace.

The western democracies need some of these supplies for their security. The rehabilitation of Europe and the Orient call for all these products available. Indeed, unless the flow of products in the Far East are dependent on Burma and other great rice-growing countries for this "staff of life."

Block Rehabilitation

One of the objects of the widespread Communist offensive in Southeast Asia, it is said, is to deprive the western Allies of millions of tons of rice during rehabilitation of countries being aided by the United States.

Burma is the biggest grower in this area and is now exporting huge quantities of it to neighboring India and to other Oriental countries. Malaya, however, is a new state, which left the British Commonwealth only last January, was launched because the government refused to align itself solely with Russia.

Premier Thanhin Nu a few days ago admitted that five per cent of Burma's armed forces has turned traitor. He declared that the other 95 per cent were waging war on the rebels with modern weapons, and that they were getting the best of the situation. The government banks heavily for support on the fact that religion traditionally holds the country together.

Meantime heavy jungle fighting is proceeding on the Malay Peninsula to the south of Burma. In other countries Communist agitation has been intensified and obvious preparations for uprisings are under way.

All this adds up to a significant threat to the sovereignty and shifting the weight of its Communist drive in the Far East. A vast area is involved in the struggle up while the Communists underline the consolidation of their gains in Europe.

YANKEE DIET

Now listen stupid. Long before we knew anything about it from 10 to 15 per cent of the entire population of England, France, Germany and the United States were afflicted with peptic ulcer. In the underprivileged white sugar and white flour supply most of the calories in the everyday diet of rich, poor and middle class people. From the other foods in the average diet—milk, eggs, meat, fruit, vegetables and individual, rich, poor or middle class, may get from one-third to one-half of the amounts of the essential vitamins and the essential minerals that are required to maintain good nutrition and good v. v & v, or say we call it health.

From the whole wheat flour and the brown sugar and old fashioned molasses (made in the kettle process) which was supplied most of the calories in the everyday diet a hundred years ago, before refining processes were introduced, the individual got all the vitamins and minerals the body needed.

Again when purchased by the pound, peck or bushel from farmer, fruit store or vegetable market is the most economical food for everybody, keeps indefinitely unrefrigerated on the ground in your own coffee grinder or cooked as a whole if you like, and most families with the gumption and intelligence to try it find that everybody likes it, especially the youngsters who may have known nothing but the highly refined and by refined carbohydrate stuffing that is sold in cartons.

Plain wheat is the best natural food source of vitamin B1 that I believe.

Persons with peptic ulcer, irritable and unstable because they are starved generally and specifically for B1 vitamin, the vagus canal but the nervous system of the ulcer victim is starved and weakened from nutritional deficiency. Nervousness, nervous symptoms overshadow the ulcer symptoms. But the ulcer is not due to nerves. Mere nervousness or strain and stress or anything like that—psychosomatic—complexities and radio comedians to the contrary are not responsible. Both the nervous trouble and the hyperacidity or ulcer may or may not come together but they have a common cause. As stated by Dr. D. T. Quigley in the Journal of the American Medical (April, '43), this common cause is "the consumption of the carbohydrate which causes a deficiency of the vitamin or mineral concentration in the blood stream." People under 30 are spared by resistance. It is associated with it."

Plain wheat is rich in vitamins and minerals along with the sugar or glucose which is the nutritional factors are essential or beneficial. Dr. Russell M. Wilder, Dr. R. H. Williams (Vitamin B., Williams and Spies, Macmillan) says:

"Man commits a crime against nature when he takes the vitamin from the seed and throws away the germ, the necessary factor for the metabolism of that starch."

WIFE SHOULD ESTABLISH HER POSITION AS HOSTESS . . . SECONDING HUSBAND'S INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We were recently married. My husband is very popular and of the hospitable type who invites friends he meets to dinner (friend and wife) at our house . . . then tells me about it when he comes home. I haven't lived in this city as long as he has, so often I haven't had a chance to meet these people, or sometimes I know one and not the other. Is it proper for me to just expect them to come on Bill's invitation, or should I, as hostess, get in touch with them even if I don't know them?

Margaret M.

Be grateful that you have a husband whom people like and who likes people and wants to share his home with them. But so that you will graciously and rightly establish your position as hostess of your home, gently suggest to your husband, "It will be grand to have the Baldwins dine with us next Tuesday . . . I'm so glad you asked them. I'll telephone (or 'write') her at once that we're happy they are coming, and tell them the hour we'll be expecting them."

Your note to a couple you don't know (or know one) might read:

Dear Mrs. Kennedy,

Bill has told me the delightful news that you and your husband will dine with us next Tuesday, the tenth, and I want to tell you how happy we will be to welcome you both to our home. There will be only the four of us, or, possibly another couple. We are not "dressing," and we hope it will be convenient for you to arrive at 7:15.

Friendliest greetings to you both from both of us, and high anticipations of seeing you on the tenth.

Sincerely,
Margaret Smith Robinson

CHILDREN IN THE BRIDAL PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In my late-Fall wedding, would it be proper for me to have two ring-bearers and a flower girl also? We are going to have six or perhaps eight ushers, but no bridesmaids, only a maid of honor.

R. M.

Since apparently you would like to feature children as your bridal attendants, you may have what you prefer . . . but be sure that the children are old enough and, most important, so well-behaved that they can be depended on. Also you must be sure that you don't mind if they "steal the show" away from you, the bride . . . I've known many brides who thought it would be dramatic and appealing to have several children in their bridal parties, but who were more than a little crestfallen when, during the wedding processional and later, they heard more comments of "How cute!" about the children, rather than "How beautiful!" about the bride.

However, if you wish, and if you are having a double-ring ceremony, have the two ring-bearers, to walk together; and have a flower girl precede them, walking alone. And instead of having the children walk after the maid of honor, you might have them walk ahead of her so that she may keep a guiding eye on them.

DON'T BE BRUSQUE TO THE ONE WHO ANSWERS THE TELEPHONE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If a man calls a girl on the telephone and one of her sisters answers, is it proper for him to chat with the sister for a few minutes, or should he immediately ask for the one he has called?

Bob

A good question, Bob, and one often perplexing. Perplexing, because if he immediately asks to speak to Dorothy, Betty, who answered the telephone, may well feel that he is brusque, curt, not a very polite person. On the other hand, if he chats overly-long with the telephone-answerer, this seems out-of-order, holds up Betty, and also Dorothy, particularly if she is expecting his call. So "the happy medium" is best . . . just exchange a few words graciously said, and the, "I'd like to speak to Dorothy . . . is she there?"

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHY CONTINUE A FRIENDSHIP THAT MAKES YOU UNHAPPY?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My age is 17 and my boy friend is 18. When we first started going together he used to be extremely polite, but lately he gets annoyed at every little thing I do. He enjoys dominating my mind completely. He is very possessive and gets horribly jealous if I go out with anyone else. Although we are going steady, there are times when I just have to go out with someone else in order to express myself as I feel I should, and more or less have a life of my own. This boy spends a lot of money on me and I'm sure he tries to please me but I just can't seem to put up with his domination a minute longer. I feel as though I have no pride or self-respect left.

Another thing that troubles me is that his mother goes out practically every Saturday night and she makes him mind his sister who is nine. I don't think it is right for a boy of 18 who makes his own living and pays board to be kept in on Saturday nights. Don't you think his parents should hire a baby sitter?

This boy and I don't see eye to eye on any subject but I am madly in love with him and don't want to lose him. I wish you could tell me what to do in a case like this.

"Confused."

Dear "Confused": If "going steady" means anything serious to you, then you had better break off this relationship at once. It is certainly very foolish for you to continue a friendship that makes you so uncomfortable and unhappy. You obviously don't get any fun out of it, but since you say you are "madly in love" with him, you may be one of those girls who rather enjoy being kicked around. You wouldn't like it long if it were somethiyg you had to put up with all the time.

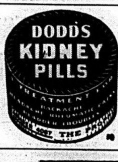
As for the matter of the baby-sitting, I wouldn't say this was any of your business. I think a boy of 18 should be able to stand up for himself.

A BOY WHO WON'T SPEAK FOR HIMSELF

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very fond of a boy who goes to the same school as I do. He seems to care for me but apparently he can't get up nerve enough to ask me for a date. He got one of his school mates to ask me to go to the movies with him but I refused because I felt he should ask me himself. Did I do right?

"Bewildered."



Dear "Bewildered": It was perfectly all right for you to do what you did but I hope you didn't do it in a serious way that made it look as if you were angry. The best way to handle a situation of that kind is to laugh it off and say something like: "If So-and-So wants me to go but with him, tell him I'd like him to ask me himself." If his friend carried back to him word that you were annoyed, he probably wouldn't have the courage to try again, whereas if you indicated that you would go if you got a direct invitation from him, that would probably bolster up his nerve. Better have a little session with this friend and find out just what impression he did carry back with him.

CAN'T MAKE UP HER MIND WHOM SHE LIKES BEST

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I know two boys and I like both of them. They are friends and go out together. Each of them has asked me to go steady but I don't know which one I like best or which one I should go with. Please give me some advice on this matter.

Dear "Lucky": If you don't know which of these two boys you like best, then I'd say you hadn't better try going steady with either of them. Better be honest with both of them and tell them that you're not ready for anything as definite as going steady with anybody yet. They'll like you better for your frankness than if you tried to make either of them think you liked him better than you really do.

Urges Houswives Take Up Art Hobby

Montreal, (CP)—Stella Holden Ireland of suburban Westmount is urging young housewives to take up a hobby or two in some particular form of art in which they have talent.

Although Mrs. Ireland has two children — Audrey, 10, and Peter, six — she finds time to practise sculpturing under the tutelage of Albert Zucca, well-know Montreal sculptor. Before coming to Canada she won two art scholarships in her native England.

Audrey and Peter have found their hobbies already. Audrey has worked as a child model and taken part in plays; Peter, who discovered an aptitude for music, has been taking piano lessons for four months.

POTTERY: "I would like to make pottery in my own home as a hobby. Could I get instruction in London or Toronto? Is there a text book available? Is it an expensive hobby?"

Technical schools in Toronto and London all have pottery classes. In Toronto you could get personal instruction at Lyceum Women's Art, Prince Arthur Street. There is an excellent book available at Ryerson Press, Toronto, called "Pottery Made Easy." It's $2.50. Pottery fans say it's not an expensive hobby and one of the most enjoyable.

USED RUGS: "I have a used rug 9½' x 10', also some used woollens. Can you tell me where I can have them made into smaller rugs? What price?"

The Dominion Rug Weaving Company, 2477 Dundas Street West, Toronto, make rugs from any woollen material they tell me. The price depends on the work; moreover, officials there say "write us a letter with details and we will advise you."

RUSTY BATH-TUBS: "What will take the rust off an enamel bath tub? Have I got you beat this time?"

Standard Sanitary Company of Toronto make thousands of enamel tubs yearly so we took your problem to that company. Here's the answer: If the rust is on the surface any good cleanser will lift it. If it has penetrated below the surface of the enamel there is nothing that will remove it.

NEW YORK; HERE WE COME: "My mother and sister are planning a trip to New York. As a little surprise I'd like to present them with radio broadcast tickets to one or two of the shows there. Where shall I write?"

Write to National Broadcasting Corporation, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, for a list of broadcasts available and the cost, if any. With that information you can make reservations. And if you want your mother and sister to see the famous Rockettes write to Radio City Music Hall, 1260—6th Avenue, for reservation.

WEDDINGS

HEFFELL—FROST

Trinity Anglican Church, Frankford, Ontario, was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday, August 28th when Vera Margaret Frost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Frost, Frankford, became the bride of Mr. James Heffell, R. C. A. F., Station, Clinton, Ontario, son of Mrs. Marion Larsen.

Rev. Canon Stuart of Toronto assisted by Rev. Canon Stout of Gananoque during the communion service were the officiating clergymen.

The church was beautifully decorated with white gladioli and white candles on the altar and baskets of white and pink gladioli on the Chancel rail.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Ronald Graham of Belleville, cousin of the bride as her matron of honor, Mrs. Graham wore green taffeta with a net overskirt and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Annabelle Patrick, wore mauve brocaded taffeta with Marguerite Corfelt, yellow brocaded satin and Miss Jean Moore white silk jersey. All carried garlands of sweetheart roses. Little flower girl Master Sidney Davies the ringbearer wore a white flannel suit with satin blouse and carried a white satin cushion on which the rings were placed.

Mr. George Cooper of RCAF Station, Clinton, acted as groomsman and Messrs. Douglas Frost, of Ottawa, brother of the bride and Ronald Graham of Belleville were ushers.

Amidst the candlelight from the altar, the bridal couple partook of the sacrament of Holy Communion at the conclusion of which the soloist, Rev. J. Creegan of Frankford, sang "The Lord Love."

A reception was held at the Frankford Memorial Community Hall when the bride's mother attired in navy blue floral net with black accessories received the guests.

For the wedding trip to Prince Edward Island the bride chose a grey gabardine suit with white accessories over which she wore a mink stole, a gift of the groom. Her corsage of pink roses completed her costume.

One hundred and fifty guests were present at the reception and included many from out-of-town. Friends from Clinton, Toronto, Oshawa, Port Hope, Ottawa, Cornwall, Prescott, Gananoque, Belleville, Stirling, Trenton and Shoppledford gave their best wishes to the bride and groom.

ASHLEY—SUTHERLAND

The solemnization of the nuptial vows of Lois Marie, youngest daughter of Mr. George Sutherland and the late Mrs. Sutherland, Sidney Crossroads, and Douglas Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ashley of Belleville, was performed by the Rev. F. Harbeck in the Tabernacle United Church on Saturday afternoon.

The church was attractively decorated with gladioli and ferns for the occasion. Mrs. Duff, Belleville, played the organ during the ceremony. "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because" were sung by Mrs Kilpatrick.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in white satin, fashioned in floor length style with long sleeves, tight bodice and low, square neckline bordered with lace, a nylon yoke embroidered with pearls and overdraped skirt bordered with lace ending in a sweeping train. Her full length veil fell from a coronet embroidered with pearls. She carried a bouquet of roses.

Miss Barbara Ketcheson of Ottawa, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Norma Maher, Belleville, was bridesmaid. Both wore floor-length gowns of green brocaded taffeta, with high necklines, cap sleeves and peplums. Headdresses of taffeta with large tulle bows over the hair completed their ensembles. Both carried bouquets of pale yellow gladioli.

William Edwards was the groomsman and Messrs. Robert Ashley, cousin of the groom, and Robert Redner, all of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's father, third of Sidney. The house and lawns were decorated with gladioli, asters and roses.

Miss Lena Roblin, Toronto, aunt of the bride, received the guests attired in delft blue crepe with navy accessories. She was assisted by Mrs. Ashley, mother of the groom, attired in orchid crepe with grey accessories. Both wore corsages of red roses.

A buffet luncheon was served on the lawn by eight friends of the bride. The toast to the bride was given by Rev. F. Harbeck. Telegrams of congratulations were read by the groomsman.

Juliana at 39 Well Trained For Queenship

The Hague, (AP)—A younger hand will carry the crown. Stronger hands will bear the sceptre. Juliana, Princess of The Netherlands, will assume next month the heavy burden for which she has been preparing all her life.

The retirement of Queen Wilhelmina takes place Sept. 4. On that day Juliana will take her first drive through the capital city, Amsterdam. Two weeks days later her official investiture will take place in the "Nieuwe Kirke".

"The child," as the Dutch still call their future Princess, will become Queen. She will succeed weary, ailing and revered Wilhelmina as constitutional ruler of an empire of 60,000,000 people.

Juliana was born in the Royal Palace of The Hague on April 30, 1909, only child of Wilhelmina and her consort, Prince Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. She was baptized Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina, Princess of The Netherlands, Princess of Orange-Nassau, Duchess of Mecklenburg.

Juliana had a strict upbringing, but she enjoyed a family life, too. From her earliest years, she showed a flair for languages and the sciences. She studied at Leyden University and was an ardent sportswoman, she enjoyed ice-skating and field hockey tennis.

Soon after her 18th birthday, the heiress apparent entered Leyden University as "Miss Van Buren." Her four university years were among the happiest of Juliana's life. She made lots of friends and insisted on being called plain "Julia".

Romeo Aplenty

Even through this period engagement rumors flew thick and fast. But in the mid-30s, with Juliana ending into her 20s, she met a young German, Prince Bernhard of Lippe-Biesterfeld.

They were married Jan. 7, 1937. Prince "Bennc", it was obvious then and now, was a good choice. Two years her junior, he is tall, athletic and blue-eyed. A gay, reckless young man who used to be a "furious" driver of automobiles, he completely won the stern heart of his mother-in-law, Queen Emma. He fought in the field to the last ditch of resistance against the Nazis and then fled to London. There he served as Queen's aide-de-camp.

Their first child, Princess Beatrix, was born a year after their marriage. Their second, Irene, arrived in August, 1939, and was still only weeks old when the Queen followed the advice of her ministers to flee from the Nazis with her family and set up a London government-in-exile.

Margriet Francisca, now five, is the only member of royalty to have been born in America.

Princess Juliana Agrees With Queen Country Life Best

Amsterdam, Sept. 1 (AP) — Prince Juliana agrees with her mother, Queen Wilhelmina, that country life is the best.

The Princess, who will succeed Wilhelmina as Queen September 4, has spent a year in the royal palace in Apeldoorn, and that is where she intends to spend her retirement.

Wilhelmina will abdicate Saturday because of ill health and Juliana, 35, will become Queen immediately, although the formal investiture will not take place until Monday. Juliana will receive an annual salary of 1,300,000 guilders (about $480,000) and will take over the landed properties of the crown.

The considerable fortune of the House of Orange remains in Wilhelmina's hands and she will receive a pension under a constitutional amendment recently agreed upon by parliament. It is expected to be ratified shortly.

REMANDED WEEK

Sherbrooke, Que., (CP) — J. J. O'Brien, alias J. B. Nelson, Tuesday pleaded guilty to eight charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. The radio technician was remanded one week for sentence on the charges which involved $5,500. They were laid in Whitby, Toronto, Ingersoll, Cornwall, Smiths Falls and Sudbury.

INTRODUCED BY MOORS

The Moors introduced the art of dancing into Europe in the 12th century.

Juliana, for the protection of her two children, reluctantly agreed to leave blitz-torn Britain, for Canada, preferred sanctuary and her third child was born in Ottawa, on June 19, 1943. Margrietje, their fourth child, was born in Holland, after the war.

Juliana is a rich woman—her annual income was recently estimated at over $500,000—but, considering her station in life, she lives rather simply. Her children go to school and she has ordered that everything be done to keep them from feeling they are "different" from their playmates.

Two Powerful New Transmitters Go Into Operation

Toronto, Sept. 1 — (CP) — Two powerful new transmitters going into operation in the Toronto area today will give this city three 50,000-watt radio stations.

The first 50,000-watt transmitter erected by an independent radio station in Canada is opening at Clarkson, 13 miles southwest of here. Built by CFRB, Toronto, it is said to be the most powerfully independently-owned station in the British Commonwealth.

The other new transmitter, built by the CBC for its key station of the Dominion network, will increase the power of CBC, Toronto, from 5,000 to 50,000 watts.

The third 50,000-watt station in Toronto is CBL, also a CBC outlet.

Coincident with the opening of the two new transmitters, CFRB goes to 1010 kilocycles and CBC moved to 860 kilocycles, thus exchanging their former frequencies.

The new CFRB transmitter replaces CFRB's 10,000-watt station at Aurora, 20 miles north of Toronto.

Henry Wallace Told Presence Was Not Desired

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 1 — (AP) — Henry A. Wallace brought his progressive party's campaign into the deep south today in the face of an icy reception by municipal officials.

The third-party presidential candidate, target of eggs, tomatoes and boos in North Carolina, was bluntly informed by one Alabama mayor that "your presence is not desired here."

Other city officials warned him they would strictly enforce segregation laws. Mississippi and Arkansas refused to permit the former vice-president to speak from the steps of their state capitols.

Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas all provided state highway patrol escorts, although Governor James E. Folsom of Alabama said he didn't "believe there is in Alabama will physically harm Mr. Wallace."

Mrs. Glen Taylor, wife of Senator Glen Taylor (Dem. Idaho) was jailed in Birmingham May 1 on charges of disorderly conduct when he sought to use a door reserved for Negroes to enter a meeting of the Southern Negro Youth Congress.

Taylor was fined $50 and given a recommended jail sentence of six months. His appeal is pending.

The Birmingham police commissioner, Eugene (Bull) Connor, who sent Wallace a copy of the city's segregation laws, said he would jail anyone caught throwing anything at the presidential candidate.

"Wallace has a right to speak and we are not going to let anyone disturb his meeting," Connor said, but he warned that segregation laws will be enforced.

A barrier will be placed between Negroes and Whites for the courthouse address.

Food and Swim Share Spotlight At Exhibition

Toronto, Sept. 1 — (CP) — Food products and the merchants selling them shared the spotlight at the Canadian National Exhibition today with the world's professional swimming championships for women.

A total of $4,800 in cash prizes is offered to the nine women who take to the water at the C. N. E. waterfront this afternoon, with $1,500 going to the winner. Miss Bernice Looney, 21, of Warren, Ohio, last year's victor, was favored again to take the event.

Food and the problems concerning its handling, distribution and sale were on the agenda as the big fair started "Food Products and Merchants' Day."

Tuesday results in the judging of some primary food products — the field crops — was announced, but judging of cattle, sheep and swine doesn't get underway until the end of the week. Displays of dairy products and eggs are scheduled for today, emphasizing the agricultural aspect of the fair.

Meanwhile the International cat show continues, along with yachting, archery, fashion shows and other forms. The C. N. E. International sailing championship race for Star class yachts is just one of the waterfront spectacles scheduled for today.

Attendance at the fair continues to mount. Tuesday again was a big day with 164,000 attendance, as compared with 125,000 for the same day last year. This brought total attendance to date to 729,800, against 687,500 for the corresponding four days last year.

State Officials Had Clash Over Russia in '44

Washington, Sept. 1 — (AP) — Congressional spy investigators Tuesday disclosed bitterness that groups of State Department officials clashed over policy toward Russia in 1944, with a prominent loser ending up in a South American diplomatic post.

Representative John McDowell of Pennsylvania said the behind-the-scenes row was described by A. A. Berle, former assistant secretary of state, in secret testimony before a House Un-American Activities Sub-committee in New York Monday.

Berle said "Mr. Acheson's group" (Dean Acheson, former undersecretary of state) came out on top in the collision of views.

On the losing side, Berle said, is Boris Shvetsov, Soviet envoy to Brazil as United States ambassador.

A transcript of Berle's testimony has been released here, quoted him as saying there was a "serious split" at that time between two groups in the department—those who advocated a stronger policy toward Russian and those who wanted to soft-pedal friction between Washington and Moscow.

Berle said that Acheson's assistant, Alger Hiss, a key figure in the current spy probe, took a pro-Russian viewpoint. Berle said he was "worried" about Hiss.

Hiss now is head of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. He has been described as a former leader of a pre-war Red underground in Washington by Whittaker Chambers, self-styled former Communist, now a Time Magazine senior editor. Hiss has denied Chambers' accusations.

Berle said his anxiety over Hiss stemmed back to 1939 when Chambers came to him with the story of the secret Red network in Washington and he looked into the record of both Alger Hiss and his brother, Donald.

Berle said Acheson vouched for the brothers. Nevertheless, Berle said, he conferred with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and one result was the creation of a security set-up.

Berle testified he was worried because there were pretty consistent leaks whenever anything went through the office" in which Alger Hiss worked, during the war. He said the leaks would show up in a Washington column.

Kingston Locos Sweep COBL Semi-Final Series With 5-2 Victory Over Batawa Shoemen

A disastrous first innings in which the Kingston Locos smashed out three hits, took advantage of two walks, a sacrifice and two errors was the swan song for the Batawa team as far as the Central Ontario Baseball League is concerned. The Locos showed over five runs to win their third straight semi-finals victory over the Shoemen at Exhibition Park last night and the right to enter the loop finals against the Peterborough squad. The score was 5-2.

The game, to all intents and purposes was over in the first innings. The Shoemen bats failed to click although the team rallied in all other departments, and with Jack Stone throwing five hit ball at them the margin was too great to overcome. They scored two counters in the third, but their clubs most important against the Kingston flinging and fielding over the remainder of the route.

The game settled down to a hurling duel between Jim Bowman and Stone after the first innings explosion. Bowman held the Kingston nine to four scattered clouds over eight innings while striking out seven and walking two. Stone had the situation in hand practically throughout the game and he was only in trouble once outside the third innings when two Batawa men were clustered with a walk and a hit batsman to score the only two Shoemen tallies of the game. He yielded but three hits, two of them the scratch variety after the third heat, striking out eight and issuing four free tickets to first.

Kicked Ball Around

A more or less stunned Batawa crowd saw their favorites kick the ball around in that first innings while the Kingston bats were pounding out a trio of runs. Cosgrove, first man up lined out a single and was promptly sacrificed by Udy Udall. Connor drew a walk and Sammy Mulholland smashed out a line drive to score Cosgrove with the first run of the game. Carnegie walked filling the sacks and Ferguson went down swinging. Connor scored, when Bowman bobbled Garrison's infield hit and Kereluk lined out a double to score Mulholland and Carnegie. Garrison scored when the centre fielder's throw to the plate was wild. Stone struck out to end the innings.

After that Bowman settled down and hurled a fine brand of baseball but his mates failed to support him with hits and thereby hangs the tale.

Scored Two in Third

Batawa rammed home their brace of third innings counters when Rankin led off with a smashing double. Bowman whiffed and Solmes sent Rankin home with a single to right. Kennedy drew a free ticket to first and Watson was hit by a pitched ball filling the bases. Bridgeman forced Watson at second with Solmes scoring on the play but Aquino was tossed out to end the rally. The Shoemen had runners in scoring position in the sixth and ninth but they could not fathom the Stone flinging.

Kingston could do nothing with the Bowman slants after the fourth when Bowman choked off a brief rally. Only seventeen Kingston batters faced him in the last five innings. He deserved a better fate.

Kereluk led the Kingston attack with a double and single with Ferguson getting a double and Mulholland, Connor and Cosgrove singles. Ken Peacock got two singles for the Shoemen with Solmes also getting a pair. Rankin hit a double for the Batawa nine.

Lockport Reds Win Ball Game Without a Hit

Wellsville, N.Y., Sept. 1 (CP)—Lockport Reds, leaders in the class D Pony League, got a hard-to-believe victory Tuesday night when they were held hitless but emerged with a 7-3 edge over Wellsville Red Sox in the 11th inning.

The Reds scored three runs in the third inning on five walks by Lou Blackmon. Red Sox hurler, and an error. The game went into overtime and in the 11th the Reds took advantage of four errors, three walks, a fielder's choice and a hit batter to tally four runs.

The league's second no-hitter of the season came Tuesday night when Jerry Kleinsmith of runner-up Jamestown Falcons blanked the third place Hamilton Cardinals 10-0. Kleinsmith fanned 12 and walked 5. It was his 15th victory of the season.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

With the boys tapered off to a near-pink of condition, the boxing card at Memorial Arena tonight should be the sports centre of attraction for a large crowd of fight fanciers. Promoter Murray Swartz has put on a fine pair of preliminaries to lead up to the main go which should provide one of the best boxing set-to's yet.

Glen Dafoe, the Trenton windmill, whose wide-open style of fighting has stood for him a large following hereabouts will face the ring test of his career when he meets the fast-coming Chief Emerson Charles of Cobourg. The dusky warrior, who has installed himself as a prime favorite with fans here, has won a couple of nice decisions since his last appearance in Belleville two weeks ago and he is in no mood to break the string at the expense of Dafoe. On the other hand the Trenton flasher is of opinion that his wide open boring-in style will offset the hard-punching more scientific method of the Chief, and the clash should be worth seeing.

Bud Pipher, classy young stylist from Oshawa will match his wits and mitts with the Cobourg sensation, Bun Flech who put up a grand fight here two weeks ago. Those boys are afraid to mix it, carry the fight to the opposition and the outcome should be a neat scrap. Sam Rubicini and Bud Henry round out in the first three round hot shot and should be one for the book. Rubicini is rated as one of the best prospects in the stable of the Diamond Athletic Club, Toronto, while Bud Henry is known to fans here for his smart hard-punching aggressive style.

Cecil Sweet, Trenton and Alex McInnes, Toronto Athletic Club are carded for the six round main bout and these lads carry the fine records. Carl Clapper, the smart young Belleville leather-flinger has been matched with Frankie Mercer of Toronto in the third bout. Dunnell, the Belleville scrapper will find in Morris a foeman worthy of his best efforts. Three other outstanding three-round bouts round out the card with Joey Wilson who made a boxing name for himself in the Golden Gloves tournament here two years ago, and Keith Wellman, both of the city scrapping in the bouts. It is an outstanding card, one that should satisfy the most critical fans. Doors open at 8 p.m.

Well, that's that. Insofar as the Batawa Shoemen and the Central Ontario Baseball League are concerned. For this season at least, the Men of Easton can hang up their spikes and clutter up their locker room with the litter of game. The best-of-five semi-finals series against Kingston Locos last night, the Shoemen fell apart in the first innings while the Locos took advantage of their lapses to score all five runs of the game. The Batawans rallied quickly but the damage was done and the margin too great to overcome against an inspired Kingston team.

It goes to prove that anything can happen in this game of baseball. Kingston, underdogs over the main part of the schedule, who were bested and bitted around by the other three teams, and more or less regarded as stepping stones to a playoff berth, suddenly came to life in the latter stages of the schedule and then buried and walked on the third-place Oshawa Merchants and then eliminated them from a playoff spot by the narrow margin of one game.

* * *

Came the semi-finals and even the most rabid Batawa fan did not dream that the Shoemen would go down in three straight games before the attack of the rejuvenated Ginnifies. Perhaps there was a shade too much optimism in the Batawa camp. Perhaps they under-rated the lowly Locos. True the loss of their ace hurler Gordie Maffitt through injury did a severe blow to the Batawa chances in the semi-finals but it was felt that Jim Bowman, Ken Peacock and Dickie Fitzpatrick could carry the hurling load until Maffitt was ready.

Be that as it may. The Shoemen, picked by the quarters early in the season to win the league championship faltered badly when the chips were down. They played good consistent baseball during the schedule and admittedly chased the fast-travelling league-leading Peterborough team to the wire. Had they played the same brand of baseball against Kingston as they played the Peter as a number of occasions, the situation now would be reversed. But baseball is a funny game. As has been said before, no game is ever won until the last man is out. Instead, the Batawa discovered that in their 9-3 defeat by Kingston in the first game of the semi-finals series.

They were definitely not the baseball team fit the newconcluded series against Locos that they were in the drive for playoff berth. Actually it is a perfect example of the axiom whether it is in playoff games or exhibition tilts. In any event the Batawans have won a worthy baseball-holders of senior baseball for this district—and next year is another year. There should be no alibis. The team that gets the most runs wins—and that is all there is to it.

While we are not going out on any limb to predict the winner of the Kingston-Peterborough best-of-seven series, we might place a diminutive flea in the ears of the Men o' Murphy. Don't sell the Locos short, and take nothing for granted. Those dauged Oleanites like their dynamic manager, are fast on their feet in the base-unoccupied places. And right now, with three straight Batawa scalps hanging fresh on their belts, they are better than the business end of a fireflty. They are right in stride, and the Peter are a surmountable barrier to further baseball glory. And according to the estimable Olez, not too tough a barrier at that. Don't say you weren't warned.

Bill Myers and Pick-Up Pirates Defy Critics and Bid For Lead in National League

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Billy Meyer, Pittsburgh's freshman manager, is the talk of the baseball world today as his "pick-up" Pirates defy the critics and challenge the leaders from a third-place position only two games off the pace.

Manned largely by castoffs, and generally picked to wind up in a nice soft second division berth, Meyer's brash, bold lineup assembled has proved a bigger surprise than even Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics.

This is especially the same team that finished in a tie for last place in 1947.

The Pirates picked up 1 1-2 games on the league - leading Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday, now nip out the New York Giants by 2-0, while the cellar-dwelling Chicago Cubs upset the Braves in both ends of their doubleheader 3-0 and 7-5.

Pittsburgh remained two games behind the runner - up Boston Braves who climbed to within two percentage points of Brooklyn by defeating the Reds in Cincinnati 3-1. The fourth-place St. Louis Red Sox whipped Detroit 8-4, and the runner-up New York Yankees edged out St. Louis Browns 10-9. At the end of the day's activities, the Red Sox still possessed a one-game advantage over the Yankees. The Indians have 1 1-2 games behind and the A's 4 1-2 off the pace.

A Pittsburgh night crowd of 34,359, which set a home attendance record of 1,261,558, saw the Pirates score three unearned runs in the seventh to come from behind and nip the Giants. It was Pittsburgh's fourth straight triumph and the seventh successive loss by the Giants.

Manager Lou Boudreau led his Indians to an easy triumph, over the A's. He banged a single, double and triple in three official times at bat, and drove in two runs. Gene Bearden was the winner and Dick Fowler, formerly of Toronto, the loser. Fowler was relieved in the sixth by his fellow Canadian, Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene.

N.H.L. May Add 10 More Games To Schedule

(By The Canadian Press)

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League of Montreal said Monday that the league will consider adding 10 games to its 60-game schedule at its semi-annual meeting in Montreal Thursday.

Mr. Campbell confirmed an earlier report made by Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs that Chicago, Detroit and New York were seeking the added schedule.

"It will be considered," he said. "But I don't know how some of the big clubs can shuffle their heavy bookings to allow for the extra games if the proposal is accepted by the league."

The Ontario Rugby Football Union Tuesday announced at Toronto that two October games listed in its recently-published schedule for Saturdays have been changed to Fridays. The games, both night encounters in Toronto, are the match between Windsor Rockets and Toronto Beaches Indians Oct. 15 and the Sarnia Imperials-Beaches Indians tilt Oct. 29.

Ottawa Wallops Montreal 36-18 In Big-Four Opener

Montreal Sept. 1 (CP) — Off to a slow start, Ottawa Rough Riders Tuesday night unleashed a powerful offensive attack that tore into Montreal Alouettes and left them languishing on the end of a 36-18 score in their Big Four football opener.

Alouettes looked good at first as they ran up a 12-0 lead into the second quarter, but Quarterback Golab ran 10 yards for a touchdown and from there on it was mostly Riders' game.

Golab rounded the end and smashed though the line with equal ease, while his mate Bob Paffrath, a Minnesota import, fired completed passes all over the place. Steve Karry's, interrupted three Alouette aerial efforts and knocked down several others.

The Montrealers started without imports Norman Cox and Joey Jorg, and their backfield fell apart in the second half when passer Steve Nemeth, another American import and had to be taken out.

Alouettes opened the scoring with a rouge, then picked up five points when Bronco Reese fell on Golab's fumble behind the Ottawa line.

Nemeth then tossed a nice one to Glen Douglas for a second touchdown which Chas McCance converted.

Then Ottawa started to roll. Golab passed to Doug Smylie who went over again with a pass from Paffrath.

Golab picked up another in the third quarter, and almost repeated the performance a minute later in their own territory. Paffrath took it over from the one foot line.

Clyde Lynch scored end run in a Rider single play, and added a long pass from Paffrath up to the one yard mark, with Alex Greene taking it over on the next play.

In the fourth quarter, Alouettes moved down the field on passes and relaxed. Then Golab again smashed through for a converted touch.

Long and True Drivers Pay Off At Memphis

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 1 (AP)— The long and true drives down the middle pay off in golf just as they do in baseball, says Will Terry, veteran pro of Memphis.

Terry, ex-manager of New York Giants of the National Baseball League, was referring to golfing on in the 48th National Amateur Golf championship which moved today into its third and fourth rounds over the Memphis Country Club course.

"The guys who can't keep 'em on the fairways on this course don't have a chance," Terry said.

Terry's point is best illustrated by the fact that only three of the six former champions who entered the current lea most survived the second round Tuesday.

Only two of the champs barely made the grade. In each case it was a matter of keeping the ball out of the rough, a rather thick mass of grass that borders the 6,917-yard, par-70 championship strip.

Still around for today's two rounds that will reduce the field to 32 for eighteen holes were Robert (Skee) Riegel of Monterey Park, Calif., defending titular; Frank (Sarge) Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, just squeezed by the second round.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting, Lou Boudreau, Indians—Enjoyed a perfect night at bat clubbing a single, double and triple in three official times at bat to lead the Indians to a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Pitching, Hank Borowy, Cubs—Faced a minimum of 27 batters in pitching Chicago to a 3-0, one-hit victory over Brooklyn.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By EDGAR SIMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, Sept. 1 (CP)— Storrowaways are flying over Prairie hockey rinks. Managers and coaches are huddled in small, frightened groups and dread-ful the-wool fans are talking in hushed whispers. Only one spokesman for one of the clubs says he has not to win the Allan Cup.

Charlie Yule, a genial gentleman who guides the fortunes of the Victoria Park Arena in Calgary was full of confidence and pessimism when he talked to Don (Edmonton Journal) Fleming last week.

"I don't think that any of the directors feel that we are going after the Allan Cup seriously," he said.

"Mind you," he qualified "we're going to have a good team."

"But we don't want to pack our club to such an extent that we're going to crowd out such centres as Saskatoon and Regina."

Regretfully he mentioned the name of Mic Vaschuk, mainstay of the 1941 Calgary Flyers, who will wear Calgary livery this winter. He preferred not to mention other names—the astute Mr. Fleming detected a reluctance to let professional clubs get to his prospects first.

The Kind Sees the Light

The damning reports of an exhibition game between Montreal Alouettes and Brooklyn's football Dodgers, Bob (Calgary Herald) Masmid notes that eastern writers showed unusual enthusiasm for the downfield blocking of the professional club.

Bob recalls the same sort of thing happening 20 years ago when the west pioneered the forward pass. Canadian Rugby Union officials declared it would ruin the game, yielding reluctantly as the customers warmed to the play. Bob thinks unlimited blocking will gain public favor in the same way when eastern crowds see a little more of it.

Durocher Orders Checking Players After Midnight

Pittsburgh, Sept. 1 —(AP) — When Leo Durocher succeeded Mel Ott as manager of New York Giants last July 16 he abolished the old club custom of checking players in their rooms at midnight.

But after losing Tuesday night's game to Pittsburgh Pirates for the Giants' seventh straight defeat, Durocher instructed trainer Willie Schaefer to resume the midnight check-up system.

The move was regarded more as a form of punishment than anything else, inasmuch as none of the players was known to have abused the new and short leveled freedom.

Montreal Royals Need Three Games To Clinch Flag

Montreal Royals are only three victories away from clinching the International League pennant for the third time in the last four seasons.

Manager Clay Hopper's crew leads the runner-up Newark Bears by 14 games. Both teams have 16 games left to play. Any combination of two Montreal victories and two Newark defeats will give the Royals the flag.

Tuesday night, Royals' right-hander Clarence Podbielan pitched the Royals to a 3-0, five-hit victory over Rochester Red Wings while the Bears dribbled a doubleheader with the last place Baltimore Orioles.

Podbielan fanned nine and walked four in posting his 12th victory of the season. Outfielder Dick Whitman drove in all of Montreal's runs with a double and a triple. Bill Reeder, gunning for his 18th victory, was the loser.

After young Wally Hood blanked the Orioles 3-0 on three hits for his fifth victory in the opener for Newark, Baltimore came from behind to win the nightcap 6-4.

Syracuse Chiefs edged Jersey City Giants 5-4, to pull to within a game of third place Buffalo. Kermit Wahl broke up the game when he singled with two on in the ninth.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When bridge players fool around with a rule, it is surprising how soon their game can become. Their partners must guess or writhe in distress attempting to screen what each bid may mean.

An opening two bidder announces that he has enough for a try at game. It demands of his partner that they go to at least a game bid in something. This is technically known as a forcing bid.

It stands to reason, therefore, that he needs no game assurance. So what is his immediate interest? If not a game it must be something else. He wants to know if partner has the right stuff for slam help.

Consequently, the first reply should admit or deny the impending need for slam help. What would that be? Some kind of a sure trick; ace or K Q that will guarantee prompt control of a suit.

With no sure trick, partner first makes a response of two no trump. The two-trump immediate response denies a sure trick. This is why it is technically known as a negative response.

If there is still slam possibility, later bids may suggest it. Opener may have enough sure tricks to go slam despite the negative response. Or future responses may offer other slam qualities.

With a sure trick, partner admits it with some bid other than two no-trump. Such an immediate reply is technically known as a positive response. Other advices may come later.

These are part of standard rules. Unfortunately, a noted expert recently offered this change: Immediate positive response need not guarantee a sure trick. It South opened with two clubs when north held this hand:

♥ 8 7 6 5
♣ 5 4

North made a positive response of three no-trump. South could now bank on north for at least a sure trick. To say the least, the least is comforting.

The Movie Column

By ROB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 1 — (AP) — Hollywood had its jag, now it will have to suffer the hangover."

That words come from Cecil Blount DeMille, whose career in the past 35 years traces the history of the film business. He is Hollywood's best-known director and also is the biggest moneymaker.

His pictures make amazing profits, but he has never won an Academy Award. The critics usually lambast his productions.

Corn or no corn, DeMille has the master touch for making money from pictures.

Hollywood has had its Belshazzar's Feast; it should have seen the handwritings on the wall," he said.

"The motion picture industry is the only one I know of that has almost priced itself out of existence.

"You can't spend two million dollars on a picture that should cost one million and expect to stay in business; because that picture will bring back only a million and a half."

The producer-director said Hollywood's only hope is a return to creativeness. But he doesn't see this movement in that direction:

"I go to a lot of industry meetings and hear a lot of talk about everything except how to make better pictures."

Capsule Review

"Good Sam" (R-K-O) is Leo McCarey's picture, starring Gary Cooper and Ann Sheridan as a couple plagued by Cooper's own generosity. The film has several good laughs, and no doubt some people will find it amusing and even philosophical. Others will find it episodic, confused and even embarrassing.

AT THE CAPITOL—Betty Caldwell interests Leo Gorcey, star of Monogram's "Jinx Money" new Bowery Boys film opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Ghost Town Renegades" starring "Lash" LaRue. Both hits are first runs.

AT THE McCARTHY—It's love and it's lovely Deanna Durbin and handsome Dick Haymes, a happy two-some in Universal-International's "Up In Central Park" the motion picture version of the highly successful Broadway play starting tomorrow at the McCarthy Theatre.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reading the financial page and shaking his head and me said, William, do you ever get the notion you'd like for a little ten bone steak today?

If the dog made a single queer intonable proposal, I'll go around there and embarrass him by making them unfortunable. He's got his own sausidge meat, pop said, and me said, You and need a brother. I calmly put him in his place by having stewing beef instead, although I blush to think what I had to pay even for that she said.

Speaking of the high cost of living, I was just reading in the paper that Lois Lolita is suing her studio for more money, pop said. It seems her contract calls for 4000 dollars a week, but that's not enough for her to live on any more. She claims she's not happy without a million dollars, unless with her initials set with diamonds, but she's forever losing them and getting a new one and they cost 3000 dollars apiece now, where she used to be able to buy them for 16 hundred dollers apiece. It's very tuff, all over the lice he said.

Even dog meat, me said. Maud Mews has to feed her dog ground round steak because he has a hart for horses and she is afraid horse meat might be bad for him in experimentin', and it costs her 9 dollers a month for dog meat imagine, ma' said, and pop said, I was talking to Titan D. Kribways the other day. He's president of the Kribways truck and barrel works, but believe me he doesn't know where his next mahogany sailing sloop is coming from. His old one is getting all stained up and he wants to buy this year's model, but the price has gone up to half a million and Kribways says he'll be hanged if he pays it. So you see my dear, everybody's in the same boat, so to speak, pop said.

Oh well, I suppose we're not the only ones, ma said.

Being the end of the subject.

183 Recommended For Cadetships At Two Colleges

Ottawa, Sept. 1 — (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton announced today that 183 boys have been recommended for cadetships at Canada's two joint service cadet colleges — Royal Military College at Kingston, and R.M.C.S. Royal Roads at Royal Roads, B.C.

The youngsters, who begin their training this month, include 77 Army candidates, 39 Air Force and 67 Naval nominees.

At the same time, Mr. Claxton announced that 44 winners of $200 open scholarships at the two colleges — four from Arctic, four from Quebec, two from the Maritimes and one each from Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

The scholarship winners, with the colleges they will attend, include:

Andrew M. King, St. Margaret's Bay, N.S., and London, Ont. (RMC); John G. Forth, Verdun, Que. (RMC); Cameron M. Crowe, Montreal West (RMC); Felix Kiar, Shawinigan Falls, Que. (RMC); Charles C. Bigsley, Toronto (RMC); Malcolm M. MacKay, Willowdale, Ont. (RMC).

This will be the first time the two colleges have taken young officer cadets representing the three services.

Since the end of the war, Royal Roads has trained some Air Force personnel in addition to Naval candidates and now will take boys seeking officer careers in the Army. R.M.C., an exclusively Army college before the war, now also will be operated on a tri-service basis.

The course at Royal Roads will last two years and that at R.M.C. four years. The Naval course runs two years and those for the other services four years each.

HOME BUILDING PROHIBITIVE

Halifax, Sept. 1 — (CP) — Despite a serious shortage of housing in the city, Haligonians are showing little inclination to begin construction of new dwellings, a survey of builders showed today.

Only 99 new homes were started in the first seven months of this year compared with 106 in the corresponding period last year. More than 1,000 applications for accommodation are on file.

Construction officials say people in need of homes just don't have the money to build. High costs of labor and materials have made home building prohibitive.

Halifax Lawyer Given High Post In Newfoundland

Ottawa, Sept. 1 (CP)—Charles E. Burchell, K.C., of Halifax, has been appointed Canadian High Commissioner to Newfoundland, where he served for three years as Canada's first High Commissioner, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent announced today.

Mr. Burchell has also represented Canada in the same capacity in other commonwealth countries. In November, 1939, he went to Australia as the first High Commissioner for Canada and served there two years before going to Newfoundland. On leaving St. John's in 1944, he spent more than a year as High Commissioner in South Africa. He resumed his private practice in Halifax in November, 1945.

Actor Arrested On Drug Charge

Hollywood, Sept. 1 (AP)—Movie hero Robert Mitchum was arrested with three other persons in a narcotics raid on a Hollywood home early today.

"I'm all washed up," Mitchum, 31, muttered to a reporter. "This is the bitter end."

Mitchum's real estate, Miss Robin Ford, actress Lila Leeds, 20, and dancer Vickie Evans, 23, all were booked on suspicion of violating state and federal narcotics laws.

The screen leading man and Ford, also 31, were cast in the unglamorous roles of marijuana-smokers by arresting officers.

The Los Angeles narcotics detail said both men were smoking "reefers". (marijuana-containing cigarettes) when the officers broke into the home.

Mitchum surrendered a package containing 13 more of the cigarettes, officers said, and Miss Leeds, a blonde film hopeful, gave up several.

The home was rented by the young women, the officers said.

At another apartment which Miss Leeds maintains, the detail said they found another reefer.

The raid culminated an investigation of more than six months. It was conducted with the aid of a federal narcotics inspector, William Craig.

Miss Leeds was in the Hollywood limelight briefly last March 7 when she was treated for what physicians said was an overdose of sleeping pills.

Miss Evans told officers she arrived here recently from Philadelphia.

Officers said all face prosecution on felony charges, although the charge against Miss Evans may be the technical one of being in a place where narcotics were used.

The four suspects were jailed and bail was set at $1,000 for each. It was not expected to be long forthcoming. Officers explained there was no need for setting high bail "because we're not worried about these people skipping town."

Haligonian Recalls First Empire Flight

Halifax — (CP) — It's 39 years and a matter of 800 miles an hour since Mrs. H. A. Macdonald of Halifax saw her first and her most recent demonstrations of flying.

The first was the 30-mile-an-hour hop of the Silver Dart — first plane to fly in the British Empire — piloted by A. D. McCurdy, now lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia.

Recently Mrs. Macdonald witnessed the Royal Canadian Navy Air Section put on a display at nearby Eastern Passage Airport. The feature attraction was jet Vampire.

Former Czech President, Benes, Critically Ill

Prague, Sept. 1 — (AP) — Czechoslovaks sadly mounted a death watch today for one of her heroes, former President Eduard Benes.

The 65-year-old co-founder of the Czechoslovak Republic lapsed into unconsciousness early Tuesday and his doctors said they do not expect him to come out of it.

Rumors that the former president had died during the night spread through Prague today and a public address system in a large Prague factory told employees Benes was dead.

None of the rumors could be confirmed. The Czechoslovak press bureau said shortly before noon that it could obtain no confirmation.

The three doctors attending Benes said in a noon bulletin:

"The patient spent a quiet night considering his condition and there has been no change."

An official bulletin Tuesday night said the former president's condition was "extremely serious."

Benes, who resigned the presidency in June, has been in poor health since he suffered a stroke a year ago. The political turmoil last winter, which threw Czechoslovakia into the Communist camp, weakened him further.

The former president, who bitterly fought the Munich pact and led his country's struggle for liberation from his exile's corner in London, has been living out of from his people since last February. His country home is 60 miles south of Prague.

On occasional occasions has he returned to Prague since last February — to attend the funeral of Jan Masaryk last March, and to present a charter to Charles University in April.

CRISIS IN FRANCE

Premier Schuman Starts Formation Of New Cabinet

Paris, Sept. 1 (AP)—Premier Robert Schuman today began forming a new French cabinet. He got the green light Tuesday night from the national assembly, but by a margin of only 11 votes.

His coalition government is expected to include many of the ministers who made up the cabinet he headed for eight months until he was forced out last July 19.

The assembly confirmed Schuman by a vote of 322 to 185, the weakest support yet accorded a French Premier on his initial appearance before the parliament. He needed 311 votes for confirmation, which he demanded on virtually the same issues which caused the cabinet of Premier Andre Marie to fall last Saturday. One hundred and one deputies either abstained from voting or walked out of the chamber rather than go on record. The bulk of the opposition vote came from the Communists, who hate Schuman. He broke up the wave of Communist-led strikes that almost wrecked France last year.

His policy informed the deputies before they voted that if he became Premier he would oppose wage increases and favor increases in the prices of bread and milk and tax increases sufficient to raise $26,000,000 to meet a budget deficit. He advocated higher prices for meat and wine and certain tax adjustments.

Schuman's assembly support came from his own mouvement Republican Populaire, Radical Socialists, Independents and Socialists. Socialists, with 103 votes, held the balance of power. It was the Socialists who knocked him out of the job 43 days ago in a dispute over the military budget.

RESCUED BY RADAR

Solomons Md., Sept. 1 (AP)—Capt. Richard Christy, 33-year-old skipper of the small coastal freighter C.A. Christy, was rescued by radar early today after his ship was swamped by high seas. The City of Norfolk, Baltimore passenger vessel, picked up an object on its radar screen and discovered Christy clinging to a remnant of the freighter's pilot house. Carroll Evans, only other member of the Christy's crew, had been picked up earlier.

MEMBER KILLED

Penang, Malaya, Sept. 1 (AP) —Dr. Ong Chong-Keng, promising member of the Federal Legislative Council, was shot and killed Tuesday night. Police said they were not certain whether but Ong has been a strong advocate of Chinese support for the government.

Lakefield, Sept. 1 — (CP) — This village of 1,500 persons in the Kawartha Lakes district is under the grip of an outbreak of poliomyelitis.

Fourteen persons have been stricken with infantile paralysis in July. One, Rev. M. R. Hunt, died.

The fight against polio in this hardest-hit spot in Ontario is being spearheaded by Dr. Patricia Armstrong of Toronto, under the direction of Dr. Nellie Silvertborne. The possibility that the germ is moving from sewage to drinking water is being investigated.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

They say of suicides that the plan of self-destruction begins to fascinate them as any other plan. From being ridiculous and not to be considered, the thought of self-imposed death begins to hold a certain charm. They soothe themselves to sleep with it; perfect the details with cleverness and cunning.

A prospective suicide can be like a prospective sixpenny: there is an implicit chuckle in it, a sort of "they'll be stunned and they'll be sorry!" triumph.

My going to Hillyard House at Indian Mill was something like that. I had friends at the boarding-house and friends at the library; I kept the secret from them all, and one July morning, when the city air was soft and foggy and the horns were droning all along the water front, I disappeared. Mrs. Liffey conspired with me when she saw how deeply in earnest I was. The head librarian had indeed been notified and sworn to secrecy; no one else knew. I wanted to get away from them all, from the Jungle Books and the Little Colonials; the grubby children crowding about the desk like sheep; the high library windows, dusty in windy summer or streaming with winter rains. There were no good-bys; one night I shirked the breaded veal cutlets and floating island at the boardinghouse; the next night I sat a silent and deeply impressed onlooker at the dining table at the Hillyards'.

Old Mr. Calhoun Hillyard never came downstairs. But the nurse was there, a bright, hard, talkative, pleasant woman of about thirty-five, Miss Virginia Carolan Wainwright. And at the head of the table was Ming table, but two four were seated up at one end set for Cleary.

The master of the house, or rather, the old, master's younger cousin, was an enormous, fine-built man, some six inches taller than the average. If he stood erect, but as I was presently to learn, he never did stand erect. He was all of one tawny color, hair, eyes, skin of a sort of burnished bronze; one eye was bandaged, which added a sort of careless banditry to his appearance, and a rare laughter with a sudden fierce showing of teeth, very white against his dark face, deepened the impression.

He and Munro Walsewright were carrying on a low conversation when I first met the latter, I shared. My train had been late and the heavy summer rain that was falling had made the supplementary trip of four miles slow and muddy, and although Mrs. Grisall had met me in the large dark entrance hall and had murmured a young Chinese boy to accompany us to my room and carry my bags, a dreary sense of being entirely alone and of having very possibly made a great mistake was weighing this first encounter with the household a nervous moment.

They were eating pheasant when I came into the dining room, the Chinese boy brought me soup and biscuits first; the main course had been carried away before I was ready for it, and I ate my meat while the others discussed a golf club.

The men had paid small attention to me beyond a nod of greeting. Miss Ring listened to them attentively for the next part, putting in an occasional word. They were discussing moving some sheep pens, as far as I could make out; Munro rather earnest and warm about it, Clay somewhat unconvinced and careless.

Well, here I was, in the situation of which I had been dreaming since Mrs. Grisall had first talked to me of it in Mrs. Liffey's boardinghouse; here were the persons she had described; here was the gloomy bulk of the old house all around us, and outside, silent and rushing, silent again and rushing again, was the sea. I hadn't been able to see it for darkness when I arrived, but the salty fresh scent of it had met me as soon as we left the station at Indian Mill and remained with me in the taxi and the punctual rushing — pause — rushing went over and under all the other sounds of the house. Even the quiet dripping of rain did little to silence it.

It all seemed flat just now, my great adventure. I was tired after the train trip; I felt strange and lonely. And Miss Virginia Carolan would not arrive for some days; there would be queer evening days for me, and even those that followed did not promise much. Amusing and tutoring and companioning a spoiled girl of eighteen years would have small interest in me — I wondered if I had been crazy to give up my pleasant room at Mrs. Liffey's and my good salary from the city of San Francisco for this.

"Sheep have nerves, Clay," Munro said pettishly, and I heard my own surprised laugh.

"You don't agree?" Clay Hillyard said, with the only sudden voice that robbed me of all power to reply. I gagged clumsily and cleared my throat while he was adding, "Did anyone give Miss Dryden coffee?"

"No, thank you," I said, finding my voice. "I like to sleep at night," I added idiotically.

"Well, there is something to be said for that." Munro observed kindly and at this my laugh was easier.

"So sheep have nerves," Clay said thoughtfully. "Well, we'll go up and look at the pens tomorrow."

"Look," was an odd word coming from him, I thought, for it was obvious that he saw very little. He was finishing his dinner with some little fumbling and awkwardness, and now he got to his feet, saying, "I think I'll try-ing to save his queen's rook, isn't he?"

"I think he will," Munro said, following him to the door.

"I think he won't." Clay answered, and with a brief "Good night, ladies," he was gone.

"They play chess," Miss Ring observed then, tipping the little coffeepot over her cup. "It takes days to play a game."

"Those two?"

"No. Clay and the old man. All Munro does is move the pieces. Doctor can't see them."

"But he can play chess — blind?"

"Lots of good players do."

"It's a — a queer household, isn't it?"

"Finding them out?" Miss Ring asked briskly by way of answer. She impressed me even then as a person whose cheerful, crisp manner covered a real indifference to what anyone else said; she did not really say anything herself, as a rule, or even mean what she did say. It was all light, superficial, almost absently kindly. I came to know Louise Ring well in the months to come, and well, but I never knew any change in her in this regard. We were to go through some desperate hours together, but she was always the same.

That night, anyway, she was indifferently, equally kind to me. She knew of course that I felt lonely and strange, and she came into my room after dinner and helped me unpack my bags. She asked me what on earth had made me give up a good job in a fascinating city like San Francisco, boiling with officers and men and war activities, just now, and come to a place as isolated and unknown as Indian Mill.

"A love affair, I'll bet," she said, putting my nightgowns and slips neatly away in a drawer, with all the experience of a trained nurse. But when, in a sudden lonesome need to talk of it, to tell her something, if not everything, I hesitated in reply to this and laughed a little laugh that wasn't denial, she had already lost interest, followed me to the door, and was on her way to wash girdles.

On that first night rain was falling, steadily outside in the dark, and everything was dripping, swishing, gurgling with rain. My big room smelled of emptiness dampness, and oldness. It was a bay-window room on the second floor, and although there were black iron floor gratings that said there was a furnace somewhere, this was July and there was no heat coming from them and the

Two Tropical Storms Both Showing Signs Of Dissipating

Miami, Fla., Sept. 1 — (AP) — Two tropical storms, both showing signs of dissipating before any serious damage is caused, today ushered in the "hurricane month" of September.

The first hurricane of the season, which for six days moved steadily toward the mainland from below Puerto Rico, apparently was blowing itself out in the North Atlantic after skirting the North Carolina coastline.

Storm warnings remained over the islands of Guadeloupe and St. Lucia in the Windward Island chain were lowered before midnight as a small tropical storm with winds no stronger than 50 miles an hour pushed into the Caribbean Sea.

A third "area of suspicion," in the Gulf of Mexico located about 150 miles off Brownsville, Texas, apparently was nothing more than a squall wave and held little chance of becoming a hurricane or storm.

Storm No. 2 was rated heading westward into the Caribbean at about 12 to 16 miles an hour. Winds in the centre were estimated at between 35 to 40 miles an hour.

With a crash like a giant thunderclap, two freight trains collided near Georgetown station yesterday, telescoping crumpled box cars into a zig-zag mass of burning wreckage. A cattle car was in the wreck, and several injured animals crawled into side streets and driveways, where they were shot. Three crew members escaped with minor injuries.

TWISTER LEAVES WRECKAGE TRAIL IN CAPE BRETON

Whistles Across Newfoundland After Savage Attack on Wednesday

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 2 (CP)—A danger-packed hurricane whistled across Newfoundland today after leaving a trail of wreckage in Northern Cape Breton during its savage attack Wednesday.

Dominion Public Weather Office in Halifax said the storm would pass over Newfoundland to the labrador today and weather in the area would clear.

Striking Sydney and nearby communities at noon Wednesday the Atlantic brewed the storm over the south swept and swirled over the industrial area of Cape Breton until late evening when it headed to sea.

Damage was still being counted today and the exact amount probably will not be known for days.

Power linemen worked throughout the night to restore maried wires which left Sydney, Glace Bay and neighboring towns in darkness throughout the evening.

Along the harbor front, while painted pleasure craft were tossed ashore from their moorings. In Glace Bay, the main calm harbor was so rough sailors left their craft and went ashore after battening down for the blow. One schooner crew had 60 lines out.

All but one coal mine in the area — employing some 5,000 men— were idle Wednesday night and Thursday because of the power shortage.

One 63-year-old life long resident of the city said it was the worst storm in his memory. Others agreed.

Although ships east of Sable Island met some 100 miles due east of Halifax on Wednesday, Newfoundland were still warned to take precautions against the winds it was believed most craft had taken shelter. No loss was reported at sea.

Trans-Atlantic planes, sought shelter at Moncton, N.B. Five landed there Wednesday night.

The big blow apparently struck only the district surrounding Sydney and Glace Bay, 12 miles away. Inland, central Cape Breton reported winds of less than 30 miles an hour.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Sept. 2 (CP)—Synopsis: The weather is clear and seasonably mild over northwestern Ontario. A weak but extensive disturbance over Central Ontario is causing scattered showers and a few thunderstorms over the remainder of this province. Skies will clear during the day over Northern Ontario and by tonight over southern sections of the province. Clear and slightly warmer weather is general throughout the province on Friday.

Former Soldier Sought In Jamaican Slayings

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 2 (CP)—A bloodthirsty former soldier was being sought in a island-wide manhunt today for the fatal shooting of a policeman and a woman at separate places Wednesday.

Ivan Martin, an ex-soldier who escaped from jail April 28 while serving a five-year term for burglary, was cornered in a small hotel and engaged police in a revolver duel.

After the fusillade Martin "played possum." Then, as police closed in, he shot three of them Captain Lewie died shortly afterward and Sgt. Callimore and Detective Earle are in hospital in serious condition.

When darkness fell Martin slipped from the hotel through a police cordon and turned up two hours later at the residence of three women, searching for a "friend" named Goldson. He said he intended to kill the friend "for telling the police about me."

When the women denied knowledge of Goldson, Martin said "then I'll kill you."

He shot Lucille Young to death and then shot Estelle Brown, who was hiding beneath a bedsheet. Then he blasted Irish Bailey, who had dived beneath the bed.

Although police fired repeatedly at Martin during the gun-duel, it was not believed he was wounded. Nevertheless the police warned doctors and druggists to report anyone seeking that kind of medical aid.

Bullets Fail to Pierce New Plastic Cloth

Washington, Sept. 2 — (AP) Standing 25 feet away, Washington policeman plunked his .38 revolver bullets into a cloth target Wednesday — and blinked at what happened. The bullets failed to penetrate the material. Earlier Dr. Raymond Seymour of New Brunswick, N.J., told the American Chemical Society that the cloth made of a new plastic material and is "stronger than steel" on a pound-for-pound basis.

Greek Air Force Effective Weapon In Army's Drive Against Guerillas

Kozane, Greece, Sept. 2 (AP)— The small but busy Greek air force has been an effective weapon in the army's summer drive against Communist guerrilla bands.

Col. Emanuel Kelaidis, chief of the Royal Greek Air Force, estimates that 60 to 70 per cent of guerilla losses in the Grammos Mountain campaign have been inflicted by his pilots, and adds:

"The Communist fear of air attacks is the major reason for the noticeable decline in rebel morale."

Kelaidis says the airmen have two jobs: To support the army and to strafe targets on the guerilla front lines. Both Greek and American officers say the R.G.A.F. is successfully carrying out these two tasks.

The R.G.A.F. is composed of between 6,000 and 7,000 pilots, gunners, radio operators, observers and ground men, grouped in three squadrons of 25 planes each.

The planes include Spitfires, Harvards, Ansons, Oxfords and Dakotas, which came from Great Britain and more recently from the United States under the American aid mission.

Kelaidis said the Spits and Harvards average 60 to 70 sorties a day. "Missions over Grammos begin about 5 a.m. and continue all day. Last month, night sorties were attempted and proved to be successful."

From sunrise to midnight planes can be heard over Kozane as they set off to bomb, rocket and machine-gun guerrillas positions.

"Well-trained guerrillas manack-sack guns. Knowing we are searching for their strong defence positions, they often place machine-guns at a great distance from their main defence lines."

SOCIALISTS MAY BE OMITTED IN FRENCH CABINET

Schuman Ready to Go On Without Them

Paris, Sept. 2 (AP) —Premier Robert Schuman announced today he intends to form a new French cabinet without the Socialists, if necessary.

The Socialist earlier voted against accepting posts in a new coalition government under Schuman and many thought Schuman might refuse to go on. Schuman is a member of the Centrist Party, Mouvement Republican Populaire.

Socialist Deputies emerging from a party caucus shortly before noon said al arge majority had voted against entering the Schuman cabinet. They said the majority favored giving Schuman support, but opposed taking any direct responsibility for Schuman's program.

When he went before the assembly early last night, Schuman said he would oppose wage increases in the prices of bread and milk. The Socialists want higher wages, plus a controlled economy.

The Socialists have participated in every cabinet since the liberation. They have about 100 seats in the current situation by refusing to back former Premier Andre Marie, a radical Socialist, in his economic policies. Marie resigned last Saturday and the assembly confirmed Schuman as his successor Tuesday night. The Socialists voted for him.

Lecturer Claims Tito is Due For Assassination

Montreal, Sept. 2 — (CP) Capt. Michael Fielding, a British writer and lecturer who makes his home in Chicago, is back from Yugoslavia and all is not well there, that "Tito is due for assasination."

He arrived here Wednesday and declared the Yugoslav leader, Marshal Tito, was in disfavor because he has been involved in a plot to overthrow Premier Stalin. But, he said, outside countries are "wrong to be encouraging a quarrel with the Kremlin means he is attempting to the west."

The Canadian Yugoslavs who have been returning to their homeland, left Montreal early this Montreal last Saturday — in the hope he said they "believe it's not a chance . . . most will not be heard from again."

Yugoslavs abroad were considered a potential threat to the regime and are subjected to heavy propaganda on return. However, Canadian visitors to the country even the sincerest Communists are regarded with suspicion simply because they have had contact with "Fascist" countries.

Liabilities of the celebration have to be met to that extent, a treasury's report showed. Details of the largest losses was on the publication of a souvenir booklet. Of 5,000 printed only 100 sold.

Drugs Valued At $2,000 Found In Stolen Car

Kitchener, Sept. 2 (CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police said that narcotics valued at $2,000 were found in a stolen auto recovered at Harriston, about 40 miles northwest of Kitchener.

The R.C.M.P. had no information on value of cigarettes reported to be found in the car.

An earlier report from St. Thomas said the car, stolen last Thursday, was owned by W. J. Stewart.

CONSULATE MEMBERS LEAVE

San Francisco, Sept. 2 (AP) — Seven members of the Soviet consular staff pulled out of San Francisco Wednesday night, bound for the east coast and presumably, Moscow. The departure was accomplished without much as a good-bye and the most that any reporter could get out of any of them was the usual terse: "No comment."

CLAY APPEARS UNUSUALLY GRIM AFTER PARLEY

Military Governors Seek to End Deadlock

Berlin, Sept. 2 (CP)—The four Allied military governors of Germany conferred today for 90 minutes in their third session in as many days aimed at breaking the four-power split over Germany.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, looked grimmer than after the previous meetings as he left the conference.

Asked whether he had any statement to make, he said "no."

An American official said the governors would meet again tomorrow. This session probably will be to hear further reports from the deputy working committees on finance, trade and transport.

Today's meeting started at 3 p.m., two hours earlier than usual.

Marshal Sokolovsky of Russia was the first to arrive, closely followed by Gen. Sir Brian Robertson of Britain, Gen. Pierre Koenig of France and Clay.

Unofficial reports from American sources said they were to discuss draft proposals for introducing a unified currency in Berlin and ending the 10-week blockade of the city.

Burglar Forced To Leave by Same Route He Entered

Toronto, Sept. 3 (CP)—A 32-year-old Toronto man was forced at gun point Monday night to leave an office he had broken into by the same route he entered—through the transom.

Policemen making their rounds noticed the broken transom and shone their flashlights into the office. The would-be burglar was found huddled in a corner. Since the six-foot policemen couldn't crawl in, they pointed their guns at the housebreaker and ordered him to crawl out.

Committee Boosts Diefenbaker For Leadership

Toronto, Sept. 2 (CP)—Six men calling themselves the "Diefenbaker for leader committee" are busy there and in the campaign they hope will carry John G. Diefenbaker at a national meeting of the Progressive Conservative party.

The campaign has started by the six men, who have been actively boosting the member of the House of Commons for Lake Centre, here. They are Gordon Graydon, K. Masters, a bond house executive; Grant Hall, a lawyer and claims manager for a casualty insurance firm; R. Gordon Knowles, a lawyer; Kenneth and Ronald Wilt, commercial artists.

The committee has written to Mr. Diefenbaker telling him of its doings. To date they have received no communications from the western leader but are confident assurance that he intends to let his name be placed before the party convention in Ottawa this month.

Scientists 'Excited, Airmen Look Back on One More Arctic Job

Ottawa, Sept. 2 — (CP)—Scientists who came back from the Arctic Wednesday with a bountiful of work for the winter were excited about their achievements, but to the R.C.A.F. and the R. C. A. F. Canso which flew them north it was just another job.

"Operation Polco, 1948," under 24-year-old Paul H. Serson of the Mines and Resources Department, confirmed last year's determination of the pole location — 72 degrees north latitude, 100 west, and gathered magnetic data which will pin the pole down to a still smaller area in the Boothia Peninsula.

There were 14, all told, on the trip.

To the airmen, it was just a trip which produced a bit less than 30 hours' flying. With better weather, they had comparatively little trouble in the R. C. A. F.'s second sustained flying operation in the Arctic.

The navigator was F/O. J. E. Goldsmith of Halifax, was an Air Force veteran with 5,000 hours and made the trip again this year. His pressure was a new and uncharted water and land areas which the Canso's navigists scrutinely over the magnetic pole.

The Dominion Observatory will have to keep watching the pole's movements for years, charting what movements there are, have shifted it 200 miles north in the last century. Nevertheless they hope to be able to predict its future movements.

SIR S. CRIPPS TO VISIT CANADA THIS MONTH

Ottawa Not Informed as to Nature of Visit of Chancellor

Ottawa, Sept. 2 — (CP) — One of the last fractions of Canada's enormous European credits may be gram — probably the only one that will survive 1948 — will come up for discussion when Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, reaches Ottawa in mid-September, it was indicated today.

A high official said the visit is being made entirely on British initiative and Ottawa has not been informed of "what is on the mind" of Sir Stafford.

But he agreed with London reports the visit will probably cover the balance of the $1,250,000,000 loan Canada extended Britain in 1946 as the greatest segment in an aid program that went beyond $3,000,000,000 and, in ratio, exceeded even the United States' E.R.P.

It runs to about $240,000,000 and it has been frozen for months because of Canada's shortage of U. S. dollars.

The official predicted the end of the year would see exhaustion of the relatively small amounts still remaining in the credits extended such nations as France, Belgium and Holland. That would leave only the balance of the British loan outstanding.

Two factors are among those that bulk large in considerations of its release. One, is the dollar situation which, the official said, has improved markedly since the November restrictions went into effect. The other is the size of the 1948 wheat crop.

The first official prediction set it at $72,000,000 bushels, larger than last year but smaller than 1946. A second report is due from the Bureau of Statistics Sept. 14, about the time of Sir Stafford's visit.

Official Predicts Two-Cent Boost In Milk Prices

Fewer Cows, Higher Costs Factors Affecting Supply

Toronto, Sept. 2 — (CP) — Milk prices may be boosted two cents a quart in November, Secretary Roy Lick of the Ontario Milk Prodducers' Association said today. In Toronto the retail price now is 18 cents a quart.

He said increased taxes, repairs, cost of new equipment and replacement of dairy herds were boosting production costs.

"Americans are buying all the dairy cattle they can get their hands on — at big prices," Mr. Lick said. "This tempts farmers into selling choice cattle and thus they produce less milk."

"There are no other agreements which producers have with any one else in the milk industry which will affect prices one way or another," he said.

Mr. Lick said there was a scarcity of labor for dairy farms in the province. Labor costs had also jumped considerably.

His prediction of an increased price in November came after a meeting of the producers here Friday. He said there was no decision on prices at the meeting.

FREIGHT EMBARGO ON WEST COAST DUE TO STRIKES

Will Prevent Cars Being Tied Up in Western Ports

New York, Sept. 2 — (CP) — Freight embargoes were to go into effect today on the west coast of the United States and on New York's sprawling metropolitan area in the face of strikes called in the last 24 hours.

The embargoes were the first imposed in the United States since the American railroads called one brief before the deadline set for a strike of Canadian railway workers earlier this summer. The Canadian strike was averted, however, and the ban on shipments to the Dominion from the United States was promptly lifted.

The Association of American Railroads said the embargo would be a protective measure to prevent freight cars being tied up in western ports. The embargo on freight in New York was ordered to prevent piling up of merchandise in rail yards.

C.I.O. longshoremen on the west coast walked off their jobs at midnight PST, in a contract dispute with waterfront employers, which negotiations had sought since last spring in vain.

Harry Bridges, chief of the longshoremen's union, said negotiations had failed and pickets would appear on the waterfront this morning. The strike would become effective at 10:30 a.m. PST after dissolution of a federal court order restraining the longshoremen from ordered seagoing men from striking.

In New York, a trucking tie-up choked many lifelines to the metropolis, although most of the area's millions have not yet felt the pinch. The truck stoppage which on Wednesday when about 10,000 A.F.L. workers failed to report for jobs because of a wage dispute.

He said much depends on the outcome of a meeting today of the board of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters at which most of those members quit work after voting to reject a proposed wage agreement.

If the stoppage continued, union leaders said, it may be joined by about 30,000 members of two other major New York City locals and nine locals scattered in New Jersey and Westchester County, N.Y.

Suspected Slayer Arrives to Face Murder Charge

Victoria, Sept. 2 — (CP) — The erstwhile companion of 58-year-old John McComas of Dayton, O., —Gustave A. Weigner, also of Dayton, O., — is to be taken to Fort St. John, B.C., to face a charge of murdering his fellow countryman.

Weigner and McComas made a trip over the Alaska Highway. Last week, McComas' body was found 100 miles north of Fort St. John. Creek, a bullet wound behind the ear. Police issued a warrant charging the 24-year-old Weigner with McComas' murder, and an R.C.M.P. constable from Fort St. John district to take Weigner back for preliminary hearing.

Weigner, who fled Canada with his 24-year-old Louis McComas because they were wanted, reached here Wednesday by plane from Dayton. He was met by detectives for Carl Ledoux of the B. C. police.

McComas' daughter has contended her father was murdered, she was waived extradition to Canada. The two maintain McComas was accidentally killed. The girl returned voluntarily to be a witness at Weigner's preliminary hearing.

He and Louise were arrested here Wednesday. The hearing was held at Kimball, Neb., pending investigation by Canadian authorities.

Inspector Richard Harvey, in charge of Criminal Investigation Bureau of B.C. Police, said Wednesday night he did not know when Weigner and McComas' bodies will be flown north.

"We'll see what evidence for the preliminary hearing is available and then prosecute accordingly," said. "After that, I'll make recommendation as first place possible and fly them north."

No Rain in Sight

Toronto, Sept. 3 (CP)— Fields were moistened Wednesday night by the heaviest rain of the fall, estimated by weathermen at only 0.1 to 0.20 of an inch.

C. A. Garnett, head of Ontario Agricultural Representative and scientific and fields crops, backed by the recent seven-day heat wave, are "ready to start" a rain and added "if there is no more rain that we got today it won't help."

The weathermen predicts clear and sligh cool weather for tomorrow and he would guess—"from the look of the sky"—that the weekend would t generally fair throughout Ontario.

Picton Community Centre Operations Are Suspended

Picton Picton Community Centre Council decided to suspend operations of the Community Centre, effective Tuesday night, at an emergency meeting. The resignation of Secretary Rec. Director, formerly of Kingston, was accepted.

These developments were the result of two resolutions raised to current incidents affecting the financial position of the Centre.

"Even if this talk is unjustified and false, it has a bad effect on financial position of the Community Centre," he said. "That position is that the centre would have had to close in October unless considerable money was received as grants from organizations or as proceeds from money raising events—to supplement the previously existing grants from the town council and the province.

"The centre is now definitely facing towards this difficult financial position for some time, but until this unpleasant talk ends I felt that we could have only a successful campaign to raise the necessary money to carry on and even to erect a building of the bowling alley type which would put the centre in a position to pay its own way. Now, however, I feel that we cannot raise the necessary money, and unless money is forthcoming, the sooner we close up and pay outstanding bills, the better," the judge remarked.

"I am very sorry to take this position," he said, "for I have felt this Community Centre Council represents a Community Centre movement which has the greatest possibilities of any of our public service organizations."

Others endorsed the substance of Judge Lane's remarks.

In addition to the above charge the two youths have also been charged with other offences. Card is charged with theft of two bicycles, the left on a local parking lot, while Sharpe is charged with operating a local auto accessory store and stealing a compass.

URGES CONTRIBUTORY STEPTOE

Toronto, Sept. 2 (CP)—Ontario Welfare Minister Goodfellow Wednesday urged the establishment of a Canada-wide contributory system to raise revenue for Old Age Pensions.

The number of Old Age Pensioners in Ontario has risen from 58,000 to 77,000 in the last 1-2 years, he told closing sessions of the 47th annual convention of the Dominion Court Clerks Association of Ontario. Allowances paid out now total $30,000,000 a year.

Mr. Goodfellow said rising living costs would meet people from saving for their old age.

Teen Town at 'Ex' Extremely Popular With Young People

By KEN BOTWRIGHT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Sept. 2 (CP)—A youngsters' wonderland is "Teen Town," the Canadian National Exhibition's mammoth youth centre.

Up on the second floor of the huge coliseum, it's open 12 hours daily providing recreation and education for kids of all ages.

"Teen Town" made its debut at the C.N.E. last year as a $6,000 skylight. This year it's a $35,000 feature attraction.

Most popular spot in "Teen Town" is the 800-seat theatre, says the centre's 21-year-old director, Al Lewyn. Boys and bobby-soxers flock to the theatre for a daily program which includes stage and radio shows, boys' and girls' fashion parades, contests, sing-songs, dancing and of course movies.

Domestic-minded girls crowd sessions at the "Bride's Kitchen." Here, in an ultra-modern, perfectly-equipped kitchen, teen-age girl demonstrators whip up tasty dishes with the latest cooking utensils.

In a model nursery school operated by Mrs. Helen Dyer, model mothers-to-be two to four years—from Toronto nursery schools take pre-school kindergarten classes. They play group games, sing, draw and eat specially-prepared meals in a cream and green playroom.

Our pooch that's well patronized by children and adults, too, is the "Art Hub." Would-be artists can dabble there in oils, water colors, pencil or crayon. If the product resembles, they can do likewise, also with clay, papier mache or plasticine.

SCIENTISTS

24 different species of plants, an animal skull, yet to be identified, various fossil rocks and data on landforms and ice. This will keep various scientists busy working for months.

To the flyers, it was just a question of getting back to civilization, where the sun goes down at night. The party worked in the Arctic Circle from mid - July, and never saw nightfall.

The flyers say the trip meant a base at Resolute Bay on Cornwallis Island, about 800 miles northeast of the 1947 Polco base, with ice that would drift against wind and tide to trap their aircraft, lakes which would freeze up and make take - off impossible.

REFUSES TO ACCEPT RED CHEQUE

New York, Sept. 2 — (AP) — The Russian consulate has sent a $200 cheque to Roosevelt Hospital for care of Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina but she has asked that it not be accepted, it was disclosed Wednesday. The disclosure was made by Archie Dawson, lawyer for the 52-year-old Russian teacher injured when she jumped from a third-floor consulate window.

Prevention, Cure Of Polio in Mice Now Possible

New York, Sept. 2 (CP)—Prevention and cure of poliomyelitis in mice is possible now, Columbia University announced Wednesday night.

Successful experiments involving a new sulfa-type drug, described as "magic bullet," proved so mice, the announcement said.

The experiment raises hope that such methods can be applied to humans but the report emphasizes there is no sound basis to conclude the results are applicable to man.

The next step is to apply the experiments to monkeys, a step closer to man.

How clearly the Columbia mouse infantile paralysis is like the human kind is a subject of medical debate. Originally the virus that causes this mouse paralysis came from human beings. Whether it has changed greatly in mice is the debated question.

The announcement covers work done by Dr. Murray Sanders, associate professor of bacteriology at Columbia with this mouse virus since 1940, and by the Lederle Laboratories, which manufactures darvisal for doctors.

Darvisal, known formally as prenosulfazole, is non-toxic. More than 12,000 mice were used in experiments.

Madoc Road Needs Permanent Surface

As the years pass the motoring public who must use the north half of the Foxboro-Madoc road keep asking why it is that no determined effort is made to have a permanent surface material placed on this section.

Each year it is given the same old face lifting that lays the dust but introduces a rippled surface in some places. A car hitting these spots at anything over fifteen miles an hour comes in for a jolting that just about shakes the teeth out of the passengers' jaws. They also shake loose considerable hot comment. We know because we have heard it.

Now that the highway to Bancroft is at long last getting to be a highway it would seem good policy on the part of the county council to give the unfinished portion south of Madoc something more than just a makeshift treatment that annually costs plenty. If there is any logical reason why a good job cannot be done within the next year then the public should be informed of such reason. This is a matter which we believe can well receive the favorable consideration of the county councillors.

Fire Fighter Retires

The retirement of Fire Chief William Lynch from his post with the Department concludes the active career of a man who has served his fellow citizens capably and faithfully for many years. The former Chief always took great interest in keeping the equipment of his force at top operating efficiency. Had this not been so many of the fires in the city would have been more costly than they were.

Speed and fire-fighting knowledge are the slogans of fire departments and these were never lost sight of by the former Chief. He always campaigned for modern equipment to further the speedy work of the Department. If there was delay in the procurement of new machines it was no fault of Mr. Lynch's. But councils are sometimes a bit slow in acting on recommendations of city employees. When action was finally taken it was generally found that the advice which had been given was sound and well thought out.

Mr. Lynch joined the Department in 1916 at the time it was first put on a permanent status with a staff of ten men. In 1929 he was made Chief and the present staff is made up twenty-two men, and chief. The changeover from horse-drawn fire wagons was made in 1921 when two pieces of equipment were purchased. Eventually it is expected that a modern fire hall will be erected here, something that has been much needed for many years but the war intervened. This matter was very close to Mr. Lynch's heart, and a source of disappointment to him that the project was not completed before his retirement.

The banquet arranged in his honor on Tuesday evening by the members of the Fire Department indicated the esteem in which he was held by his associates. Their wishes for many years of good health to enjoy his well-earned leisure will be heartily endorsed by a large group of friends in the city and district here. This newspaper joins with them in that happy thought, and trusts that the benefit of his sound judgment and experience will always be available to the city for many years to come.

Soup — National Dish

A letter appearing in an Ottawa paper discusses a report of the Home Economics Association meetings which were held recently in Calgary. At this meeting the letter notes it was stated that Canada's only national dish is Quebec pea soup. With this the writer entirely agrees and states it is unfortunate that comparatively few people beyond the borders of Quebec know just how smooth, how savory, how delicious, and how sustaining real Quebec soup can be.

"My experience is that pea soup is at its best in the lumber camps where it is brewed by expert cooks in huge cauldrons. All through all the great forests which stretch from the Upper Gatineau across to Lake St. John, I have rarely if ever seen anyone pass up the soup course. Known as 'la soupe nationale' it is no mere mixture of indifferently cooked peas and water as served in hotels and restaurants of some of the other provinces, but a puree of the finest and purest quality. It is roundly seasoned and much of its smoothness comes from the generous use of clear salt pork, which is a more effective and authoritative meat base than a hambone or a shank. Properly made it is almost a meal in itself. But woe betide the cook who scrimps on the salt pork.

"In 1949, should Newfoundland become the tenth province of Canada, the Dominion will have a second national or provincial dish in the Newfoundland 'fish and brewse.' Made of cleaned, soaked salt codfish, 'hard bread' (sea-biscuit) and onions, the whole fried in pork grease, it is a breakfast dish that readies a man to go out and meet the world, the flesh and the devil."

FAILURES

All progress depends on man's courage to fail
And again to begin when disasters assail.
From darkness of error men come to the light,
At last, from the wrong way, to learn of the right.

Men of vision from trifles great meanings may draw;
From an apple that fell, we got gravity's law.

And to thousands of things that we think commonplace
To what once were blunders, today we can trace.

The timid and fearful first failures dismay,
But the stout heart stays trying by night and by day.
He values his failures as lessons that teach;
The one way to get to the goal he would reach.

WHITHER?

There are many who hold that a person has no right to call himself a Christian unless he lives an almost perfect life. If he errs in any particular he is a hypocrite.

Such an appraisal is contrary both to common sense and to the teachings of the great prophets who. There never has been but one perfect person in the world, and while we are to aim for perfection, we are not to be discouraged that we do not attain it. The important matter is not how good we are but how much are growing in goodness. A person of very little virtue who is growing better, morally and spiritually, is in much sounder condition than is a good person whose life has ceased to improve. Jesus praised the sinners who were ashamed of their evil and wanted to flee it, and he condemned the Pharisees — righteous, upright folk — who were perfectly satisfied to remain as they were.

Someone has said that saints are the sinners who keep on trying. Remember in estimating your own moral soundness that the important matter is not how good you are but in how much are you growing in goodness not where do you stand but where are you going?

An elderly lady who has made history her lifelong study comes up with the suggestion that a happy solution of the modern death crime problem would be the re-establishment of the public stocks.

You read every little while about some magistrate or judge trying to resurrect flogging or the cat-o-nine-tails as a deterrent added to a prison sentence for such crimes as armed robbery, car thefts or other instances of gangsterism. If flogging has survived, there seems to be no reason why the stocks should not have survived.

Publicity today has reached such outlandish pppportions that even adverse publicity is regarded with some respect. I am quite sure that many a young tough, freshly sentenced to prison, feels some compensation for his ill-luck in the fact that he got so many columns of space in the newspapers, plus his picture.

The stocks, however, as a type of publicity that would fairly exactly the type of hoodlum who are now ..... to be stood up in a public place, with your head stuck through a hole in the stocks, and your hands projecting through other holes beside your face in an attitude of comic helplessness would be a most appropriate and ferable situation for the type of rowdy that we often see and read of and holds up elderly lady store keepers with a pistol.

As far as cruelty is concerned, to be stood up in the stocks for a few hours is far less cruel, actually, than the publication of a sober judge's photograph of the criminal in the newspapers. Aged mothers, disgraced fathers, pitiable sisters would not be obliged to go down to City Hall to behold the scallywag in the stocks. But they cannot escape those photographs in the newspapers.

In all other forms of government, publicity has been developed to the highest degree of efficiency. In penology, publicity has been overlooked. If it is still flogged, it is in secret.

YANKEE DIET AND THE YANKEE STOMACH

Anyone who resides in North America is a Yankee, so far as this column is concerned.

The everyday diet of the great majority of our people today is based largely on what I call cheat foods — that is to say, most of the calories in the everyday diet of children and adults in this country are supplied by cheat foods.

I'm not going to stick my neck out far enough to name all of the cheat foods. Suffice that a less provocative characterization for them is "refined carbohydrates."

The many items in this category are not only high in food value (by calory count) and supply plentiful energy (Calories you can burn the fuel completely) but they are the most available, the best-keeping, the easiest foods to prepare and the easiest to eat (or drink) whether you are hungry or not. Besides that the refined carbohydrates, calory for calory, are the cheapest of all foods in the marketplace.

That is why the refined carbohydrates are the main part of the Yankee diet.

The meat (mostly fat pork), refined corn meal and molasses diet of the poorer sections of the south accounts for the pellagra that prevails in such sections. Niacin (nicotinic acid), one of the B vitamins, is most essential to prevent pellagra but deficiency of the diet in other B vitamins must be corrected too in order to prevent pellagra or cure it in the disease already developed.

In the north we hear less of pellagra because generally the poorer people get some protective foods to supplement white flour, sugar and meat — such foods as milks, eggs, vegetables, fruit in season, greens. There is good reason to believe that many milder cases of pellagra go unrecognized in the north and the complaints of the patients who have pellagra are attributed to "neurasthenia" or "nervous breakdown."

The trouble I call Yankee Stomach is usually found to be accompanied with stamped self-administered diagnosis. (I send you a pamphlet on Yankee Stomach.) It is so common in the meat, meal and molasses diet in the south and the potatoes and meat diet of the ignorant classes in the north-east, that is, of what it takes to keep well and live long places more familiar manifestations of Yankee Stomach are hypercacidity, sour or acid eructations, heartburn, "acidosis," uneasiness from fulness after eating, bloating, by gas, hunger pain, irritability, constipation, diarrhoea.

Victims of Yankee Stomach, being ignorant—that is, of elementary physiology and hygiene and nutrition—are generally experimenting with whatever nostrums are most insistently thrust upon them from month to month, particularly the thousand and one items that purport to correct "upset stomach" and enable the sucker to eat and drink excessively with impunity.

In a good many instances of Yankee Stomach these more common hyper-acidity or ulcer symptoms are overshadowed by nervousness or general weakness and by colon derangement — or what the ethical dietitian attendants teach customers to call "mucous colitis."

In the pamphlet you will find instructions in regard to diet — not a fad diet, but a diet you "agree," but advice about eating to prevent and correct colitis you, and that is, as you may say, malnutrition, or as a doctor says, nutritional deficiency.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Scaling

Has any valid study been made of the procedure in connection with procedure in respect to dental caries? I mean, in our family it seems that the cleaning or "prophylaxis" is a primary cause of caries. My wife, sister-in-law and myself had excellent teeth up to about 18, then after our first "prophylaxis" — scaling, cleaning, polishing of teeth by the dentist — who used steel scrapers, emery cloth and other implements capable of scratching the enamel. Each of us developed caries within the ensuing year. (T.J.B.)

Answer — I do not know. In my opinion one week cleaning by the dentist or the dental hygienist under the dentist's general vision is the only way to clean the teeth and believe such cleaning by dentist or hygienist — if it is not by other than a "prophylaxis" — would cause or predispose to the development of caries. I believe it prevents caries.

Moisture

Why are humid climates, such as that of Richmond, Va., Washington, D.C., Buffalo, N.Y., and Chicago, Ill., as well as that of Southern Illinois be known as California blamed for so much sinusitis and bronchial trouble, when the air we breathe has to be saturated with moisture, by the turbulent air to do us any good. (G.M.P.)

Answer — what you call humid climate, dampness, moisture, is blamed for a great deal of health by people whose knowledge or common sense is exceeded only by their credulity. Although I haven't either chronic sinusitis or chronic bronchitis or chronic rheumatiz (as yet) I do not understand that the only important question is, how much of my income can I spend out of doors comfortably? Mackenzie's Column:

Zhdanov's Death May Change Policy Of Soviet Union

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Barely does the death of an individual die rise to such widespread speculation regarding its possible effects as has that of Andrei A. Zhdanov, one of Russia's big three and generally regarded as probable successor to Stalin as Chief of State.

Zhdanov had had been a powerful figure in Communism. He had lived close to Stalin and ruled by, projecting his dominating personality into national and international affairs until his voice had the ring of authority second only to that of Stalin. He and Foreign Minister Molotov were supposedly the men from whom the new leader would be picked when Stalin stepped down.

However, like many other dynamic leaders he never had hesitated to advocate drastic proposals which, if they failed, might end his career. Such was his advice to Stalin to make the attack on Finland in 1939 which, although it turned out badly, More disastrous was his recent launching of the assault on Premier Tito of Yugoslavia, thereby creating the first serious breach in the front of the Soviet satellite bloc in eastern Europe.

Zhdanov's anti-Tito policy seemed to clash with that of Molotov, and there was widespread speculation in the western world whether one or the other would drop out of sight. More recently friends of Ana Pauker, Romanian Foreign Minister and darling of Moscow, quoted her as saying that Zhdanov had incurred Stalin's displeasure as a result of the Yugoslav developments. And one high Yugoslav official has said that the breach between Russia and his country would be closed only by a change in the leadership in one country or the other.

Death Rumor

Well, on that basis Zhdanov's death might ease the bitter clash between Moscow and Yugoslavia — a clash which threatens the security of the Soviet bloc. It could be, too, that it would lessen the tension between Russia and the western democracies, since Zhdanov was a bitter foe of the democracies and of the Marshall plan for European rehabilitation.

All these circumstances have inspired speculation in Moscow. The newspapers as to whether the sudden and unexpected death of the 52-year-old soldier-statesman was in fact from natural causes.

However, the only answer your correspondent knows is ....

surgeons have said Zhdanov's ..... was due to heart trouble and ..... hardening of the arteries. That's official, and nobody is likely to dispute a verdict of death from heart trouble," though he may wonder what caused the trouble.

Kingston Presbyterial of W.M.S. Holds Summer Rally at Deseronto

The regular summer rally of the Kingston Presbyterial of the W. M. S. met in the "Church of the Redeemer", Deseronto, on Wednesday. The morning session was devoted to an executive meeting, Mrs. D. L. Fleming, President, of Belleville, presided.

Devotional exercises were followed by the request of the president for the first business item. This was the formation of a nominating committee. This committee was composed of Mrs. W. MacDonald, R. R. 4, Kingston, Mrs. R. Rollins, Stirling, Mrs. A. S. Smart, Kingston, Mrs. G. A. Gandier, Gananoque and Miss A. M. VanKleek, Madoc.

An open discussion on the arrangements for the summer rally next year was held and it was decided for the month of June. The Synodical President, Mrs. G. Thompson, Stouffville, guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Fleming. Mrs. Thompson brought greetings from the Synodical W. M. S.

Gananoque Sends Invitation

An invitation to hold the next summer rally in Gananoque was tendered. A suggestion was made by Mrs. Wm. Shaw, West Huntingdon, that printed copies of the annual meetings be sent to each auxiliary.

The noon lunch was served by the ladies in the church parlor, and a pleasant social time was enjoyed.

The afternoon session began at 2.00, with Mrs. Fleming in the chair. The devotions from Isaiah with the message to "comfort the people and spread the Gospel." Mrs. H. Rollins, recording secretary, read the minutes of the morning meeting after roll call. The president then asked the meeting to vote on these motions of the morning and all motions were passed.

Mrs. C. F. Dimmell and Mrs. W. Fowler sang an enjoyable duet.

The financial report was read by Miss Mary Nesbitt, treasurer of the Presbyterial, which showed an encouraging balance for the year.

Mrs. C. Collum spoke of the Girls' Work Board of Kingston and of the training course for C. G. I. T. Girls to be started in November.

The President introduced Mrs. G. Thompson as the speaker for the day. Her subject was "Forward with Christ, and Christ in the Spirit". St. Paul's message to the Philippines. "Now is the time for great spiritual advancement at a time when great discoveries of science are making such material advances. There are unlimited possibilities for the church in India, China, Formosa, and in British Guiana," said the speaker.

Great Need for Workers

"Only by Christian living, our Christian service and by united striving to go forward can we strengthen the faith of our missions. Never was the need for faithful workers so great as now when this spirit of distrust and unrest is abroad," Mrs. Thompson told the meeting.

An inspiring address on the subject, "Loved Thou Me", and "Christ's talk with Peter" was delivered by Mrs. R. Scadding, Belleville.

The offertory was taken by Mrs. A. D. Norris and Mrs. J. Whitton, and was followed by the benology.

Mrs. C. Bargar, Belleville, moved a vote of thanks to the Deseronto Auxiliary for the hospitality shown to Mrs. G. Thompson and Mrs. E. Craig for the addresses.

The meeting was closed by Mrs. Fleming, with a request 50 each member to carry the messages of encouragement to her own auxiliary.

Tea was served by the Deseronto ladies after the meeting to conclude a successful summer rally.

Studios Rally To Defence Of Cinema Hero

Hollywood, Sept. 2 (AP)—With a heavy stake in three unreleased pictures starring Robert Mitchum, the movie hero rallied to the defence of the 31-year-old cinema hero, accused of violating narcotics laws.

R-K-O and Selznick studios announced Wednesday night Jerry Giesler, noted criminal lawyer who has figured in several cases involving screen stars, would represent the handsome Mitchum.

The actor, and a real estate agent, Robin Ford, 31, were arrested with 30-year-old actress Lila Leeds and dancer Vickie Evans, 23, in what police said was a marijuana-smoking party in the girls' room.

The studios and Giesler asked that Mitchum be given the benefit of doubt until all evidence is in.

Mitchum, rising star whose salary has been $3,000 weekly, and the others accused were released on bail of $1,000 each. A hearing on writs of Habeas Corpus was set for Sept. 8.

Detective Sgt. Alva Barr, who headed the investigation, said the raid was "only the beginning of a Hollywood clean-up and we have many other important and prominent Hollywood screen people under surveillance, not only actors and actresses, but others also in the industry.

R-K-O and Selznick have scheduled for release the Mitchum pictures, "Rachel and the Stranger" and "Blood on The Moon," while Republic has "The Red Pony," made on Mitchum's loan from Selznick studio.

Police quoted Mitchum as saying his arrest "ends hope of a reconciliation with my wife, Dorothy" who has been in the East for several weeks with their two young sons but was en route west by automobile.

"I'm afraid," Mitchum was quoted, "this ends the reconciliation, for my wife is a very resolute woman."

Cookies for Tea

World history reveals many stories connected with cookie baking. One tells of a French princess who, when she married an English king, brought with her a chef with her to her new home. One of his specialties was a small cake which she called "petit gateau taille." The English people heard the name and called them "petticoat tails." In England today we have always carried that mispronounced name.

Cookies are so easy to make, your little "Churros" or puffy crullers which are served with hot chocolate for breakfast. Norway is famous for Kardemumme Kakes which we call cardamon cookies. From China comes spongy, light almond cakes. Many other countries we have adopted their drop, peppermint, gingersnaps and many other delicious cookies.

Whether cookies are kept in a huge pantry jar or a cookie tin it is satisfaction to have it full —at least once in a while.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, have many new recipes for cookies, different from their favorites of other lands.

There is a difference in types of flour. For cookies it does not make any difference which is used if the flour measurements are correct. All-purpose flour is made from hard wheat. If a cake or cookie recipe calls for flour, all-purpose flour alone will do just as well but less is required. The rule is to use one cup less two tablespoons of all-purpose flour for every cup of pastry flour called for in the recipe. Many recipes appearing in magazines call for fortified or enriched flour. This type of flour is not used in Canada but an equal quantity of pastry flour may be substituted when following cookie recipes.

As in all other cooking, it is wise to follow rules, measure accurately and watch the oven temperature.

Cinnamon Snaps

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 cup molasses
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt

Cream shortening with sugar, add molasses, lemon juice and rind. Sift and add two cups of flour with soda, cinnamon and salt and add the first mixture. Gradually work in remaining flour to make a stiff dough. Turn onto slightly floured board, roll out very thin, cut in desired shapes and bake in a moderate over, 350°F., for 10 minutes. Yield: about 5 doz. cookies 2" diameter.

Mexican Wedding Cookies

¼ cup butter
¼ cup shortening
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sifted pastry flour
¼ cup chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons icing sugar

Cream butter, shortening and sugar until fluffy. Blend in vanilla. Stir in flour and nuts and mix thoroughly. Shape in small balls, place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a hot oven, 400°F., for 15 minutes. Roll in icing sugar while still warm and overnight before serving. Yield: about 2 dozen small balls.

AUGUST DULL MONTH

Vancouver, Sept. 2 (CP)— Last month was the dullest August in Vancouver history, the Dominion Weather Bureau reported today. There were only 189 hours of sunshine compared with a 40-year average of 262. The previous "dull" was the August of 1944 when 180 sunlit hours were recorded.

So You Want to be a Writer? Read This and Change Your Mind

By R. C.

So you want to be a writer! Well, you should go home now, your mouth, so there. Perhaps a few case histories will show you how any thought of being a writer.

Take Tom C. Collins was an inquisitive type whose sole desire in writing was to have every detail absolutely correct and consequently to make himself a storehouse of facts. It was this habit of gathering minute detail that eventually made Collins famous.

One afternoon "Pooping Tom" was peering over the padded shoulder of a well-dressed gentleman when the police nabbed him and carried him off to a trial and a ten-year term. No excuses could do "Peeping Tom" had been arrested while noting, carefully, the combination to the vault in the chief target that day. All ambition got for Tom was a help up the river.

Learned the Hard Way

Another embryo writer decided that what fiction lacked these days was reality. Accordingly he set out for the waterfront beat on capturing some real salty background and a yarn about the sea. He caught some salty background all right . . . about ten pounds of haddock filet right in the face.

After picking himself up from the pavement he walked right into a salty right hand that scattered three of his more prominent teeth and relandscaped his nose.

When he came to in the hospital he learned that he had unwittingly walked alone in the blind line and in so doing had incurred the displeasure of the stalking element of the "United Knights of the Salty Sea." Anyway he had salty background for his yarn, but the story was never written.

The writer had had both hands mangled in the melee and when they had healed sufficiently to permit him to hold a pencil, he had forgotten the story's thema.

A case of amazing coincidence is that of Throckmorton Geoffrey Beechman. Beechman started out, entirely unimagined, in a shack in Des Moines. He remained uninspired until his death in a mansion in Acapulco seventy-five years later. This lack of inspiration paid off handsomely for Beechman who died a millionaire. This stolid, non-productive literary genius failed to found a great national empire and was never called on to write anything during his lifetime with the possible exception of his name on a cheque.

One of the most influential writers of his age is a little known man whom we shall call "Gurble." This hollow shaved away at a single story for six years before he submitted it for publication. The story was returned to him by return mail with a rejection slip that would fill his mistakes and lack of talent.

Patient Man

"Gurble" struggled ahead with the same story for six more years and then submitted it for publication again. This time his rejection slip bore only two words, 'utterly asinine.'

Another six months later Gurble sent the same story back to the publishers. It was returned again with one word scrawled across the top of page one, "Rotten." The criticism was in capital letters and written in indelible pencil.

"Gurble" was ecstatic. This is exactly what he had been hoping for. Today, he is wealthy and not well liked. His material was sold for a prince's ransom, and is now the basis for all the plots used by the soap operas.

You never can tell!

HERE'S WHERE WE STAND ON NEW-CAR SELLING

General Motors Dealers' "Foursquare Selling Policy" assures you a Fair Deal when you buy a new car

Let's bring this subject right out in the open.

Many conditions still exist which encourage the "gray marketing" of automobiles.

You don't like this — and neither do we.

There's no law against loading cars with accessories the customer doesn't want or need.

There's no law against selling to buyers who make it their business to resell new cars at inflated prices.

But we don't do it because it's not good business.

All dealers buy cars at clearly established factory prices which with the exception of transportation, are the same, model for model, all over the country. All start on a fair and equal basis — and should therefore sell at these fair and reasonable delivered prices.

So we're making public announcement of our code of fair dealing.

Our foursquare selling policy, simply stated, is this:

1 NO PADDING OF PRICES

We guarantee our delivered prices to conform with the manufacturer's recommendation and to contain nothing but standard charges which, of course, include Sales and Excise Taxes. You receive an itemized bill of sale. All prices are on "Open Book" — they are available to you and we will at these listed figures.

2 TRADE-INS DESIRED — BUT NOT COMPULSORY

We will take your order for future delivery, without requiring a trade-in. However, we have many valued used-car customers who also depend upon us to supply them with automobiles. For this reason we would like to have your trade-in, and we'll give you a fair and reasonable allowance for it.

3 NO LOADING OF UNWANTED ACCESSORIES

All cars are offered with factory-installed accessories only and prices are figured to cover these. We pledge ourselves to add no "extras" except those each customer orders — and to avoid using "extras" to increase the delivered price.

4 NO COLLUSION

While we cannot prevent our customers from reselling new cars, we will not knowingly be a party to such transactions. Our only interest is to deliver new cars to bona fide customers.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our loyal customers and friends for their patience in awaiting their turn for delivery of new General Motors cars.

Although the popularity of General Motors cars is unprecedented, and the supply is lagging far behind the demand, we are doing our utmost to be fair and equitable in their distribution.

We present this platform because we believe it's good business to keep our customers informed.

It's a platform that gives you a fair deal when you buy a new car — exactly the same kind of a deal and treatment you got before the war.

If you wish additional information, it will gladly be supplied by any dealer whose name is signed to this announcement.

Communism and Capitalism Condemned by World Council

Amsterdam, Sept. 2 (AP) — An advisory section of the world section of the World Council of Churches today condemned both Communism and Capitalism. It said neither was an ideology capable of ensuring justice and freedom in the world.

The charges against both forms of society were made in a report drawn up by the section on "The Church and Disorder of Society."

The section is composed of 125 leading churchmen among the 430 delegates representing about 150 churches in more than 40 countries. The group was headed by Dr. Constantin Leopold Patijn of the Dutch Reformed Church.

The report castigated Communism as "a force that engenders new forms of injustice and oppression." Capitalism had failed to meet human needs and had concentrated on materialism and produced serious inequalities."

"The Christian church rejects the ideologies of both Communism and Capitalism and should seek to draw men away from the false notion that these forms are the only alternatives," the report said. "Each has made grievous errors which it could not redeem.

"Communism (Socialism) puts emphasis upon economic justice and promises freedom will come automatically after completion of the revolution. Capitalism puts emphasis upon freedom and promises justice will follow as a by-product of free enterprise. That, too, is an ideology which has proved false.

Must Accept Share

The church itself must accept its "share of responsibility" for "contemporary disorder," the report said, conceding that Christians often had failed to understand the forces which shape society and as a result were unprepared to deal creatively with social problems.

The report said Christians should recognize that many churches are involved in forms of economic injustice and racial discrimination, creating the conditions which have encouraged the growth of Communism.

"The church should make clear that there are conflicts between Christianity and Capitalism. Developments of Capitalism vary from country to country and often the exploitation of workers that was a characteristic of early Capitalism has been corrected in considerable measure by the influence of Trade Unions, Social Legislation and responsible management.

"But, (1) Capitalism tends to subordinate what should be the primary task of any economy—the meeting of human needs—to the economic advantage to those who have most power over its institutions, (2) Tends to produce serious inequalities. (3) If has developed a practical form of materialism in Western nations in spite of their Christian background, for it has placed the greatest emphasis upon success in making money. (4) It has also swept the people of Capitalistic countries subject to the kind of fate which has taken the form of such social catastrophes as mass employment."

Counsel Claims Shoe Industry Is Doing Well

Ottawa, Sept. 2 — (CP) — H. A. Dyde, prices commission counsel, yesterday gave his opinion that shoe industry is doing well.

He offered his comment on the prosperity of the industry when a witness, Frank Millington, secretary of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada, referred to conditions before the war.

"It had a very good time during the war years," Millington stated, Mr. Dyde declared. "Don't drive us back on this old 1930s business."

He added: "You give me the opening to say that I think the shoe industry is doing extraordinarily well."

The commission is studying costs in the industry.

Mr. Millington had questioned whether a government official's statements earlier, indicating average shoe prices had nearly doubled since 1939, presented a full picture. He suggested that there was a higher volume of sales in good quality shoes.

Mr. Dyde's intervention came when Mr. Millington referred to a study of the shoe industry in the years 1937-1941 which the Prices Board made during the war. Of 134 shoe firms studied, he said, 36 had lost money, merely broken even or had made profits not exceeding 2.99 per cent.

Only three of the 134 firms, he said, had made a profit of 10 per cent on sales.

Mr. Millington, who appeared as a representative of the association, declared that it did nothing whatever towards fixing prices.

C.N.E. Spotlight Swings to Art, Women's Work

Toronto, Sept. 2 — (CP) — Canadian National Exhibition audiences today turned their attention to the arts, music and women's doings on the day selected by officials to observe these activities.

But the agricultural aspect of the big fair accelerated, with the first judging of cattle, sheep and swine coming on. Other aspects of rural life receive a notice. Among other things, there was an old-time fiddlers' competition.

Swimming enthusiasts looked forward to the 10-mile world championship for men on Friday, when $10,000 in prizes will be distributed. In the women's professional five-mile event Wednesday, Florence Apter, Leonard St., Warren, Ohio, defeated eight other starters to win her second successive world championship and $2,000.

Thousands took advantage of the fine, clear weather to join other crowds in the ballfield or watch the sailing and diving exhibitions along the water front.

The attraction in the cultural business was shifting from industrial exhibition to taking heed of public demand.

Attendance still climbed. Wednesday 196,900 persons attended, compared with 172,000 for the corresponding period last year. This brought total attendance to date to 825,000, against 838,500 for the comparable five days last year.

Sullivan Happy Over Union Merger

Lake Barkatong, Que., Sept. 2 (CP)—Paul (Red) Sullivan said Wednesday he was happy over the merger of his Canadian Lake Seamen's Union with the Seafarers' International Union of N. A.

Founder and first president of the C.L.S.U., the stormy Sullivan said he is retiring to his farm here, deep in the Gatineau hills 70 miles north of Ottawa, after seeing his years-old organization strongly launched, as a union.

Sullivan founded the C.L.S.U. last summer as a rival to the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.), which he also had created. He quit the presidency of the C.S.U. because he said ill leadership had become riddled with Communists.

"I just went back to get the boys on the lakes organized (into the C.L.S.U.)," he said today. "Now that job has been done, so I've pulled out."

Sullivan said his retirement from the C.L.S.U. was entirely voluntary on his part and was largely on the grounds of health.

Sullivan said he intended to remain on his farm here for perhaps two years. After that, he he might get into some union activity, but he was not sure.

C.S.U. Jockeyed Into Tight Corner By Recent Events

Ottawa, Sept. 2 — (CP) — The manoeuvre that landed the year-old Canadian Lake Seamen's Union in the fold of a powerful A.F.L. affiliate was seen by labor observers here today as having jockeyed the rival Canadian Seamen's Union into a tough corner.

Two results were predicted:

1. An almost certain showdown in the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada on the question of Communist domination of the C.S.U.

2. A battle over "dual unionism" that could wind up with the C.S.U. getting the boot from the congress and thereby losing much of its power.

And as a by-product of the violent jurisdictional scrap for supremacy in Canada's labor, the merger of the C.L.S.U. with the Seafarers' International Union was seen as boosting the rising star of Frank Hall, tough rail union chief who has been climbing swiftly to the top of the heap in Canadian unionism.

It was the canny Hall, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, who stepped into the C.S.U.-C.L.S.U. impasse and engineered the deal that brought the young C.L.S.U. into the Seafarers' Union. The merger was announced Wednesday at Montreal.

In the battle for domination on the lakes, Pat Sullivan's C.L.S.U. has been tainted with the label of "company union." Its absorption by the S.I.U., a strong A.F.L. affiliate, is the first step toward removing that.

Behind Eight Ball

And the move immediately puts the C.S.U. behind the eight-ball in the Trades and Labor Congress, for the T.L.C. is allied with the A.F.L.

If the Congress continues to back the C.S.U. as against what now is the Canadian branch of the Seafarers' Union, it gets itself into the position of rejecting an A.F.L. affiliate.

Just what will be the upshot there is hard to tell at this stage.

Hall, in announcing the merger, said the C.S.U. now is in the position of a "dual union" — that is, an opposition organization to a bona fide union.

However, at its last convention and at the urging of the C.S.U., the Congress took the position that the S.I.U. was a dual union. That was because of its activities in organizing seamen on British Columbia coastal ships.

Open Question Again

A spur in the flanks of the Congress for a house-cleaning drive has been the strongly anti-Communist Hall.

Last month, Hall master-minded the rail union negotiations that brought a 17-cents-an-hour wage increase for 170,000 railway employees.

Shortly afterward, he walked the rail unions out of a T.L.C.-C.S.U. meeting here called to deal with the lake dispute. He claimed the meeting was packed with Communists.

The new move took the Congress completely by surprise, so far as could be learned here.

Percy Bengough, T.L.C. President, said the Congress had not yet had a chance to consider the new problem.

Whether or not the Congress accepts the Seafarer's Union's new Canadian 'branch, he said, will be a matter for its membership.

In Running For Job

The move seemingly underlined recent reports that Hall was in the running for Bengough's presidency—he rail union boss is not a Congress official now — but well-informed quarters here said that was unlikely.

Hall, they said, is about the highest-paid union official in Canada earning considerably more than the Congress President and with what amounts virtually to a lifetime job.

But he was represented as dissatisfied with Congress policy, particularly its live-and-let-live attitude toward Communists and fellow-travellers in the T. L. C. If he could bring about a house-cleaning of the Communist elements, he would be satisfied, without office.

That house-cleaning—or at least a clear-cut test of strength between Leftists and Rightists in the Congress—now apparently is well launched.

Eleven Bishops Return Home

Montreal, Sept. 3 (CP)—Eleven Canadian bishops returned from the recently-held Lambeth conference of Anglican Bishops at London and Rt. Rev. John Dixon, Bishop of Montreal, pronounced the conference an outstanding success.

One of the most important of 118 resolutions adopted, he said, was that calling for a congress to be held outside England every five years, where bishops, clerks and representative laymen would be present.

Bishop Dixon said the Congress rejoiced at the establishment of a national church in south India in which Anglicans, Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists were united.

Canadians Warned to Beware Of Requests From 'Pen Pals' In Soviet-Dominated Europe

Ottawa, Sept. 2 (CP) — The External Affairs Department today warned Canadians against attempts being made by persons in Soviet-dominated regions of Europe to obtain strategic information about Canada by mail.

A spokesman disclosed that "a gentleman in Vienna already had written to Canadian outposts in the Arctic seeking postcards showing "harbor views" in exchange for scenes of Vienna and that other requests for road maps and tourist information had been requested.

Prefacing his statement with a warning to Canadians to beware of "pen pals," he said there was "nothing startlingly serious" about the matter, but added that there obviously was "something pretty sinister" when someone asked for harbor views.

A telephone company had received several requests from persons in the Russian - occupied sector of Germany for copies of Canadian telephone books.

The Canadian warning followed a similar caution issued last week in Washington by the United States Army, which disclosed that Chambers of Commerce and other public bodies were getting letters asking for road maps and other information. The requests all came from the Soviet - occupied zones.

In fact, the spokesman said, it was the American warning which touched off an inquiry here. The government investigated and reported many similar requests had been made to Canadians, although on a smaller scale.

"There is nothing startlingly serious about the matter," he said, "but it shows how careful you have to be.

"Still, it might be a good thing to give this a little publicity. There obviously is something pretty sinister when someone starts asking for harbor views of Arctic posts."

Mother Testifies Father Shot Children

Mojave, Calif., Sept. 2 (AP) — "Little Richard looked at me with his big blue eyes. He didn't cry. And his father shot him in the back."

Mrs. Margaret Adams, 28, thus sobbingly testified Wednesday at an inquest into the fatal shooting of her sons, Richard, four, and Samuel, seven.

The coroner's jury held the father, Sgt. Samuel R. Adams, 31, responsible for the slayings. Mrs. Adams testified the shootings climaxed an argument over which Sunday School the children should attend. Adams is a Roman Catholic, his wife a Congregationalist.

Ex-Communist Fails to Win Over Reuther to Reds

New York, Sept. 2 — (AP) — Ex-communist Louis F. Budenz tried, but failed, to win over the C. I. O.'s Walter Reuther to the reds.

Budenz testified Wednesday the party sent him to Detroit several years ago to try to get Reuther to "become a communist or a communist sympathizer."

"I did, but I failed," said Budenz, a former ranking communist who renounced the party three years ago and returned to Roman Catholicism.

Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.), confirmed the story in Detroit Wednesday night and said he told Budenz "you and your red friends can go to hell."

Budenz related the incident while testifying as a government witness at a deportation hearing for the mysterious "J. Peters," whom several other former communists had identified as a plotter of revolution and leading communist in the United States.

The government seeks to deport Peters on the grounds he entered the United States without a visa and is a member of an organization advocating the violent overthrow of the government.

Bill of Rights Not Needed Says Report

Montreal, Sept. 2 (CP)—Canada does not need a bill of rights.

This opinion was expressed in a report of the civil liberties section of the Canadian Bar Association at the association's 30th annual convention. The section, headed by R. M. Willis Chitty of Toronto, proposed Wednesday instead a formal declaration of those freedoms and rights already inherent in the Canadian constitution.

The outstanding Irish lawyer was later honored at a special convocation of the senate of Montreal where he received an honorary doctor of law degree.

John T. Hackett, President of the C.B.A.; Maurice Ribert, barrister of the Bar in Paris and Chief Justice Rinfret of Quebec also received honorary doctorates.

Need More Co-operation

Premier Costello said "to secure peace that all desire it would be essential to bring about a greater degree of co-operation between all nations sharing the same pattern of life and cherishing the same ideals."

"Canada and Ireland could each play a role of special importance to secure the acceptance and success of a broad concept of this nature," he said, "if a safe citadel for these ideals and freedoms is to be built in our time, must not its fabric comprise not only the nations of the commonwealth but the United States of the whole world?"

Mr. Costello was made an honorary member of the Canadian Bar Association.

At closed sectional morning meetings, a strong recommendation was made by Edson L. Haines, K.C., of Toronto for rewriting of the Canadian Insurance Acts. He proposed that the Bar Association should follow the procedure carried out by the American Law Institute in drafting codes recently pertaining to certain practices of American insurers.

Late today, McGill University, at special convocation, will confer honorary degrees on Chief Justice A. T. Vanderbilt of New Jersey and Mr. Hackett.

Freight-Rate Issue Bounces Back to Cabinet

Ottawa, Sept. 2 (CP)—The government has the freight rates issue back on its doorstep, where it has been, off and on, for months.

The Justice Department has advised that the cabinet has not the power to set up a Royal Commission to investigate the rates. But ile ruling, it was understood, from establishing the type of fro mestablishing the type of commission requested by the provinces except Ontario and Quebec.

The departmental advice was given in answer to a request from cabinet for an opinion on the legality of a Royal Commission to investigate the whole Canadian transportation problem.

This is what the provinces have repeatedly asked. They have refused to co-operate in the government-ordered general inquiry into the basic freight rate structure by the Board of Transport Commissioners.

It was the Board which granted a 21-per-cent rate increase last spring on what the provinces contend was false rate structures.

The department's opinion was based on the belief that the cabinet alone can't appoint a Royal Commission on freight rates because power over them has been given the Board by parliament. However, it could name one to deal with other aspects of rail transportation. Parliament, the department is understood to believe, could appoint an all-embracing commission by revising the statutes that now are a barrier.

The complications were not lessened by the recent action of the Liberal convention in backing the province's request. As an alternative to the commission, the provinces have proposed that they appeal directly to the cabinet against the basis of the 21-per-cent hoist.

Soviet Policy Will Not Change Experts Convinced

Moscow, Sept. 2 (AP)— Foreigners here are convinced there will be no change in Soviet policy, internal or foreign, because of the death of Andrei A. Zhdanov.

Experts at the United States Embassy said it was their opinion that Soviet policies would continue unabated and unchanged along the lines already laid down by Prime Minister Stalin, Foreign Minister Molotov and Zhdanov.

Zhdanov, member of the Politburo and generally regarded as one of Russia's three or four top leaders, died Tuesday. His body will be interred in the Kremlin wall this afternoon after funeral services in Red Square.

The American experts said they believe that in considerable measure Zhdanov's influence in Russia will live on long after his death.

(There was speculation in some capitals Wednesday that Zhdanov's death might have cleared the way for a peaceful settlement of the row between Yugoslavia and the Communist Information Bureau, which Zhdanov helped to fund. Zhdanov was generally credited with promoting the denunciation of Premier Tito and his lieutenants.

(The central committee of the Yugoslav Communist Party, which has backed Tito to the hilt against the comintern, sent a message of condolence to Stalin yesterday on Zhdanov's death. The message said Yugoslav Communists "deeply regret the heavy loss.")

Zhdanov's body lay in state in Moscow's Hall of Columns Wednesday night and today and Russians by the hundreds of thousands trudged past the bier to pay their final respects. The line of mourners stood in cold September rain through the night, awaiting turns.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By MEL SUFFIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Sept. 2 — (CP) — If you really take your sport seriously, the recent showings by Canada in the Olympics can be awfully discouraging.

They indicate a deterioration in competitive athletic standards for a host of sports. But don't despair. There are indications that things aren't as bad everywhere.

Take baseball, for instance. It would appear Canada is showing signs of waking up to the fact that she can produce baseball players as good as they make 'em anywhere.

A fellow by name of Hank Biasiol from Windsor, Ont., the latest to add weight to that line of thinking.

He's currently with Toronto Maple Leafs and the best fielding first baseman in the league. His first - year batting average is .271 but Harry (London Free Press) Elsen hastens to point out that he's in second place on the team for most batted in and holds the game spot with homers with 24.

Then there's Oscar Judd — hometown legend — who has won 11 and lost 8 for the Leafs. Not only that but he's hitting the ball at a .248 clip.

Throw in a few names like Phil Marchildon and Dick Fowler of the Philadelphia Athletics and you should satisfy the skeptics.

Ivan (Hamilton Spectator) Mills reports that J. M. Barrow is the new representative of the National Softball Council in Canada, with the "job of organizing sectional tourneys to take the best Canadian teams down to Oklahoma City for the world series.

In recent years the Dominion's representatives in the softball tourneys have done right well for themselves and there's not so much difference between the two games to say that the same can't be done in hardball.

The ideal, of course, would be a team in one of the top leagues — say the International or Pacific Coast — with a preponderance of Canadians. That does not seem to be in sight yet.

But with the ever increasing number of young Canadians being picked up for competition with big league farm clubs that day may eventually come about.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

(Newy Bean—The Rotary Club, in the most amazing waste basket of the year, defeated the Kiwanis Club in a preliminary softball game by an 11-10 score.)

Hushed are the Schwalbian beasts; stilled are the proud trimpand utterings of Shingo-le-be that for two weeks entombed from Kiwanis feasting utterances are the reproductions of the bitterly haughty clubmen who sang to the housetops of their prowess on the field of softball in which those paltchy men of self-styled mighty build in the realm of sportiana, now cease furtively about them as they slowly walk along the stalls to the daily council members at the Bar Lattimer.

Stilled are the Stevins, the Silvers, the Stevyns,
Dumb are the Duffys, the Deatherlys, Dayles,
Crumpets are the Cowans, the Cozins and the Creagrans,
Deprived by a run of the victor's spoils.

Sad are the Schwabs, the Soldens and Stanleys,
The Bateemans, the Blakens, the Bothwells and Blacks,
Glum are the Greenfields, the Orchards, the Cenels,
Victims of Rotary's victous attacks.

Lost are the Lockyers, the Lloyds and the Logans,
Dismal Dandesons and Davies shed tears,
Copiously weeping, the Kells and the Kenbos
Sobbed loudly as Rotary planned back their ears.

Heavy the hearts of the Harbachs and Houstons,
The Franklins, the Fessels, the Ferbans and Fox,
Rankling inside in the hotels and the homes,
The reasont Rotarians rollicking "socks."

Woefully wan are the Walkens and Warners,
The White's (Vic and Jack), the Wannicks, Wood
Gnashing their teeth are Trepanier and Trudeau,
"We," in their postlude, "in bed should have stood."

Just how a smart little junior baseball team stacks up against a good senior aggregation will be seen in Exhibition Park (softball) when the Kiwanis Juniors go to the wire of their important third game with the Ottawa Victorias, Labor Day, will cross diamond raipers with the C.N.I. leading Peterborough squad. The Pates are late until Saturday when they entertain the fast-travelling Kingston Locos in the first game of their best-of-seven finals series. Tonight's game will be a tune-up for both teams, but at the same time it should be productive of some smart baseball.

The Kiwanis Club, like the Pates will likely throw their entire batting strength at the opposition as the game will be also to get a close-up of all pitchers in action. The local youngsters are in tip-top shape and seem anxious to get at the Ottawa Vics in that deciding tilt on Monday here at 3 o'clock.

The Pates, likewise, face a gruelling series in their finals-set-to with the Lorraine Locos of Kingston, Fresh from their third straight victory over Belleville Shamrocks, the Locos are cocky and confident, and they have shown that they can take advantage of any breaks that come their way. At their present form, they can make things mighty interesting for the loop leaders. And Murphy probably knows that. He eagerly accepted the Kiwanis offer to play tonight's game here in order to keep the Lifflock lads in shape.

That leering villain of the wrestling scene, Lee Henning who can twist his features into more grimaces than a whehappy gorilla, has been selected as the next barrier to Fred Atkins, Australian champion, march to the British Empire title. And if the good-looking Aussie thinks "The Loor" is a pushover, then he'll maybe check up on "Ken Soup" parrish first with a few quibbles and chuck in a couple of Waltzing Matilda for good measure. For with all his sneering, leering facial contortions, Lo Henning is a dangerous foeman to any pachydermic tinsiar aspirant.

"The Loor" asks no quarter and gives none when in the ring. Trou, he secretes a yard of twine, three feet four rubber bands, a roll of tape and the odd bulldozer in secret pockets inside his trunks, and when cornered, has a spare receptacle in each small which fits the bill and he can produce reforeseen steel searching. He can tack away a ball of twine in each cheek, open his mouth and proclaim his innocence without batting an eyelash or stuttering.

For all this, Henning is one of the best showmen to strut his pachydermic wares here in some time. Add to this his marksmic methods, his willingness to be thrown into either side of the City Hall at the foeman, and his leering grimaces and you have a picture of what will face Atkins tomorrow night. It should be a battle of the season. Then the handsome Sharpe brothers are back again. Mike will take on Dangerous Dan O'Connor who is not averse to mingling in with the best an adversary's anatomy to see what makes him tick, while brother Ben will clash with Jan Golob, another gent who favors the villainous angle.

When it does, it's bound to arouse even more interest in the game — from both a spectator and player standpoint — and the U. S. national pastime will be in solid, financially and numerically.

Hockey League's By-Laws Given Real Going Over

(By The Canadian Press)

The management committee of the National Hockey League spent long hours behind closed doors Wednesday putting a fine tooth-comb to the league's by-laws.

The result of their work was not announced when the committeemen finished their meeting evening. Any suggested revision will be placed before the governor's meeting Thursday, second day of the two day semi-annual gathering.

The governors will also consider the proposal of general manager Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs that the League extend its schedule from 60 to 70 games. How this will fit in with pre-arranged dates for carnivals and other shows at ice arenas around the six-club circuit was problematical.

Gene Dahlbender, a chilboy Georgian with a powerful lee wallop, eliminated defending champion Robert (Shee) Hoying of Monterey Park, Calif., Wednesday at Memphis, Tenn., and opened the door for a new titlist in the 40th United States Amateur Golf tourney.

That left Frank Strenahan, Canadian and British title-holder and Marvin (Bud) Ward and Willie Turnesa, former U.S. champions, to hold the thinning line of links royalty as the event moved toward the stretch.

Last Saturday's golf cup race at Detroit demonstrated that engines have outstripped hulls in their ability to take punishment. This was the statement of Leonard A. Thomson, president of the American Powerboat Association, commenting on the race which saw more than a dozen costly boats wrecked or otherwise damaged.

Gerard Cote of St- Rosalie, Que., a three time former champion has entered the United States A.A.U. marathon to be run in New York Sept. 12, officials announced Wednesday. Cote won the championship in 1940, 1943 and 1946. He finished fourth in last year's marathon, won by Ted Vogel of Tufts College.

Peter Salmon of Victoria has been awarded the Sir Edward trophy as Canada's outstanding swimmer, it was learned in Vancouver Wednesday night. R. Hundley Kirkpatrick, secretary of the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Swimming Association said he received word of the award from the C.A.S.A. in Montreal.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler remained mum Wednesday on a published report that baseball in general, and particularly Detroit Tigers, are "heading toward another housecleaning." Reached at Versailles, K.Y., Chandler said he had "no comment" on a Detroit news report that he was aiming a gow blow at the Detroit baseball club's farm system. The News said Chandler will crack down this fall on violations of the rule against so-called "gentlemen's agreements and evasions of the bonus rule.

The New Zealand Olympic and Empire Games Association has decided the 1950 British Empire games will be held at Auckland. New Zealand was awarded the games at a meeting of Empire countries held during the Olympics. The first Empire games were held at Hamilton, in 1930

Hayes Hanover, a four-year-old pacer, and Miss Tilly, two-year-old trotting filly, headlined the Grand Circuit racing card at the Duquoin Ill., State Fair Wednesday. Hayes Hanover won his five stakes for 14 class trotters and Miss Tilly took the Chatlon Farm two-year-old stake worth $25,446.10.

Corbys Down Quinte Beverages To Advance into Final Series Against Houstons For Loop Title

In one of the most tense and thrilling softball duels seen in Belleville for many a year, Bill Corby nine downed the Quinte Dry Beverage squad 4-3 last evening to take the best in two series two games to one to advance into the final series for the Walter Wall Trophy. It was a game that had the large crowd on the edge of their seats through out with both teams playing in sensational fashion.

It was the second straight win for Corby's ace pitcher Baldwin, who has pitched all three of the contests against Quinte Dry. He was in rare form, with his slow curve breaking to perfection. It was his slow ball that probably saved the game for Corbys.

Baldwin was not alone, however, as he received airtight support from his mates.

Quinte Dry opened the scoring in the top of the first inning as they batted over two runs. Doyle reached first on the only Corby error of the contest and scored on singles by Whiting and Reid, and a fielder's choice as Young got to first. Whiting was forced at the plate for the first out as Nolan went to first, Wright singled to score Reid and Young was forced at third by Jones with Nolan being tagged on the play as well.

Corbys came back in their end of the first frame to push across three runs on singles by Miller, and D. Sword, and resounding home run by Hunter. Carson retired the side on strikeouts.

From then until the sixth inning both sides mowed one another down in faultless fashion with both sides threatening to score.

Loaded the Bases

In the fifth frame the Beverages loaded the bases with none away and threatened to blow the game wide open. But Baldwin was equal to the occasion forcing Day to pop out to the second baseman striking out Nolan on a beautiful slow ball, and forcing Wright to sky out to second also.

Corbys pushed over their final tally in the bottom of the sixth on a single one of the two Beverage errors, a passed ball, and a long fly to the outfield.

Quinte Dry got one run back in the top of the seventh as they rushed over a lone counter on two singles and a two base wallop.

Baldwin was in no trouble in the eighth or ninth as the Jubilant Corby crew took this all important third game to set the Beverage into the discard.

Both pitchers went the route with Baldwin striking out five, walking six, and giving up nine hits for three runs. "Lum" Carson ace of the Beverage mound corps, struck out five, walked none, and gave up five hits for four runs in eight innings.

Both teams played superlative ball. The combat is undoubtedly the best that has been registered in the Commercial Softball League this year. It was a sweet victory for Corbys who have been unsuccessful in previous years are now realizing the fruits of their labors.

The Corby squad now meet the league leading Houston Knotholers in a best three in five series for the Wishing Well Trophy.

Waterloo Tigers Lose Second Game To London Majors

By The Canadian Press

London Majors grabbed a 2-0 lead in their Senior Intercounty best-of-seven baseball final series Wednesday night by defeating Waterloo Tigers at Waterloo.

Only other senior game played in Ontario was at Timmins where the Timiskaming Baseball League-leading Kirkland Lake Gyrotomble walked over Hollinger Bombers 14-4.

Tommy White was the winning London pitcher. He allowed Tigers nine hits and only slipped up once in the third inning when Waterloo scored three runs on two singles and two errors to take a 4-3 lead.

The Majors had the count in the sixth, pulled one run ahead in the seventh and then clinched the game in the ninth with three runs. Russ Evoy led the Majors with three hits in four trips at bat, including a triple and a single. White helped his cause by batting around two hits and two walks. Ray Dwyer paced Tigers with a double and a single.

The Overbrook pulled up their overwhelming score on eight hits off two Hollinger pitchers. Six Bomber errors and five walks helped.

Hollinger got to pitcher Dick Ignott for 13 safe hits but clever fielding by Kirkland Lake held down the scoring. The winners took an 8-0 lead in the first inning.

Chief Emerson Charles Outpoints Glen Dafoe in Fast-Moving Bout

Chief Emerson Charles, Cobourg's starry middleweight, surmounted a severe handicap in his early ring career and gradually worked his way up through setbacks to bouting heights last night when Emerson, by virtue of his win, punched out a five-round decision over Glen Dafoe of Toronto, in the main bout of a highly entertaining boxing card.

The bout had the crowd of between six and seven hundred on its toes throughout, with both boys using widely different styles attacked and attacked through the fight. Dafoe used his opponent's open-stance style to advantage, but he was constantly boring-in and fought a fast aggressive fight. Charles, the better boxer, used a solid right with a flickering left that won him a clear cut margin in three of the rounds. Dafoe staged a furious rally in the last round, but the Chief met him toe-to-toe and the honors were about even.

The bout was fast and furious throughout with both boys boring in and punching hard. Dafoe's open-glowed stance which intermittently smacked the Chief's hip were not favored by the Cobourg supporters but they did little damage. Charles favored an overhead right, which he used deftly at times to Dafoe's head and jaw, while he followed through with practically every punch. Dafoe, however, did not back an inch and at times had the Chief against the ropes with his tactics.

Card Was Good

The rest of the card was good. There were two technical knockouts and one clean knockout but there was not a dull moment all evening. The boys went in there and gave all they had and the large crowd went home satisfied.

Bud Pypher, Oshawa, won a technical knockout over Bun Finch of Belleville after a rousing battle that was one of the best of the night. Pypher's crouching aggressive tactics with a short sharp uppercut was met with a stand-up boxing style. Pypher, however, had a clear margin over Finch and a referee "Chuck" Murphy awarded the bout to Pypher after 1.30 of the fourth round.

Sam Rubichi, Toronto, and Bud Henry, Oshawa, another good bout in the main preliminary with Henry winning a split decision after five rounds of hectic fighting. Cecil Sweet, Trenton 126½, Pounds, fought a hard fight against Toronto's Alex McInnes. In a good bout but the more experienced McInnes stood off his attacks and won the judges' decision.

The preliminaries were productive of good boxing entertainment that kept the crowd in good humor throughout.

Napanee Evens Series With 5 to 1 Winning

Napanee, Ont., Sept. 3—Napanee Athletics, carrying the colors of the Belleville Baseball League in the Intermediate "A" playdowns with the O. B. J. A. series with Peterborough here last evening with a clean cut 5-1 victory, thus evening the series and deciding game to be called in Napanee on Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

With a game for Napanee, the boys of Joe Killorin went ahead with a pair of runs in the first inning that proved sufficient to win. Coach Ken Murphy re-arranged his lineup, starting Wall Gerow at shortstop and taking over first base duties himself.

Walks to V. Gerow and Scarlett started Napanee off on the right track, when Jack Byers romped across the plate on a hit to left by Gerow and Herb Hayes' perfectly executed squeeze bunt. In the third inning, Gerow opened with his second hit and after Jocko Mc Hayes had popped up to third, Currey, Murphy and Bud Green hit safely in succession which resulted in two more runs.

Jocko-next V. Gerow across in the fifth after Scarlett had sacrificed him to second and Gerow was forced at the plate on Currey's tap to pitcher. Napanee scattered.

Although Peterborough had the best of it in the hit column, Stan McTaggart kept them too well scattered. Errors, Gerow 2; Scarlett; Ferguson, runs batted in, Gerow Hayes, Jocko, Murphy, Scarlett earned runs, Napanee 4; three base hit, Taggart; two base hit, Fitzgerald; sacrifices, Gerow, Currey; double plays, Gerow, Currey, Lagrow; double play, G. HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Abusing Opponents says the Simple Horse Sense system is too dull. Being unfamiliar with all its workings, his mind is not qualified to judge. Or, he is as nutty as a fruitcake.

South opened with a bid of two clubs in this deal:

NORTH
♦	A 10 7
WEST
♠	Q 9 7
♥	7 5 2

SOUTH
♠	K

♦	Q 4
♣	A K Q 10 8 6

The bidding continued like this:

South	North
2 C	3 NT
4 C	4 S
5 H	6 H

Why the immediate north response after three non-trump spots in his suit is not truly biddable for a change. No adequate support for a one bid (Ace) suit. Two no-trump would have denied a sure king.

The second bid by south says his suit is predictable. Having started with a forcing-to-game bid, north must bid again. No fear of it being too high when his first newly indicated slam.

The second bid by north was four spades. Is there no glamour in such a bid? Having denied a biddable suit with no-trump he now says the spade suit is almost but not quite biddable.

The third bid by south was five hearts. Having rebid one suit before announcing another, what does he know? Six cards in one and four in the other. No glamour in such a situation!

With two clubs and four hearts, north sees a total of eight cards in either suit. Best is to play trumps in the suit that is almost evenly divided in the two hands. No glamour in six hearts!

At no time has either misinformed the other. First the north hand solicited a sure trick for slam help. Then he helped decide the best trump suit for their pair.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 2 (AP) — Robert Cummings, who is probably Hollywood's busiest actor, is living up a flair for Europe for early next year.

Cummings, who has his own film company, a construction firm and a number of other enterprises, is mulling a deal to do "Two Hearts in ¾ Time" in Sweden. Also on the fire are "Pass Word to Live," which could be shot in France, and one of those nefarious Italian film deals. There's a chance that his European film will be a co-starrer with Gardner.

Bob tells the inside of the recent Gerbo signing, which proved a surprise to Hollywood. His film partner, Eugene Frenke, is a friend of the silent Swede and spoke to her about a picture deal at a dinner table.

"Is Walter Wanger in your company?" she asked. "I like him; he produced one of my favorite pictures." (It was "Queen Christina).

Town Topics

Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson, the Carman, Man., comic, are seeking another title for their "Two Guys and a Gal." They want to be "from" somewhere and suggested "Two Guys From Hollywood," but were told our town's name isn't good in a film title.

Chico and Harpo Marx turned out for the local opening of Groucho's play, "April Fool," written with Norman Krasna. Groucho is entitled to another chance at playwriting.

Capsule Review

"Sorry, Wrong Number" (Paramount) is a shocker that grips the emotions from the first foot of film. Expanded from the famous radio play that starred Agnes Moorehead, it tells the horror tale without a chill overlooked. Barbara Stanwyck is superb as the invalid who overhears the plotting of her own murder. Burt Lancaster has one of his best roles to date.

VOYAGE CANCELLED

Hong Kong, Sept. 2 (AP)—The French luxury liner Champollion today cancelled its voyage to Shanghai because of a protest strike for 36 crew members. The crew refused to sail to Shanghai because of the arrest of two French seamen there recently.

Berniece Looey Wins 5-Mile Swim And Lap Prizes

Toronto, Sept. 2 (CP)—An attractive blonde with a ready smile and plenty of fighting spirit, 21-year-old Berniece Looey of Weston, Ont., is still the women's professional five-mile swim champion.

Fighting recurrent cramps during the last half mile of the Canadian National Exhibition's world-title classic Wednesday, Miss Looey added to the lead she held from the start to triumph handily over eight other starters and win a total of $2,000.

It was her second successive victory in the big race. She finished more than a half mile ahead of her aunt, May Looney, 36, also of Weston, in the time of 2:31; 41 four minutes slower than her finishing time in 1947.

May Looney, who has been swimming for 18 years and finished in the money in the C.N.E. swim eight times, won $750 for second place.

A 22-year-old Toronto mother, Mrs. Winnie Leuzzler, who swam under her maiden name of Winnie Roach, also fought off last-mile cramps to finish third, 14 minutes after May Looney. She is the mother of a year-old baby and her father, Ed Roach, said she is expecting another baby in six months.

Mrs. Leuzzler won $500. Other prize winners were: 4—Marion Townsend, 29, of Hamilton, $300; 5—Isobel O'Rourke, 33, Toronto, $200; 6—Edith Crawford, 28, of Gravenhurst. Three others failed to finish.

It was well after dark before the fifth and sixth place winners came in, exhausted and cold from Lake Ontario's 65-degree waters, only one other competitor was left in the race at that time, 48-year-old Dorothy Evans of Toronto, who gave up soon after.

Earlier, 17-year-old Helen Dickie of Electric City, was pulled out after 1 1-2 miles and Donna Brown, 20, of Toronto, gave up after three miles.

Newark Bears Still Have Chance To Win Pennant

By The Associated Press

Newark Bears still have a mathematical chance to wrest the International League flag from Montreal, but their chances are as bright as a 10-watt bulb.

The Royals need only two more victories in their remaining 14 games to clinch the flag. Two Newark defeats or any combination thereof would do the trick, too.

The Bears kept their faint hopes alive Wednesday night by sweeping a pair of games from Baltimore, 3-1 and 8-5, while Toronto Maple Leafs were burning back the Royals, 4-3. Although they picked up a game and a half, the Bears still trail Montreal by 12 1-2 games.

Toronto overcame a 3-0 Montreal lead to nose out the Royals. Stan Lopata drove in the winning run for the Leafs in the eighth. Veteran Oscar Judd of Ingersoll was credited with the win over Don Newcombe was the loser. He had won his last seven starts.

Rochester and Buffalo divided a doubleheader, the Wings coming back to win the second game 4-3 in 10 innings after Buffalo had copped the opener, 2-1.

Ed Erautt earned his 13th victory and his fourth in as many starts against Jersey City as Syracuse Chiefs defeated the Little Giants, 5-2. Clyde Volmer's 20th homer with one aboard in the first inning highlighted a three-run uprising by the Chiefs.

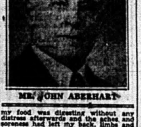
Hitch-Hike Romance May End in Canada

London — (CP) — Canada may be the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald MacEwen — if the course of true love runs smooth.

Wedding bells have yet to ring for MacEwen and his Swiss sweetheart, Katharina Schurmann, for whose sake he gave up his job and hitch-hiked across Europe. When they do "perhaps we shall go to Canada together."

MacEwen, 21, set out for Geneva with only £3 ($20) in his pocket when he heard that Katharina, 20, might have changed her mind about him and decided to marry a fellow-countryman. He and the Swiss girl had fallen in love when Katherina spent a year in London to learn English.



"I reached Geneva in two days, walking and hitch-hiking from Calais," he said. "Rima was delighted to see me. She was under the impression it was impossible for her to leave the country.

"That was not so. But we decided not to get married until I got a really good job, as a sudden shock might harm her mother."

MacEwen, a radio engineer, said he hoped to become a technical adviser to an engineering firm in Canada.

"A Good Medicine To Know About," Says Mr. Aberhart

Tells of Benefit From Using Syntone; Helped Overcome Stomach Disorders, Rheumatic Pain, Backache and Nervousness; "Wouldn't be Without It," He Says.

MR. JOHN ABERHART

The great popularity of Syntone Herbal Compound is by no means accidental. It is due almost entirely to the experiences of men and women who have taken its mild herbal form have recommended it to their friends and neighbors because of the good results it gives. And in this way Syntone has become a favorite remedy in thousands upon thousands of Canadian homes.

A typical example of the benefits to be derived is that of Mr. John Aberhart, whose experience of Mr. Aberhart, of 1 Queen Street, Chatham, Ontario.

"A few years ago I began suffering from stomach disorders, pains and backache. After my meals I would feel very uncomfortable and sometimes the pain would be so bad that I could not sleep well at night. I felt nervous and irritable and my food was digesting without any benefit to me. My nerves seemed to get worse and worse. I felt discouraged and the fatigued feeling went on and on.

"I had heard of Syntone and decided to try it. My nerves calmed down and I could enjoy my food and sleep well. I began to feel like a new man. I kept this medicine up and soon the old pain and nervousness left me entirely. I have since told others about it and I wouldn't be without it."

Population Drops In Saskatchewan Farms Get Bigger

Regina — (CP) — The population of this agricultural province is shifting towards other provinces and internally as well.

The story as laid down in Canadian census figures shows Saskatchewan had a population in 1947 estimated at 842,000 persons compared with 895,000 in 1931.

Still ranked fourth in population in the Dominion, Saskatchewan is however, showing a steady decline.

That drop of 53,000 persons between 1931 and 1947 has been attributed by some to a drought-propelled exodus of frustrated farmers and other workers who sought jobs in Eastern Canada and on the West Coast.

For the six-year period between 1941-47, when 54,000 persons left the province, some blame war industry elsewhere. That number, incidentally, is more than the total population of Saskatoon, second largest city, and is only 10,000 less than the total population of this capital.

Political opponents of the present C.C.F. government cite statistics to "prove" that three years of "socialist" government have changed for the worse the province. They say government policies in farming have brought about problems and natural resources not only makes the small farmer dependent on every or disaster but also scares off the capital they claim is needed from outside for expansion of natural resources.

Government's Viewpoint

In power since 1944, and returned June 24 as the government counters with the argument that free enterprise had its chance but failed; that the population was leaving before the C.C.F. took over and that C.C.F. policies will diversify the provincial economy and create more jobs.

But when it comes to Saskatchewan's main occupation, farming, the government expresses concern.

Agriculture Minister I. C. Nollet estimates that the total number of farms in the province has declined from 165,000 to around 125,000. "There may come a day when 30,000 to 60,000 farms — and farmers — may constitute the provincial total."

Power machinery, he says, "has sent overhead costs and capital investment up so high, farmers must cultivate more and more land to make a profit."

His believes that even subsidies and loans will have to be used unless the farmers take some action.

Hits co-operative use of power machinery — co-operative farming is Mr. Nollet's answer to the problem he says exists.

"Steps are currently being taken to operate the farms in the province established for veterans who own their three-quarter of a section each and use machinery communally. Their holdings are small compared to some larger farms where 10 sections aren't uncommon.

Doesn't Exploit Soil

"Some people may call it socialization of the land and a step towards what the Communists did to the Kulaks," says the agriculture minister. "But I call it common sense. It allows the kind of cultivation that won't exploit the soil as some farmers are forced to do in cultivating more and more acreage to stay on top."

(The Kulaks were the independent Russian farmers who were forced to give up their farm holdings in the collectivization of agriculture that followed the Russian revolution. Many of them were "liquidated" in the process.)

Now flushed with good crops and prices, farmers are settling in towns and villages for the winter. They return in the spring to sow their crops.

In building up the urban population, they have abandoned much of the poultry, livestock and dairy production that formerly was carried on in the non-growing season. It means to some a tendency towards a one-crop agriculture as well as a gradual shift within the provincial population that may indicate a new era in mechanized farming.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

Coming up from the dining room, Miss Rice had led me silently to the third floor and had pointed to an open doorway. Finger on lip, she had said to me soberly, "The old man's room," and had checked me in the hallway. From that point I could see warmth and coziness within, and Clay Hillyard stretched out in a chair beside a coal fire, with his head back, his eyes shut, and his finger tips spread out and touching, resting against his chest. Also in sight was the side view of an old man wearing a skull-cap and a red brocade dressing gown.

"Chess," Miss Ring said to the man insistently, and, at the same moment Clay, with a voice sounded loud and amused and protesting: "Give me time Clay."

We went noiselessly down to our floor, and the bright warm vision of firelight and lamplight and glowing color vanished. Miss Ring explained that she was temporarily in the room adjoining mine.

"I'm usually upstairs," she explained, "but until their precious Virginia arrives, I'll sleep here to keep you company. Otherwise you'd be the only person on this floor."

"She comes — when?"

"Any day now. They're driving, she and her friend. The friend is supposed to go on to Reno to meet her aunt after a few days, but we've put a cot in here for her."

"Just these two girls driving? Alone?" the girl asked.

"They have a chauffeur. Don't get it myself. The friend's name is Billie Something or other, and I suppose the aunt is after a divorce."

"And those three — two girls and a chauffeur — are just driving here together?"

"Chauffeur rather screwy to me too. It's all screwy. Why should old Hillyard suddenly take it into his head to forgive this girl — or her mother either."

"And she may inherit all this, this everything?"

"This," said Louise scornfully, "isn't much, no old place in an out-of-the-way part of the world. Not there's money. Mools, I think is very people leave money is crackpot. It ought not to be allowed. Clay has run this place for years, lives in the old man as everything — he really loves him, you know."

I said of course I didn't know.

"Well, he does. And then the old man takes a notion that Lily's little girl ought to have something. The only Hillyard — that sort of thing. Ever been a cousion before?"

She shot the question at me suddenly and, when I shook my head, went on eagerly, "You'll hate it. I have."

And with this she departed and left me to get to bed and get used to some of the curves and angles of my new quarters. Not that there were many curves! A grimmer, darker bedroom surely never swalled a tired woman at the end of a long day.

I opened a window and knelt at the sill. It was still raining quietly, with the sound of drippings and spattering in the garden. The old house was evidently clothed in vines; their knotted fingers made a net about my window, and I saw the vast black root of the sky framed in wet, glistening ivy leaves.

Beyond the immediate darkness there was a strange, sulphurous band of something that was not light but wasn't impenetrable shade either, and from that direction came the sound of the punctual surge and sucking backrush of the sea. It was to form the undertone — the organ note — to every sound I heard in the next months, dominant and eternal. I thought on this first night at Hillyard House just what everyone thinks, I suppose, who first tries to grasp the mystery of the sea. It had been rolling in in a crash of waves and drawing out again, over the complaining little rolling pebbles long before Balboa, long before Columbus and the mission fathers and the old Spanish rancheros. Long, long before that with nobody here to notice it, nobody roaming through the forests and coming out on the shore to watch the sunsets in the west. The Pacific — the wide Pacific that went rocking and shining and flowing in billows far down to the crowded hot streets of old China.

"I am in this," I said aloud to the wet night, "and I will see it through."

But of course I had no idea then what that meant.

That was the beginning of my life at the Hillyards. For a few days I went about like a dull sentry and completely happy opening old books, looking into unused rooms, roaming for long hours along the shore. The house was not two hundred feet from the shore and stood upon a low cliff that stretched miles to the north and south, with breaks here and there where streams ran down and where water beds spread out to the beach. Willows grew thick and green along the waterways, and in the late afternoon, against the glaring sunset light, thousands of gulls fluttered and walked on the sands.

There were a few great pines, red of bark and tremendously lofty, but most of the trees about the house were planted, some so long ago that the jungle effect was complete. Tremendous cypress trees made a white-green break to the east and lined the long drive from the highway and Indian Mill. All types of fir, spruce, maples, and poplars filled the big gardens and crowded the house; the maples and poplars did not grow very large, but the pepper trunks were gnarled like oaks and three times as thick as a man's body.

Between the trees the ruins of an old garden — a score of old gardens — writhed and struggled. Periwinkle and ivy ran wild; roses went up into the trees and hung their wild festoons, heavy with bloom. Old plants like pittosporum and quick orange and lemon verbena had gone back to the wood and were stocky saplings; there were dirty pampas plumes and thickets of bamboo, and under them were marigolds, alyssum, marguerites, chrysanthemums, some in bloom and some not, but all fighting for life together.

Paths deep in shade and streaked with green moss went down to the edge of the low cliff and from there a dozen wooden steps heavy with age descended to the beach. It was always delicious to escape from the close, heavy, earthy smells of the garden and come out on the boundless, wide-open cliffs; the rush of waves and the crying of gulls and the whimper of the little dragging pebbles used to go to my head somehow, and I always wanted to shout as I ran down to the sands. During my first days at Hillyard House I went there every morning and every afternoon, and once or twice at twilight, for the family set me entirely to my own resources. Whatever Mrs. Grisell's duties as a housekeeper were, they appeared to keep her occupied in the remote parts of the house, and I rarely saw her.

A few hundred feet to the north rocks jutted out in a solid mile curve to protect a half circle of sandy beach; over one of these I made my way, and down into little stony tide pools filled with red life, anemones brilliant as flowers, starfish prickly enormous and modern as some molecular life that looked under the waving water and moving water, like rich, heavy vermilion paint.

Top Officers Pledged To Help Clean House

Ottawa, Sept. 3 — (CP) — Canadian labor's biggest internal revolt in years today spearheaded a finish fight over Communism in the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Rebelling at Congress failure to rid itself of reds, top officers of 18 of the T.L.C.'s most powerful unions were pledged to throw their weight into a drive to clean house at T.L.C. Communists.

But Percy Bengough, Congress president, said he didn't take the move "very seriously." He said in an interview he thought his leaders were "mesmerizing" themselves into delusions about their importance.

As the officers organized themselves Thursday into permanent anti-Communist bloc, these possibilities emerged:

1. Removal from the T.L.C. of the turbulent Canadian Seamen's Union, alleged to be dominated by Reds.

2. The conclusive defeat of Bengough and those executive members who have been actively supporting his backing of the C.S.U. in the lake shipping strike.

3. Replacement of the C.S.U. by the Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.) as the Congress' maritime affiliate. The S.I.U. this week absorbed the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union, arch enemy of the C.S.U. on the Great Lakes.

These developments could come about at the October meeting of the Congress in Victoria if the rebels' officers have not already resolved together Thursday receive the backing of the general membership of their unions, which are for the most part actively anti-Communist.

Won't Desert Affiliate

Mr. Bengough said, however, he felt there were "too many good heads utilized in the T.L.C." to allow it to desert an affiliate such as the C.S.U. during a strike. He still considered members of the C.S.U. company unionists even though they had been elected by the S.I.U.

Membership of the unions represented by the district executives who met with them are between 150,000 and 175,000, as against a total Congress roll of about 270,000.

The rebelling officers, too, had the apparent support of each member of the Congress executive. He was C. Arthur D'Aoust of the T.L.C.'s Quebec Vice-President and Treasurer, and Vice-President of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers.

A day before, there had been the merger of the C.L.S.U. and the S.I.U. in Montreal to maintain the C.S.U. out of the Congress.

That was brought about through the intervention of Frank Hall red-baiting vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, who also brought his fellow officers together on Thursday's gathering.

After that meeting, Hall said it had:

1. Unanimously endorsed the union merger.

2. Pledged itself to do all possible to throw Communists out of the T.L.C. and keep them from Congress office all Communists Communist sympathizers and those who "play ball" with Communists.

3. Formed a permanent organization to work for Congress "integrity," particularly as regards dealing with Reds.

Washington, Sept. 3 (CP)—United States State Department legal experts thumbed through statutes and the constitution today for light on the effect of President Truman's assertion that he would not approve the New York State power project unless it develop electric power in the St. Lawrence River.

There was no immediate official opinion available but spokesmen warily expressed the belief that nothing could be done by the State and Province in the involved boundary waters without the approval of the federal governments of both countries.

The boundary waters treaty of 1911 which set up the international joint commission, in effect establishes that international waters are a federal charge and responsibility.

The Ontario-New York project must go before the joint commission for study and approval or rejection, and it can go before the commission only on a reference agreed upon by the two governments.

Thus it would seem possible that if Truman stands on Thursday's statement he will approve the whole navigation-power project or nothing, he could block it so long as he is President by refusing to approve a reference to the commission.

Sunday Operation Likely Say Owners Amusement Parks

Toronto Sept. 3 (CP) — Ontario amusement park operators in Metropolitan Toronto are likely to open to the public on Sunday, despite opposition of the Lord's Day Alliance, whose members demand the parks be closed under provisions of the Lord's Day Act.

Officials of Crystal Beach Amusement Company, operators of a park near Niagara Falls, Ont., said they expect a large Labor Day holiday crowd Monday.

Operators of parks at Wasaga Beach, Grimsby Beach and the Port Stanley, near London, made similar predictions.

"It is open defiance of the law" said Dr. George G. Webber general secretary of the alliance. "I am not in a position to say what will be done. I'm not enforcing the Lord's Day Act. That's a police job."

But those who would enforce the act was not clear.

Crown Attorneys say instructions must come from the Attorney-General's Department. A spokesman in the department said he thought it was a job for Provincial Police. He said the Constables Act provided Provincial Police might interfere in any situation where it was considered local police were not enforcing laws.

Do Not Have to Blockade Berlin To Purchase West German Marks

New York, Sept. 3 — (AP) — If the Russians or anyone else, after the new, jealously-guarded West German marks, they don't have to blockade Berlin. They can buy them from any exchange agents there.

The writer just did — at an open if illegal rate officially fixed at 40 marks for a dollar.

(In Berlin, United States military government finance officials said they would be pursuing for the traffic in New York in the marks.)

It was learned anyone can take as many of the United States and anybody welcome in the Soviet zone could take them there, to buy western goods. That is just where the Western Allies are trying to stop the flow of marks from going.

Exchange agents estimated unknown parties were buying "thousands of dollars' worth of the new marks daily in New York at bargain rates. None would say where the marks came from.

Regulations provide that no one may bring into or take out of the western zones notes of Germany more than 40 deutsche marks. But they are arriving here, are resold and re-exported with no questions asked.

A visit to Yorkville, New York's German quarter, disclosed that deutsche marks are purchased for 12½ cents and, in some cases, 9½ cents. An exchange agent pulled from a desk drawer full of crisp new deutsche mark bills.

The rate was eight marks to the dollar for small transactions, but 4.80 marks for purchases of at least $100 worth at a time. This appeared to be a common practice, although in Germany itself private depositors had been allowed to draw only a total of 60 marks each from their blocked accounts, by recent reports.

TRUCKERS' STRIKE IN NEW YORK IS SPREADING

10,000 Drivers, Half the Subway Workers Idle, Others Joining

New York, Sept. 3 — (AP)— The Metropolitan Truckers' wages walkout, which threatens serious disruption of New York City's economic life, is spreading.

Prospects appeared dim today for an early settlement.

About 10,000 drivers and helpers — half the city's truckers — were idle, and other workers were reported joining in the stoppage, now in its third day.

Many retail outlets remained cut off from regular supply channels, and food-store representatives said soaring prices were likely to result.

A meeting was fixed Thursday for next Tuesday after a new set of demands was drawn up by the Teamsters Union (A. F. L.) Local 807, which launched the shutdown.

The demands include a proposal for a 25-cent hourly wage increase to $1.40. The formula presented to employer groups included noon today. The teamsters originally asked a 50-cent increase.

The new wage proposal, higher than the 15-cent-an-hour increase offered by the union on the eve of the walkout, was accompanied by a demand for an employer - financed welfare plan and other benefits.

Speakers sharply criticized the city's two other large teamsters' locals — 282 and 816 — for not joining in the walkout. Officials of the two locals earlier accepted the 15 - cent wage offer. However, some of their members of the two groups have left their jobs anyway.

There were reports that the two non - striking New York locals as well as Teamsters locals in New Jersey and Westchester county, N. Y., would join some 807 in pressing for the new contract demands.

Ridgeway Bank Held Up And $5,000 Taken

Ridgeway, Ont., Sept. 3 — (CP) — More than 30 Provincial Police cruisers blocked off Niagara Peninsula roads Thursday in the hope of trapping three men who shortly after noon robbed the Imperial Bank here of almost $5,000.

Bank Manager C. J. Hamilton said two of the men, clad in new blue dungarees, one of them wearing a white mask, entered the bank at about 12:30 p.m. and herded eight employees and a customer at gunpoint into the vault and scooped the money from till. The vault could not be closed because of an electric light cord hung over the door.

The thugs were apparently after our payroll which we had distributed just an hour or two before," Mr. Hamilton said.

Police said the pair escaped in a dark blue or black sedan, bearing New York State licence plates and driven by a third gang member.

Hurricane Roars Along Labrador Coast to Greenland

Halifax, Sept. 3 — (CP)—The hurricane which smashed across Cape Breton and Newfoundland in the last two days was reported by the Dominion weather office here today to be roaring along Labrador coast to Greenland.

After beating through the main Cape Breton centres of Sydney and Glace Bay Wednesday afternoon, the wicked fringe of an Atlantic tropical blow hit Southern Newfoundland Thursday night.

But early information reaching the island capital of St. John's here relayed here reported no extensive damage. Minor transportation and communication tie-ups seemed the most serious tally.

The storm 120,000 Cape Breton ers also considered themselves fortunate today to have suffered any loss of life in the vicious, six-hour beating they took. There still was no estimate of the great public damage inflicted by the winds and rain which at times screamed along at 80 miles an hour.

'PETERS' ADMITS BEING COMMUNIST FOR MANY YEARS

Denies He Was Soviet Underground Leader in United States

New York Sept. 3 (AP) — "J. Peters," who faced deportation and also a contempt-of-congress charge, Thursday admitted being an active Communist in the United States for many years.

Peters, testimony of government witnesses that he was a Soviet underground leader in the United States.

Peters, a 54-year-old Hungarian who calls himself Alexander Stevens, wrote "the Communist Party—A Manual on Procedure" in 1935, his counsel, Mrs. Carol King, revealed.

Peters said in a statement.

"For many years I was an active member of the Communist mittees ... thousands and thousands of Communists and non-Communists here at me- my lectures and read my articles."

"Every day's headlines produce a new No. 1 Communist," Peters said. This week, I. Alexander Stevens was chosen as the new "mystery" man. The outrageous slanders, falsehoods and distortions of the witnesses paraded before the immigration service hearing have been exposed time and again at other hearings."

Peters was referring to the testimony of former Communists who told an immigration and naturalization service hearing that Peters was the underground Red plotter.

"It is no mystery about myself as to who I am and even Russia — and in the end America, too, will be in it."

Superfort Taking Part in Much Air Battle Abandoned by Crew

London, Sept. 3 (CP) — The United States Air Force announced tonight an American B-29 Superfortress taking part in a mock air Battle testing Britain's defences was abandoned by its crew after developing engine trouble over The Netherlands.

"The fate of the plane and crew are known to have survived," the announcement said.

A B-29 ordinarily carries a crew of 11.

The British Air Ministry reported late today that entire crew of the plane had bailed out and the plane had crashed between Rotterdam and Utrecht. Later the Air Ministry amended this, saying the plane actually was flying back toward Britain on one engine.

"We rather think that there were two aircraft involved," the Air Ministry said.

Mighty Superforts are taking part in the giant air defence test over Britain, which involves hundreds of R.A.F. heavy and fighter bombers and squadrons of jet fighters. Mock air battles were staged over the Thames Estuary and other places in Britain as the bombers swung in from the North Sea and inland raids. The bombers had been given permission to fly over the Lowlands to avoid the radar screen before turning in for the attack.

The early nine years ago, Britain and France allowed Adolf Hitler's Germany, which had increased its air power.

Only a year later the very life of the embattled island was threatened by the German air force, attempting to soften it up for a land invasion. But the R.A.F. averted disaster and the battle of Britain is regarded in history as an outstanding exploit of fighting men.

It is fitting in the minds of most people that the new air defence series are marked by a mock air war which for the first time will test the ability of Britain's defences in full-scale manoeuvres.

Sharing "Operation Digger" with hundreds of R.A.F. bombers and fighters are 90 United States Air Superfortresses now based in British bases. They were flown to the "attacking force."

The mock battle continues for four days, with the action taking place over the Midlands and Southern England, which endured the brunt of the real thing in 1940 and 1941.

Famous Patriot Had Predicted War On Canadian Visit

Health Had Been Impaired In Post-War Struggle

Prague, Sept. 3 — (Reuters) — Dr. Eduard Benes, co-founder of the Czechoslovak Republic and its president until last June, died at 6:15 P. M. local time today at his country home at Sternberg Uril.

Last Monday it was revealed that Benes, suffering from arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries), had taken a sudden turn for the worse. Tuesday when he lost consciousness Benes was said to be "sinking fast." He never regained consciousness. He was 64.

As soon as the news of Benes' death reached President Klement Gottwald and the government a special meeting of the cabinet was called.

The prime minister, Antonin Zapotocky, paid tribute to the ex-president's work, surveying the leader of the "middle-of-the-road movement Republican Populaire had labored since Monday night in an effort to lure reluctant politicians into a government for which many foresaw nothing but a short, troubled life.

Schuman announced his decision to President Vincent Auriol after futile negotiations with other party leaders on construction of a workable coalition.

Despite his endorsement by the National Assembly Tuesday—by the margin of 11 votes—Schuman was unable to draw enough parliamentary support to build a cabinet.

Thursday the Socialists, a strong factor in the previous moderate governments, refused to enter a Schuman cabinet because they disagreed with his economic policies, particularly with regard to keeping wages down in a war on rising prices.

Schuman's action threatened the country with deeper political tumult. France has had no government since the Radical Socialist (Conservative) Premier, André Marie, resigned early last Saturday. Marie himself had succeeded Schuman, who had quit as premier when the Socialists refused to support him on a military budget item.

Serious doubts were expressed that anyone would be able to form a government at the present time. This presented France with the possibility of having to go ahead with its present legislature.

Schuman blamed "selfish political bickering" for his failure.

"I sincerely regret I ignore the old political formulas, but I did not find the necessary co-operation," he said.

The Interior Ministry post was believed to be up for the future. Other parties were reported to have refused such a post because the ministry controls police and would be responsible for order in the event of strikes or disorders. Even now throughout France numerous token strikes are in progress, protesting the rising living costs. Some circles even talked of the possibility of a general strike, backed by the Communist Confederation General Du Travail.

Deeper Political Tumult Threatened by Action

Paris, Sept. 3 (AP)—Premier-designate Robert Schuman today abandoned his attempts to form a new French government.

The leader of the middle-of-the-road movement Republican Populaire had labored since Monday night in an effort to lure reluctant politicians into a government for which many foresaw nothing but a short, troubled life.

No Increase In Milk Prices Says L. Reid

"There will definitely not be a price increase for milk in the Quinte district," Leonard Reid, proprietor of Reid's Dairy, and executive member of the Milk Distributors Association of Ontario and its zone chairman, announced today.

The announcement followed that of Roy Lick, of the Ontario Milk Producers Association, who stated that a two-cent rise would take place in November.

Mr. Reid stated that "we can buy all the milk we need at the prevailing price which is $1.50 per hundredweight for 3.4 test milk. This price means to say that producers can get from any other milk market."

August Cooler Than Same Month One Year Ago

Despite those few hot days of last week when city and country residents alike just about wilted from the oppressive heat, the month of August just past was cooler could be remembered month one year ago.

At least that is what officials at the Belleville Water Purification plant on the Trent Road announced today when tabulating their monthly statistics.

The mean temperature for August, 1946 was but 69 degrees, as compared with 72 for the same month last year. High for the month was 97 degrees with a low of 46, while one year ago there was a high of 93 degrees and a low of 46.

But despite the cooler mean temperature there was less rainfall as is evidenced by drying lawns and wilted gardens. Rainfall for last month totalled but 1.09 inches, as compared with 1.86 for August, 1947.

Sanitary Sewers in Veterans' Homes Development Will Be Laid by Port Hope Company

Meeting in committee for the first time since the summer recess, Belleville city council on Thursday evening awarded the Port Hope Construction Company the contract for the construction of sanitary sewers in the Veterans' Housing development and the main necessary because of the increased requirements.

Tenders were received for the work in progress on receipt of which council decided to call in the various contractors for the purpose of discussing the matter.

Council felt that the Port Hope Constructing Company for the construction of the sewers was the lowest bid submitted, being $18,888.85, and was approved by committee of engineer, Mayor and Sicoris.

To provide for street area and for street connecting links between the Parkwood Homes area and the Veterans' Homes area, council voted to purchase four lots owned by Mrs. Bert Dexter at $200 each.

Fire Hall

In preparation for the construction of a new fire hall on the north side of the city, council voted to authorize the city solicitor to proceed with the necessary steps for the borrowing of an amount up to $60,000. The new fire hall will be constructed on the property on the north side of West Bridge Street near the Cedar Street intersection.

Cost of road improvements in the Meadowvale and Pine Street area will be charged to the Veterans' Housing development, and it was decided by council. The work of improving the roads in the area was ordered by council last spring. Cost of the work was $1,500.

Applications Requested

Applications will be asked for a new member of the Board of Management to bring the force up to the maximum strength of 25 men and chief. Hiring of the new man was made necessary because of the recent retirement of Police William Lynch.

In order to provide facilities for trailers remaining at the city tourist camp during the winter, the tourist camp water supply will be winterized, it was decided. It was explained that many of the people living in trailers at the camp would have no other place to go if the camp facilities were not operative during the winter months.

Owners of lots in Foster Ward between Church and John Streets will be interviewed by the city solicitor with the view of purchasing the lots to provide a playground for children of the area.

COBL Petes Defeat Kiwanis In Exhibition

In a cautiously played exhibition game in which both teams paraded their strength but hid their real worth, the Belleville COBL team defeated the Kiwanis Juniors by an 8-4 score at Victory Park Friday night.

The game was loosely played with the Kiwanis kids kicking the ball around wildly and with their hurlers, Buntom and Semark, having difficulty finding the plate. Art Wright pitched the last two innings for the locals.

The game was featured also with the lack of safe clouts, both teams getting but six hits of the rival hurlers. Loucks started on the mound for Peterborough and allowed one hit for one run in three innings of toil. Whitehill flung the next three stanzas and yielded one run for three hits. Bill Edger wound up the pastime and was touched for three hits for a pair of runs. The trio struck out 12 among them.

Bob Bunton started on the mound for the Kiwanis kids and allowed three hits for four runs, three of them unearned. He was relieved in the sixth by Don Semark who couldn't find the plate before he left the mound duties in the innings. He gave up one hit for four runs. Wright took over in the eighth and gave up a pair of clouts for a single and three runs, three hurlers whiffed seven Petes batters among them.

The Kiwanis master minds shook up the team with Lockyer playing first in place of Whitehill. They played loose ball at times, committing four errors, but their batting eyes were far from what they were in their last official game.

The game was nothing more than a good bout for both teams and by the appearance of last night's game both squads needed it.

Major 'A' Bowling League to Open On Sept. 16th

On Thursday evening at the Bowl-O-Drome the Major 'A' League held it business meeting in order to get things under way for the coming bowling season.

Seven of last year's teams Belleville Golf, York Trading, Central Cigar, Lawn Bowlers, C.N.R., Quinte Optical and Northern Electric assured the league that they would be in there again this year. A new team, "Electronics" from Northern Electric, will make up an eight team loop.

A few changes were made in the rules. It was decided to run the league this year without the handicap, and "John Doe" was set at 120 instead of the previous 135.

A new system of scoring will also be tried this year. Two points will be given for each game won with one point for total. This will eliminate the possibility of tie games.

The league will get under way on Thursday, Sept. 16th at 8 o'clock sharp. All members are requested to meet at the Bowl-O-Drome at 7.45 for an important meeting before getting the league under way for the season.

Tentative Plans For Farmers' Night Being Drawn Up

Tentative plans for a "Farmers' Night" were drawn up at a recent meeting of the Agricultural Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

The function is scheduled to be held either the last week in October or the first week in November, the date depending on the convenience of the Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, who has been invited to attend as guest speaker.

The "Night" will be an invitation affair with upwards of 225 district farmers and their wives invited. Arrangements are now being completed for the banquet which will precede the address and a variable program of entertainment.

Mr. A. O. Delrymple, Hastings County agricultural representative, acted as chairman of the meeting in place of the regular chairman, W. C. Mills of Tweed Canadian, who was unavoidably absent.

Among other business, the committee decided to hold four regular meetings during the coming winter months.

Three Horses, Hogs and Season's Crops Destroyed in Reid Barn Fire

Fire of unknown origin early this morning completely destroyed the large frame barn of Gordon Reid, 4th concession of Sidney township. Burned in the blaze were three work horses, three pigs and 50 head, together with the season's hay and grain crop.

The cause was unaware of the blaze until approximately 1:30 in the morning when they were awakened by their dog by a neighbor who discovered the blaze. The fire had then gained considerable start with the roof completely ablaze and it was impossible to save livestock in the barn.

Neighbors were quickly aroused and worked to save adjoining buildings. Fortunately there was no wind and the blaze was confined to the barn.

Over 500 bushels of grain were burned in the blaze, threshing just being completed last week. Sixty loads of hay were also burned.

Reid had no idea as to the origin of the fire, and doubted that combustion could have been the cause as all hay was in the barn in good shape, Mr. Reid stated he would have to rebuild in order to house his herd of cattle this winter. The Belleville pumper went to the scene in order to assist in saving the barn.

Dean Pleads Guilty To False Pretences

Pleading guilty to two charges of false pretences and to one charge of uttering, Ray Dean, formerly of 375 Front Street, was remanded for sentence when he appeared in city police court this morning before Magistrate T. Y. Margraves.

Giving evidence Police Detective Douglas Ellis told the court that in May, 1947, Dean had forged a cheque using the name of the owner of the Uptown Billiards, where he had been employed. Also in July, he had passed a worthless cheque at a local garage in payment for a tire and tube.

Constable Grayling, of the Peterborough detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, gave evidence concerning a further charge against Dean, stating that the accused had passed a worthless cheque on a Havelock merchant. The accused was remanded in custody to permit the Crown to determine his criminal record.

Officials Frown On Information To Red-led Europe

Ottawa, Sept. 3 (CP)—Alive to the latest word in Communist technique, the Federal Tourist Bureau has sent one of its provincial counterparts are clamping down on replies to requests for maps and information from Russian-dominated Europe.

Their actions, disclosed Thursday, were taken individually but they both sprang from the same source — official apprehension about "pen pal spying" from behind the iron curtain. Both fitted in with a warning to all Canadians from an external affairs department official who said persons in Soviet sectors have been seeking too obtain strategic information about Canada by mail.

Spurred by his advice, Nova Scotia's department of information took steps to stop a parcel of provincial tourist literature headed for Germany in answer to a postcard from a German pupil. She asked for a wide variety of materials, ranging from guide books and maps to periodicals.

Arrest Exposes Quebec Vice Ring

Quebec, Sept. 3 — (CP) — A vice ring which police said was the "most important of police files" has been exposed here, municipal police made known Thursday night.

They said the case had been turned over to the office of Premier Maurice Duplessis in his capacity as Attorney - General.

The disclosure followed investigation of almost two months and came after the arrest and conviction of a 19-year-old country boy on a vagrancy charge. He was sentenced to eight days in jail but police said he made declarations which enabled them to crack the vice ring wide open.

Authorities said several additional arrests could be expected shortly.

The youth and two unidentified women, so police said, made statements under oath naming two men and a woman as ring leaders.

Police said the youth told them he had been kept in an alleged brothel but police said he made declarations which enabled them to crack the vice ring wide open.

Program of Sex Education Will Be Inaugurated

Toronto, Sept. 3 (CP) — A committee of the Toronto Board of Education has approved in principle a program to meet the age-old problem of parents who have to teach children about sex.

The committee approved a program of sex education in the two top grades of public schools, grades seven and eight where pupils generally are from 10 to 14 years of age. But the details of how such classes should be organized, what should be taught and just how much scope should be allowed remain to be fixed.

Committee members said they were convinced children are not getting proper sex education in the home.

"Interests begins at an early age," said trustee Mrs. Edna Ryerson, "and the questions should be answered before the children get distorted information. Some parents aren't equipped to answer the questions."

Which raised the natural question, put by trustee Albert Cane: "How far can you go in telling the children the facts of life? Will we be losing mystery, or will we give it to them in parables?"

Director of education C.C. Goldring attempted to answer it. "The information should be given subtly," he said, "through the biology of plants and animals—not blatantly . . . obviously through a description of human reproduction."

Dr. Goldring said the subject could be taught in health classes, but should not be built up as something special in the curriculum. It should stress purity of life and decency of conduct.

Trustee Cane pointed to recent police court cases to argue that "decency of living" had vanished from the community. But Mrs. Ryerson countered: "The young people of today are no different, and lack decency no more than the children of 2,000 years ago."

Only Mrs. Ryerson of those who voted the thing in a nutshell.

"You can't expect much from crowded homes. The young people have to seek their entertainment on the street."

Court and Selling Prices of Shirts Will be Probed

Ottawa Sept. 3 (CP) — The Prices Commission, unhanged with a three-week investigation into price prices, will resume next Wednesday to an examination of the cost and selling price of men's and boys' shirts.

Commissioner Samuel H.A. Dyde said that drawing on information of textiles placed before the original price committee of the commons, he will attempt to trace a piece of men's shirting throughout the processes and transactions that precede its final purchase by a man who wants to wear it.

The commission adjourned Thursday night for the Labor Day weekend and; following its usual method of leaving an open day after a holiday, will not resume until Wednesday.

The testimony and evidence gathered during the nine public hearings in the shoe probe and the earlier fertilizer inquiry are closely being studied by the commissioners.

Mr. Dyde completed the shoe inquiry with the reservation that he thought there had not been enough time fully to digest evidence records and its methods of changing members of the industry's present equipment. Prof. C. A. Curtis, chief economist, presented several times on the complicated nature of the charges and received the answer that the practice had grown up through tradition.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 3 — (AP) —Detectives said a 38-year-old widow Thursday admitted slaying her two children because she could not support them on her $75 monthly relief cheque.

The mother, Mrs. Frances Irene McCoy, was arrested after she led police to her dead children 250 miles away.

The children were found stabbed to death in a cabin at Grant's Pass, 250 miles south of Portland.

Picnic Tables Popular

One innovation which has met with considerable public response is the introduction of picnic tables and benches by the Ontario Department of Highways. It is not unusual to see most of them in use during meal hours. They are often used by weary travellers who seek out these spots under the trees to rest awhile from the weary hours of motoring.

Considerable care has apparently been used to place the tables at the most advantageous locations — often where a good view may be had. However, we think a better location could have been made in the case of the picnic tables in front of the cemetery grounds west of the city. There is nothing particularly wrong with this selection, we suppose, other than a certain distaste of eating meals on land bordering the resting ground of those who have departed on a journey from which there is no return. Perhaps those who partake awhile do not give it a thought but we are sure there must be many travellers who would prefer a happier outlook.

Too Many Children Burned

Last week in Lindsay a two-year-old girl was badly scalded when she climbed up on a chair and turned on the hot water tap and started to wash her face. This is unusual, but all too often we read of children getting burned one way and another.

Speaking on the subject Dr. John W. Gerrie, Montreal plastic surgeon, made the comment that far too many youngsters are burned each year in Montreal from neglect on the part of parents.

He offered some suggestions on safety which are worth repeating — keep children out of the kitchen when cooking; place coffee and tea pots in the middle of the table; avoid a scalding bath; don't go to sleep with a lighted cigarette, and finally, gasoline has no place in any home.

Does This Happen to You?

Sometimes we wonder if anyone else is silly enough to enter a guessing contest with the boys who make the rounds collecting the garbage. Actually, householders in some sections are expected to put out their containers at night for morning collection. It is often mid-morning or later before the trucks appear.

However, rather than leave the garbage pails to receive attention from inquisitive dogs, we have been waiting until morning, then hustling out the weighty pails. This procedure goes along nicely for many of the time but every once in a while, when all the containers are full, we hear the clatter of the trucks, dash out with the pails always arriving in time to see the parade in the next block. So the pails and garbage are returned to the side of the back porch.

Next time they are put out at night and there they rest until well into the next morning. After seeing this happen for quite some time we decide to take a chance and wait for morning. All goes well until the boys speed up their schedule and then we are caught late again, which was this morning. The odd time we decide to change the routine and guess right, but not often.

This piece of nonsense gets to be a game, as it were. And so it is that on two nights each week we ask ourself, "Will we or won't we?"

We wonder if anyone else indulges in this bit of whimsy or whatever you choose to call it.

Those Bumper Jacks

An Ohio motorist had an artery in his wrist severed near Windsor when a so-called bumper jack slipped as he was changing a tire, allowing the fender to catch him. Which brings to mind that type of a jack is one of the most cursed of contrivances, says the Windsor Star.

The motorists who have suffered vile imprecations at this jack must be legion. To get the wheel off the ground, one must work inordinately and then, when one is ready to change the tire, the odds are that the infernal jack will slip. The car comes down on its axle.

The man who invented the bumper jack should be made to change a dozen tires himself, especially when on the shoulder of the road where there is a slope, or where the soil is soft. What the average motorist wants is simply a jack with which he can raise the automobile, without breaking his back doing so, or without being in danger of the car falling. Development of such a bit of equipment surely shouldn't be beyond the ingenuity of automotive designers.

RELIANCE

"Since life's a blend of good and ill,
'Tis wise, as Poet Houseman said,
To train the mind and shape the will
For troubled days that lie ahead.

Lest one be caught by some mischance,
And suddenly confront despair,
To face each sorry circumstance
Always the wisest men prepare.

Above us all there hangs the threat
Of loss beyond our power to stay,
And soon or late it must be met,
And how to bear it each must say.

And lost he'll be who trusts to luck
Or hopes his skies will stay serene
When suddenly the blow is struck,
Who has no faith on which to lean.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

MAKE YOUR HOBBY COUNT

Kevin Quinagh many years ago wrote a book entitled "Inspired Amateurs." He points out that some of the world's greatest discoveries have been performed by people who did them as a side line. Herschel started out as a musician but became a famous astronomer. Grote the banker earned fame as a writer of Greek history. Priestly the preacher discovered oxygen. Schliemann the merchant excavated Troy. Spinoza the lens grinder came to occupy a chief place among the philosophers.

People sometimes discover that their side line is so much more important than their main line that they decide to go all out as an amateur. A Philadelphia business man decided years ago to try his hand at engraving, and he has become nationally famous. A customer's man in a brokerage office was left late after 1929 and, taking up painting as a means of getting his mind off his troubles, found that he made considerably more out of it than he ever made in stocks. He ever did out of trying to spot the blue chips. Everyone knows, of course, of Winston Churchill's interest in painting and the modest fame he has acquired along this line.

The lesson is that amateur status need not overwhelm us with a sense of inferiority. Our hobby may make us famous if we can mix good luck and perseverance in proper proportions.

Japan Equipped With the Weapons To Repel Advance

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

That was a most encouraging statement Guy Macdaffee issued in Tokyo on the third anniversary of Japan's surrender terms.

He declared Japan is equipped with the moral weapons to repel the totalitarian advance." And he went on to link Tokyo and Rome with the Soviet Kremlin and with the Republic of the Philippines in "a triangle of buttress" for democracy in Asia.

Finally interpreted this strikes me as meaning there is unity of purpose between the Oriental trio and the United States. And to these three I think we must add China, whose spirit is willing though her flesh be weak.

Macdaffee summarized his remarks to moral values, but your correspondent feels that he left out not to expand the thought in terms of military realities. After all, the Orient is seething with turmoil, and if there is any other hope for it it must certainly will encompass that part of the globe—indeed it might well start there.

Battleships for Democracy

Japan and the Philippines not only have a common interest in the ideological sense, but they would be helpful in the defense and defence in event of war with Russia.

As for the Korean Peninsula ("a dagger pointed at the heart of Japan") it is the key point of the world's highly strategic positions. So long as it remains under American military occupation it is a bastion in the Pacific defence. Russia's lies under the muzzles of Russia's big guns, and it is plain to see that should the United States high command would dream of withdrawing from Korea in event of global war there is bound to be a spreading four forces out too thin.

Still, while the loss of Korea would be serious to the defence of Japan and the Philippines it would be disastrous to Russia as our experience in the last war fully demonstrated.

No Special Significance

Why all the talk about another World War? There's no special significance in it that everybody knows by this time that there is danger of war. Still there is no immediate danger. The Kremlin doesn't want war and trying to avoid it, we are safe in assuming that if conflict does come soon it will spring from the expected "provocation"—something which neither side foresees.

Huge Wasps Nest Develops Some Nice Buck Passing

Toronto, Sept. 5 (CP)—There is a street light in a northwest section of the city that will be dark for a long time. A huge wasps' nest, entrenched below the light standard, thwarted repair efforts of municipal employees to replace an electrical light bulb.

Edward Stevens, a Hydro patrolman tried first. He put his ladder against the pole and almost climbed into a huge wasps' nest. "A tremendous one."

He tried the fire department. The fire department was sympathetic but thought it was a job for the Humane Society. The Humane Society, solicitous of the well-being of animals, declined to extend activity to insects — and especially not to wasps.

Stevens told the boss foreman: "I don't wait anything to do with that nest."

"We'll have to get them out," says his boss. "Ye sir, we'll have to get them out."

There the matter rests.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

SEAL STOPS AIR ESCAPE 17 YEARS

"It's been working on the railroad for seventeen years," an engineer said today as he showed Johns-Manville reporter a set of Johns-Manville Packing. It had been used on an air compressor at a railroad power plant.

Packing acts as a seal on an air compressor. It keeps air from escaping and has to stand constant rubbing by moving parts. Yet this Johns-Manville Packing did twenty-four hour duty almost daily for 17 years.

You find long - wearing Johns-Manville packings in all kinds of machines — wherever a seal is needed to keep water, gas, oil and other liquids from leaking.

For over 75 years Johns-Manville has been making asbestos packings and gaskets to meet industries varied needs. If you have a packing problem, write, Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

Letter to the Editor

Suggests Five Points Of Citizenship

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

This appears to be the open season for candidates.

As a candidate for academic interest, and without regard to party politics, nationality, race or religion, I take the liberty of suggesting the following five points of citizenship.

1. Better understanding between the English and French speaking Citizens of Canada.
2. A university in every county to train and confer degrees on young peoples bringing higher education to the masses of the people with the expressed object of assisting young people to earn their living, and to create larger cities.
3. Free hospital treatment on a basis analogous to free schools. Health is more important than education.
4. A government lottery to provide funds for free colleges and hospitals above mentioned. We take millions of dollars every year from bingos. A lottery does no one any harm, and helps many.
5. Drive out Communism before Communism drives out democracy. A mere handful of Russian Communists are running the whole Russian people to a condition of slavery. It might happen here.

Press and Radio Day at C.N.E.

Toronto, Sept. 3 — (CP) — Press and radio had their day at the Canadian National Exhibition today along with the men's world's professional lumberjack championship for a total of $10,500 in prizes.

The 10 - mile race inside the breakwater at the Exhibition waterfront offered $6,000 to the victor, $2,500 for second and $1,000 for third. Fifty - three competitors were entered.

For farmers, there was judging of poultry, waterfowl and pigeons. Everybody knows cattle, sheep and swine as well as displays of dairy products and eggs.

Music held sway over many of C. N. E. activities Thursday. Thousands in colorful costumes brightened the grounds, waiting to plays and dances on impromptu stages through the fair. Band competitions and old time fiddlers' contest, choral groups, Highland dancing, vocal competitions rounded out the day.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Dr. Brady welcomes questions on personal health and hygiene sent to him care of this newspaper, will be answered by him. But if a stamped addressed envelope is enclosed, letter will be written to you personally. Owing to the large number of letters received he cannot answer them all. He only can be made to promise to answer those which he considers of the most general interest.

A MINIMUM ALLOWANCE IS NOT ENOUGH

In only a few places in North America does the soil, drinking water and the food grown, yield all supply sufficient iodine for the requirements of good nutrition although the amount required for this estimate that a very minute quantity of this element is sufficient to prevent simple goitre in young people and in adults. The minimum daily iodine intake is not quantity a child or grown-up may get from iodized table salt if iodized salt is used instead of plain salt for cooking and at table the year around.

Nutrition authorities seem different about stating precisely how much iodine or iodide the growing child or mature adult requires daily to maintain optimal nutrition. They suggest only what they regard as the absolute minimum requirement of iodine for child or adult—one-tenth of a milligram daily; that is even less iodine that one would get in a single drop of the Mild Tincture of Iodine commonly used as first aid treatment for minor wounds.

But remember, that is only the minimum daily requirement—the least that may prevent any manifestation of iodine deficiency in this instance goitre.

But there a wide margin between proven deficiency manifestations of deficiency disease and desired optimal nutrition. Hey, there, do you know what iodine is? Well, remember that is, not the French—some of you have studied French and say nails by informing me that the word vite, which I thought Mrs. Nellie Mc Clung, the famous lingiste, Miss, another lady whose name I can never recall and I smiled, is an old musical term for playing musical jewelry. The French pronunciation, however, rhymes with the kite, so our booklet The Y Keys to Vite (for health) explains. Others can send stamped self addressed envelope (3c) and ask for booklet entitled, one-thing, better than average nutritional condition, now much iodine. Incidentally the Iodine Ration is one of the 7 keys.

Now, if you know nothing about anything but I believe the nutrition authority, that those with any one-tenth of a milligram of iodine a day is all a child or adult requires to maintain better-than-average nutritional condition or vite, as I call it, is wrong. They confuse the mere prevention of goitre with optimal nutritional satisfaction with optimal health. One-tenth of a milligram a day may possibly prevent goitre in some instances but it certainly prevents optimal health. I am convinced it is far below the optimal daily ration of iodine for child or adult — that is the amount necessary to maintain better-than-average nutritional condition, vite. So I myself take and advise every growing child and adult to take from 100 to 800 times as much iodine daily, from 10 milligrams to fifty milligrams of iodine every day, some or less according to one's general state of health and the excess of one's diet. Perhaps ten to twenty milligrams is enough for a child. Foods rich in canned sea fish or shellfish at least twice a week better 100 to 800 milligrams daily at least for a year or so, if, after a few signs of iodine deficiency are described in the pamphlet on Iodin Rations sent on written request (do not use a stinging) if you inclose stamped self addressed envelope.

There are only three known areas in the United States where there are sufficient amounts of iodine in the soil, water and food grown to make it nearly universal. The quantities needed for optimum health are very much under-estimated. These quantities must be taken by the adult at least three times the maintenance dose when peptic ulceration has existed over a relatively long period of time.

Baby Takes After Aunt

Since our 7 1-2 months old boy was his first born, I thought that he has had his tongue out most of the time. But he does that still, not at least. My father had this habit whenever he concentrated on any task, writing, reading, pressing clothes, tying a package, etc. Sometimes I do it, too, but no other significance. (Mrs. C. E.)

Answer: Baby takes after his aunt. No significance. Well it has taken after some other guy's aunt.

Two Policemen Charged With Manslaughter

Toronto, Sept. 3 — (CP) — In an apparent attempt to clarify the legal responsibilities of policemen who shoot and kill criminals in the course of duty, the Attorney-General of Ontario has ordered that two Ontario policemen be charged with manslaughter.

Charged are Detective William Honor of the Hamilton, Ont., force and Constable Floyd V. Nelles of the Toronto force. Constable Nelles is charged with the death at Hamilton last Aug. 19 of Frank Wanzl, who was wanted for questioning in the robbery of a brewery warehouse messenger. Constable Neuen is charged in the death here last Aug. 14 of Charles McMahon, suspected of theft.

Both victims were shot as they attempted to escape. Both officers have said they fired several warning shots in the air and called repeated warning to the fleeing men before firing the fatal shot.

A coroner's jury decided at Hamilton last Aug. 23 that Detective Honor was justified in shooting Wanzl as the latter was performing his duty in firing on the fleeing suspect after giving fair warning. Police officers testified Wanzl made a break as he was being taken to the police station and that something in regard to the $5,000 robbery of the brewery's warehouse messenger. They said Sloane fired his last shot low, aiming for the legs.

Caught Ransacking Car

Police said McMahon was caught ransacking a parked United States automobile in Toronto. He knocked Constable Neuen down and attempted to escape. After firing one warning shot, the officer aimed at the fleeing man's legs. Three bullets struck McMahon in the buttocks. He contracted pneumonia following an emergency operation and died on Aug. 24. Doctors said death was caused by hemorrhages and pneumonia.

The Toronto police commissioners issued a warning Aug. 26 that police officers in training must be made to realize they can use their guns in the capture of escaping suspects "only as the very last resort when all other means have failed."

Not Sufficient Evidence

Police Constable George Joyce was charged with manslaughter July 30, 1948, in the fatal shooting of 14-year-old Donald Robertson. Police said two officers saw two youths take two suitcases from a parked automobile. The boys fled despite calls to halt. Both officers fired warning shots. Joyce fired a third shot, aiming at the boy's legs, Donald stumbled and the bullet struck him in the chest. He died on the way to hospital.

A supreme court grand jury found there was not sufficient evidence to commit the police man for trial. The boy's parents sued Joyce for unstated damages and were awarded $4,250 damages. Joyce entered an appeal.

Secretary Admits Milk Prices May Rise in November

Toronto, Sept. 3 — (CP) — Roy Lick, Ontario Milk Producers Association Secretary, said yesterday milk prices may rise next November to meet increased production costs but added that there was "no definite indication at present" as to the amount of increase.

He denied reports that an increase of one to two cents could be expected, saying producers were not yet in a position to discuss the matter related to the amount.

Mr. Lick said milk prices will have to find their own level after the current price agreement between producers and distributors ends Oct. 31. Increased labor, maintenance and supplies costs indicated a raise may be necessary. On the other hand, a survey before then may show that other factors have dropped enough to make an increase unnecessary.

P. Bruce Scott, general manager of the Ontario Milk Distributors Association, said costs in the dairy industry are reaching the breaking point but he said he could not see that the price to the consumer will rise.

The producer-distributor agreement signed last December caused a 2½-cent increase in most sections of the province. The agreement gave producers 2 to 3 cents more per hundred weight.

Princess Margaret's New Hats Unusual

It was disclosed that at her request the Queen's milliner, Aage Thaarup and Margaret have new hats the Princess will wear when she goes to Windsor Saturday for the Coronation Monday of Princess Juliana.

And the word from Buckingham Palace is that they are something.

The first is described as a "fluffy little cap, half a hat, that sits from ear lobe to ear and is worn with a jaunty air on one side." Rather like a Florence Nightingale bonnet, it is trimmed with pink velvet and has one white and one pink ostrich tip.

The second is a shrimp pink felt casquette cap, rather like a beret with a shovel brim plus a pom pom.

The second one is said to be the Princess' favorite.

South Hastings Y.P.U. Enjoys Wiener Roast

The United Church Camp at Oak Lake was an ideal setting for the very enjoyable wiener roast, on Friday evening of this week, when approximately 150 young people of the South Hastings United Young People's Union gathered for an evening of fellowship.

For many unions, this wiener roast marked the beginning of fall activities after the summer recess, and was planned primarily to honor society Y. P. U. who captured the silver trophy in this, the first year of organized softball for the district, union.

Raymond Gunsolus was a very capable chairman for the program presented around the big camp fire. Lorraine McDougall got things off to a good start with a piano duet and song of favorite Y. P. U. songs and choruses. An Irish reading by Jean Campbell, "Maggie Mc-Fee" was well received as were the slower witnessed at that her week at Ryerson Y. P. U. camp by Ruth Bunting. Accordian solos of secular and sacred songs were served by Ethel Richardson added much to the evening's enjoyment.

Fall Rally in October

Maude Baxter, district president, addressed the group and expressed appreciation of the fine co-operation in the past and the first district wiener roast. She announced the Fall Rally to be held Tuesday Oct. 5, and urged all unions to have their officers elected by this date so that they might obtain help at the rally by their different departments. Mrs. Baxter thanked the softball committee, John Randle, Ross Marshall, and Wallace Hill, who organized the first league for the district unions, this summer. Ross Marshall outlined what had been done and the games played and hoped that a team from every union next year. The members of Scott's Y. P. U. were then presented with the silver trophy, to be competed for annually.

Mr. Orrville Rose, president, expressed the thanks of his group for the camp.

The ample supply of wieners and cold drinks were then partaken of.

Fine Worship Service

A very fitting closing was the effective worship service, conducted by Rita Christie, district fellowship convener, the theme being "The Birth of Jesus Lord's". Assisting in the service were Margaret Hillis, who sang the beautiful solo "Thanks Be To God," and Walter Elliott, who read the Scripture and prayer of poetry emphasizing the fact that "It is not enough to be searching for God, to find Him in His holiness."

The singing of "Blest Be The Tie that Binds," by the Friendship Circle, and prayer led by Rev. A. L. Shorten concluded the evening's program.

Washington Spotlight:

Arrival of Crested Cormorant Becomes Feature for All Papers

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Washington, Sept. 3 (CP) — Washington has at last reached the dog days that were delayed by the special congressional session and by fairly reasonable weather.

But congress went back home, the Bureaucrats rushed to their summer retreats, a record-breaking heat wave set in and the arrival of a crested cormorant from the Alberta zoo became the news feature for all the papers.

Sally and Rose

The people forced to remain in Washington talked about the weather, blamed it on the Russians and the seven tenants turned to the crested cormorant from the zoo.

"The bird is a foot long and its neck is another foot, and it's fingered is about two feet," said Dr. William Mann, the director. He is 10 years old.

"It's a Brandtrum sort of a bird" said Dr. Mann, "it eats fish — pope."

President To Bee-Caliber

This, of course, is the lull before the storm. In another week the candidates will rush the hustings and from President Truman and Governor Thomas Dewey of New York, down through the myriad Blakes, Senate and House and on down through the ranks of public officials to dog catcher, candidates will be wooing the voters.

Henry Wallace, Progressive Party leader, is the only big shot to ignore the calendar. He is campaigning for President knowing full well his efforts are wasted but building carefully toward what may be possible for him and his followers four years from now.

Sally in Hitler's Alley

But for the moment the Washington scene is more interested in the court room activities of platinum-headed Mildred Gillars, 47-year-old New England girl who was in Germany when the war came and, as Axis Sally, is charged with treason in that she made morale-destroying broadcasts to the Allied forces from Hitler-land.

Just why Axis Sally is being tried now, three years after the event, nobody seems to know.

Unbaptized Alone

Unbaptized alone, absent from Axis Sally episodes, apart from Lord Haw-Haw, a dozen former soldiers, who have been released here from their civilian employment as witnesses against her, refuse to tell how she cajoled them into broadcasting Nazi-dictated messages when they were prisoners of war.

FAMOUS PATRIOT

With the hero liberator Thomas Masaryk Benes presided at the founding of the Czechoslovak Republic, born out of the chaos of the First World War. It was the culmination of a 30-year struggle against Hapsburg rule.

Ten years ago he fought bitterly against the pact of Munich, which gave his country over to the dominator of Hitler. He lost. He resigned the presidency he had assumed in 1935, after the death of Masaryk, and went into exile to the United States, Britain and Russia rather than yield to the Germans.

Returned From Exile

He returned from his long exile in 1945, and managed to keep a wobbly coalition government working through almost three years of violent post-war readjustment.

Exhausted from his labor, ma health impaired, Benes watched the gathering storm late in 1947 The Communists were bracing themselves for a bid for power. The blow came early in 1948.

On the night of February 25th Feb. 24, Benes bowed to the Communist demands and approved Communist Gottwald's cabinet line-up. The president's friends said later he told them Gottwald "talked to me like Hitler." With the president's obviously reluctant approval, a cabinet loaded with Gottwald's friends and adherents was sworn in Feb. 27. Of this event, Benes is reported to have said it could have "only evil results."

Non-Party Hansard Society Helps Educate Germans in Democracy

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 2 — (CP) —Foreign Secretary Bevin and Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British military governor of Germany, have helped to launch the Hansard Society to help educate the Germans in democracy.

A struggling organization, with 2,000 members in the United Kingdom and working in association with similar organizations in Canada and Belgium, the Hansard Society in turn has appealed to the British public to assist.

The non-profit-making society was founded in 1944 to carry out "work of national importance in education for citizenship."

"The Hansard Society has the duty of spreading knowledge about the institution of parliament and arousing interest in that subject," it says.

Gen. Robertson in a letter to the society council chairman, Cmdr. Stephen King-Hall, said the society had assisted in the past by entertaining German politicians and others sent to England to see democratic institutions at first hand.

These visits had made "a very great impression" and were as important as any other measure in promoting re-education of Germans.

Only a limited official funds could be granted and the society's members must provide most of the money needed. But Gen. Robertson added, "there is certainly no better cause nor one in which a comparatively modest sum can achieve great results."

Bevin Wrote

Bevin wrote that he hoped public-spirited firms and men would make it possible for the society to give German politicians and officials instruction and information about all aspects of British parliamentary life.

In an appeal to members, King-Hall said the society now must obtain suitable premises and adequate staff. A start could be made with £5,000 ($30,000) "although £10,000 would be preferable."

Membership should be raised from 2,000 to 5,000 or 7,500 and a series of courses for German politicians and officials arranged.

PASSES FIRST TEST

Washington, Sept. 3 — (AP) — A new, bigger and faster Atlas bomber has passed its first tests for the United States Navy.

An announcement to this effect today provided few details. But from a comparison with present types, the plane shapes up as the fastest yet designed for carriers.

It will carry more than three tons of bombs "considerably" faster than 330 miles an hour.

By WALLY ISSAK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Sept. 3 (CP)—Twenty-four men played the game but one rugby player still was missing — a kicker. Bring out the crying towels, gridiron fans, because players nowadays take the word "foot" in football to mean locomotion and not a means of propelling the ball.

That's what Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Coleman says after viewing last Saturday's Toronto Argonauts and Beaches Indians charity exhibition game.

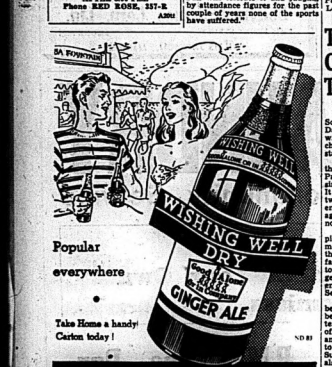
"We saw some excellent running backs...some really fine passers...the only thing we didn't see on display was a kicker. It is true that there were a few chapples out there booting the ball in rather desultory fashion, but they couldn't be called kickers.

"What has happened to all the fellows who used to be able to propel that ball over a distance of ground? How long is it since you have seen a man like Abe Bowser, Bummer Stirling or Bob Isbister?"

Winter Note

Bill (Owen Sound Sun Times) Dane asks if you've noticed that the hockey season is just around the corner. Baseball, lacrosse and other summer sports still are in full swing and football teams are beginning their schedules, but that doesn't stop the publicists.

"Hockey teams no longer respect the seasons of the year and that is why they fail to crowd the summer sports out of the program in early fall and refuse to give ground to those same sports in the late spring."



It doesn't really matter, however, "Win" Lang as Mr. and Mrs. Fan will tolerate it and judging by attendance figures for the past couple of years none of the sports have suffered."

Ted Schroeder Chosen for U.S. Tennis Squad

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—Ted Schroeder and the United States Davis Cup selection committee will be squarely on the spot in the challenge round against Australia at Forest Hills.

In choosing Schroeder to share the singles burden with Frankie Parker, the selection committee simply "played the percentage." It picked a player who in the last two years has never been challenge-round singles matches against the Aussies while losing none.

But at the same time, it also picked a man who has had almost no top competitive tennis for the last year and who plainly is far below his best form. In two tournaments since he came east to get in shape, Schroeder was beaten badly by Parker and by Victor Seixas.

The alternative would have been to name Billy Talbert. Talbert has been playing brilliant tennis—he and Gardnar Mulloy the best of his career. However, Talbert and Gardnar Mulloy are a cinch to face the Aussies in the doubles Sunday, and the selectors might also have had in mind.

Parker rates a heavy favorite to defeat Billy Talbert, ace man of the Australian Cup performers, in tomorrow's first match. It will be up to Schroeder to decide whether the United States goes into the doubles with a 1st 2-0 lead, or with only an even break when he meets Adrian Quist.

Quist, although 35 and past his finest tennis, still can be a tough man to beat. He has recovered from the illness which hampered him immediately after the war and is going into the challenge round filled with a quiet confidence.

What should be the largest crowd of the baseball season will be on hand at Exhibition Park on Monday afternoon when the Belleville Kiwanis Juniors meet the Ottawa Tricolors in the deciding set and game of the Ontario OBA Junior "A" playdowns. The Kiwanis kids lost a 10-inch game to Ottawa by a 6-5 score after leading 5-3 up to the ninth, then came back to administer a crushing 15-3 defeat to the Ottawans in the second game. Monday's tilt goes both squads with everything at stake and the teams will go out there, to give their best to cop the playdown beaon.

Kiwanis are said to be in excellent shape with the hurling staff all set and ready to go. Ottawa rates a fine young team which, by general consensus of opinion, will go down fighting when the final chips are down. It should be a stormy battle and the fans should get an opportunity to see the best junior squads to come out of this village in some time.

Winners of the series will meet the winners of the Oshawa Hunters-Toronto Earlscourt series now in the throes of operation. The Oshawans eliminated the Peterborough Kiwanis in a tough three-game series and are regarded as being a touch little team to beat. Events of the past two weeks along baseball lines have not been normal and so far to set on the prediction limb, so we're keeping the prophecies under cover. We might say however, after experimenting both, Ottawa-Belleville games that it will be a keen disappointment if the Belleville kids are eliminated.

The errors toll the knell of baseball day
The undefended crowd sees error home to tea.
The Shannon homered around their weary way.
And leave the league to Murphy and to me.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 3 (AP)—Dumb Dan Morgan, who has few good words for education higher than "learnin' the novver", currently is wondering why more college athletes don't try professional boxing...

They ain't all rich and if they wants make money they can make it in boxing even faster than in highlicking and that used to be the best racket in the world."...Dan probably has the explanation in his tale of the time when he and Jack Britton tried to make a boxer out of Dan Morgan, Jr., now a movie theatre manager..."We went to tell his mother," Morgan, Sr., explains and "she thrun me and Britton and the kid, all of us, right out of the house."

Getting Chewsy

The Hialeah Park Publicity Dept. gleefully reports that the big alligator which invaded the Infield lake in search of flamingo cutlets has been trapped after successfully evading the Gardenia gate catchers who were on display last week...From now on the only bite put on the horse players will come from the Mutuel pool.

Something to Ponder

The New York City Parks Department has decided to let kids under 16 fish in one of the Central Park lakes during September. Maybe last week's boob would be there, but they can go a few blocks east and catch the Third Ave. eel.

Cleaning The Cuff

The Hp Williams-Jesse Flores bout Sept. 23 will be the 13th lightweight title bout staged by the 30th Century Sporting Club and the first outdoors in New York since Leo Ambers and Hank Armstrong fought nine years ago ...Denny Sothern, the old Philly boxing czar, is owner of a fancy night club at New Bern, N.C....Bill Terry, who once didn't like newspaper men much, is giving golf writers a grand welcome at the current amateur championship in Memphis.

Cubs, Not Going Anywhere Themselves, Have a Lot to Say Who Leads National League

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

They aren't going any place themselves, but the Chicago Cubs are having plenty to say in deciding the National League pennant winner.

Mired in the basement almost from the start of the campaign, the Cubs have sauned the role of "spoilers" with a vengeance. They are raising havoc with the league leaders.

First they threw a monkey wrench into the pennant plans of the New York Giants, then the St. Louis Cardinals, then the Boston Braves and now the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Giants were the first to feel the sting of the Bruins. Back on June 9 they were sitting in the driver's seat, having won their game last on the Cardinals. The Cubs proceeded to knock the Polo Grounders right out of first place by taking three out of four.

Three weeks later, on June 28 the Cardinals were waging a neck-and-neck struggle with the Braves for the top rung. Boston had a one-game lead.

The Cubs sent the Cards out of first with their initial three-game sweep at Braves Field after knocking them off three straight.

Only a week ago, the Braves still riding high, arrived at Chicago with an idea to increase their league lead. Instead, the Cubs whipped them three out of four to set the stage for Brooklyn's meeting of the league leaders from Boston the next day.

The Dodgers came to town last Tuesday expecting to fatten up on the cellar-dwellers. The Cubs set them back on their heels by taking the first game of a double-header. The Brooks bounced back the next day to shut out the Cubs.

Instead of fading up, the Grimsters clicked back Thursday, edging out Burt Shotton's pennant-bound Dodgers, 3 to 2, in 10 innings, three games to one.

The defeat cut Brooklyn's first-place margin over the run-ner-up Braves to two percentage points. The Cards, in third place are only a game and a half behind, and the fourth place Pittsburgh Pirates trail by three games.

The Pirates lost an opportunity to pick up ground when they were beaten by the Giants, 5 to 3, in Pittsburgh. They were the only place-club to win in the major leagues yesterday.

Johnny Vander Meer, who was the victim of the Dodgers', shutout Wednesday, came back to pitch the second no-hit, no-run game in baseball history. Only two batters reached first base, both on errors, as the Reds trounced the Boston Braves, 3 to 0.

Ewell Blackwell, who was the victim of the Dodgers', shutout Wednesday, came back to pitch the second no-hit, no-run game in baseball history. Only two batters reached first base, both on errors, as the Reds trounced the Boston Braves, 3 to 0.

250-Yard Drives For Didrickson Quite Common

(By The Canadian Press)

Babe Didrickson Zaharias, United States woman golfer, Thursday lashed 300-yard drives down the fairway of Montreal's suburban Scarboro Golf Club in an exhibition match with Pro Jack Burke.

The Babe, who last year won the Canadian Open title at this course, teamed up with Scarboro's pro, Bob Gray, to defeat Burke and Scarboro's Phil Farley two up.

She made the green on the 345-yard, par-4, 9th hole with two, dropping the ball six feet from the pin. She missed the green part for an eagle. On the 12th, a par 5 hole 465 yards long, she picked up a birdie.

A crack field of Canadian-bred, two-year-olds will contest the $9,000 Coronation Purse at Polo Park in Winnipeg Saturday.

The full field has not yet been disclosed but certain starters include Bill Wright's crowd horses that will likely go postpost to a public choice in the Fairmont and Victor Gift. Lord Fairmont, R. J. Speers' great filly, has been rate slightly over A. G. (Scotty) Kennedy's Sweet Lilly, a mare with fine class showing in the Ontario Kings Plate, when he ran second to Last Mark.

At least six speedboats of the unlimited power class were inclosed Thursday on probable starters in the Silver Cup trophy race to Detroit this week-end. They are Miss Canada III, owned and driven by Ernie Wilson of Orillia, Ont.; Achilla Castoldi's Ambrogio of Italy; R. Hughes Panhard's Blitzboot of San Francisco; Miss Pepsi, Miss Canada and M Ebert-Ann. of Detroit.

Two Ottawa teams won preliminary games and a third took a first-round bye Thursday in opening play of the 13th. Annual Globe and Mail fastball doubles women's lawn bowling tournament in Toronto. First-day winners were Mrs. C. E. Armstrong and Mrs. R. Tunnacliffe, who defeated Richmond Hill 16-14.

Sturdy Eddie Gilan, 197½, Philadelphia, outboxed Patsy Brandino, Hamilton, for 8 rounds at Typpi Stadium in Philadelphia Thursday in holding a unanimous decision before a crowd of 4,500.

North Sydney, N. S., Victoria, having announced they will be represented in the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League this season, Thursday revealed they were negotiating with Howard (Swat) Mason of Hamilton, to team the coaching job.

Promoter Jack Solomons Thursday made a bid to bring heavyweight Joe Louis out of retirement for a title bout in London. Solomon's offer, cabled to Louis' manager, Marshall Miles, asked the champion to "have one more fight" in London.

Merry Way, with Nova Scotia's Joe O'Brien in the saddle, Thursday captured the champion stallion three - year - old pace in the Canadian Trotting program at the Illinois State Fair at Duquoin. The stallion, owned by Gastleton Farms, won both heats in the $8,458 event.

Ray Billows, a laughing printing salesman from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., smashed Frank Sinatra's bid for a golfing "little slam" Thursday at Memphis, Tenn., by blasting the Toledo ties Utan, 6 and 5, in the quarter-finals of the 45th amateur championship.

Montreal Royals Crowned Champs Of Int. League

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals after a year's absence, once again reign as champions of the International League.

Manager Clay Hopper's ball team mathematically clinched the circuit's 1946 pennant Thursday night by defeating the third place Jersey City Giants, 5 to 3, to make the runner up Newark Bears divided first baseheaders with the first place Baltimore Orioles.

The Royals who passed the circuit most of the way, are 13 games ahead of the Bears and have 13 games to play while the Bears have but eight.

For the Royals, it is their third pennant in the last four years. They missed winning last year's flag on the final day of the season when Jersey City nosed them out by a single game.

A three run blank-blank homer by Toronto's Lou Kanesche in the fifth inning helped put the Leafs last year and Thursday's four a ninth inning four, beggar won the flag for Montreal.

Cecer Grimes, who played for Toronto in 1941, belted Montreal's pennant winning homer. The blow came, with the bases empty, off relief pitcher Al Porto. Jack Banta, who started the game in which Montreal lost the flag in 1947, opened for the Royals Thursday night and had retired the side in order in the eighth inning when he was knocked out of the box by a four run blast that enabled the Leafs to tie the score. Big blow of the inning was a triple by Eddie Basinski scoring Vic Harrington.

The first five Leafs to face Banta in the eighth reached base safely. Frank Luja came in but couldn't stem the tide and was replaced by Al Zachary who finally put the Leafs out.

The Orioles downed the Beltz 8-4 in the first game, pounding out 11 hits, including Steve Bilko's 33rd homer. The Bears took the nightcap 4-3 scoring six runs in the eighth inning to win.

In the other fourth place, Rochester Red Wings split a double header, taking the first game 7-6, while the Chiefs turned back Jersey City Giants 4-3.

Insurance Plan Inaugurated In National Loop

Montreal, Sept. 3 — (CP) — Governors of the National Hockey League Thursday launched player pension and insurance plan and talked of a possible 70-game schedule for each club in 1946-50. Conn Smythe, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, proposed at the governors' semi - annual meeting here that the present schedule be lengthened from 60 to 70 games. No change was made in the already prepared 1946 - 48 schedule, and the proposal was held over to the governors' next meeting in the spring.

The hockey moguls gave formal approval to the long - heralded pension plan, retroactive to the 1947 - 48 season. It is a contributory scheme, with the amount of the benefits depending on the player's length of service.

Contracts were awarded for the group insurance scheme, which amounts to a $10,000 straight life policy on each player.

Adoption of the 70-game schedule would probably mean a total of about 10 per cent in players' salaries.

Full schedule for the coming season will be announced next week. Chicago Black Hawks are already scheduled to open at Detroit Red Wings Oct. 12, and Rangers meet Montreal Canadiens Oct. 13. Boston gets under way Oct. 17 at Toronto.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Brute facts do not convince result players. Every so often they give rules the horselaugh. They can do it with a deal like this:

♠10 5 3 2
♥10 7 2
♦None
♣A K Q 8 7 6 3

WEST
♠Q 9 7 6
♥Q 9 5 6
♦A J 9 7 5

EAST
♥K J 3
♦K Q 8 6 3 2
♣J 10 2

SOUTH
♠A K 6 4
♥K 4 2 8 7 6 5
♣10

The correct bidding is like this:

South	North
Pass	1 C
2 H	3 CC
3 H	4 C
4 S	4 NT
5 S	6 S

Answering four no-trump, five spades is Kibitzer convention for showing one ace and two kings. Although six spades is the correct bid by rule, it can take only 12 tricks. Hearts or clubs can take 13.

Even if they know these correct bids, not all would stick in them. Somewhere along the assembly line would enter a judgment bid. The human element would assert itself.

Instead of passing, some would open the south hand with a bid of one heart. It packs a high card for a true opening. But too many players ignore this without knowing they are wrong.

A player could not be blamed very much for opening south with a heart. It may not change the final result if he does. The trouble is that he thinks it is correct.

Some might assist hearts before bidding clubs the third time. Some might show the spade suit before rebidding hearts. It may not affect the result. Trouble is they think they are right.

Without a club opening, hearts can make seven. With any opening lead, clubs can make seven. Whereas spades can make only six. This happens among the 635,013,590,600 hands in a pack.

A deal like such puts rules in Dutch.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

I was sitting on Sid Hunt's front steps talking to him about different subjects such as what the Chinese walk frontwards if it's true they do everything eits backwards, and whether you'd learn the most if you had the world's biggest telescope or the world's most powerful microscope, and just then Shorty Judge came out of his house eating a sandwich, and me and Sid made up a good game to play Sid saying, Hay Shorty, let's play reparations.

How? Shorty said, and I said, You a Germany, and we'll be Russia, and we want reparations.

I bet you mean this spade, don't you? Shorty said, and I said, Aw, only a bite at a time to make it more realistic.

Sure, heck, that old apple is the least important part of it, Sid said. And besides, we'll give you a fair chance. You can start running, and if you get to the corner before we catch you, we lose, and we dont get any of the apple till the next time you run, and not even then if we dont catch you, Shorty said. Like heck, you're both faster runners than I am.

Okay, we'll give you a start, I said, That's fair enough, aint it? I said, and Shorty said, How about me being Russia and you being Germany?

Okay, loan us your apple, Sid said, and Shorty said, Nothing doing, you got to provide your own reparations.

Which by that time there wasn't hardly anything left of the apple, and I said, Hay, stop eating till we decide, cant you?

It's too late now, Shorty said. And he took the last 2 bites saying, Okay, let's play. Which corner do you want me to run to, and how much of a start will you give me? he said.

Aw, run around the block and forget it, Sid said.

Being the end of the subject.

National Policy Toward Fine Arts Is "Crying Need"

Toronto, Sept. 3 — (CP) — A national policy toward the fine arts is a "crying need" in Canada, Sir Ernest MacMillan, Dean of Music at the University of Toronto, said today.

What is needed is "a constituent fostering of the fine arts coupled with a wide dissemination of information regarding our activities," he said in a speech prepared for delivery to a Canadian National Exhibition luncheon.

"Such a policy is a crying need and to tell the truth we are still far behind most countries of the present day in adopting it. As conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra I receive an increasing number of scores year by year from Canadian composers and would welcome more opportunities of bringing many of them before the public.

He told of his "pleasure" last January in conducting a complete program of works by Canadian composers.

"It was well received by those who heard it — and its broadcast . . . housed much interest from coast to coast but it must be confessed that the concert-going public did not respond as we had hoped.

Earlier in his address Sir Ernest noted that serious music had become part and parcel of the lives of millions.

"The radio may inflict some unpleasant noises on us at times, but it has also revolutionized the attitude of countless people of serious music."

But music needed to be performed by people themselves, Gould, said, to discover its greatest rewards.

He quoted a juvenile court judge who said a universal study of music would cut down the number of court cases 50 per cent.

Urge Medical Care For Sex Offenders

Edinburgh (CP)—Psychiatric treatment rather than punishment should be the main consideration in dealing with sex offenders, says a report by Scottish Archbishop Csswell on treatment and rehabilitation.

When an offence appears to be a mere incident in adolescence, prosecution should precede the medical officer or psychiatrist with a view to persons found guilty of, or submit to medical treatment, the report said. In addition cases it recommended probation under skilled supervision be used.

In other cases, when the offender has been proved guilty, the court should consider a psychiatrist's report before making an order. If there was a chance of cases responding to treatment, but not while under prison detention offenders should be placed on probation under a competent psycho-therapist.

Cases which might respond to treatment, but which require restraint, should be committed to prison long enough to ensure completion of treatment. Where there was no chance of treatment succeeding, the sentence should be a period of preventive detention or committal to a mental institution.

Manpower Picture Shows Employment Higher Than Record

Ottawa, Sept. 3 (CP)—The August manpower picture showed employment higher than the record level established last summer and no reserve labor shortages, the labor department reported today in its monthly survey.

Unplaced job seekers registered at National employment offices throughout Canada fell to 91,000 at Aug. 19 from 110,000 in mid-July and 95,000 a year ago. Last year, the survey for August showed a "severe" labor shortage.

In the present period of high seasonal activity, both agriculture and construction continued to make the largest demands for workers. However, except for spot shortages, the farm labor force is "far more adequate than last year" because of immigration.

The survey reported a definite shortage of skilled carpenters and tradesmen and said miner have less labor turnover than is usual for this time of year.

Unplaced applicants and unfilled vacancies (in brackets) in National Employment Service offices throughout the Dominion at Aug. 19 include: Guelph, 217 (243); Hamilton, 2,092 (1,290); London, Ont. 709 (1,383); Oshawa, 1,382 (346); Ottawa, 1,000 (811); St. Catharines, 971 (213); Toronto, 8,703 (9,707); Windsor, 1,626 (467).

Tropical Glacier Once Retreating Moving Ahead Now

Greymouth, N.Z. (CP)— New Zealand's "tropical" glacier, the Franz Josef, which at its lower end runs through fern forests at only 600 feet above sea level, is advancing again after many years of retreat up its valley.

Like glaciers in Canada and Alaska most New Zealand glaciers have puzzled scientists by a large shrinkage in depth and retreat of their terminal faces during most of the present century.

The Franz Josef, which falls precipitously from the Southern Alps, in the South Island moves faster than most glaciers because of its steep fall. Only when it reaches the level forest-covered coastal plain does it flatten out. It is here that the terminal face has been retreating until recently.

The Franz Josef has shown evidence of this retreat for at least 50 years, but the movement became much more rapid after 1934. Between then and 1945 its terminal face moved back about 1100 yards. A lake and a grassy flat were left where there had been ice 600 feet thick in 1893 and 200 feet thick as recently as 1934.

The glacier has always been a great tourist attraction. Once visitors stepped onto the ice from high up the side of the valley. In recent years they have had to approach it by boat across the lake on the valley floor.

In the last year the ice has been advancing again and has reoccupied about 300 yards of the valley. The lake is gradually being filled up with debris from the terminal moraine and if the movement continues it will disappear in about three years.

It is not certain, however, that the advance is permanent and that the terminal face of the glacier will return to its former position. Up to a few weeks ago the ice was advancing 4 feet a day, but this has now dropped to between two and 3 1-2 feet.

ONE CHARGE WITHDRAWN

Barrie, Sept. 3 (CP)—Frank Strothers 18, of Toronto, described by police as confidence man of Toronto's youthful beanery gang, re remanded Wednesday until Sept. 8 on a charge of fighting in a public place.

A second charge of assault was withdrawn at the request of the Crown who said Crown witnesses "either will not or cannot identify their attacker."

The charge arose from a free-for-all gang fight at Wasaga Beach, a Georgian Bay summer resort, last Aug. 22.

NOT TO EXTEND SEASON

Montreal, Sept. 3 (CP)— The Governors of the National Hockey League decided against a proposal of General Manager Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs that the season be extended from 60 to 70 games.

The meeting was still in progress when this action was learned and it was understood that this applied to the 1948-49 season. There was no immediate indication whether an extended schedule was considered for future seasons.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

Over these the sun shone when the tide was low, and the water washed so lightly when the tide was in that it was not safe to stay on the rocks. But in between times there was a lovely time when the water brimmed lazily into the pools, and warmed it to creamy fingers of foam, and all day tiny life there awakened—the crabs scuttled to cover, and the little anemones, the baby echinoms that the Chinese servants used to catch and cook, came like a bunch of floating ribbons out of his hole.

In high tides one remained on the cliff and watched the rollers come tumbling in, to break in arches of emerald and come sprawling up over the sand in interlocking half circles. There was not only a fascination about it, but a sort of soporific, too; I would grow drowsy in the sunshine, breathing in the scent of the sharp sea grasses and listening to the circling gulls, and would fall into long dreams, when life seemed too pleasant to be borne and all my vague hopes and plans easily within my reach.

From the cliff Hillyard House loomed dismal and tall above the tops of the lower trees, with the towering eucalyptus rising to the level of the high ugly chimneys and the little fourth-story cupola that was made entirely of narrow windows and scalloped millwork. It had been a show place once, a heavy suburban mansion of the Victoria era, set down on a bleak headland two hundred miles north of the young city of San Francisco sometime in the eighteen-sixties.

"I suppose they carted brick and cement up by boat," said Munro Wainwright to me one day, finding me leaning on a tottering bit of garden fence, looking up the slight slope of dunes and cliff through the dark garden.

His voice coming from behind me, startled me, but I said without turning:

"I was wondering how — and why — they did it."

"There are just so many old men in the world," said Munro, walking through the dark alleys of the garden beside me, "who went to get away from the places they made their money and buy everything in sight. I don't know where the first Clay Hillyard got his money — he came the 'Ist to Sutter's Fort in 'forty-nine, I believe, in a covered wagon."

"Gold mines, maybe."

"Oh, it was mines. But he had money to start with. It's a Pennsylvania family, and they came in the grand manner."

"The grand manner' in a covered wagon. Somehow they don't seem to fit."

They did, with him. He was a traveler long before he started West, had taken his family to Europe and to the West Indies. Yes, old Clay came with three wagons, two colored servants, and four riding horses for the young ladies of the family."

"I didn't know any of them came that way," I marveled, honestly surprised and deeply and secretly pleased at talking so easily to the stunning Munro.

"Well, then he bought a mine for fourteen hundred dollars, the story goes. That was 'Hillyard's Luck.' And then he built the two miles of coast and hills that they call Hillyard's, the buck stopped. His children didn't like it."

"Too lonely?"

"They scattered and married and died and left children. Our old friend Calhoun Hillyard is the grandson of one, and I believe there was quite an estate," Munro said dryly; "so supply the place with an heir. There were several children of the different branches — they're all duly buried up there in the sand and above the village, where the farm is. Only Lily Boyd, of his family, and she ran away."

"So that if her daughter—this Virginia Carolan — hadn't turned up, our Clay Hillyard — Dr. Hillyard — would have had the whole thing!"

"I suppose so, though really none of the remote line. His father was a Hillyard who died. Clay Hillyard was his stepfather. But everything here is old Calhoun's. He could leave it to anyone — to me, if he wanted to," Munro said. "This isn't a Trollope novel, you know. But I don't suppose you read Trollope?"

"I've read all Trollope," I said, offended. "I've had a position in a public library for years."

"I'd forgotten that. I've never read a Trollope until last year, when I was bored to death here!" Munro confessed. "The library is full of that old junk. Dickens and Talbot Mundy.

"I would hardly put Dickens and Talbot Mundy on a level," I offered, shocked but laughing.

"To this Mr. Wainwright merely said dreamily: "Dear old Dickens! Great guy."

We walked on and presently he said: "Get lonely here?"

"Oh, never! I said enthusiastically.

"She ought to be here in a few days now."

"She may not like it; she may be lonely." I suggested with a faint accent on the pronouns.

"Hope she can't

"Hope she is, I'd like Clay to get the place," he adored it." Munro said. "The famous murder may scare her off."

"The famous murder? I never heard of the famous murder."

"Clay Hillyard's stepfather was murdered here when Clay was in college."

"I didn't know that."

"You knew a place that looked like this would have a murder!"

A sort of chill went over me. It was garish like afternoon, the dimmest hour in all the twenty-four. The sunlight was unfriendly and harsh; the screaming of the gulls was like a menace. Hillyard House, dark in the dark trees, did indeed look like a place where any dreadful deed would be at home.

"Oh, yes — the cupola murder," Munro Wainwright said. "Naturally Clay doesn't talk about it, but no one else does. His stepfather — Clay III, I suppose he was — was discovered out by a hired man they had on the place and dragged back to the cupola. It was days before they found him."

"Where did they think he was?"

"Oh, he was evidently a wanderer. Calhoun Hillyard and his wife had been here at the place alone, with his brother Clay and Clay had come up for a college week end. Airfare, the strident woman, or whatever he was, disappeared — changed his name. Nobody was worrying about the missing man since he had been traced as far as Portland. Then old Calhoun never heaven and earth to find the murderer. Little Mrs. Hillyard's wife went all off her rocker."

4 PERSONS SHOT, 7 WOUNDED BY JAMAICA GUNMEN

Minister, Wife, Mother Are Latest Victims

Kingston Jamaica, Sept. 4 (CP)
—A Presbyterian minister, his wife and his mother-in-law fought for their lives in hospital here today, latest victims in a gunman's reign of terror which has shocked this whole island since Wednesday.

Four persons have been killed and seven wounded.

Rev. H.B. Swabey, pastor of Goshen Church at Lucky Hill 5½ miles from here, was shot Friday by an intruder in his home when he tried to overcome the man.

After the clergyman slumped to the floor, the gunman turned his firearm on the horrified wife and mother and fired a bullet into each of them.

All three were in serious condition today.

A laborer, Jonathan Thomas was killed the same day, Hiding to work near the home of mayor W.A. Bustamante in Kingston, Thomas was stopped by two men who asked for money.

When Thomas said he didn't have any, one of the men fired a bullet into his chest, shouting "Remember those days when you killed! I'm the one who did it." Thomas died later in the hospital.

Reports also were received Friday on one convict shooting another dead inside a Jamaican penitentiary.

Police were unable to say today if there was any connection between Friday's shootings and those of Wednesday, committed by an escaped convict named Ira Martin.

Martin opened the terror campaign by killing a policeman and wounding two others in shooting his way out of a small hotel hideout.

Some hours later he visited three women at a Kingston address, killed one of them and hammered bullets into the other two.

Masaryk, Benes Will be Honored As National Heroes

London, Sept. 4 (Reuters) —News of the death of Edouard Benes, Czechoslovakia's second president, sounded a painful echo to the tragic death less than six months ago of Jan Masaryk, son of that country's first founder-president.

Though Benes' long expected death differed from Masaryk's fall from a fourth storey window, both seemed to bring many personal friends in Britain to be part of the death knell of the Liberal regime in Czechoslovakia. Benes, Thomas Masaryk and his son Jan, now belong to Czechoslovakia's Co-Communist past, which they so largely helped to frame.

As national heroes whose public services place them in a sense above party, all three will continue to be honored and mourned at home as well as abroad.

But there is a strong impression among the London public that Benes was not at home under the new regime and that the course of his illness was hastened by the rigors of his forced public affairs.

It is not forgotten that Benes was a consistent apostle of the view that Czechoslovakia should act as a bridge between east and west and that during the war he incurred some criticism in Britain for deciding to visit Moscow on his own initiative.

No one, it is felt in London both by his admirers and by his own time critics, could have done more or done it more sincerely than he did to secure a genuine understanding with the Soviet Union and with Communism.

Yet there is no doubt here that it was essentially his policy which led to the setting up of the Communist party seized effective control in Prague last February, 1948, when he heard the news of Benes' death, a foreign office spokesman in London expressed deep regret at the "passing of one who played such an outstanding part in the liberation of his country from the Germans during two wars."

LABOR LEADERS EXPRESS OPPOSING VIEWS ON OUTLOOK

Bengough Optimistic, While Mosher Gloomy

Ottawa, Sept. 4 (CP)—Dissenting views on the fortunes of Canadian workers and expressed by the heads of Canada's two National Labor Congresses in Labor Day messages.

President Percy Bengough of the Trades and Labor Congress says Canadians generally are doing all right and the future outlook is good.

President A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Congress of Labor says poverty, distress and economic insecurity are widespread in the Dominion.

Says Workers Fortunate

President Bengough declares Canadians are "indeed fortunate" by comparison with workers in other countries, and he adds "the prospects for the next few years also look favorable."

"Unemployment in Canada," he adds, "has every right to celebrate this Labor Day as a success story."

Mr. Mosher, however, claimed government and industry had failed to protect the workers.

"There can be no excuse in a country so richly endowed as Canada for the fact that poverty and distress which are still prevalent throughout the Dominion.

"Although the organized workers have been able to protect their interests to a considerable extent, many workers are unorganized and their living standards are far from adequate to maintain health and decency. The lack of housing has become a national scandal, and there is still widespread economic insecurity.

Good Year Says Mitchell

Labor Minister Mitchell said Canada had "enjoyed another year of high employment, high wages and sound family security."

He said the country had had the benefit of generally wise leadership, and that the organized workers "are satisfactory" conditions and continue to do their part.

Labor and management were cautioned by the Minister against bringing on a vicious spiral of wages and prices.

What Canada needed was greater stability in both wages and prices, Mr. Mitchell declared, both labor and management would "find themselves much better off than when participating in a race in which there is no final goal."

Mr. Mitchell appealed to all parties to co-operate in the operation of the new federal labor code which went into effect Sept. 1. If defects in the code were revealed through experience, he said, "careful consideration would be given to amending it.

Drain on Canada's Reserve U.S. Funds Halted Says Howe

Great Increases Noted In Canadian Exports

Toronto, Sept. 4 (CP)— The drain on Canada's reserves of United States dollars "has been stopped" and there "has been a modest increase in these reserves" Reconstruction Minister Howe said today.

"In an analysis of Canada's position in world trade and her manufacturing and natural resources he said in a speech prepared for delivery to a Canadian National Exhibition luncheon, that national income and employment "will reach their highest levels this year."

He noted a great increase in Canada's exports aided by postwar expansion in many areas.

"Compared with pre-war, our exports last year had about trebled, having risen from about $700,000,000 in 1938 to almost $2,800,000,000 in 1947. we now are the third exporting country in the world.

"Canada's $230 per capita of exports last year was more than double the per capita of the United States or of the United Kingdom."

In 1947 manufactured products had first place among total exports and accounted for "a little less than 60 per cent."

There were "significant" changes in Canada's working forces, population shifts having expanded the industrial working force and in the central provinces and on the Pacific Coast.

He said he was having an analysis made of the "ultimate effect of Canada's current investment program,' but without having the results of the analysis at hand "I can predict with confidence that Canada's position or shortage in domestic markets will come to an end during 1948."

$15 Million Production

He outlined the effect of the $15 million dollar-a-year program, including the establishment of a new industry in Canada.

"In the past, there has been a tendency to feel that we are not ready to face competition with the U.S., he said. "Today, such an assumption is no longer justified.

Manufacturers were justifiee in viewing the future "with restrained optimism.'

"Until now," Mr. Duplessis said, "self-overs were being thrown in Labrador, and the country became polluted..those leftovers now are a source of revenue, for they are being used to produce things that are in great demand."

On housing, the Quebec leader said his government would be happy to co-operate with Ottawa in solving the housing shortage, but insisted on doubling the one feature of new Quebec housing laws which calls for payment of three per cent interest on loans to builders of low-cost dwelling homes and up to $10,000 for double-dwelling houses.

DUPLESSIS ASKS CO-OPERATION IN QUEBEC FIGHT

Premier Charges Ottawa Has Allowed "Notorious Communists" Into Canada

Quebec, Sept. 4 (CP)—Premier Duplessis Friday night asked Ottawa's co-operation in the Quebec government in its fight against Communism.

Charging Ottawa had allowed "notorious Communists" into Canada as a result of "careless immigration policies" Mr. Duplessis said the province alone could not cope.

"I hope federal authorities will collaborate with the Quebec government in its fight against Communism."

The Premier also renewed his attack on the award of Labrador to Newfoundland in 1927.

"Quebec has given it the greater part of this natural wealth in the Province of Quebec," he said. "The dividing line between Labrador and Quebec, fixed by the Privy Council, appears to be responsible for its development and never will I accept pretentions of Newfoundland with regard to it."

(A court government map issued earlier this year showed no boundary line between Quebec and Labrador.)

Discussing Northern Quebec's forgotten region, the rapid rise in industrialism developing from mines estimate 250,000,000 tons of iron ore, Mr. Duplessis said:

"Industrialists exploiting iron mines in Ungava would be more than positive of the presence of 250,000,000 tons of iron ore when they already have spent $3,000,000 for preliminary works."

New Seamen of Canada

The Premier also mentioned recent talks he had with two Gaspe coast region industrialists, S. J. Irving, president of the Gaspe Canadian International Paper Company, and Col. Price, president of Corporation President, on the idea of forming a sub-products.

A $1,500,000 factory recently announced as no longer justified.

Manufacturers were justifiee in viewing the future "with restrained optimism.'

"Until now," Mr. Duplessis said, "self-overs were being thrown in Labrador, and the country became polluted..those leftovers now are a source of revenue, for they are being used to produce things that are in great demand."

On housing, the Quebec leader said his government would be happy to co-operate with Ottawa in solving the housing shortage, but insisted on doubling the one feature of new Quebec housing laws which calls for payment of three per cent interest on loans to builders of low-cost dwelling homes and up to $10,000 for double-dwelling houses.

Wilhelmina Abdicates After 50 Years of Rule and Presents Her Daughter, Juliana, as Queen

Amsterdam, Sept. 4 — (CP) — Wilhelmina, for 50 years Queen of The Netherlands, today presented her daughter Juliana to cheering crowds in Dam Square as their new queen.

Queen Juliana' said she felt a great sorrow The Netherlands in future would miss the wisdom and experience of Wilhelmina.

"But we can do one thing. We can keep on striving after the ideas for which you — my mother —have been standing firm, and to practice them."

Saying good-bye, Wilhelmina, who has ruled as Her Royal Highness, The Princess of The Netherlands, thanked her people for their confidence during the years of her reign.

"I thank you for the good will and warmth with which you have always surrounded me," she said.

Queen Wilhelmina signed the instrument of abdication in her study at the hall.

The instrument, read by Dr. Marianus Steenberg, director of the Queen's secretariat, was written in Old Dutch capitals on a large parchment scroll bearing an imposing red seal.

Call for Silence

In the long oblong room to see the Queen sign the historic document were Juliana and her husband, Prince Bernhard; the chairman of the states-general; cabinet ministers and members of the delegations from Indonesia and Dutch New Guinea.

As the first stroke of noon ranged from the thousand square, a call for silence was broadcast.

As the last of the 12 strokes died away, Wilhelmina and her daughter stepped on to the balcony.

A mighty cheer lasted some time before Wilhelmina spoke her few simple words announcing her abdication.

Wilhelmina will make one more public appearance, at the investiture of Queen Juliana Monday, and then she will pass quietly from public life to her palace by the seat at Scheveningen, near The Hague.

The investiture will be held in the Nieuwe Kerk (New Church) near the palace. The ceremony will be attended by diplomats from all over the world, and officials from the royal houses of Europe.

Husband Named Prince

Juliana's husband, Bernhard, German-born sportsman is the father of the Princess, already has been named Princess of The Netherlands.

At Monday s investiture Juliana will wear a sapphire-blue gown beneath the royal robe Wilhelmina wore when she ascended the throne as a girl of 18, half a century ago.

The new queen ordered pink flowers for the investiture 18th Century Church. She has had enough for the present of orange-colored African marigolds decorating all Holland for the jubilee for the past week and prefers begonias.

In contrast to the high tiara her mother wore in 1898, Juliana will appear in a tiny stringed cap crowned with a fine diamond, and decorated with smaller diamonds, pearls and rubies.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, wartime chief of the Canadian Armed Army which fought in The Netherlands, will represent Canada at the ceremony.

Its business spends $1,000,000 a year, is housed and manned in 1917 by owners of Canada's leading dailies and weeklies, each of their own districts among each other. Tropical Twister Causes Damage Of $400,000

St. John's Nfld., Sept. 4 (CP)— The south coast of this Atlantic island was still counting the damage today after Thursday's beating by a hurricane.

After smashing across Cape Race on Island — tearing Signal and Glace Bay dark and rubble-ridden — the tropical twister ripped across southern Newfoundland Thursday night, ripping off rooftops, demolishing a church, sending boats onto rocks and whipping power and telephone lines.

With the counting not half over today, damage was estimated at more than $400,000.

But one thing for which Newsoundlanders and Cape Bretoners alike can thank was the absence of fatalities and serious injuries.

One fishing vessel was lost on the rocks at Piccadilly, while another was reflosted after the storm.

French trawler. Joseph Du Hamel, but made port Friday, leaking badly. A diver made temporary repairs while crew members and Longshoremen worked the locks.

Scrap were flattened and as important breakwater at the fishing port of Lamaline was smashed by the hurricane winds.

The Anglican church at Port aux Port was completely demolished to bring damage in that area up to $200,000, while the pier at Anguilhina limestone quarry was smashed to pieces at a cost of $150,000.

"This was the worst storm in the island's history, stormwise fishermen said.

Today the hurricane was blowing itself out over the Atlantic.

Centre of Gulf Hurricane Passes Over New Orleans, Heads for Mississippi Coast

New Orleans, Sept. 4 (AP)— The centre of a gulf hurricane passed over this area today just after dawn and headed toward the Mississippi coast.

The United States Weather Bureau said at 8:30 a. m. EDT that a calm indicated the centre or "eye" of the storm was over the city.

The bureau predicted winds would pick up again almost the previous velocity of 93 to 80 miles an hour after the "dead" eye passed to the northeast.

As the city was covered by the calm, a rain of 75 miles an hour and gusts up to 95 miles an hour were reported at Moisant International airport, 15 miles to the west.

The Weather Bureau said the centre would also pass just west of Biloxi, Miss., later today.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 persons in the New Orleans area had left their homes before day break, fleeing to more sturdy buildings or to higher ground.

There was a threat of widespread flooding.

Lake Pontchartrain, to the north of the city, was rising from six inches to a foot an hour. At 7:30 a.m. EDT United States Army engineers said the lake level was nearly five feet above sea level.

The hurricane, which formed Friday in the Gulf of Mexico, rapidly swept 350 miles up to the coast and crossed it about 70 miles southwest of here, between the resort of Grand Isle and the shrimp-fishing centre, Morgan City.

It was moving northeastward at about 18 miles an hour.

Tribute Paid To Dr. E. Benes By St. Laurent

Ottawa, Sept. 4 — (CP) — Dr. Edvard Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia, was "a great man whose death all Canadians will deeply regret," Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday.

In Mr. St. Laurent's tribute to Dr. Benes, made in the House today: The name of Edvard Benes is written large in the history of Europe and takes honorable place among those who, during our time, have been foremost in the fight for freedom.

A disciple and friend of Thomas Masaryk, whose successor he was in the presidency, he and Premier Edvard Benes was one of the founders and builders of the free democratic Czechoslovak republic to which he dedicated his whole life of public service.

On the day when, as a young man of 26, he was appointed by foreign flaks; through long years of exile and service in wartime aircraft as president after the retirement and death of his beloved master, Masaryk; in exile after the betrayal of Munich; as president-in-exile, he was the undent again of a restored Czechoslovakia — a country he loved tirelessly and with infinite resourcefulness, and served with honor.

Twice in his lifetime, in 1918 and again in 1945, he held his countrymen out of the bondage of foreign oppression. But his lifetime he was forced to witness the destruction of their freedom.

Addressing both Houses of the Canadian Parliament in May, 1943, Dr. Benes declared his allegiance, and that of his country, to "the principles of democratic life, to the principles of spiritual and religious freedom, and to the ideals of peace and peaceful international collaboration." Those were the noble principles that guided until the very end, the life of the great man whose death all Canadians lament. He was a patriot and a statesman, a devoted believer in national and individual freedom, a great European and a good citizen of the world.

At Home With the Refugees

BY ROY L. SMITH

Terrorism, pogroms and persecutions are no novelty to the Jews. Two thousand years ago, in the Ancient Roman Empire, they were the victims of savagery and ruthless hostilities.

Expelled From Rome

In the city of Rome, capital of the Empire, there was a colony of some eight thousand Jews about the time that Paul was converted to Christianity along the Damascus Road.

Irritated by some trifle which he considered to be Jews, the Emperor Claudius had ordered every Hebrew out of the city within the space of a few hours. Accustomed as we are to the tales of evacuations and of refugee bands, it is easy to understand something of the desperate plight in which the unhappy victims found themselves.

Without civil rights, with no assurance of protection, and with every man's hand against them, they took to the highways and wandered.

A Tentmaker And His Wife

Among the refugees there was a tentmaker by the name of Aquila, and his brilliant wife, a woman by the name of Priscilla. Nothing whatever is known of them so far as their residence in Rome is concerned, but it is very apparent that they were a superior pair because of the distinguished position into which they presently elevated Christianity.

The city of Corinth, situated astride a four mile isthmus which separated the Aegean and the Mediterranean, was the most important seaport of the East. Shipping crowded its two harbors the year round and provided employment for sail makers and workers in cloth. There Aquila had set up his shop and was engaged in establishing himself again in his business. There, also, Paul the tentmaker found him and from him secured employment.

Preaching to Workingmen

The Christian movement in Corinth began in a sail maker's shop, when Paul got into conversation with other workers and told them the story of his conversion along the Damascus Road. The loom of the sail maker's shop, together with his wife, seemed to have been the means of converts.

There is considerable evidence, likewise, that the East was in the first grip of a depression at this time and that there was a lull in the shipping business. Quite evidently Paul must have been a tireless workman and Aquila's shop must have soon had managed in order to survive.

The Mens Epistles

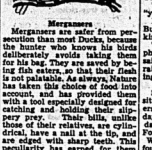
Paul was driving by an eagerness to tell the Christian story as fast and as far as possible, and Aquila may have had the feeling that business might be better in Ephesus. At any rate, after some months in Corinth, the three of them—Paul, Aquila, and Priscilla — shipped for the great metropolis of Asia Minor and there began to establish themselves again. Aquila and Priscilla in the tent business and Paul as a workingman and preacher.

The Sunday School lesson for September 5: "Aquila and Priscilla," Acts 18:1-3, 18-26; Romans 16:3-5a; 1 Corinthians 16:19; II Timothy 4:19.

The city of Ephesus was the great cultural centre of that part of Asia and famous scholars from all over the world came to the city to teach and preach. One day there arrived a famous Jewish lecturer from Alexandria, in Egypt, who hired a lecture hall and began preaching to crowds. In some way not explained in the New Testament, he had become familiar with the teachings of John the Baptist (a considerable colony of Johnites were to be found in Ephesus) and with the great eloquence and learning he expounded the new doctrines in the light of the old scriptures.

The Tentmaker Converts a Prize

Aquila and Priscilla, attracted by the brilliant preaching of Apollos, the Alexandrian, listened to him eagerly. Then, seizing upon some favorable opportunity, they engaged him in a conversation in the course of which they told him the story of Jesus and His resurrection.



The vast learning of the Alexandrian, and his simple earnestness of the tentmaker combined sharply, but in the end the refutation won the day and Apollos was converted. Thereupon he became one of the most effective of all the Christian preachers. The references to him in the New Testament are fragmentary, but perfectly plain. He became one of the towers of strength in the infant Christian movement, contributing exactly what the Church needed at that juncture in its history—learning and prestige.

But it was a layman who won that triumph, and to him must go the credit for one of the most significant victories of the Christian movement.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

Merganzers

Merganzers are safer from persecution than Mallard Ducks, because the hunter who knows his birds unfortunately avoids taking them for his table as he is set by the luring fish eaters, so that their flesh is not palatable. A natural feature has taken this choice of food into consideration, and has provided them with a tool especially designed for catching and holding their slippery prey. Their bills, unlike those of their relatives, are cylindrical, but small at the tip, and are edged with sharp teeth. This peculiarity has earned for them the name "Saw-bills".

The bird and his mate are somewhat odd, being developed into flat pated laddies similar to those of Sea Ducks. They dive and chase the fish under water, using their wings as well as their feet like propellers. The fishing is often done in large numbers, and the Merganzers spreading out into a long front line and driving simultaneously. Only when severe early frosts freeze the lakes do they leave their small, fresh water lakes and ponds do they take to salt water. They change their diet to crustaceans and mollusks.

Salt Lake City (AP)—A Pocatello, Idaho, youth enlisted in the United States navy Tuesday with this comment.

"Dad says he'll draft me in a little while anyway, so I may as well 'd best him to the draw and enlist."

The youth is Samuel Allen Dunn, 18.

Every day members of a safety committee travel Decatur's streets looking for a safe driver. When they find one, they take his picture for the newspapers and give him $5.

Thursday, after two days of fruitless search, an elderly man appeared to have his picture in the bag. The committee car dogged his trail for blocks and he didn't make a slip.

But as the committee car moved up to take the award the street suddenly was jammed with horn-tooting automobiles.

The man was trying to park his car, and was so slow that he had traffic tied up for two blocks.

He didn't get the prize.

Chico, Calif. (AP)—Highway traffic north of here had to be rerouted Thursday as chemicals, fire and water were employed in a battle against swarms of angry bees.

The Highway Patrol said a truck carrying beehives knocked down a pole and overturned when the driver fell asleep.

Jersey City, N.J. (AP)— Mrs. Julia Curtis, after 100 years of living, says the present generation "knows nothing."

She attributes her long life to "good living," including six or seven hours of sleep a night.

The elderly lady voiced her approval of the New Deal in women's clothing. Wearing lonsish dresses herself, she commended at her birthday celebration Thursday she doesn't "like to see girls' legs ....some of them aren't so good, anyhow."

UNIVERSAL WORD

"Taboo," meaning forbidden, is a Polynesian term for which equivalents can be quoted from most savage vocabularies.

Brighteners

Cambridge City, Ind. — Mrs. Clinton Thomas has the best situation in her home "in the bag."

Bothered for two summers by a swarm of bees, Mrs. Bertsch finally decided to plant the seeds of her vacuum cleaner over the hole where they enter.

But the bees don't know they were licked. Mrs. Bertsch says she empties a gallon of bees from her cleaner bag three times a week.

West Palm Beach, Fla. — A small ad in the Post - Times Wednesday read:

"Missing: Tigress. Answers to name of 'Tilly.'"

It threw residents into a dither.

Police said they learned the tigress, a pet, belonged to John Hopkins, a Palm Beach yacht broker, and that it disappeared Tuesday.

The tigress was described as "young and of medium size."

Police wanted to know more. But they couldn't locate Hopkins.

The Post - Times had a telephone call from someone who said he had seen a tiger "on the railroad track" and "he was going to his dinner."

San Francisco — The baby - sitting Brooklyn football Dodgers were on hand to help another baby night for their game Sunday with the San Francisco Forty-niners.

With them the Dodgers brought four-year-old Sandra Bjorkvall - Garde of Oslo, Norway, to join the third baby present, Mrs. and Mrs. Gosta Ederg. They met the child at the plane.

The Dodger rookie, the boy, who speaks no English, was a little shy at first but he quickly loosened up and enjoyed the fun.

The football team stepped into the breach when it learned baby-sitting facilities were limited because airline regulations in the United States require a child under eight be accompanied by an adult.

African Colony To Take Census Of Its Natives

Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, (AP) — A census experiment which is being watched with great interest by the Economics and Social Council of the United Nations is at present being undertaken in Southern Rhodesia.

Twenty-four men will spend the next two months visiting nearly 2,900 native kraals scattered throughout the colony to get as far as possible an accurate total of the African population of Southern Rhodesia.

This scheme, it is understood, may later be applied in other African territories and result in more accurate assessment of the total population of the African continent for the first time in history.

The United Nations is interested because this is the first time such a method has been tried in Africa," said J. R. H. Shaul, census director for Southern Rhodesia.

"If it is a success, other African territories will undoubtedly follow. What is urgently required is not much the exact population figures as the rate of growth."

Mr. Shaul said that the colony itself would benefit from possession of reliable figures on birth and death rates, infant mortality rates, fertility statistics and the age distribution of the African races.

Draft proposals for a sample census of the African population of the colony were prepared in August, 1947, and reviewed by a sub-commission on statistical sampling at Lake Success.

He said that in recent years a new method known as "sampling" had been tried with success in the United States, Canada and Britain. Today, for the first time, it was to be applied to census-taking among Africans.

Mr. Shaul said a completed sample census of the native population was practically impossible in the case of a large illiterate population. With the European population, however, "sampling" was thrown to the householder, but with the native populations the enumerator had to fill in the forms himself.

Native experts, he said, claimed that the sampling method was more likely to produce a complete enumeration. A limited number of enumerators was employed and the cost of human error was thus reduced to a minimum. At the same time results could be obtained more rapidly and at much lower cost.

On reaching each kraal, said Mr. Shaul, the enumerator would get in touch with the headman and explain the purpose of the census. Those born in the kraal would be visited in turn and particulars of everyone would be recorded. Each inhabitant would be recorded in one of three age groups — under one year, one year and over up to the age of puberty, and over the age of puberty. Deaths during the past 12 months would also be noted.

Watch Out for Children

Now that schools throughout the district will be opening in a few days it is not out of place to remind motorists to employ extra caution. During the summer the usual care in driving past schoolhouses is not observed as carefully as during the school terms. Highways Minister Doucett states that school opening is the greatest danger period for child traffic deaths. That is something to be remembered.

The Hitch-Hiking Nuisance

A college under-graduate who is working some distance outside the city remarked the other day that hitchhiking is not quite so easy as it had been earlier in the season. He seemed to think that motorists were a selfish lot of people. He remarked that car after car, most of them only partly filled, would pass him by with hardly a glance.

What this young man did not know or lost sight of was the fact that a number of kind-hearted motorists have been victims of young thugs whom they picked up in the mistaken idea of giving a helpless hand. One driver was severely punched, and eventually dropped out on a lonely road while the strangers drove off with his car.

The wide publicity given to this case and to others with much the same history is having its effect on pick-ups. The Brockville Recorder and Times, a while ago, estimated that about 150 hitch-hikers travel westward daily on No. 2 Highway. The paper also said that most of them were able bodied and over school age.

There is not much excuse for hitch-hiking on our main highways and those who do it are playing the motorists for suckers. None of them can be in so great a hurry that they have to hitch-hike. Bus and train services are sufficiently frequent that they can reach their destinations without too much loss of time. However, if car drivers will get wise to themselves they can stop this nuisance. They will be safer if they ignore the outstretched arm waving languidly in the direction these characters wish to go.

Counting Ontario's Mighty Moose

Of all North American deer, the moose is the mightiest. Any wanderer in the forest who has seen, or even heard, one of the great creatures of half a ton or more thundering through the obstructing underbrush, will have no doubt whatever about the bulk and strength of the animal. It is this massive size and power of the moose which arouses admiration, not its appearance. With its high shoulders, immense muzzle, massive antlers and ungainly body, the bull moose has a grotesque figure that would have no chance at all in a beauty contest. Aloes americana is a rugged beauty as it thrusts through the shallows of a northern lake like a scow in a gale.

About this fascinating animal surprisingly little scientific information appears in the text books, as any hopeful reader soon discovers. It is to the credit of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology that this is now being remedied. Under the leadership of Mr. R. L. Peterson of the Museum's division of mammals, intensive research is in progress again this year as it was in 1946-47. By canoe and plane, on foot through the tangled undergrowth of forests, Museum specialists have trailed the moose in areas from the remoter reaches of Algonquin Park to the islands of Lake Superior and the wilderness beyond that lake. It is a fact-finding project on a scale never before attempted in North America. Moose numbers, habits, haunts and every fact of value contributing to the knowledge and preservation of the species is being thoroughly investigated, so that the mighty moose might be saved from the doom of extinction.

Best Liked Hymns

A poll organized by the Daily Express shows that "Abide With Me" is the most popular of all hymns sung in Britain — twice as popular as the next best.

Readers were invited to say which hymns they would most like to see included in the proposed new edition of Hymns Ancient and Modern.

Tying for second place are "Lead Kindly Light" and "The Day Thou Gavest, Lord is Ended."

The well-known hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past," came in fourth place, while "Jesu, Lover of My Soul" and "Praise My Soul" tied for sixth in popularity.

The sailors' hymn "Eternal Father" is high on the list (8th), just ahead of the Passion hymn, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Versions of the 23rd Psalm were popular in 11th and 17th places.

"Rock of Ages" was 13th, but the martial hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" was only 20th.—London Recorder.

JUST FOLKS

RAINY DAY

Children, on a rainy day
Forced to stay indoors to play,
Tug and tussle, shriek and shout;
Gleefully they race about.
Noise has learned, or ever will,
Any way to keep them still.

Outdoors sad spinsters miss romances as this,
When there comes a rainy day
And they rooms they stay—

Silence, dismal and profound—
Nothing there to make a sound.

In a lonely house I've stayed,
One where noise is seldom made.
No one now to race about,
Tug and tussle, shriek and shout,
And, 'twixt noise and stillness, I
Ask for noise until I die.

History of Canadian Press To be Published in Nov.

Toronto, Sept. 4 — (CP)—M. Nichols' history of The Canadian Press will be published in November, the Ryerson Press announced today.

The book, written in two years by the 75-year-old Vancouver newspaperman, is a record of co-operative news gathering in Canada with its paralleling story of the development of newspapers across the Dominion.

Much of it is devoted to a narrative of the controversial happenings that led to the founding of The Canadian Press in 1917, a story of the many colorful personalities who fought and won the hard battle for the means of giving the Canadian people a quick and accurate news report.

The 10 years between 1907 when the Western Associated Press, forerunner of CP, was formed, and the establishment of the National Association held constant clashes among newspaper publishers and between them and other interests. Mr. Nichols, who took part in the battle from the start, has recorded them in detail.

The 320-page work, as yet unlitled, also contains the record of the steady but less spectacular later developments of CP and the way it brought Canadians the story of the fighting men in two wars.

Mr. Nichols started work on the book independently after his retirement as publisher of the Vancouver Province and, writing most of the 110,000 words in longhand, completed it on schedule two years later.

Founders of the CP had talked for years of the need for a history of the stirring early days and Mr. Nichols' retirement presented an opportunity which fellow publishers grasped. They urged on him that no one was more fitted for the task.

He was closely identified with the formation of the W. A. P., was elected for years at every annual gle before 1917 and was active in CP affairs during its years of greatest growth.

When he accepted, Mr. Nichols faced the massive and unwieldy job of going through 4,-000,000 words of documents to confirm his memory of events as long as 40 years ago. He travelled right across Canada several times and went to Ottawa to study the files of the Department of Labor as basis for formation of a national co-operative. He consulted veteran newspaper men and their families for months of research.

In the actual writing of the book Mr. Nichols drew on the memories of his 52 years in newspaper work to build on the structure of fact the human interest story of CP's birth and progress.

HOUSE BLOWS UP

Salt Lake City, Sept. 4 (AP) — A family of five escaped injury Friday night when their home smelled what they thought was gas in their house and refused to enter the dwelling. A few minutes later the house blew up, scattering glass through the neighborhood and toppling one wall onto an adjacent dwelling.

BLOWN OUT OF HOUSE

Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 4 (AP)—Donald Bowker, 27, and his wife were blown out of their house late Friday night by an explosion attributed to a defective stove. They suffered second degree burns and were in critical condition today at a Syracuse hospital. The blast splintered the front wall of their two-storey home.

STRENGTH for The Day

FAITH IN THE LIVING GOD

The assassination of Mahatma Gandhi shocked and grieved every right-minded person. Multitudes throughout the world have agreed with Gandhi and many disagreed with him, but among both classes, and it is doubtful if there was the feeling that in many ways Gandhi was a truly religious man and that he set a noble spiritual example in a world which largely lives under the fascination of things.

Central to all Gandhi's thinking was a profound belief in the power of the living God. He once wrote:

"I have a living faith in a living God even as I have a living faith in many things that scientists tell me. You can realize God as I do, and it is the greatest thing to his realization. The trouble is that many do not want to follow the path. Fortunately the vast majority of people do have a living faith in a living God. God is beyond the senses."

It is with this faith with which Gandhi closes this statement also demonstrates his greatness.

"Misery so-called is not misery, nor riches so-called riches. Forgetting or denying God is true misery, remembering or faith in God is true riches."

National Film Board Issuing Piece on Evils of Narcotics

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Sept. 4 (CP)—The National Film Board currently is leasing a powerful piece on the evils of the narcotics traffic in Canada, and behind it lies the shocking story of the cost in sale of the missing dope fiend.

The film, completed to the film, which deals largely with the treatment of users of narcotics, the Board went into the larger Canadian cities and, with the help of their police, hunted out confirmed drug addicts.

In one instance a member of the Film Board crew bunted out an addict, hired him, gave him his instructions and told him to report the following day for the opening of the shooting schedule.

Next day came, but the addict failed to appear and stopped to be deferred. The same thing happened the following day.

On the third day, the addict was found—in jail on a drug charge.

And on the police blotter was the name of the Film Board man who had hired him. The addict had given it as an alias on arrest. The Mystery Man

Members of the government's delegation to planning expedition, just returned from a six-week jaunt within the circle, said they don't know if there'll ever be another. They told of one incident when, cold, hungry and sopping wet, they dropped their Otter aircraft in a tiny Roman Catholic mission and received warmth, shelter and food. Eventually, someone noticed that the mission clocks all were a half-hour slow.

The mission priests explained that they were delayed on a hunting expedition some days ago and returned to find that the Eskimo lay brothers, with "helpful" equipment on the hummer, they set the clocks by guess.

"You'd be amazed," said one member of the expedition, "at how downright grateful they were to get the correct time."

Czechoslovakia's Edouard Benes died a victim of misplaced trust, for there is no doubt his stout heart was broken by the fact that the Soviet Union betrayed he helped found and twice served as president.

Benes placed trust in Russia, only to see the government of the little country fall prey to Communists in a coup last February. He was unable to withstand the tragedy if he could, but in the extremity he was helpless.

Fellow Statesmen

The conquering Communists, reported taking over administration of Russian police, browbeat Benes until he was a wreck. Then came the virtual end of the Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk, son of Dr. Thomas Masaryk, founder of the republic and Benes' life-long friend. The Communists said Masaryk committed suicide in his death from a window of the foreign office, but none who claim to know say he was the victim of foul play.

Thus the aged Benes resigned the presidency—a broken disillusioned man. The Communist government still called him President in the announcements as he lay in death. And well they might for Benes was the last of the non-Communist slaved people. He remains their leader as they struggle through the years of the Soviet Curtain to dawn of freedom.

Victim of Misplaced Trust

So Benes was the victim of a misplaced trust, but one has sympathy for him. Certainly self may be had no other choice than to cast the lot of his people with Russia. Geography and history made the pawn of mistaken efforts at appeasement of the western European powers — he who was dedicated to his ideals than many westerners themselves. He had seen his country's bulwarks and sacrifices in the ruinous demands of Hitler. Finally he had seen Czechoslovakia crushed by the hobnailed boots of the Nazi army.

Undoubtedly Benes must have had his bitterness for and mistrust as Russia imposed her will on country after country and flung the Iron Curtain around Europe. He was a statesman of broad experience and scarcely could have avoided suspicions regarding the rapidly-developing Communist aggression. However, by that time it was too late for him to join with the Western World. Czechoslovakia was a prisoner in the Red host of satellites.

Thus I think we must conclude

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Owing to the increasing interest in health and hygiene, Dr. Brady, who has devoted years of study to these subjects, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and write in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received Dr. Brady cannot answer them personally. He reply can be made to queries not conforming to these rules. Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

BELOW THE PORCINE LEVEL

(My optometrist friend — another of those good friends I have never met—occupies the bull pen today, and it is up to me not to bear what he has to say (Doc Brady.)

Dear Mr. Brady:

Living on the belly level seems to appeal to the low health intelligence of the general population. Near my office is a bakery. What do people buy there? Diabetes fodder, generally—refined carbohydrates baked in vitamin free bread. In the drug store down at the corner most of the customers who eat breakfast there choose diabetes fodder—rolls and coffee, doughnuts and coffee, toast and coffee, all wolfed down in a hurry, without a chance at any salivary digestion.

Everyone knows that the energy requirements of the body are considerably less for sedentary living than for those who live in the fields, soldiering, hard manual labor or athletic activity. That's why not eat less if the energy requirements are less? No! The unhealthy level of porcine living demands that it be-and-so eat all the bad will hold-over. I often wonders why he puts on slacker fat. He is not a glutton and he carries a package of (a sandwich) to work, presumably to debauch with. Impunity — for dessert he eats fruit. Each every day that excesses of eating and drinking are harmless as long as he takes the hedrium with the pain-killer ingredient . . . Incidentally these individuals are persons who explain that "obesity runs in our family," and it usually does! Every member of the family eats like a hog, in one way, the relative quantity of food consumed; but not like a hog in another way, for a hog, as a rule, gets more or less natural, unrefined food, whereas the fathead scorns natural food — his food must be refined, processed, sterilized, homogenized, pasteurized, exploded, purified, concentrated, fortified, and, otherwise it is not fit for human consumption. Am I exaggerating? I believe.

In view of the unawareness and the timidity of most of your readers and the aggressiveness of the food manipulators, I sometimes wonder whether you have the courage to keep hammering away at this fundamental health problem.

(Signed)

An occasional testimonial like yours, sir, and the incidental remarks in letters from readers who seek advice, does give me not just the courage to keep harping on the subject, but the backbone that my preaching or teaching is doing some good.

Here, if flattering, smark of the time, your letter is enough in itself to keep me hammering away.

But I remain well repaid for about ten years of Brady.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Lobster or Crayfish

Is it safe to drink coffee and eat salmon at the same meal? Some say a poison developed from the combination. (F. B. Ill.)

Answer—If you like the spicy flavor that is found in crayfish, some and healthful for you. Another reader (Mrs. Ethel Brown) was quoted for me by a kindly old soul when I ordered ice cream and lobster for lunch. Said Ped-ro his heart, was really worried less about the lobster than the cream on it. If you don't care for cream on your lobster, you'll find that your oysters it is safe to avoid the combination. Otherwise it is wholly a question of individual taste.

Silly

Is it injurious in any way to keep the nails clean? I have been told polished with red nail polish? (S. O. L.)

Answer—No. I suppose the silly parents put French heels and rouge and lipstick on the baby.

Waldzar on Eggs

Accept my hearty congratulations and admiration for your article "Waldzar on Eggs" published two years ago. It has proved of inestimable value in the establishment of many heart cases.—(M.D.)

Answer— Thank you, Doctor. Experience proves that early morning eggs are the best breakfast, than unduly prolonged immobilization is a serious heart disease.

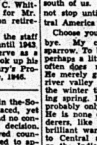
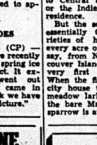
The Packsack

By Gregory Clark



The time has come to say good bye to the migrating birds. They are on their way. Millions of them, Canadian born, are already in the United States. In field, country by country, state by state, the republic to the south of us will keep them until they stop until they reach Central America by easy stages.



Somehow your eye is not good-bye. My choice is the song sparrow. To bid him good-bye is perhaps a little difficult because he often does not leave us at all. He likes to nest by the edge of a river valley near-by and spends the winter there, quietly awaiting the spring. He comes back probably only a little way south. He is one of the stay-at-homes, like some of the tiny sparrows that spend their journey to Central and South America or the Indies for their winter residence.

But the song sparrow is an essentially Canadian bird. Varieties of him are found in every acre of Canada, you might say, from Nova Scotia to Vancouver Island. He is one of the very first to sing in spring. When the first robin is on the fence top, when the first early meadow lark is calling across the bleak March farms, the song sparrow is at his music on fence post, bush top or telegraph wire, singing in all weathers.

When the meadow lark has ceased his calling and the robins have gone to bed, the song sparrow clearly alarm note at the sight of a prowling cat. But his song period is still busy on his bush or fence post, thinking at the music which he will express in ripens, and grows stately and the smoke of autumn fires rises in the air. In North Africa, in late October, I have seen the first song sparrow of skylarks going through their ecstatic spring routine of mounting into the air and fluttering there, filling the sky with song. He is going to be a field sparrow with pumpkins, I heard a song sparrow pretending it was April.

We make quite fuss over the song sparrow in spring. We bid them go in September with scarcely a regret. We look for good-bye.

Personal Radio Will Soon Link Private Owners

By PHILIP CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Small portable radio transmitting and receiving combination sets — civilian models of wartime "walkie-talkies" — will soon be available in the United States.

The United States Federal Communications Commission has announced that it will shortly begin licensing individuals for "personal and private communication" in this field.

The set is described as a camera sized affair which may be slung over the shoulder by a strap, slipped into a purse or carried in the hand.

"Personal Radio" will aid in supervising farm or other labor scattered over wide areas, make possible remote control of radio-operated devices, allow communication between two homes in the same neighborhood, or enable hikers in dangerous country to keep contact with one another.

The Associated Press reports that every big radio-set manufacturer has been working on this gadget for the last two years and quantity production in the U. S. may be expected in the near future.

Range of the sets will mostly be limited to the horizon line seen by the normal eye. Power ranges from 10 to 50 watts. The broadcasting frequency will cover the 460-470 megacycle band.

The "personal and private" description of the service refers only to personal and private ownership of the "stations." Anyone who wants to tune in on a conversation may do so.

Prior to starting regular licensing, F.C.C. will receive suggestions on the proposed regulations up to Oct. 1.

Broadcast Callow's Story

Walter Callow, blind and paralyzed First World War veteran, famous as the originator of the Tobacco Bank for fighting men overseas in the Second World War and inventor of a special bus for wheel-chair veterans, has received a Golden Rule award from the Mutual Broadcasting System.

The story of Callow's epic struggle against overwhelming handicaps was read by a woman in Tacoma, Wash., who submitted his name to Mutual's "Tell Your Neighbor" program for the Good Neighbor award. The result of the broadcast has been a flood of encouraging letters and offers of assistance for the Walter Callow Aid for Veterans' Fund.

Known as the "human log," Callow was a flier the First World War. A plane crash led to a disability which has left him paralyzed for the last 17 years and blind for seven.

Currently, Callow is making plans for a $500,000 campaign to build 50 wheel-chair coaches which he thinks should alleviate Canada's invalid problem. Through Canada's trade and commerce department he is trying to interest the United States government in a $15,000,000-to-$20,000,000 bus-building order which would send a fleet of from 1,500 to 2,000 of his special buses across the border.

N.Y. Stage is Tough Raymond Massey Says

Hollywood — (AP) — After 26 years on stage and screen, Raymond Massey is feeling sorry for the youngsters in the business.

"The New York stage is the same old vicious circle," the Toronto-born actor said. "You cannot get a job unless you've had experience, and you can't get experience without a job. It makes my blood boil every time I hear about the difficulty young actors have in finding an opportunity to follow their profession."

It's a little easier in Hollywood and in England, he continued. Hollywood has the movies and little theatres, and England has many more stage shows than the United States because they cost far less to produce. In the last 10 years, said Massey, production costs on the English stage have risen only 15 percent.

Even Massey himself finds it hard to believe he once played a black-faced act in a London cabaret. That was in his early acting days. He spent Sunday and any other days off directing or working in the cabaret. Several years before he entered British pictures he was a recognized director on the English stage.

Massey is scheduled to bring the London stage success, "People Like Us," to New York next year. He owns the theatrical rights to the novel "Hanging Judge," by Bruce Hamilton, and plans to produce and direct a play version in London next spring.

On his acting agenda is the forthcoming British film, "The Promotion of the Admiral," about a British admiral captured by the Americans in the War of 1812.

SECOND MAGNETIC HILL

Saint John, N.B. — (CP) — A "magnetic hill," similar to the one near Moncton, N.B., has been reported near Mt. Champlain, 25 miles from Saint John. The topography of the road creates an optical illusion of it going downhill instead of the actual upgrade.

Tito and Government Plans Future Linked With Russia

By ALEX SINGLETON

London, Sept. 3 (AP)—Deep in the cominform's dog-house, Marshal Tito and his Yugoslav government still plan a future tightly linked with Russia in world affairs.

But, just as firmly, they have adopted a no-compromise policy of independence on domestic decisions and, short of occupation by Russia they seem determined to stick to it.

If the Yugoslavs get away with their double-edged objective, it will mark a historic departure from the Marxist concept of unswerving and unquestioning disciplined docility.

Yugoslav authorities in a position to know say this brought about the cominform's denunciation in the fear this "single step" toward domestic independence would lead to others on a world-wide basis.

Russia initiated the attempted purge of Yugoslavia's leaders in the frank fear they would move further away from Kremlin control to the point of seeking neutrality in the struggle between east and west.

The Yugoslavs say they had no such thought, that their loyalty to the Communist cause has been proven.

They say they recognize the need of a supreme command in a common battle against what they term the "imperialist" world.

But, strongly Nationalist by tradition, the Yugoslav leaders insist they can prove their Communist solidarity while demonstrating their domestic independence.

What, then, are the prospects of Soviet action in the immediate future?

The first—and the one upon which the Yugoslavs believe the Russians will concentrate — is propaganda warfare and moral persuasion.

The second is economic warfare.

The third: occupation by the Red army along with a revolt by anti-Tito factions.

With fingers crossed, the Yugoslav leaders are gambling that Russia won't try occupation—at least not now. They figure the Reds would run across resistance, just as the Germans did, which would cost them more in prestige than the potential benefits.

Underground Nile Can Create Farms in Libyan Desert

By HAIG NICHOLSON

Cairo — (Reuters) — Men of vision in Egypt are considering how the desert may be made to bloom and produce with water from a buried river. Only about three per cent of Egypt's 386,110 square miles is under cultivation, the rest is desert waste, most of it incapable of supporting human life.

The men who want to see grain, cotton, and other crops replace the huge expanses of slow-shifting sand know that water is the key to their problem.

The Nile could provide much of the water needed for irrigation. Every year huge quantities of rich sediment — which means potential loam — are swept unused to sea during the flood period.

But the desert planners are looking to other means of obtaining water. Running through the Libyan desert is a subterranean Nile fed from the Sud Region or Lower Egypt. The level of this underground river is stable the year round and none of its mineral-bearing water is received by the sea.

This subterranean Nile is no new discovery. It was known, and used, in the age of the Pharoahs. Research in recent times has shown that the river runs from south to north and that its supply is apparently inexhaustible.

To exploit the waters of the underground river would not require elaborate irrigation systems controlled by costly dams. It could be done by means of wells, and experts estimate land could be reclaimed at between $12 and $20 an acre.

It Was Done Before

Rehabilitation of what is known as the Valley of the Oases is not a fanciful scheme. Until the Christian era, the oases were thickly populated — perhaps by culture and wine — making the chief occupations.

But civil war and raids by nomadic tribesmen interrupted their peaceful life. The fertile oases became deserted. Wells and cisterns were neglected. In recent years the population of the oases has been no more than 30,000.

Government surveys in 1942 showed a minimum of 150,000 acres could be made ready for immediate cultivation by construction or renovation of 500 wells at a cose of $2,00,000.

Another suggested Egyptian irrigation scheme calls for refilling of the Quattara Depression, a natural barrier which helped the British Eighth Army turn the Axis tide at Alamein. The depression is the greatest in Africa, 450 feet below sea level. It has been suggested that this dried up lake, 11,000 square miles in extent, should be filled again, possibly by means of a canal from the River Nile.

Turning the depression into a fresh-water lake (there is evidence from engravings it was done in the past) would probably change the climate of northwestern Egypt. With the expected rainfall, the area would be transformed from a desolate wasteland into farming country.

There are still other schemes to make the desert fertile. All are dependent on water, the lifeblood of Egypt; and upon roads and railways to link the reclaimed areas with important centres in the Nile Valley.

Water Tastes Bad It's Natural Gas

Fort Nelson, B.C. — (CP) — Visitors always leave this friendly R.C.A.F. station with a bad taste in their mouths.

Natural gas has seeped into the station's water supply. It's a fire hazard and makes it almost impossible to wash clothes clean. And it tastes awful.

Last summer they tried digging a new well, but the gas seeped into that one too.

The only thing that makes residents happy is watching the expression on the faces of transient air passengers as they sample the Fort Nelson brand of coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Townsend Will Celebrate 60th Anniversary Of Their Wedding on Sunday

Retaining an inherent love of the farm where they have spent most of their lives, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Townsend, Moira Street W., on September 9th, will celebrate the 60th anniversary of their marriage.

No elaborate celebration is being planned for the occasion and the couple will spend their anniversary "quietly" at home. They may take a drive to Mrs. Townsend's former home in Sidney township where the couple were married 60 years ago by the Rev. Grey, Presbyterian circuit minister.

"I'd a lot rather live on the farm than in the city," Mrs. Townsend stated. This was echoed by Mr. Townsend who yearns for the familiar smells of the farm. "I'd rather be around the horses and cows than just 'lying around' in the city," he said.

Near this feeling might be expected of a couple who spent 53 years of their married life on one farm. Mrs. Townsend, the former Sophia Juby, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Juby of the Oak Hills south of Stirling, was born 78 years. Shortly after the couple bought the farm in the 9th of Thurlow township where they lived until two years ago.

Money Went Further

"Money went a lot further then than it does now", recalled the groom of 60 years. "Fifty cents a day was considered good wages for a man. Now you are doubls that an hour. And a five dollar bill was the nearest a five dollars doesn't go so far in buying groceries today."

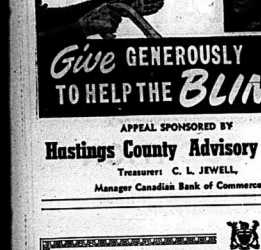
Notwithstanding his claim of low wages 60 years ago, Mr. Townsend stated that first summer after he was married he hired out to a farmer for $10 per month. "And we boarded ourselves," he pointed out.

Always Liked Horses

"I always liked horses," stated the retired farmer. "Before the First World War we had a three "top" buggies but horses were not good enough for our son. So, we bought our son a car just before our first car in 1915."

Although having owned a car for more than 30 years, Mr. Townsend said he never drives it himself as he is ready at any time to go for a motor drive and exercises regularly by walking to and from his home in Belleville.

Mr. Townsend is admit to being Conservative in politics, but Mr. Townsend is not a little interested in political affairs. He is an honorary member of the Holloway Street W.C.T.U. Mrs. Townsend is a life member of the Women's Missionary Society and is a firm prohibitionist.



Mr. and Mrs. Townsend have three children, Harry, in Belleville; Mrs. Roy Blakely (Mae), Toronto and Mrs. Ernest Rose. There are three grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Autumn Clothes Have Straighter Lines That Give Tailored Effect

London, Sept. 4 — (CP) — Autumn clothes by British dress designers see a modification of the new look with straighter lines that give a tailored effect.

Dresses on display during London's new "fashion fortnight" had lost their bunchy" look and had smooth flowing lines with the fullness coming from the hip instead of the waist for greater slimming effect.

Norman Hartnell, one of Britain's outstanding designers, said, "The modification has gone over well. The buyers like it because its wearable and has the English tailored look they like."

Suits in the autumn show were straighter, more tailored, but with no return to mannish cut. Shoulders had a soft, padded line; waists were still small with slight hip accentuation; skirts were plain and straight with slight gathering at the waistline, or having gently from a low hipline with slight back fullness.

Smart for teen - agers was the "bell-boy" suit by Molyneux. Of dark leaf green tweed, it had straight skirt gathered onto the waist belt with high slit closing buttoned to trimmed with beaver lamb. The jacket was waist length and tight with beaver collar and cuffs. A lightweight wool high-necked blouse of red-dish check completed the outfit.

Coats were neat - waisted and full-skirted, or big and boxy with optional belts and many duvteens and velours were used. Fur was a popular accessorizement with both suits and coats. Fur muffs and muff-bags were also popular.

Evening dresses were magnificent crinolines or softly draped early "20's" styles.

A lovely crinoline in white slipper satin had tight strapless bodice and wide panelled skirt decorated with hand-painted sevres roses of deep red. Another, still in white slipper satin, had narrow panels of ruching composing the entire skirt with half-hidden posies of velveteen roses on the skirt. The bodice, had narrow panels of rushing lesse.

Leo Durocher Finds it Easy To Win at Ebbets Field As Manager of N.Y. Giants

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Since crossing the river to boss the New York Giants Leo Durocher is finding it easy to win in his old stamping grounds, Ebbets Field.

When Leo left Brooklyn in July he had guided the Dodgers to only 14 victories while losing 23 decisions at Ebbets Field, a .378 pait.

Leo has sent his Giants into action against the Dodgers in Brooklyn three times since he assumed command of the Polo Grounders and his fence-busting crew has come out on top each time.

Yesterday the Giants rubbed salt into the wound, knocking the Dodgers out of first place in the National League pennant race by taking both ends of a doubleheader, 7-3 and 6-3.

The twin setback dumped the Dodgers 1 1-2 games behind the Boston Braves who vaulted into the top by downing the Philadelphia Phillies. In addition, the Dodgers are only a half game ahead of the third place St. Louis Cardinals, who were idle.

Brooklyn - born Sid Gordon was the big gun in the Giants' first game triumph before 34,000 Flatbush fans. Gordon clouted his 28th and 29th homers of the season in the first four runs.

At Boston, the Braves scored three times in the fourth inning to nip the Phils 3-1. Big blow of the uprising was Jeff Heath's 17th homer of the year with one on and Dutch Leonard, who followed only three hits, Johnny Sain went the distance for the Braves and picked up his 17th win.

Cubs Continue Role

The Chicago Cubs, continuing their role of "giant killers," trounced the fourth place Pirates, 10-1 in a night game at Pittsburgh and toasted the cellar in favor of the idle Cincinnati Reds.

In the actually stirring American League race, the runner-up New York Yankees pushed to within a half - game of the league - leading Boston Red Sox.

The Yanks, paced by Joe DiMaggio, clipped the Washington Senators, 5-4 and 4-3, at the Yankee Stadium while the Red Sox beat the Athletics 9-0 in a night game at Philadelphia.

DiMaggio belted three home-

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

The children it seems, take after their elders, and in a baseball way of course, this results in that annual autumn classic known as the "Battle of the Century." Liable, as "You Can't Use That Bum, He's Ineligible." This unpleasant, but by no means unexpected ritchard cropped up in the Belleville-Kingston midget OBA playdowns in Kingston the other p.m.

The locals, one game down in the best two-in-three series, trekked to the Limestone City last Wednesday afternoon for the second game of their dual and were trounced 8-4. The Kingston club, piqued to be sure, protested that the Belleville first baseman was ineligible to play and the umpire upheld the protest, the game, according to the heading on the story in the Kingston paper. The report also went on to state that the player mentioned first baseman had been ruled out by W. J. Snyder, secretary of the OBA, and had been declared "ineligible to take part in any further games." The quotes are attributed to Mr. Snyder.

"But that ain't the way we heard it." The president of the local midget league has in his possession, a list, signed by Mr. Snyder, of the players who are eligible to play midget baseball. And on that list is the name of the first baseman. Also in the palm of the president is a statement by the player's estate, which was signed before a Notary Public, testifying to the lad's age. And in addition to all this evidence, there is a little piece of paper from the Provincial Registrar containing the date of the first baseman's birth.

And if this is not enough, the president has it orally from Snyder, that with the little document from the Registrar, the Kingston club knew all along the well known score. It is our hope that the Kingston entry has not filed their protest as yet, because in this case, haste will have cost them $25 and raised them nothing.

The sad part of the whole affair however, is that at this late date in the season, with the playoffs on, and the teams on edge, that rival managers should begin to quibble on the eligibility of the players. All matters concerning a player's age and his status in baseball are settled, or should be, long before playoff time. It is getting unsavory feel that baseball fans are being handicapped by playing against better players, the only solution seems to be to build a league of comparable calibre players, particularly those ineligible because of advancing years, are weeded out at the start of a campaign by their fellow managers.

Kingston's lacrosse Locos, who bested the men of Eastan in three straight games, appear to have let success go to their heads. Mike Rodden, writing in the Whig-Standard, states that a number of the Locos believe they have the championship bound, and has his quoted as saying that he, (Olsen) will be satisfied with nothing unless don't upset Peterborough Petes in four straight games.

Should the Kilish Kingstonians take one of their first three starts with the Petes, Marty Maguire has our sympathies this bureau to hear them predict a four straight victory over the winners of the inter-county league, Wow!

Those cantankerous Chicago Cubs, though not going anywhere, have been doing their best to see that the leaders don't either, have taken advertisements in newspapers in opposite to their opponents. Their latest one showing and to thank them for their loyal support. Local teams take note.

And this from the Windsor Star. It seems that a certain Detroit milkman was arrested after observing a quart customer bite with his milk truck.

"I got so tired of seeing so much milk, delivering so much milk, and finding so nothing but milk, that I just had to take those two drinks, judge. I couldn't help it," pleaded the arrest milkman.

The judge accepted his plea of guilty to a drunk driving charge and fined him $75. Not too much this time, thanks.

Bila and Pieces—Dr. George Faulkner and Harry Ridley, ace golfers of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club were beaten last weekend when Fred Bentley and Bruce McPherson of the Napanee Golf Club finished two holes up at the end of eighteen holes-to-cop the Brannenbe Trophy. The Belleville pair immediately entered another challenge which was accepted. The re-challenge match takes place this weekend . . . Wayne Brown of Deloro, a star with the Madoc Midgets two years ago, and last year at St. Catharines, will try out with the St.-Catharines Junior Hockey Club this month . . . Gerard Cole, Canada's non-stop marathoner will take another crack at the Atlantic come September 12. He will be entered in the United States AAU Marathon to be run in New York. Cole took the honors in 46-43-46. He finished fourth last year behind Ted Vogel who he ran into the ring in this year's Boston Marathon when he took it for the fourth time.

Houstons Take First Playoff Game by 14-8

It was nip and tuck for eight innings last evening as Houstons "Knotholers" pulled out a 14-8 victory over the Corby squad to take the first game in their best three-in-five series for the league championship and the Whaling Well Trophy.

Corbys were away off form in last evening's tilt presenting the Houston nine with eight unearned runs on seven errors. In all fairness to Houstons, however, it must be stated that their ace chucker "Buck" Burnhaw was definitely off. The former strikeout artist was unable to strike out a batter while he walked seven and gave up ten hits, for eight runs, three of them unearned.

Houstons jumped into an early lead in the bottom of the first inning getting two runs on four walks and an error and added a singleton in the second on a walk, an error, and Wardhaugh's double. They took a commanding lead in the fourth as they pushed over four tallies on two walks, two singles, a double, and a two base error.

Corbys rallied to the attack in the top of the fifth pushing over four runs on four hits, a walk, and an interference play by the catcher.

Houstons stayed well in front by counting twice in the bottom of the fifth on Clarke's homer to centre field, a walk, two errors and a passed ball.

Corbys began to threaten in the seventh as they pounded over three runs on a homer by Miller, two singles, two walks, and two errors.

In the top of the eighth Corbys were threatening to blow the ball game wide open when the pushed over a run and had two men on base.

A Funny Play

Miller and D. Sword walked to open the inning and Hunter got on as Sword was forced at second. Storms connected for a double to right field that scored Miller. It was at this point that something odious piece of funny play occurred. When Storms connected for the hit Hunter started for second with the tying run and rounding second he was apparently deliberately interfered with by the shortstop, who was coming in second to cover the throw in. Hunter spun about and stopped. He started up again and was thrown out at home by two feet. He would have made it cleanly had he not been forced to stop.

However, as foul as the play looked from the sidelines, umpire Bowden failed to call it, and after the game, Spafford, the shortstop stated that he was covering the play and did not even think of the runner who was coming from first.

As it was Houstons went on to pour over five counters in the top of the ninth to sew up the pastime and take that all important first game.

B. Sword started on the hill for Corbys and lasted four frames giving up eight walks, and five hits for eight runs. He was relieved by Baldwin in the fifth who went the rest of the route striking out four, walking four and giving up two hits for six runs, nine ball game.

Lineups:

Corbys: Mills 2b; Miller cf; D Sword ss; Hunter lf; Storms c 3b; B. Sword replaced by Baldwin in the 5th, p; Downing 1b; Adams rf; Latchford 3b, c.

Houstons: Woods 2b, c; Wardhaugh 3b; Adams c; Spafford ss Locke 1b; Culkin cf; Bland replaced by Taylor, replaced by Cress cf; Clarke lf; Burnhaw p.

Steve Wozniak Of Buffalo Wins CNE 10-Mile Swim

Toronto, Sept. 4 (CP)—A $35-a-week Buffalo, N.Y., truck driver who said he was "down to his last buck," 23-year-old Stephen (Steve) Wozniak is the new world professional swimming champion.

He won the title and $5,150 Friday by staging a great finish, forging ahead in the eighth mile to win the annual 10-mile Canadian National Exhibition swim classic over 33 other starters, Ben Gazzi of Toronto, last year's champion, finished five minutes later to take second-place money of $2,500.

The stocky, heavily-tanned Wozniak had just climbed the ladder onto the finishing barge when his wife, Cecilia, rushed up with their two-year-old daughter, Stephano, on a leash.

Asked what he would do with the money, Wozniak replied: "Buy a new car."

"And I think he's earned it," said his wife. "But I think we'll put the rest of the money in the bank."

Wozniak's time of 4:39:16 hours was 10 minutes slower than the best time for the 10-miles in the three C.N.E. swims held at the Toronto Harbour. Time inside the breakwater on the Exhibition Park waterfront was slightly choppy but Lake Ontario was a near ideal 69 degrees.

Columbus Boy Third

Jerry Kerschner, 23, of Columbus, Ohio, leader for most of the afternoon, took third place and a total of $1,250. It was made up of $1,000 prize money and $50 for each of the seven mile laps in which he led the pack, before Wozniak overhauled him.

Two amateurs-turned-pro figured in the money winners. Bob Pirie of Toronto and Jacques Allyot of Quebec City, neither of whom had tried the 10-mile distance before, came in fourth and sixth to win $750 and $250 respectively.

Fifth place money of $500 went to 17-year-old Cliff Lonsdale, of suburban New Toronto.

Pirie, an expert at short distances, represented Canada at the 1932 Olympics and the 1934 British Empire Games.

Fifty-four started the race but only two besides the prize winners were in the water when it ended. One was pulled out during the course and the other, big Bill Seidlo, 46, of Whitestone, N.Y., finished, finishing even though all the officials had gone.

Toronto, Sept. 4 — (CP) — The eventual success of Ottawa Rough Riders in the Big Four Football League this season would be the conclusive proof, but at the moment it looks as if their executive can take a bow for snaring Wally Masters as coach and Bob Paffrath as quarterback.

Bob Paffrath, former United States college and professional star, they have a player who in his first season in Canadian football last year with Toronto Indians won the Ontario Rugby Football Union's most valuable player award and a place on the league's all-star team.

A triple-threat star, Paffrath's ability as a passer, runner and "plunger in the Canadian game will be tested fully this season against Big Four competition. In his first league game with the Alouettes he does not have to take a back seat to anybody.

An exceptionally good passer, Paffrath pitched two touchdown passes and another that was carried to the one - yard line. Paffrath and hard - hitting Tony Golab spear - headed the Riders' attack in that game as they overwhelmed Montreal Alouettes 36-18.

Masters, an American who last season coached the now-defunct Ottawa Trojans to the O. R. F. U. title, knows the Canadian game.

This will be a refreshing change for Tony, wrote Ted (Toronto Telegram) Reeve because for the last couple years Tony must have felt he was operating from Flibber McGee's well-known cupboard.

With Paffrath on hand as his first - string quarter and Bob Young to spell him, Masters probably will get some of the best quarterbacking in the league. The Riders decided to get Young this year after last year with the University of Indiana, as insurance after Gerry Dawson of Windsor, broke his arm in practice.

An important weight in the balance of nature is the Prairie Chicken. By destroying weed seeds, grasshoppers and other insects, it makes the farmer's work easier and more profitable . . . it helps protect the food you eat.

The Prairie Chicken is a fine game-bird too. Given fair protection, it thrives near farms and towns and can contend with its natural enemies. But bush-fires and over-hunting are two enemies it cannot successfully fight against. The Prairie Chicken needs our help in reducing these threats to its survival.

Toronto Leafs Only Four Games Out of 2nd Place

(By The Associated Press)

The International Baseball League has a little more than a week to run but it appears the final pick-up of the first division spots be determined until the wending days of the race.

Only Montreal Royals, who clinched the pennant Thursday night, are assured of their final finish. The runner-up Newark Bears, 13 games off the pace, are only four games ahead of the fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs are only a game ahead of the fourth-place Rochester Red Wings who in turn are only half a game in front of the fifth-place Syracuse Chiefs, defending circuit playoff champions.

Friday night the Chiefs turned back the Bears 8-5, while Rochester beat Buffalo Bisons 11-6. Toronto slugged Montreal 14-4 and Baltimore slipped the Jersey City Giants 2-0.

Led by Harvey Lutz who batted in two runs and scored three while collecting four singles, the Leafs had no trouble downing the Royals. The Leafs jumped on Charlie Lea for four runs in the first innings and were never headed. Jocko Thompson blanked the Royals until the ninth when they scored four times.

West Point, R.M.C. Cadets Will Play Game

(By The Canadian Press)

One of the world's more modern international rules is going to be revived.

It is the traditional annual hockey game between Canada's Royal Military College at Kingston — reopening this month after being closed during the war — and West Point, the United States' Military Academy.

They have met 17 times. R.M.C. has won 14 games, tied one and lost two. The teams play their hockey the gentlemanly way.

Ill luck that has plagued the Italian speedboat Carnival, whose life arrival in the United States last month struck again Friday as the craft sank during its final tune up for the Silver Cup trophy race at Detroit Saturday.

Achille Castoldi, pilot of the big red craft, said the boat veered off the course and sank just off shore. The craft was reportedly but it's unlikely it will race.

Two tourney-tough New Yorkers — Ivy Willie Turness and pellicking Ray Billows — meet this afternoon for the American Golf championship of the United States. This pair of 34-year-olds campaigners grooved their shots over Meadow Brook Club's fairways in the 36-hole Friday to snuff out the "dark horse" challenge of two youngsters.

Solunar Tables: 1948 Spawning Season of Bass

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

The more I see of fishermen, the more I'm convinced that there is very little joy in holding the job of Fish Commissioner in one of our State conservation organizations. If things go along all right and everybody has good fishing, you may, if he is lucky, receive a moderate amount of credit for doing a good job. But if things come to pass, as they frequently do, that the fish are off the feed and disposed to sample the offerings of the sportsmen, then the hue and cry abounds across the countryside and the Commissioner, regardless of the merits of the matter, gets the blame.

Throughout the North and Middle Atlantic States, this year has produced a few headaches for the powers that be. Almost universally, the bass fishing for the first three weeks of the season proved to be a dismal failure. Day after day, fishermen returned fishless from what formerly had been good bass waters. Then it started. The rivers teemed stocking. So do the lakes. Bass all caught out last year. Fishing lousy. Why doesn't the Commission do something?

Natural Hatchery

There is a stream not too far from my house called Big Pine Creek. While it is a cold water for bass, being in reality a big trout stream, it does function as a natural hatchery and its sparkling riffles abound with small bass. Now and then somebody picks up a bunch, but mostly the average fish that you bring home is about a foot long. It makes a nice place to fish a mouse surface lure such as a bass bug or a deer-hair floater. The water is easily wadeable and it is pleasant fishing.

Last July 13th my son, a friend of his, and I went up Big Pine to see if we could pick up a mess of "eatin' bass" as we hadn't tasted bass since last season. We chose a pool where we had always had good fishing, a long "flat," not over four or five feet deep, with a sloping pebble beach on one side and a rocky "point" on the other. I took the upper end while my son and his friend split operations about midway, and we went to work. Down through this pool, which I knew held plenty of bass, I fished a good bass bug for over three hundred yards without raising so much as one single fish. Purposely we had planned our trip so that we could take advantage of a major Solunar Period. We should have raised bass on every cast or so. Such inactivity surely was not normal. There must be a reason.

Thinks Matter Over

I retired to the bank to have a smoke and think things over, and I soon was joined by Dick's friend. He had done no better than I.

"Never did like this pool," he said. "Funny, there's no good many fish. This year I don't believe there are a dozen bass in it. This stream needs restocking bad."

I remarked that it was never a very good idea to jump at conclusions. It had been a long, cold spring. It might be an idea for us to look things over a bit. Accordingly, we walked slowly downstream, wading along through the shallows. As I had suspected, there was a constant succession of V-shaped wakes made by bass moving away from shore as we approached. Few of them allowed us to come within fifty yards before they swam into the safety of deeper water, I drew the boy's attention to this and to the trout along shore that the fish had vacated. Incidentally, the number of "reds" showed that the stream was more than amply supplied with bass. Believe it or not, these fish had just started spawning operations, at least a month or six weeks later than normal.

Spawning Delayed

Subsequent investigation developed that this condition maintained throughout Pennsylvania and New York, and into North State. Too much rain, high water and low water temperatures had delayed the spawning process. A bass over-wintered in deeper waters around sixty-seven degrees + to spawn. Lacking such temperatures, spawning simply is postponed until warmer weather arrives.

I spent some time during the next few days talking around the sporting goods stores and talking to fishermen. Sure enough, the Commission was getting the blame. I did what I could, but I don't think many fishermen believed me.

It's a good idea to remember that most things in nature proceed along commonsense lines. Nothing in nature happens without a reason, at least it does not continue to happen with any degree of regularity. Thus, before you blame your Fish Commissioner, look about you for the reason. Usually it is not too hard to find.

By the same token, it will pay you to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods. They are based on a natural law which manifests itself each day of the year. Often this manifestation is obscure, but it is there for the observant to find. Get the habit of clipping the Solunar schedule from your newspaper. Then put them in your kit where they will be handy. Believe me, they pay big dividends in sport.

Solunar Periods

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory at hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. They begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

The days given are for September 7th to September 12th inclusive. All times D.S.T.

Hollywood, Sept. 4 — (AP) — "Beery will talk."

That message whispered into the phone by an M-G-M aide, was a signal for action. Wally was just back from a trip to Europe and was willing to converse. Beery, the inscrutable! Beery, Hollywood's best-known, best-loved screen idol!

I hastened out to Culver City and found the actor plumping in a chair in a studio office. His face was shaven, his hair combed, but the Beery informality wasn't lacking; he was in shirt sleeves with the collar spread wide.

"Don't know why anybody would want to come out and talk to an old - - - - like me," he rumbled.

But talk we did. Two, M-G-M pirate agents glowed as Wally admitted his current "A Date With Judy" is one of his best shows in years.

It was good to get away from the parlor, bedroom and bath sort of thing," he remarked. But "it can't be compared to things like "The Champ," "Viva Villa," and some of the others.

In the post-mortem that followed, odd results showed up at the different tables. The final bids were anywhere from game to grand slam in clubs or hearts or spades.

Rule bids carried it to six spades that made easily. Only trick lost was the trump to west. All other losers were stuffed on the club suit. It was an effortless small slam.

Those who ended in seven clubs had an easy time making the grand slam. It was simply a matter of ruffing the third round of hearts. A spade entered south again. North spades went on south hearts.

One heart grand slam got a spade lead and took 13 tricks. He led a trump and finessed dummy ten. Heart ace cashed. South took another spade. Heart king cashed. Choice saved all losers.

Three bonded in club hearts and went down with a diamond lead. The most interesting action in those at six hearts who got a club lead. This took some manoeuvring.

Trick one went to a top club. Two more top clubs were promptly led. Both the south diamonds were stuffed on round two and three. Then rest of plays depended on whether west ruffed the third club.

Where west ruffed the third club, his return was taken in the south. Two trump rounds with tops landed in dummy. All the remaining losers were then dumped on the set-up dummy clubs.

Where west refused to ruff a third club, dummy led a fourth club. East ruffed and south barely overruffed. Again west laid off, stuffing a diamond. South then led a trump and finessed dummy ten.

A fifth club was led and south stuffed a spade. West ruffed. But a trump round roon landed in dummy and the club was good.

If you have learned nothing from this, you have company.

Beery talked about his film following a kind of enthusiasts only slightly less rabid than supporters of the Brooklyn baseball club.

"A lot of men like my pictures," he divulged. "They resent seeing those pretty boys on the screen all the time."

Beery has been a film commodity since the early flicker days when he played a Swedish parlor maid. He has weathered every kind of cycle. "For awhile, I played nothing but kings," he recalled. "Then it was sea pictures and I didn't shave for two or three years. Then it was westerns, then I played Mexicans and so forth."

In Manhattan

By FAY USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, Sept. 4 (CP)— Out of nowhere onto Broadway is the amazing story of two young actresses soon to make their first professional appearances in Manhattan theatre productions.

One is Mary V. Malone, whose performance has been described by the critics recently in "Peg O' My Heart," at the Lake Shore Stage, a local Little Theatre group. Now she has been given an important role in "Goodbye My Fancy," by Fay Kanin, comedy which is due on Broadway late this autumn.

"Goodbye, My Fancy" starring Madeleine Carroll, is due to open in mid-October at the Grand Theatre in London, Ont. It will play also in Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Boston before coming to Manhattan.

The other actress leading to prominence before the footlights is Joan Gray, Mary Connolly saw her recently in "A summer theatre production of "Boy Meets Girl" at Smithtown Branch, N.Y. He was so impressed that she had been signed for a leading role in Connally's Story for Strangers.—Sept. Month.

September is to be a busy month on Broadway, Twelve productions are scheduled to arrive, six of them musicals. The first newcomers are "Sundown Beach," opening at the Belasco Theatre Sept. 7, and a revival of "Show Boat" which will be seen at the Ziegfeld City Centre. These will be followed by Morey Amsterdam's "Hilarities" and a variety show featuring Myrla Ferrell, Italian singer, both due Sept. 8; "Inside Woodie," a revue, Sept. 15; "Heaven on Earth" a musical comedy, Sept. 18; "Magdalena," a musical comedy, Sept. 20; "A Story For Strangers," a fantasy by Marc Connelly, Sept. 21; "Town House," a comedy by Gertrude Tonkonogy, Sept. 29; "Grandma's Diary," a comedy by Albert Bartlett, Sept. 21; "April Fool," a comedy by Norman Krasna and Groucho Marx, Sept. 27, and "Edward, My Son," a drama by Noel Langley and Robert Morley, Sept. 30.

"The Silver Whistle," a comedy by Robert McEnroe, will be the theatre Guild's first production of the new season on Broadway. It stars Jack Carr in the role described as the best role he has had in five years. The Guild is said to be elated by the reception given "The Silver Whistle" when it opened in Westport, Conn., last Monday night. It is due in Manhattan sometime in October.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was downtown with ma, and she was buying things in the Canny. All druggists and I wanted a ice cream cone and ma claimed it would spoil my supper and I claimed it wouldn't, and I was trying to make her change her mind by arguing, only she argued back instead, and some lady said to her, Pardon me for seeming to interfere, but when you tell a child to do something, just once should be sufficient.

Being a polite lady in brown with a little brown dog, and ma said, Yes, but really, but after all, I mean really.

Now if you want to see a good look at Mr. Brown here. Sit down, Mr. Brown, the lady said.

Which the dog did, and the lady said, Now get up and turn around, then lie down.

Which he did, but not as if he enjoyed it, and the lady said, There, you see, not a single objection or even a wimper, and all because he knows very well I wont stand for any nonsense or back talk.

But still he's not a child, ma said, and the lady said, There's not a particle of difference. children and dogs both require an iron hand.

Well, perhaps, but really, ma said, and I said to the lady, Can he divide and subtract?

Please don't be ridiculous, the lady said, and I said, Well you said there wasn't any difference. Can't he even count up to ten? I said.

He may be counting for all know, the lady said, and I said, Can he skip rope and blow on a mouth organ?

I talk? the lady said.

And she pulled the dog away mad and ma said, it just serves her rite, the idea, such a compar-

Atomic Fuel Not Expected For 20 Years

By FRANK CAREY

Washington, (AP) — If you have any ideas that atomic energy has aided industry materially—in production power—pull up a chair.

It just hasn't.

The General Advisory Committee to the United States Atomic Energy Commission says that even with the best technical breaks it would be "rash" to say it would be possible for "any considerable portion" of the world's present power supply to be replaced by atomic fuel in less than 20 years.

Industry's other great age in the atomic field—its "isotopes" —are being extensively used in industrial laboratories.

But, despite their possibilities for the future, these peacetime by-products of atomic energy development have so far found only a few uses in production lines. They are being used almost entirely in investigative work, covering projects to which the manufacturers of steel, machinery, rubber, gasoline, oil, plastics, rayon, chemicals, drugs and other things will look for better and more economical production.

A wealth of fundamental knowledge is being gained, but you can count on your fingers the number of applications to everyday work in industry to date.

Isotopes are distinctive forms of many common elements. Some isotopes are "radioactive"—they emit "rays." When a radioactive form of sulphur is mixed with ordinary sulphur, instruments can "trace" what happens to all the sulphur in some industrial processes.

"Tracer" Research

A second kind of isotope is called a "stable" isotope. It is not radioactive, but it can also be used in "tracer" research because it has a different weight from the ordinary element.

Why are there so few applications when isotopes—at least radioactive ones—have been available in ever-increasing quantities for some time?

The rays from radioactive isotopes are dangerous to humans for one thing, and may prove to be damaging to some valuable industrial materials and machines. Special shielding against the rays must be planned, special instruments designed to handle them, detection apparatus installed to avoid "contaminating" other areas.

Too, there is a severe shortage of scientists who know how to work with these materials. Training programs are under way but will take time.

Right now, about 30 of the nations industrial organizations are using radioactive isotopes in research. But reports to the atomic energy commission show only a few actually-demonstrated practical uses—and even some of these might still be classified as investigative.

In scores of laboratories—Commission and university labs as well as industrial ones—intensive research is looking toward many other industrial uses.

"The entire field of metallurgy," says the Commission, "is certain to be influenced by tracer investigations already under way on the structure, manufacture, alloying, durability, corrosion and friction of metals.

Australia May Get Polish Coal Miners

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — Australia is planning to bring out from 4,000 to 10,000 Polish miners to help relieve a shortage of coal miners.

Prime Minister Chifley was told the miners were available in British if Australia wants them. If the Australian cabinet approves, the miners will be brought here as displaced persons in the same manner in which Baltic immigrants are transferred to Australia. They would have to stay in their jobs for two years and would not be allowed to work in other industries.

Immigration Minister Arthur A. Calwell is already having trouble with the unions over displaced persons. Communist-dominated unions have expressed opposition to allowing Balts to join their unions. The objection is given that many of them are "anti-Communist and pro-Fascist."

The official organ of the Communist party in Australia, The Tribune, has been conducting a campaign against the Balts for the past six months.

No move has been made to shelve the Balts in heavy industries. Many of them were brought out to work in the steel industry, but after strong objections from the secretary of the Ironworkers' Federation, E. Thornton, one of Australia's leading Communists, no effort has been made to employ any of them at works under the jurisdiction of Thornton's union.

Leading builders believe that the federal and state governments have agreed to give the building industry a number of the displaced persons but are unable to get the unions concerned to accept the men. Most of the Balts already employed have been sent to the sawfields of north Queensland and northern New South Wales.

Aussie Natives Search for Gold In Bleak Desert

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — Two mission-trained aborigines, Jimmy and Jacky, have taken a camel train into Central Australia in search of Lasseter's lost reef — a fabulous El Dorado somewhere in the Spinifex wastes of the interior.

The two aborigines are experienced prospectors with three previous expeditions in search of the reef to their credit. They will be "protected" by another native called Tommy who has only one leg.

The first of many journeys into the interior to locate the gold began soon after a prospector, Harry Lasseter, wandered into a surveyor's camp on the Adelaide-Darwin Overland Telegraph route in 1903 with a tale of having found a reef studded with gold "as thick as plums in a pudding."

Lasseter said he got lost returning from the reef. His horses had died one by one and he had wandered about for days in a semi-exhausted condition until he stumbled into the surveyor's camp.

Three years later he and the surveyor went back to find the reef but they failed.

Although many prospectors doubt Lasseter's story, old timers of the gold rush days of the West believe the reef exists — probably on sacred grounds of the aborigines, who have done everything possible to prevent the white man's search parties probing the area.

Lasseter spent the rest of his life going over his tracks and finally perished late in 1930. His dead body was discovered early in 1931. Few months he had wandered about with the natives, living on their foods and trying to get a clue that might lead him to the reef.

A native spirit-man eventually "pressed" for him to die.

At least 11 other men have died looking for the reef.

Jimmy and Jacky have had narrow escapes on their previous expeditions. They have been hampered by heavy sands, lack of water and a deadly fear of being speared by wild Spinifex tribesmen.

Under the law they, as aborigines, are not allowed to carry firearms and they will have to rely on their protector, Tommy, to talk them out of any trouble they might run into. Tommy is a member of the Spinifex tribe.

They have taken plenty of water with them in four-gallon drums strapped to their camels.

Before leaving for the desert they told misery they had information from "friends among the natives" that led them to hope they would be successful.

Mining interests in Kalgoorlie, a West Australian gold town, are understood to be backing them.

Father of Six Rescues Boy from Trent Canal

WINS DOW AWARD

D'ARCY HILL

OF LAKEFIELD, ONTARIO, brings rescuer youngster to surface after diving three times

Seeing bubbles rising to the surface, 46-year-old D'Arcy Hill dove into 17 feet of dark, murky canal water.

The sheer, cement wall was impossible to climb . . . so Hill swam with the unconscious boy towards the canal entrance. Fortunately, others soon arrived and helped them out of the water.

At his home in Lakefield, near Peterboro, Ontario, D'Arcy Hill had just started to remove his work clothes when a shrill cry, coming from the direction of the Otonabee River, pierced the air. Dashing 100 yards down the wooded path, he came to the sheer, cement-walled bank of the Trent canal. At first he could see nothing . . . and then, suddenly, he noticed a few bubbles rising to the surface.

Immediately Hill dove into 17 feet of murky water. Swimming to the bottom of the canal he found a bicycle. A leaking air valve had caused the bubbles . . . and Hill was certain that the rider must be somewhere near. Coming to the surface for air, the rescuer made two more dives to the bottom. Despite the heavy undertow from a nearby power dam, he finally located the unconscious body of a 12-year-old boy and brought him to the surface. Eight feet of bare cement wall faced the rescuer . . . so he began the slow, difficult swim to the canal entrance. Luckily, help arrived within a few years and soon the boy was in the hands of a doctor.

That young boy is alive and well today due to the bravery and cool efforts of D'Arcy Hill of Lakefield, Ont. We are proud to pay him tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian newspapers.

Claim Negro Seamen Smuggled into U.K.

London — (CP) — A mysterious organization in Aden was accused of smuggling Negro seamen into Britain by a delegate to the annual meeting of the National Union of Seamen.

C. Collison, district secretary of the northeast-coast section of the union, said the men, who often have only one English, were brought into England, where they gave "a big rake-off" to agents who found them jobs aboard British ships.

White seamen were often displaced, he said.

The meeting passed a resolution condemning the influx of Negro seamen into the merchant navy, and asking that the government take steps to check "abuses now current."

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"Just Clary!" I said slowly, as I might have turned the page of a story.

"Oh, he'd left earlier in the afternoon."

There was something a little odd in his tone.

"His loved his stepfather?"

"Hated him." We were at the side door of the grim old house now, in the shade of thick-knotted pines and shrubs. They penetrated a good deal, I believe," Munro said carelessly, opening the door. "But well, I mean, after all, the Italian workman did it. Very later he got jailed for something else, was crying, and confessed."

"And that was conclusive," I said rather than asked as we parted in the dark side hall.

Munro nodded, going toward the little downstairs library that we used as a sitting room sometimes before dinner or for a little while after dinner. Old Mr. Calhoun Hillyard never came downstairs, and the real sitting room was his bedroom, to which everyone else, except of course myself, had access. The downstairs room had been a sort of den, or back parlor, or study; there was a coal grate under a fluted black marble mantel, and chairs and curtains that smelled musty. The tables were marble-topped; spidery white thread mats stood under the bases of the lamps. The pictures here were old engravings: "Franklin at the Court of France," "Wash Peasants Crossing a Stream," "Signing the Declaration of Independence." Every old house, of that period has these and others like them; but Louise Ring, old Mr. Hillyard's nurse, told me that these were also very valuable pictures in this house, original paintings and portraits. Many of the panels high doors of the ground floor were kept locked; Louise said she supposed that they were full of most terrible statues and lamps; that there were tassels on everything and curtains dragged down with fringe. But as she had never entered these dismal apartments, this was mere guesswork.

Louise said that she understood these were fine old California originals hung on the neglected walls: Keiths and Latimers and Tubys and Lucien's oils, redwoods and seascapes by the score, and at least six or seven portraits by Mary Curtis Richardson and Joe Strong.

"Is there any reason for their not using those rooms, Louise?"

"None except that it'd be terrific to keep the whole place open for an old invalid, a half — blind man, his secretary, and a trained nurse," Louise answered briskly.

"Exactly how did he lose his sight — Hillyard?"

"Some germ, they say."

"Did he work before that?"

"Work! Well, I'm not sure he ever practised, but he had a laboratory here and he wrote articles, you know," Louise said. "He's written a lot of scientific stuff."

"He he — did he ever marry?"

"No. And he won't," said Louise, "while Mrs. Greer is alive."

"Oh." I kept very still. She must go on.

"Very beautiful, very much married, very fascinating," Louise supplied.

"Married, you said?"

"Very much so."

"The husband — doesn't he know?"

"That," said Louise, finishing her breakfast at me with a gulp of her third cup of coffee, a startled glance at her wrist watch, and a snatch at a last shred of biscuit or toast, "I couldn't say. I only got onto this recently."

"Is she young?"

Louise sat down again, intrigued by the elusive fascinating subject of a man's love for a woman.

"My dear, it doesn't matter whether she's young or beautiful or anything else — she simply got his number."

"How —" I felt my face reddening — "how do you get their numbers?"

"For one thing," Louise answered seriously, "you ought to be married — or have been married."

"You can't start that way."

"No, but you should marry — oh, somebody," Louise plated. "Unhappily, you mean?"

"Not necessarily. You may like it. If you do, then everything is all right. But if it isn't working, then you have all the more fascination for some other man."

"You" didn't," I said flatly after a moment's thought.

"Of course I did. I married secretly while I was still in training. I married a young doctor; he was called on a thirty-mine and died six months later. He was English."

"Four years. Did you grieve for him terribly, Louise?"

"Oh yes, I have his picture. But what I mean is," Louise said thoughtfully, "that if a man knows some other man wants you, he wants you."

Mother of Slain Son Offers Help To Accused Bride

Jealousy Said by Police To be Motive for Crime

Fenelon Falls, Ont., Sept. 7—(CP) — Mrs. W. B. McAllister of Hamilton said today she will stand by the pretty red-haired Scottish war bride accused of murder in the revolver slaying of Mrs. McAllister's son.

The bride, 29-year-old Jean McAllister, was to be formally arraigned at Lindsay today on the murder charge. It was laid after police investigation into the slaying of her husband, 33-year-old John Burton McAllister. He was shot late Sunday night and died early Monday, not long after his body was found in a lonely cabin at nearby Kirkfield in this summer resort area some 40 miles northwest of Peterborough.

"I intend to obtain counsel for her," said the mother-in-law who is vacationing in this district. "She is one of our family and we have a responsibility to her. We are going to help her all we can."

The bride, who met her husband in her native Greenock, Scotland, during the war, has said to have given police a statement but they refused to discuss its contents. They gave "jealousy" as a motive.

McAllister was found Sunday night by his brother, Bruce, lying on a bed in the lonely cabin near Kirkfield in this vacation district 40 miles northwest of Peterborough. He was still alive when his brother reached him but he had suffered a bullet wound in the head. He died as a doctor attempted to remove him to hospital shortly after midnight.

McAllister and his wife had been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McAllister of Hamilton who live in a cottage nearby.

"They seemed very happy when they left," Mrs. McAllister, the slain man's father said. "They left about 10 o'clock."

An hour later a neighbor saw Jean McAllister, one of the dead man, walking on a road near her home. The neighbor summoned McAllister's parents. When they reached the cottage Mrs. McAllister was nowhere in sight.

She was arrested shortly after night o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. McAllister, her father-in-law said she had wandered in the bush all night in her bare feet.

A .32 calibre pistol was found by police about 100 yards from the scene of the slaying. Inspector W. J. Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police laid a charge of murder after consulting Crown Attorney L. W. Gordon of Lindsay.

McAllister, a petty officer in the navy during the recent war, moved to Kirkfield shortly after his bride arrived in Canada. The couple met in Scotland during the war.

Boy Sleeping In Caboose Killed in Crash

Peterborough, Sept. 7 —Kenneth Bull, 10, of Lindsay, was killed early Monday when a heavy freight train plowed into the caboose in which he was sleeping on the CNR line, two miles east of Birdsall station.

The boy was taking a holiday ride with his father, William Bull train conductor.

The Bull train broke down with eight freight cars and while it was stalled on the tracks a second freight crashed into its rear. Both trains were travelling west from Belleville to Lindsay.

The crash occurred shortly after midnight.

The impact crushed the caboose, where the boy was sleeping alone, and derailed seven box cars.

No others were reported injured. Jacket found of the second locomotive was flattened by the force of the crash.

Both trains were delayed 12 hours to clear the tracks.

Noted Canadian Woman Dies

Toronto, Sept. 7 (CP)—One of Canada's outstanding women, Mrs. Harry Plumptre, died in hospital here Saturday. She was the wife of Rev. Canon H. F. Plumptre, retired rector of Toronto's St. James Cathedral, and a former chairman of the Toronto Board of Education, third woman to be city alderman in the Canadian Red Cross executive. In 1931 she represented Canada as an official delegate to the assembly of the League of Nations in Canada.

Three Perish In Candy Factory Fire at Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP)— Three persons perished and more than a dozen others were injured today in a spectacular fire which swept through a four-story candy factory. Three of the injured were in critical condition.

A terrific explosion preceded the fire which nearly destroyed the brick factory of K. J. Brach mated damage at more than $1,000,000.

The three employees were dead upon arrival at hospital. They were believed to have been trapped on the third floor of the building, where the explosion occurred. About 25 persons were reported to have been at work on the third floor during the early-morning shift.

Thousands of persons were attracted to the blaze and 200 policemen were detailed to the area.

Correspondent Passes Fantastic Night in Berlin's Besieged City Hall

Editor's note: Lyford Moore, Reuters correspondent in Berlin today telephoned the following report from the city hall, in the Soviet sector, where he spent the night in the "besieged" building with western liaison officers and what-sector German police after 20 other German police were removed in handcuffs last night.)

By LYFORD MOORE

Inside the city hall, Berlin, Sept. 7 (Reuters)—I have just awakened on the floor of the United States liaison office after a fantastic night in Berlin's besieged city hall.

The American liaison officer entrusted with the safety of some 30 western-sector German policemen who are locked into an attic room on the fifth floor of the building has given us a cup of coffee.

It is a cold, grey morning outside. From this office window I can see clusters of Soviet-sector German police standing around the city hall. They stand in every doorway and rigidly screen everyone entering or leaving the buildings, which Soviet demonstrators stormed yesterday to prevent a meeting of the city assembly.

From time to time throughout a hectic night during which none of us had much sleep, patrols of Russian soldiers with tommy-guns slung over their shoulders have been changing watch outside.

We have been told that two "divisions" of Russian soldiers have blocked all approaches to the city hall to ensure that the west-German policemen inside the building do not escape.

I have just looked in on these men who were brought here as "orderlies" and who now are prisoners.

They are grubby, unkempt and unshaven. But their spirits are high in spite of the fact that 29 of their colleagues were removed forcibly, in handcuffs made of chains, from a nearby American office last night.

COMMUNIST-LED MOBS POUND WAY INTO BERLIN HALL

Efforts to Settle Cold War Pushed to New Low

Berlin, Sept. 7 — (AP) — The Russians today served notice at the Four-Power Berlin air safety centre that Soviet planes will hold manoeuvres over the Berlin area and the Russian zone during the week ending Sept. 14.

A United States official said it is not known how extensive the manoeuvres will be "but the implication is that there will be more than normal activity." Since the Russians blockaded the land approaches to Berlin in late June, Britain and the United States have been supplying western sectors of the city by air.

But Communist battering-ram tactics have hammered away to settle the cold war in Berlin to a new low.

Tension was at the breaking point after Communist-led mobs yesterday pounded their way into the city hall in the Soviet sector and forced the city government to withdraw to western Berlin. It was the third such invasion of the city hall by the Soviet Communists steamed up their campaign. They hope to oust and impose their own rule on the divided city of Berlin.

A heavy cordon of Russian-backed German police sprinkled with Soviet military police, isolated the city hall. Everyone leaving it was forced to run a gaugh check as often as three times.

Twenty-seven western-Berlin policemen still were holed up in the hall early today after the rival Soviet-sector police last invaded the Oneirich mayoralty offices there. They brushed aside a protesting American officer and dragged 29 western-German police in to handcuffs and chain.

A towering Russian major ordered listless officers of the three Western Powers out of the building. The western officers refused and the Russians did not demand it.

May Divide City

The prospect grew that final division of Berlin into two cities soon would follow. Forced by Communist-led demonstrations to abandon their chamber, the anti-Communist city council met yesterday in the Titania palace.

The Communist press accused the deputies of "provoking unrest from "protesting workers" and claimed the meeting was illegal.

Some observers felt that a meeting of the city council majority in Western Berlin was exactly what the Russian-sponsored Socialists Unity Party wanted.

19-Year-Old Boy Drowns in Outlet Off Wellington

Dropping into a hole as he went swimming in the outlet of Wellington, 19-year-old Harry Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morris of Hillier was drowned early Sunday afternoon. The body was recovered 15-minutes later but efforts at artificial respiration proved fruitless.

Morris had eaten his dinner at Wellington, and then went with a neighbor, James Smith, had then gone swimming. Both boys were very well he had dropped into a hole and fell from sight. Young Smith raced his car a few blocks to the Canoe Creek Outskirts of Marvin who immediately returned with his son Allan.

An expert swimmer the 12-year-old son of the county constable dove into the water and on his fourth attempt brought Morris' body to the surface. Artificial respiration under the direction of Dr. H. A. Thompson of Wellington was given for two hours without success.

It is undecided whether an inquest will be held.

MUST PROVIDE DRAINAGE

Digby, N.S., Sept. 7 (CP)—The biggest problem facing highway engineers in the building of new arterials and road designs that will withstand the pounding of modern heavy-duty trucking is soil drainage, Norman McLeod of Toronto said today.

He told the 29th annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association that the Dominion government has recently conducted a a survey of airport runways and found that 30 per cent of the failures were caused by poor drainage.

Girl Walks Into Icy River Water Praising God

Bancroft Sept. 7 (CP) — Violet Gogiin, 18, was "called by the Holy Spirit" into the icy waters of the river Madawaska near here, where she was drowned, her father said Sunday. Bancroft is in Hastings County about 65 miles west of the town of Renfrew.

That was the explanation farmer Henry Goglin gave for the August 29 death of his daughter, who waded into the river beyond her depth. As the water closed over her head she said to have repeated: "Faith is the Victory."

Viola Goglin, Violet's 23-year-old sister stood on the isolated wooded river bank and watched Violet, waist deep in swift water in the river.

Goglin born of German descent in this backwoods district said he was not sad when Violet met death. Neither was Violet's 11 brothers and sisters. They said they were happy because she had received the blessing of the Holy Spirit and been called to Heaven.

Mr. Goglin, whose wife died 15 years ago, said Violet received the "blessing" at a camp meeting Thursday. That day she began praising God. She kept on praising kept up until Sunday morning.

Then Violet was led by the Holy Spirit to the river and into the flowing water. Her father was led by the spirit in the Bible.

Viola said "God told me to go with her."

"I stood on the bank and kept praising while Violet walked into the river," she said. "She kept walking till the water closed over praising. "Faith is the victory," and still she kept on praising.

"I wasn't frightened because I knew it was God's will and there was no need to try to stop her. It was God's way of talking to her."

Mr. Goglin said his family belonged to no religious cult. Their form of worship, based on the Holy Bible, was "just plain love of Jesus." He said he left the Evangelical Church of Palmer Rapids about five years ago to worship in his own way.

"Those who love God much don't understand," he said.

Provincial Police Investigated and said there will not be a coroner's inquest.

"We have no reserves because of the water situation," he said. "We are using all the power we can line that we are a little nervous."

Mr. Saunders said that only cloudy weather would bring an end to power restrictions. The hydro-electric heating and might be the "straw that will break the camel's back."

FIRE FIGHTERS BATTLE TO TAME FLAMING OIL WELL

Earthen Banks Built To Keep Fire Confined

Edmonton, Sept. 7 (CP)— Patient fire fighters struck deep underground today in an effort to tame a rogue gulf wheel where flame upheaval last night was another phase of a months-long battle between men and the unpredictable elements from which they draw their riches.

The latest gaudy chapter in the history of Atlantic No. 3 well had been feared for months, ever since its rich reservoir of oil was struck unceremoniously last March when it was first drilled in the Leduc oil field, 15 miles south of here.

The public had been kept away from the area since May, when the oil started to flow through dozen fissures and saturating 40 acres of surrounding terrain. Plans for coping with a possible fire threat had been laid and the campaign to gain control of the well.

That threat became a reality last night as a ball of flame shot into the air with a roar and slowly spread over the surrounding territory, setting the bog through the oil-soaked land and settling over the fissure from which the fresh oil was oozing.

Bull-dozers threw up earthen trenches to keep the flames from spreading to other areas of the well. Officials of Canadian Fina Oil Co. Ltd., which drilled the well, kept a confident last night that this initial objective had been achieved.

But choking off the fire in the bowels of the earth presented a problem. The steady supply of fresh oil bubbling from the earth made conventional fire-fighting equipment useless.

The only method of ending the fire is the medium the officials have been following for months, an effort to get at its underground supply to stop the uncontrolled flow.

Even as flames shot 25 feet in the air last night, crews were dismissed at their posts 450 feet from the wellhead to dig more drainage into relief holes to choke off the well's underground supply.

The fire may last for days. The estimated cost is $50,000 a day in lost oil alone.

An additional loss of inestimable value is the natural gas which propels the oil upwards and which has been escaping since the well began acting up March 8.

Experts say the fire probably will never be known.

A FINANCIAL FLOP

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 7—(CP)— William (Red) Hill said last night his latest trip through the Niagara Gorge in a steel barrel was a decided financial flop.

He estimated he will net $500 for the 4 1-2 hours of battering in the rapids. Hill's last trip netted him $1,100.

POLICE SURROUND RACE TRACK

Hamilton, Sept. 7 (CP)—About 25 policemen stood shoulder to shoulder around a local dance hall Monday night as a 20-gang teen age riot threatened to develop. Police said the leader of the group known as the Incognitos was shocked cold by two members of the rival North End gang.

Plane Crew Blamed for Gaspe Crash In Which 29 Persons Lost Lives

Ottawa, Sept. 7 (CP) — Crash of a Bimotaii Expeditor plane in Gaspe Peninsula July 29 with the loss of 29 lives is blamed on the pilots by the air force inquiry report of a Transport Department official made public today.

Transport Minister Chevrier announced the board's report assigned "major responsibility" to Pilot E. J. Mills and First Officer R. B. Miles for undetermined reasons "major errors."

The plane — a Douglas DC3 — crashed in a Bimotaii expeditor while on a commercial non-scheduled flight from Mont Joli to Uticosti Island. All 29 aboard the ship — mostly lumberjacks en route to the mainland for a holiday from the Anticosti lumber camps — were killed.

The board of inquiry report said the pilots' "qualifications and skill were "satisfactory" at takeoff time and the pilot had expressed himself "doubtful" weather reported near Gaspe would clear up in time to permit him to make a safe landing.

However, the expected improvement failed to develop.

The report added:

The investigation disclosed that the pilot was off on a short duration that a return to Port Menier could have been easily made in the event of severe deterioration of the weather. It was also revealed that the aircraft had a sufficient quantity of fuel for approximately four hours cruising flight and could have reached Gaspe airport in Mont Joli or Rimouski. However, the captain continued on his course in the vicinity of the Gaspe coast and in the area of Cape Chat and Lady Secretary.

Western Powers Plan Joint Protest Over Berlin Riots

Believe Reds Organize Riots To Wreck Council of City

London, Sept. 7 (AP)—A British diplomatic source said today the western powers are planning a joint protest to Russia over the continuing Communist-led riots in Berlin.

The protest may go either to Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russia's military governor in Germany, or to the Soviet government in Moscow, the source said.

A Foreign Office spokesman made this unofficial statement:

"I need not emphasize the seriousness with which the deterioration in the Berlin position, resulting from the demonstrations of a minority party, is regarded here in London."

The spokesman said he could not comment officially on what action was contemplated by the western powers.

The three military commanders and the western mayor were holding a special meeting in Berlin to consider yesterday's riots in which Russian-sector German police arrested western-German police officers in the city hall and after German Communists took over the building.

The diplomatic source here said that future British action, in concert with the French and United States governments, will be different until the Communist riots in Berlin during the past few weeks have been crushed with the "unmistakable intention of wrecking the city council."

Did Not Know He Won Race Until on Ground

Cleveland, Sept. 7 — (AP) — Anson Fox, driver from Miami Springs, Fla., pinched himself today and looked twice at a $16,000 cheque to prove that he had won the Thompson Trophy, world classic of closed-course air racing.

Johnson's surprise was shared by 80,000 persons in the final lap of the National Air Raggs. The pilot didn't know until he was on the ground that he had won.

His average speed was 323 miles an hour for the 300-mile run around the 15-mile rectangular course. He was clocked at 400 miles an hour below the record set a year ago.

The race was one of the safest things in the sport's 40-year history in the history of the Thompson. It began as a three-plane race, with the leader of Creek Canalcity. Fred Precourt was gored to death as a result of being slowly replaced in northwestern sections by cooler and drier air under the influence of Prairies. The cooler air will spread into eastern and southern sections on Wednesday.

The estimable gentleman, on being questioned, stated that it was a way to cover his embarrassment because it was the first time in years that he had been able to sleep soundly for two consecutive nights and that as a result he was not sure just how he felt.

Two Youths Given Reformatory Terms

Two local youths, Victor Card and Jack Sharpe, both 17, were sentenced to two years less one day in jail when they appeared before Magistrate T. V. Wills for sentence on a theft charge.

The two youths last week pleaded guilty to the theft of $30 from the till at Bonn's Service Station. In addition Card pleaded guilty to being in possession of a stolen compass, and to theft from a parked car. Sharpe pleaded guilty to stealing the auto compass from the car of Mr. Stokes.

In passing sentence on Card, Magistrate Wills stated that a previous term in the reformatory had apparently meant little to the accused in causing him to mend his ways. He admitted, however, that the term had been too brief to permit the accused learning a trade.

"At your age I hope there is still some effort to save you from a life of crime," stated the Magistrate as he passed sentence on the two boys.

"There are institutions in this province where young boys can be taught a trade and I am accordingly going to make the sentence long enough to permit you learning a trade. The nature of which you will have some choice."

Laymen of Bay of Quinte Conference Hold Convention At Albert College in City

The Laymen's Conference of the Bay of Quinte Conference was held in Albert College during the Labor Day weekend with 25 different localities in the seven Presbyteries of the Conference being represented. Dr. R. Lamont Gelsinger, M.A., D.D., S.T.B., of Chicago, Illinois, Secretary of the Board of Lay Activities of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the U. S., was the principal speaker at the meetings and also the speaker at the service of the Bridge Street United Church on Sunday morning. E. E. Smith of Pembroke acted as pianist for the meetings with Alec Gordon presiding at the Sunday afternoon service in the church. The conference was divided into three, the other two being held at Alma College in St. Thomas and Wesley Hall at McMaster in Hamilton. It was decided that next year the conference will be held about the middle of September in order to avoid delegates being away from their homes over Labor Day holiday.

H. R. Neal Chairman

The conference opened on Saturday afternoon under the chairmanship of Rev. Harold B. Neal, chairman of the Bay of Quinte Conference Missionary and Maintenance Committee. They conducted the devotional period which was conducted at each session by Rev. James Lytle, superintendent of Home Missions for the conference. Rev. Lytle followed the progress of the operation of the Home Mission Committee, which includes six-seventhe of the population of the Province. He traced the development of the natural resources as well as the industrial growth since 1900 because prior to that time little or no growth had been apparent.

Mr. Ray Marshall discussed the subject "What makes a church" in the depressed, rural church" stating that life of the rural population was quite different from the life in urban places but that the same principles applied to the people who the speaker stated were quite as intelligent. He stated that many great leaders of the church came from the rural areas and were probably received their inspiration from those of the urban centres.

Former "F" Worker

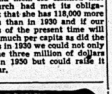
W. J. Holliday, secretary of the committee of Lay Activities in the United Church, was a former worker in the Y.M.C.A. in Montreal and pointed out that the stated that the problem of the church was not the problem of youth. "The problem is the world" said Mr. Holliday "is to keep the middle-aged from becoming retired that we may turn inspire the young to fulfill their duties in the church." There must be Christian fellowship and personal evangelism for the Christian message will not cannot ripen into fruit.

On Saturday evening, the delegates were welcomed to Albert College by Dr. Robert Burgoyne, principal, who detailed the history of this institution of learning. Rev. Arthur Gwann, missionary from Trinidad, was the principal speaker and outlined the progress in learning that had been made. He stated that the population consisted of two-third Negroes, one-third Indians, 10,000 white people and the remainder made up of French and Chinese. "Trinidad is the first of the lands remain active because of the work supplied by the Canadian church" said the speaker, "because the commercial aspect of schools did not prove so successful." He claimed that the leading young people in Trinidad were educated in Canadian universities and that many of them are in Northern Ontario in the mission fields during an excellent work.

$2,000,000 Needed

Rev. G. A. Williams, Associate Secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the United Church in Canada claimed $3,000,000 was needed by 1950 and if the church members gave according to the standard of their bank balance and by giving ten per cent the church could raise $5,000,000. Dr. Anson C. Moorhouse described the advancement of rural skills and called attention to the July edition of the Observer to the development of sound films. He emphasized the importance of visual aid and said "it must be increasingly given in the Department of Education." Dr. Gelsinger, the last speaker, the man who cares will do something about it" said the speaker in conclusion.

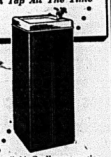
On Sunday morning Dr. Gelsinger in Bridge Street Church talked on "Our Christian Witness in Today's World," basing his remarks on Acts 1-8. He stated that Christian witness is the Christian witness in word and deed. Christian witness is effective, more expensive, more intelligent and more permissive than ever before. "Man in the world if the world is to be saved from disaster. In the afternoon service he followed up his morning address with "The Christian and What can one do about it?" meaning the program of the evangelism. He stated that the population of the world was about two billion and if that was reduced proportionately to 100 persons there would be 38 Christians, 19 Confucists and Taoists, 12 Hindus, 11 Mohammedans, 10 Animists, eight Buddhists, one Christic and one Jew and he asked what the 38 should be afraid of to make the world Christian.



Says Wells Are Empty

"The psychologist tells us that the spiritual wells are empty," said the speaker, "the philosopher tells us we have reached standards of value, the historian says we are the worshipping a kind of gods and a discriminating critic of literature says we are lost in the material and moral tangles of the world: the Christian conscience is in effect, and we have been found us out and that we are in the hands of the living God, whom we worship and serve today. He emphasized the need of belief and Missionaries. He can be done again in the Christian church if believers are to do so. However "One thing is sure" said Dr. Gelsinger, "we have misled ourselves into the spiritual plight described and we are not going to straddle our way out. We must work out it will be because we discard the population of the Province. The spiritual and moral maps we have been using and for the most part discarded."

He claimed that if mankind had the spiritual resources that Dr. John R. Mott and sent his suggested 10,000 missionaries to the strategic points in the world we could have escaped the last conflict and he insisted that would some day need to be sent and the catrophe the overtook us could have been avoided.



Conference Greetings Given

A. A. Martin of Brighton, representing the Conference Lay Activities Committee, addressed the meeting and Mrs. T. V. McNeely of Oshawa, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference brought greetings from the women. Rev. Denzil Ridout stated that the blessings of God comes through consecrated human personalities and he called upon all crowd services join with us in praise and thanks to God of the church and we have the money to send the word and men. He claimed that the church had met its obligation but that she has 118,000 more families in 1930 and of these families of the present time will give as much per capita as did the 1930 group we could not only raise the three million of dollars asked in 1950 but could raise it this year.

Union Official Taken off Plane

New York Sept. 7 (CP) —C. S. Jackson, an officer of the Chemical Workers Union (C.I.O.) at Toronto today was taken off a Trans Canada Air Lines plane by United States immigration officials at La Guardia airfield and placed in the custody of an immigration official.

Jackson was identified as International Vice-President of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (C.I.O.) and President of its Canadian affiliate, District 5. Immigration service officials here declined comment.

Arthur Kinoy, an associate general counsel for the union, who was on hand to meet Jackson, said the Canadian official was en route to the U.E. National Convention here.

Eleven Turned Back

Yesterday a Canadian delegate to the U.E. convention said 11 of the 18 Canadian delegates were turned back by immigration authorities when they sought to enter the United States from Hamilton, Ont.

Jackson was placed in an immigration automobile and driven away. As the car started two men who identified themselves as his lawyers, attempted to open the door of the car and were knocked down as the immigration official ordered the chauffeur to start.

Kinoy said Jackson was on his way to take part in the U.E. National convention now in progress. He said Jackson was elected chairman yesterday of the major committee at the convention and was to take an active part in the convention activities today.

Kinoy added that 13 delegates to the convention had been stopped at the border last night.

No Reason Given

George G. Aldridge of Toronto. a delegate to the convention from local 52, said last night that only seven of the 18 Canadian delegates had been permitted to enter the United States. He said no reason for the action was given.

The Daily Mirror says today that the United States has a blacklist of certain Canadian members of the U.E.W. and has refused to admit at least 11 Canadian delegates to the U.E. convention.

The Mirror said the U.E. is about to be probed by Congress as an alleged breeding ground for Communism.

Juliana Sworn In as Queen Of The Netherlands

Amsterdam, Sept. 7 Juliana of Orange Nassau was solemnly sworn in as queen of the Netherlands at an investiture held in the Fifteenth Century Nieuwe Kerk here Monday morning in the presence of European royalty, representatives of foreign governments and a cross-section of her own subjects.

It was inevitable that the personality of former Queen Wilhelmina, who abdicated two days ago after reigning 50 years, should dominate the scene. Precisely half a century earlier, as a girl of 18, she had been enthroned here and a towering stained glass window near by commemorated the fact. The simple chair used today was the same she sat in then.

Princess Seemed Lost

When Juliana entered the church leaning heavily on the arm of her husband, Prince Bernard, she seemed lost in the mass of gold encrusted courtiers. When she mounted the dais she said:

"Now that I am among you to swear my oath on the constitution it fills me with melancholy. For all of this is the result of my beloved mother's having spent her powers in the service of our country."

As Juliana went on she swayed nervously. The climax of the ordeal came early for her and she surmounted it successfully. Turning to her mother, now Princess Wilhelmina of The Netherlands, Queen Juliana paid a special personal tribute concluding with the announcement that the first act of her reign had been to sign an order bestowing on the princess the coveted Knight's Grand Cros of Militaire Willemsorde, first class, the nation's highest decoration.

The constitutional aspect of the investiture reached its height when Queen Juliana stood facing the tall, ruddy-cheeked Professor Kranenburg, president of joint assembly, upon completion of his roll call. Seven Communists were among those permitted to "promise" fidelity instead of "swearing" it.

Brilliant Splash of Colors

Royal guests made a brilliant splash of color in and near the dais. They were Crown Prince Oscar and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden, Crown Prince Olaf and Crown Princess Martha of Norway, Prince Axel and Princess Margaretha of Denmark, Princess Margaret of Britain, accompanied by the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice, Grand Duke of Luxembourg, Prince George of Greece and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, mother of exiled Leopold III.

Special diplomatic missions included France, Canada, the United States, Mexico, the Holy See, Argentina, Brazil, Italy, Portugal, Switzerland, China, Venezuela, Finland and Siam. Members of the Court of International Justice at The Hague were in the church, flanked by Dutch Government leaders, state councillors, trade unionists, artists, scientists and sports figures, the most prominent of whom was Mrs. Fanny Blankers - Koen, of recent Olympic fame.

Canada Represented

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, wartime commander of the First Canadian Army which helped liberate The Netherlands from the Germans, represented Canada at the investiture.

Britain's Princess Margaret enjoyed a triumph of her own today for the Dutch welcomed the 18-year-old younger daughter of King George VI wherever she went. During the afternoon she wore the star of the Grand Cross of The Netherlands Lion bestowed on her at a luncheon in the palace by Queen Juliana.

HATED JAP ON TRIAL

Exhibition Moves Into Second Week

Toronto, Sept. 7 (CP)—International affairs was on the agenda today as the Canadian National Exhibition moved well into its second—and last—week with a soaring attendance record.

Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, External Affairs Minister and Prime Minister-designate, was scheduled to address the directors' luncheon.

Yesterday—Labor Day — the great fair set an attendance record of 267,000.

Thousands of labor adherents both of the Canadian Congress of Labor and Trades and Labor Congress poured into the grounds with their families.

An estimated 26,000 Trade Unionists in a parade six miles long and escorted by 28 bands marched to the C.N.E. There they roared approval of hard-hitting speeches by their leaders on such subjects as labor unity or communism.

In the parade, the Canadian Seamen's Union, which struck for union recognition against three Canadian Great Lakes shipping companies, put on a show with an improvised jail on wheels, crammed with seamen.

Percy Bengough, President of T.&L.C., told a rally an intensive smear campaign is being conducted by some groups against the labor movement. He said the movement does not need warnings about the evils of communism from those "hostile" to organized labor.

"We understand communism better than they," he said. "In all countries in which dictartorships have been established, the first to be destroyed have been our brothers in the Trade Unions."

At a luncheon gathering A. R. Mosher, President of the C.C.L., said that closer relationships between the various branches of the labor movement were in sight.

EIGHT DROWNED

Lakeland, Fla., Sept. 7 (AP) — Seven children and an adult were drowned in little Lake Beeson yesterday when their motorboat capsized because of overloading. Two children were saved by a brother who swam out 400 feet. Several others swam to the scene in a futile attempt to rescue others.

Purge Intended To Heal Party Breach in Poland

Warsaw, Sept. 7 (AP)—Polish Communists today launched a purge intended to heal a party breach which threatens their control of Poland. The purge is aimed at Nationalists in the Communist Workers' Party who deviate from the Moscow party line, or international Communism.

Vice-Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka, who lost his job as the party's secretary-general Sunday because of his Nationalist attitude and his support for Premier Tito of Yugoslavia, declared last night that the party's troubles are past the crisis.

He appeared before a war council of party leaders to admit charges levelled against him that he had pursued "a false and anti-Marxist line" and had permitted Rightist and Nationalist deviations. He said he had patched up his ideological differences with Poland's Communist chieftains.

Fire' Alarms Needed in Barns

Whenever we read of a report of a barn fire such as appeared in the columns of this paper on Friday we never fail to feel a deep sense of pity for the livestock which have perished in the flames. The animals, trapped as they are in the stalls and pens of the stables, never have much chance to be saved even when the fire is discovered in time.

Every year this dismal occurrence takes place all over the country, and so far as we know there does not seem to be any scheme devised to reduce the losses. Most fires take place during the summer and autumn months, generally caused by lightning, spontaneous combustion and threshing machines. Fortunately at this time of year, cattle are out in the fields consequently the hazard to them is not so great as to horses and hogs.

The problem of developing a reasonably-priced automatic alarm system should not be beyond the skill of engineers. The time element is all-important when fires break out no matter what type of building, but essentially in barn fires. The alarm, we feel, would do much to reduce livestock losses but it would have to be within reach of the average farmer's means.

Another thought would seem to have some merit. Why not have a one-storey shed for the house livestock during the dangerous season. It could be built of cheaper materials and the cost of upkeep would be low as well. The only drawbacks are the cost and the trouble of transferring feed from the barn. However, rather than take a chance on losing a herd of cows plus horses and pigs it seems worth while to the trouble. The chances of such a building being destroyed by lightning and spontaneous combustion are practically nil. Should the main barn be lost then there would be little chance of the smaller structure suffering a like fate.

It is to be admitted that these suggestions are rather idealistic but when a farmer has a big stake in livestock would it not be better to do something about it rather than hoping for the best all the time. Perhaps, both of the above ideas are being used in some places, but so far as we know we have not heard of it.

The Dirty Picnickers

This season has resembled all others in its all too visible reminders of the presence of picnic parties through the filthy litter they have left behind them to mar otherwise attractive surroundings.

Nothing can be more disgusting than to find one of these favorite picnicking spots — of which there are so many alongside our rivers and lakes or on islands situated in those bodies of waters — strewn with dirty paper, broken bottles, empty tin cans, fruit peelings and other residue which the people using them have been too indolent or too indifferent to dispose of in a decent, orderly manner.

One wonders about the domestic habits of the individuals who are guilty of this practice, commented the Brockville Recorder and Times. Do they waste paper to blow about their own premises and to contaminate the property of their neighbors? Do they toss their empty tin cans and other containers on their front lawns and allow them to remain there? Would they assent without protest to their neighbors dumping garbage before their shade trees or in their back yards? If not, why should they be boorish a picnicking place with their own refuse when they know very well others will in due course want to make use of the same surroundings and perhaps be driven away by the filth that confronts them?

It is true that many of these spots lack the refuse containers that are to be found in camps and parks under close supervision. The municipally-owned islands in the Brock group cannot, for instance, be given such supervision nor is it feasible to provide refuse containers for those who make use of them. But it is also true that the barn would be just as easy possible to bury or tuck away old bottles and tin cans in some out-of-the-way spot where they will not offend the eye and sometimes the nostrils. The picnicker who wants to be clean can be clean without a great deal of trouble and it is quite unnecessary to be untidy and dirty and create a nuisance during a picnicking habit.

We don't suppose anything that may be said or written about those habits will make the slightest improvement in them. It is part of the penalty the community has to pay for harboring people who seem to be quite unfitted for decent society and quite indifferent to the responsibility they owe their neighbors.

CHILDHOOD TRAGEDY

Now one of the joys which
Children can boast,
And many they are, is a marshmallow roast.
A fire and the children all gathered around
Holding sweetmeats on sticks till they're properly browned.
But they're hot when away from the fire they come
And Ellen Elizabeth blistered her thumb.

A marshmallow toasted like this is delicious
And there isn't a doubt that it properly sits
A child's appetite
A child's appetite
But one impatient the candy
to eat,
From history learns that it sizzles with heat.
With a shriek which left all of us terrified numb
Ellen Elizabeth blistered her thumb.

Some lessons there are which from youth must be learned.
Children seldom fear fire till their fingers they've burned.
And even a marshmallow roast
is a ponder
Teaching youngsters to wait for hot candies to cool.
So never again this sad tune shall I strum:
Ellen Elizabeth blistered her thumb.

"Finch met in Junior's vacation really over."

Berliners Dizzy as East-West Row Splits Life in the City

Berlin (AP)—When the Russians walked out of the four-power administration of Berlin and began to split the city, they started on the road to confusion that goes dizzier by the week.

Today Berlin's mayor's city where your money is good in the western part of town but worthless only a few yards to the east you're in jail in the eastern sector.

It's a town where you can drop a letter in the mail in the western section but it will be returned to you from the east because your address is written in words not used by the Russians.

You are authorized to go into a restaurant and buy a meal on one side of a boundary line but are banned on the opposite side.

You can belong to trade union which is recognized as the "only authorized and legal" union in the west but is outlawed in the east side.

That gives you an idea of what Berlin's citizens are up against. The Russians control the three Berliners for voting resoundingly in anti-Communist in their first—and thus far only—post-war election in October 1946.

Thereupon the Russians and their German Communist allies adopted a strategy of trying by hamstring the anti-Communist socialist administration in order to discredit it will the electorate.

Refused Russian Orders

When this didn't work the Russians withdrew from the four-power Allied Kommandatsurs and The Russians split the police force, the diary which of division began, forcing Communist into central headquarters in the western occupying sectors had to refuse to obey certain orders in order to protect their sectors from kidnapping, political coercion and subversion.

Then things got really complicated. The Russians muscled into control of Berlin's postal system. The western powers retaliated but it only resulted in a tangle.

Then the currency reform — and a real headache. The Russians declared that Berlin was economically a part of their surrounding occupation zone and insisted that only Soviet-approved currency circulate. The western Allies said that the whole country currency should be good. The Russians outlawed the new currency and began resting persons they caught in possession of it in their sector of the city.

Finally there came the Russian blockade of the western Berlin, cutting off transport food, power and coal. The Russians, trying to starve western Berlin into political submission, ordered that no western Berliner could eat in a Soviet sector restaurant even if he had money in his pocket. In retaliation, United States authorities said that no one in the west could eat in west-side restaurants.

The split occurred in the trade unions. When the Russian-backed Communist Party recognized a rival union, the Berlin Trade Union Federation.

COMMUNIST-LED

They felt the council might not be permitted to the city hall by the Russian-controlled police. Instead they thought the Socialist Unity might attempt to take over, set up a rump government, charging the administration had "deserted."

"That would leave no alternative," a top Allied official said. "We then will have two complete governments."

Battle for control of the city already has led to a split in the police, finance and food departments.

Faced with the rapidly worsening local situation, the military governors of the four powers decided last week to withdraw all their technical discussions aimed at unifying Berlin's financial and communication problems.

Mackenzie's Column: Polish Communist Party in Open Revolt Over Policy

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The sturdy defiance of Moscow by Yugoslavia's tough dictator, Marshal Tito, is echoing sensationally in the Kremlin's other Russian satellite state, and that none other than Poland—one of the pillars of the Bolshevist clan.

The Polish Communist Party, with a membership of 1,000,000 is split so wide open that the red reign of terror is threatened as high as 50 per cent of the membership is in open revolt. The dissidents are fiercely opposed in general to losing the party line as laid down by the Communist Information Bureau, and specifically to the socialization of production in Polish peasant villages.

The whole stand for collectivism, as opposed to the international socialism dictated by the Kremlin is the dictatorship of Moscow. That also is the basis of the row between Tito and the Soviet Union. Poland and Yugoslavia have won their right of independence whose liberation of their countries, want and abundance they haven't asked for a severance of the tie with Russia.

Watch Satellites

And there be any doubt about the relationship between the Yugoslav and Polish defiance of Moscow, it might be recorded that a Communist party resolution has just called an emergency meeting in Warsaw yesterday for the purpose of placing incidents for causing dissension among the Polish Reds. And it takes it. It is a tenet that "a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump." Which is why Tito and Co. want to watch for the working of the leaven in other Russian satellite states.

Rush to Warsaw

Polish Communist party leaders from all parts of the country rushed to Warsaw yesterday for a council meeting. It is to deal with the split in the party. This conference assembled shortly after Wladyslaw Gomulka, Vice-Premier of Poland, had been "ousted from his post as secretary-general of the party. He had indicated the Kremlin's support against the Moscow-dominated cominform.

In connection with the emergency conference, a public communique was issued by the executive committee, notifying the Polish public that there must be "full liquidation" of all members who refuse to obey the Soviet - Titoist - Zionist line as handed down by Moscow. Furthermore the executive committee announced down its fiat and made known that the "organizational steps" will be taken through socialization of production in Polish peasant villages and the "liquidation" of the kulaks, or rich farmers. This is of course was a direct challenge to the dissenters.

Grim Situation

This grim situation gives rise to pertinent questions: Will the Kremlin's Polish stand for such oppression? What will be the reaction in the Balkans and Yugoslav disaffections on other intensified Communist purges? Will the discontinued Czechoslovakians? How will it strike those countries of western Europe which are the object of Communist aggression? There can be no doubt that it will mean a hardening of the Communist line and a continued drive.

The house that Communism has been building in Europe is beginning to show dangerous weaknesses in structure.

Unauthorized Strikes Condemned by Trade Unions

Margate, England, Sept. 7 — (AP) — The powerful Trades Union Council adopted Monday by voice vote a resolution condemning unauthorized strikes on the grounds they undermine the British people's and every Britain's economic recovery.

The action came at the council's 80th annual conference, which brought together delegates from 188 trade unions representing nearly 8,000,000 workers.

The resolution reflected the concern of labor leaders over unofficial strikes as that which tied up the port of London for a few months.

Emanuel Shinwell, secretary for war, told the delegates they must be prepared to make additional experiments in their industrial organization and not be deterred by opposition, not intimidated by political cranks.

He hinted at a higher measure of direction in the conduct of privately owned industry when he said "we should also use the vast facilities afforded by the great co-operative movement in this country, principally in the field of distribution."

Veteran Riverman Rides Niagara Rapids in Barrel

Queenston, Ont., Sept. 7 (CP) Ned Hill, veteran riverman riding the Niagara rapids in a steel barrel, ended his five-mile trip Sunday afternoon when he scrambled ashore unharmed from the wreckage.

Hill reached the steamship docks here at 3 p.m. EDT, Sunday, about 15 minutes after starting the course near the whirlpool. Hill started from Niagara Falls, Ont.

The trip was hailed temporarily shortly after the start when the Niagara whirlpool his three brothers—Major, Corky and Stanley were treated to the cigar-shaped barrel from the fast-whirling current and opened the barrel to let Hill have fresh air. After hailing it on, Hill entered and continued downriver.

Three miles from Queenston between the Whirlpool and Niagara Glen, he again became trapped in an eddy.

Hill was freed again by his brothers and then drifted ashore to the docks where it was picked up and towed ashore. He told spectators who waited here for him that his return trip was "easier" than the one he made in 1945.

FACE SAVING AND FACE LIFTING

A lady (eh?) pushing sixty went shopping for some new teeth. She had visited several dentists and asked what new teeth would cost her. She explained that she was satisfied with her old teeth, although the dentures were in a sad state of disrepair and of little practical use. But, if she was going to have her face lifted and the plastic surgeon had agreed to do it, economically, for a few thousand dollars if she would first get new teeth.

The dentists told her what the new teeth would cost—the average estimate was in the neighborhood of a hundred smackers. What exclaimed the lady. I could get a new car for that price. Yes, in so many words. Well, thanks, she'd think about it.

Back to the plastic surgeon. Couldn't he just go ahead and lift the face lifting and forget about the new teeth? She could see no sense in spending so much for so little . . . Madam, the cosmetic surgeon could do that for her if she desired unless the new dentures were installed first.

So the lady didn't know what to do. To think that she'd been saving by for years gumming her mashed potato, white bread or pap, ground meat diet. Now she must now squander a hundred dollars for dentures that she had compiled eventually, with bad grace. Her attitude and behavior made the dentist's task pretty repulsive and he was glad when she had not bumored the woman in the first place. She had taken up his time, energy and skill and let him back on his regular working schedule for days.

Had the queer character only known it, dentures are the most social defect was the important part of her face lifting operation. If she had not neglected her teeth too long the construction of proper dentures would have done most of the sag out of her jowls, would have filled in her cheeks and lessen the depth and emphasis of the lines around and about the mouth.

Indeed this is the most satisfactory and economical "plastic surgery" one can buy—immediate or delayed—dentures. Compared with the "face lifting" operation that some credulous customers undergo from season to season, this method of preserving youthful appearance is more reliable, less risky and tells whether appraised solely for its effect on personal appearance or for its effect on functional efficiency, vim, enjoyment of life and longevity.

Study the faces of those around you and notice the characteristic sag, droop or collapse of the facial muscles. Women who have had several teeth and neglected to have proper dentures made to replace them, and the relatively few women who have had face cheeks of those who have had the gumption and personal pride to replace their teeth with dentures immediately or at least early constructed, and of course the good sense to wear the new dentures at all the time from the very first, and get so accustomed that they will feel uncomfortable without them.

The best way to keep your face from collapsing prematurely and keep your nose and chin from approximating each other like the witch's is as simple as this: Keep all of your (or your dentist's) twenty-eight to thirty-two teeth in good working order all the time.

A silver manufacturing company in a small Canadian manufacturing town has recently found a problem which it could no longer operate profitably. This calls to mind the remarks of a young Hindu to a Canadian university who told me:

"One thing I cannot understand is why Canadians are not more artistic considering they have immense silver resources. A more beautiful metal for personal ornaments and for the household utensils and ornaments does not exist."

"In every Canadian city and town there should be a Street of the Silversmiths, as we have in India. In every town and vocational schools you should conduct classes in the art of working of silver. One day, in a large jewellery shop in India I bought a most beautiful silverware — bowls, vases, platters and trays as well as knives, spoons and forks. They were designed in beautiful bold shapes, unlike the intricate and filigree years ago.

patterns developed by the silversmiths of India. I thought to myself, how beautiful it would be in Canada!' On further inquiry, I found this had been carried out in Sweden. The price was fabulous.

"Canada," pursued the young Hindu scholar, "do not realize how beautiful they would be. Here you have only to live five months of white winter to appreciate the use of silver. Every Canadian girl and woman should have many pieces of beautiful silverware, the men should give them personalized pens, pocket knives and wallets of your native silver and there should be a revival of handicraftsmen. Your home industries might with advantage be of essentially Canadian style made by your own sons and daughters. Here you have in Street of the Silversmiths . . . you have in Canada only two Hindu scholar, uncomprehending as I am, that if you have a wedding present, it had to be Sheffield or an imitation of Sheffield's design conceived two hundred years ago.

AIM AT HIGH TARGETS

Psychology is making great emphasis today on the need of self-assurance. Believe in yourself. Believe that you can do. Believe that you can be. Believe that you can succeed. Believe that you can overcome any desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them" (Mark 11:24). On another occasion he said: "All things are possible to him that believeth" (Mark 9:23).

Belief constitutes an instrument of vast power, ready for us to use. It is true that we can have almost anything we desire when we can have. Something seems to happen to the person who has a definite aim when he man gets the idea of achievement into the subconscious. Successful businessmen are usually those who over a period of years have firmly believed their ultimate success. Inventors are men who press forward with a confident that they can achieve something. Even the captains of ships of the world, intended on having that there will be a safe harbor for them in the western horizon. By his belief he laid hold of the harbor.

"All things are possible to the man that believes" Mrk 11.

New Livestock Yards Being Built By C.P. Railway

Now under construction by the Bridge and Building Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Tweed will have one of the largest livestock shipping yards on the line between Montreal and Toronto, when the present work is completed. Aware of the fact that this community is a rapidly tremendous volume of business in all branches of livestock shipments, railway officials decided some months ago to provide the facilities adequate to local needs.

Roof Over Pens

The yards have been completely rebuilt and a roof has been constructed over 8 pens while a concrete floor with a drainage system will greatly improve conditions particularly during rainy weather. Two new loading chutes have been built and three cars may now be loaded at the same time if the volume of stock makes it necessary. Ray Scott of Smiths Falls, bridge and building foreman, Trenton division, is in charge of the work and in his opinion the yards will be superior to those at any point on the local division. It is estimated that the new yards will cost in the neighborhood of $12,000.

A wide platform has been constructed parallel with the tracks and under the new arrangement ten cars of livestock may be herded into the yards all at one time if necessary. Water will be available in every pen. The stock shipped from Tweed will be in better condition when the cars reach the packing houses. Mr. T.C. Wilson, local C.P.R. agent, informs us that 321 cars left Tweed last year and this is pretty big business. It is not unusual to see eight or ten car loads of hogs and cattle leave Tweed weekly, particularly during the spring and autumn season.

Application Made To Construct New Bowling Alley

Tweed — Application has been made by Mr. Merrow, represented by Francis B. Merrow for a permit to construct a new building to house bowling alleys on the north Victoria St. -He has purchased the lot between Dr. George and Mrs. Albert Dion from Louis Rashotte and will start work on the premises as soon as the necessary permit is issued.

The building will be modern in every respect and will contain four bowling alleys and a snackbar and lobby at the entrance.

No Windows

There will be no windows in the structure to avoid any disturbing noise from falling pins. Mr. Merrow states that alleys are available as soon as the building is ready for occupancy and he hopes to have the business underway by late autumn. The building will be 120 feet by 34 feet with 10 foot ceiling and will be constructed of cement blocks covered with stucco. A one storey building, it will contain no basement and the specifications call for a flat tar and gravel roof. The interior will be finished in an attractive shade and there will be toilets and other conveniences for patrons. Cost of the building is estimated at $7,000 while the alleys will run $2,000 each.

Mr. Merrow is a son of Mrs. Thos. Merrow and has been residing in Niagara Falls, N.Y. for some time. He hopes to start work on the building within the next few days.

Centenary Church Reopens After Redecoration

The services on Sunday marked the reopening of Centenary United Church with two impressive services conducted by the minister Rev. A. C. McCallum, assisted by the Rev. Roy Rickard at the morning service. The church presented a very pleasing appearance, the walls having been painted in pastel shades of pale pink and green and new floor covering placed. The woodwork and pews have been varnished, the front of the church was decked with gladioli and ferns. The interior of the church has also been redecorated, including the spire.

Special music rendered by the choir under the leadership of Mr. D. A. Thrasher, with Miss Elinor Hobbin at the piano included two anthems, both morning and evening services. The minister conducted a brief dedicatory service in the morning.

Taking as his subject "The Church", he spoke of the church as always facing a crisis and of the necessity of the church adapting her message to the need of the hour. "The church," he said, "grows by conquest, that 'struggle' is the law of existence. The church in an hour of crisis is more dependable than any other agency. Her strength lies in the realism of her message and her centre is in Christ who loved the church and gave Himself for it."

The attendance at the evening service was not as large as that of the morning, but the church was well filled. The minister had charge of the service. Taking his text from the 122nd Psalm, verse 1, "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord" spoke on the glory of the sanctuary. The service concluded with the vesper hymn "The day thou gavest Lord is ended" and benediction.

Holiday Traffic Comparatively Free of Accidents

Although all the main highways were heavy with traffic over the holiday weekend, no serious accidents were reported in the immediate Belleville area, it was reported today by Provincial Police.

Traffic on No. 2 Highway was stated to have been particularly heavy with possibly more than the usual numbers of Americans being noted on the roads. Volume of traffic was attributed to the Labor Day holiday and also to the fact that many holidayers were returning to their city homes in time to get children away to school.

The only accident reported was one occurring east of Trenton Monday evening when a car driven by James Staples of Trenton, missed a turn into a gas station and struck a pole. A passenger in the car, Mrs. Helen Deady of Toronto, suffered injuries to her right arm and also facial injuries. She was attended by Dr. J. W. Farley of Trenton.

No Russians have appeared inside the city hall this morning.

They were last seen at approximately midnight last night after telling the British, American and French officers that they could stay here all night if they wished.

Western Allied personnel then had a delightful midnight feast.

On Tuesday evening last, a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Flew to honor their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brennan who were recently married. They received many useful and beautiful gifts.

Miss Scottie Cannon, bride-to-be of this month, was honored by a shower Wednesday evening, September 1st at the home of Mrs. Milton Cook, 53 Burton St. A lovely corsage was presented Miss Miss Cannon by Mrs. Cook's Braddon. During the evening the guests compiled a Bride's Book. Miss Cannon was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts for which she thanked her many friends. Dainty refreshments were served and a happy evening was brought to a close.

WEDDINGS

HENDERSON—BATCHELOR

White gladioli, larkspur, ferns, delphiniums and tall candles rising from clusters of flowers formed the setting in Zion United Church, the Ridge, for a very pretty candlelight wedding on August 31st at 8 P. M. when Miss Betty, eldest daughter of Mr. Amos Batchelor became the bride of Carson Henderson, only son of the late Robert Henderson.

The bride looked charming in white satin, princess style extending into a train. A veil of embroidered white net was held in place with a band of orange blossoms. She wore a matching brooch and earrings, the gift of the groom.

To the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Herbert Moore, she entered the church on the arm of her father and moved under an arch of ferns and flowers. Miss Olga Whitmore of Ashley was bridesmaid, daintily dressed in pink net over taffeta with bolero and fuchsia pink and white roses. Her headdress was also of pink and white flowers.

The nieces of the bride, Jean and Merle Marshal looked sweet as flower girls dressed in sky blue taffeta, carrying nosegays.

The groom was attended by Mr. Clarence Batchelor, brother of the bride.

Rev. T. Edwin Hancock, Pastor of the church performed the ceremony before a large congregation of relatives and friends. At the conclusion of the marriage service, Mrs. Percy Faul presented the couple with a Bible on behalf of the Ridge congregation, to commemorate the first marriage to take place in the new church.

A reception followed in the basement of the church. One hundred guests enjoyed a social hour.

Mrs. John O'Brien and Miss Mae Henderson poured tea and were assisted by Mrs. Amos Whitmore, Mrs. Harry Campbell, Mrs. Percy Faul, Mrs. Bill McGee and Miss Maggie Moore. Those who assisted in serving the guests were Misses Norma Faul, Marion Moore, Bernice Ingram, Mary and Mattie Veale and Faye Marshal.

Out-of-town guests were: Miss Mae Henderson, Toronto; Mrs. Dan Maitland, Picton; Mr. and Mrs. William McGee and Billie, Belleville; The Misses Amy, Heath and Irene Little, Detlor; Mr. and Mrs. Allan Nicholson, Bannockburn; Mrs. Fred Boyes and Mrs. and Mrs. Neison Boyles of Weston; Mrs. Victoria Bruce, Bancroft; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith, Detlor; Mrs. Ronald McDonald, Apsley.

The best wishes of a host of friends follow them, all wishing them long voyage through life. They will take up residence at the Ridge.

RHODES—BENNY

Christ Church, Belleville, was the setting for the solemnization of the nuptials of Miss Ida Rhodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rhodes, Belleville, and Mr. and Edward Clarence, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Rhodes, St. Thomas, which took place Saturday afternoon, Rev. J. Grant Spalding was the officiating clergyman for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractively gowned in pale blush moire taffeta with matching accessories and carried a cascade of white gladioli.

Miss Doris Smith, Belleville, was the bride's attendant, and was gowned in yellow with brown accessories and carried a nosegay.

Mr. B. Rhodes, Vancouver, C., was the groom's brother, while Messrs. Roger Bavis, Peterborough and Fred Hayes, Belleville, were ushers.

The couple will reside in London, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were from London, Toronto, Vancouver, Trenton, St. Thomas, Peterborough and Winnipeg.

The August meeting of Aikenite W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Ken Bush on Thursday August 26th. There were 15 members in attendance and 10 visitors, all guests from the Presbyterian W. A. group.

Mrs. Spafford, the president, was in the chair and the meeting was opened with the theme song. Mrs. Spafford led in prayer. Mrs. Bush welcomed the ladies from Thurlow. During the business period Mrs. Mountney reminded all that at the next meeting to be held September 19, it is planned to entertain the other groups on the charge with Mrs. Wood as guest speaker, at the home of Mrs. McMullen. Mrs. Bert Hamilton and Mrs. Pearson volunteered to close the church for September. Mrs. Spafford then asked Mrs. Thompson of the Neighbors' Aid in the absence of their president, Mrs. Craig, to take charge of the Worship Service. After graciously thanking the ladies of the W. A. for their invitation and expressing Mrs. Craig's regrets, Mrs. Thompson gave the Call to Worship.

Mrs. F. Mitchell led in prayer and Mrs. A. Greatrix read the Scripture. Miss Lily Craig gave the lesson on the Scripture, Mrs. B. Port sang a solo, accompanying herself on the guitar. A brief business meeting ended this part of the program.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and committee in charge.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.—W.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church of Shannonville was held at the home of Mrs. Saul MacFarlane on Thursday afternoon. There were 14 ladies in attendance.

The opening exercises were in charge of Mrs. Slavin, vice president, and Mrs. J. MacFarlane presided at the piano.

The theme of the worship service taken by Mrs. R. MacFarlane, group leader, was "The faith whereby the church must live." Mrs. MacFarlane was assisted by Mrs. C. Boultridge, Miss Betty Martin and Mrs. W. Robertson, who read passages of Scripture. The offertory was taken and dedicated by Mrs. S. MacFarlane.

A prayer for her country, written by a Chinese woman, was read by Mrs. Slavin, and also the story of Margaret Li, who was converted in the West China Mission. A reading, "Why Should We Support China" by Winnifred Thomas, was given by Mrs. Robertson.

The meeting of the W.A. followed the M.S. immediately, with the president, Mrs. R. MacFarlane in charge. The Bible reading was given by Mrs. Lougheed. A solo by Mrs. Vesterveit was followed by a very quiet and conversion and the offering of prayer by Mrs. E. Vivian.

The offertory was received and dedicated by the president, who expressed her appreciation to the hostess and her assistants for the enjoyable program.

Following the meeting the hostess served refreshments. The next meeting was announced to be held at the home of Mrs. S. Elliott.

Well-Known City Couple Observe Their Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Montgomery Recipient of Many Gifts, Congratulations.

Married 50 years ago in Salem United Church at Colborne, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Montgomery, 241 William Street, today are celebrating their golden anniversary and are "at home" to a large circle of close friends and relatives.

No large celebration has been planned for the occasion but the bride and groom of 50 years have been the recipients of congratulations, gifts and greetings from as far away as California and the Canadian West, as well as from friends throughout Ontario. Personal congratulations are being received from friends in the city.

Residents of this city for the past 15 years, Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery have gained a wide circle of friends. As a successful auctioneer and real estate man, Mr. Montgomery is known throughout the entire Bay of Quinte district, while Mrs. Montgomery is active in the women's organization of Bridge Street United Church.

Today the comfortable Montgomery home is filled with the scent of many bouquets of flowers received in honor of the occasion. Later this afternoon the 50-year wedding cake will be cut and the couple will be host and hostess at a reception.

Formerly Miss Elsie Gould of Colborne, Mrs. Montgomery admits that the details of half a century ago are not quite as clear as they once were. But she proudly asserts "that it does not seem that long."

Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery lived in the Colborne and Brighton district for some years and then moved to Toronto for a period of ten years. All his life Mr. Montgomery has been an auctioneer and real estate man.

And although it is Mr. Montgomery who actually does the "selling" work, much of his success in auctioneering and in real estate is attributed to Mrs. Montgomery who works behind the scenes. By Mr. Montgomery's own admission, Mrs. Montgomery lines up many real estate sales. Mrs. Montgomery modestly terms herself "stenographer."

POSTURE AND BODY BALANCE

Poise! Ease of manner! Grace of movement! That is what the girls are after, and what gives a woman an air of distinction. To carry the body beautifully is to cultivate confidence. One that is at ease self reliant. Will be drags along, backbone in-stead of being straight, shoulders and money for expensive clothes that have little meaning if they are carried by a lovely, slouchy figure.

With a certain amount of exercise to promote body balance and grade of motion, the human figure will remain graceful throughout the years. Without these factors that make for health and good spirits, there will be changes in the silhouette—and not for the better—by women lament about becoming shapeless and dumpy long in the forties. They lack foresight. A well proportioned figure is a priceless blessing; it is a pity to lose it.

A teacher of physical education says that people tend to age you at your posture va-ries. He also says that lack of grace and discouragement leave a feeling washed out, so your clothes sag when your body sags. Physical vigor helps one keep up, cheerful and alert, ready to get whatever life brings to them.

There is a close bond between the mind and the body; what affects one unfavorably is likely to affect the other.

When walking, walk erect keep a springy, light step

Stand tall. Pull up your backbone. Pull your tummy up and in. Three rules that are easy to remember. Follow them all the time and your svelte shape will fall into line. The head will be balanced, chest lifted, shoulder blades flat. Keep the knees straight, but not rigid.

Poor posture not only is ruinous to the figure and injurious to the health, because the internal organs will lack proper support, but also it can be responsible for continued fatigue and various aches and pains. When body balance is maintained there is no muscle strain; the body is supported with the least possible effort. Let it become a habit and you will find that good posture is the easiest posture. You won't have to worry about losing the new waistline.

When walking, walk tall. Keep a springy, light step. That's good for your circulation and complexion, not to mention your mental state. Throw more weight on the ball of the foot than on the heel; To come down on the heel is to jar the body and to appear awkward. Swing the feet parallel and close together. Walk so that a person approaching you will not see the soles of your shoes.

To sit pretty you must sit tall, with spinal column extended. Sit far back in the chair. When bending forward, bend from the hips, not from the waistline. Hips are hinges designed for that very purpose.

U.S. Styles Influencing Paris Shows

By DOROTHY ROE

New York, (CP)—The United States can take a bow for the change of silhouette at the current Paris fashion openings. So says fashion expert Adaline Hawley, returning from a flying trip to Paris and London showings.

"The American influence is strongly evident in both London and Paris collections," Mrs. Hawley reports. "For the first time in fashion history, I believe New York this time has led the way in establishing a new fashion silhouette, with Paris designers following."

The Paris-born New Looks, which rounded the line of American jeans, has given way for the most part of slim lines and conservative cut, says Miss Hawley. She adds:

"The Empire silhouette is strong in most Paris collections—that is, high-waisted line that has been seen in American collections for at least two seasons. Claire McCardell was among the first to do it here.

"The French achieve the effect sometimes by a deep back yoke with fullness below, springing from about the point of the shoulder blades, continuing upward to the bust. Balmain uses the latter device in a number of dresses, also achieving the same effect by means of a wide bell mounting high in front, narrowed at the back."

The bobble skirt, which was an early sensation of the New York fall openings, also is seen repeatedly in the Paris collections, says Miss Hawley. She adds:

"Many skirts are tightly banded at the knee, with a flare below, or are banded at the bottom, so the models have to walk with small, mincing steps.

Bobble Skirts Shown

"Jacques Fath shows a bobble skirt with a wide band at the bottom, and also employs the knee-band on some skirts.

"Balmain shows a skin-tight suit skirt with a loose back panel doubled under at the hemline, harem fashion. He also uses a high-waisted, back-buttoned bolero with a sash between the shoulder blades in back, to achieve the Empire silhouette. This is worn over a strapless dress.

"The fringed shawl is worn instead of a suit jacket, which has been seen in many of the American collections, also appear in the new Paris styles for fall."

Big berets are small, close-fitting cloche hats, already popular in the United States, are among leading fall models shown in Paris millinery, says Miss Hawley. The American fad for higher shoes also is seen in Paris. Fath showed silver boots with bobble skirts.

The only Paris designer clinging firmly to the "new look" she observes, is Christian Dior, in author, who continues to show wide-skirted, doll-waisted styles.

Miss Hawley says she was particularly impressed by the London showings, where slim, skirted suits of well-bred tweeds were shown for country wear, more formal dressmaker suits of smooth woolens for town. These are being designed principally for export, with North-American market in mind.

HOLIDAY IN SWEDEN

PROTEST RUM PRICE

Port of Spain, Trinidad — (CP) — The price of rum was increased by 10 cents a bottle here recently —and many workers refuse to buy it until the price is dropped. The increase — the second in 15 months — brought the price of rum to $1.70 a bottle.

Keeping Ahead of Birthdays

An important part of the makeup routine, which should be established early in life to guard looks through the years, is a light application of powder over face and neck.

By HELEN FOLLETT

DON'T wait until the eleventh hour to ward off good looks defects. Start the long, long war against time in your young years. If you do that, you'll look like thirty when you are forty. You can depend upon it, youthful appearance after forty depends more upon what you have contributed to bodily welfare before that fatal date than any repair program you can conduct afterward.

Thirty is an important milestone in a woman's life. It can be side stepped. Look at all the lovelies of the silver screen who are beyond that milestone and still look like girls in their early twenties. Keeping fit is their special business. Good looks are a part of their stock in trade. They can't afford to slip. And don't think for a minute that they pass up any means of hanging onto early freshness.

Professional Care

It is true that some age-arresting work can be done on the lined face and the flabby figure, of a forty plus. But it is tough going. It takes time and it takes money, as professional care is necessary like good little girls.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER FATHER DOESN'T TRUST HER — COULD THERE BE A REASON?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl 16 and last week my parents allowed me to attend the foremost parish dance of the season. Because I stayed until the dance was over and didn't get home till a few minutes after twelve my father ever since has been accusing me of being a cheap girl with no morals. My parents were supposed to go away for a weekend without me but my father refuses to go because he claims that I cannot be trusted alone. What I want to know is how can I convince him that I am worthy of receiving his trust?

"Rita."

Dear "Rita": If you are sure that nothing you have done has been responsible for making your father feel as he does and that there is no way in which you might change your conduct so he would feel differently, then I am afraid there is nothing you can do at present but put away useless to his ideas of what he thinks is proper for you. He may be mistaken, but after all you are his young daughter and he feels responsible for you and until you are old enough to take an independent stand, he will only make matters worse by failing to act in accordance with his wishes. After all, you have a great many years ahead of you when you will be able to do exactly as you please and it is not really very unreasonable for a girl your age to be required to be in the house at a fairly early hour.

DON'T SHOW YOU CARE BY GETTING ANGRY

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I would like to ask your advice for a very dear friend. She is a very attractive and brilliant girl of 19 and has been going with a young man of 21. Both of them attend college.

This young man started seeing her three times a week, Tuesday, Saturday and Sunday. Then he began to date Sunday and Saturday and Sunday and Saturday. She got very angry and wanted to know if she was just a date girl for Saturday. So now he comes it twice a week. He claims he must do homework on Sunday but he has been seen at Sunday dances with his boy friends.

He doesn't want her to date other boys and I have seen her turn down plenty of nice others. She claims she is going steady with him because he has never turned her down on Saturday. He says he just goes to dances but doesn't date girls. What is your opinion?

"M. M."

Dear "M. M.": My opinion is that your friend was foolish to get angry because this young man cut down the number of his dates with her, and foolish also to consider herself so committed to him that she turns down other dates. If he considers he has a right to go to dances without her, she has the same right to go out without him, and he has no right at all to object. I think she should certainly take her cue from him, and if he is not nice and fair enough to make it plain that she doesn't intend either to be dictated to or to limit her good times to those he chooses to give her. But her attitude will make more impression if she doesn't show she cares enough to be angry.

Calico and corduroy.

By VERA WINSTON

THE GIRL in calico and corduroy is likely to be the campus belle this semester, and high school girls have already elected them as the fabrics they would like to go out with. The two fabrics star in a nice three-piece interchangeable outfit. A burnt orange corduroy skirt with a built-up waistband is worn over a simple dot stripe calico blouse and skirt in orange, yellow and brown. The twosome is nice when worn without the skirt.

Czech Communists Move Cautiously, Find Going Tough

By SYDNEY BROOKES

Prague (Reuters)—Czechoslovakia's Communist government has reached the end of the first stage of its development: it has gained power.

It now is entering the second phase, during which its position must be consolidated and its policies justified.

The regime has already surmounted several hurdles.

It has secured and confirmed its political power, enforced its new constitution, carried through its elections, and solved the question of the presidency.

Ahead, however, problems are looming; and in this present period of stocktaking, Prague is wondering how they will be handled.

It is generally accepted that Czechoslovakia presents a special problem for Communism. For the first time, Communism holds power in an already highly-developed social organism.

Czechoslovakia is highly industrialized—so highly that her production outstrips her supplies of raw materials, making her largely dependent on her export-import trade, most of it still with western countries.

When Communism took over Czechoslovakia was already well developed. Her standard of education was above normal for this part of the world. Her peasantry, although by no means fully efficient, were a step or two above their neighbors.

Czechoslovakia, which owes her existence largely to the west, or to treaties negotiated in the west, has always looked to the west for her imports of culture as well as for copper and iron.

Need Economic Success

It is obvious to most observers here that Communism can achieve no lasting ideological success unless it quickly provides an economic success. Most important is that economic success will be impossible unless Communism can secure the co-operation of those elements in Czechoslovakia which provide efficient administrators for the country's trade, transport and production.

In these circumstances, the question has arisen whether Communism can afford to carry its purges and prejudices too far, whether it might not be necessary, sometimes, to make at least some sort of pact with the surviving middle-class—to try to persuade and educate rather than punish and coerce the remaining opposition.

Declarations from government and party leaders indicate that the Communist party here understands these special difficulties.

Since the end of the war, the country has had many thousands of skilled technicians, craftsmen, administrators, and agriculturists pushed out by the expulsion of the German population from what was the Sudetenland.

Since February, when the seizure of power started, purging the national life, the country has lost more skill.

Party leaders have themselves admitted that the action committees often "exceeded revolutionary powers," prejudiced and brought into disrepute. Capable administrators and useful craftsmen were ousted out of their posts and their livelihoods for the sword of reasons at the time when the national economy needed all the impetus which skill and energy could put behind it.

Abused New-Found Power

In addition to the action committees, works councils and works committees in factories abused the unchecked power which the political changes had placed in their hands.

Stores were rifled, as if the country's reserves, so summarily taken over from their previous owners were booty to be distributed among the successful revolutionaries.

Theft, graft, corruption, nepotism, developed even among the ranks of the "faithful." The prime minister himself, Antonin Zapotocky, a hard-headed trade unionist, with a knowledge of production requirements learned the hard way, has been forced to denounce workers' leaders and the workers themselves for misusing funds, for malicious and petty-fogging inefficiency among trade union leaders, for wasting their own selfish interests instead of the interests of the state.

His frank comments show an awareness that any great disruption of the national industrial system could have had serious economic consequences.

Czechoslovakia's import - export trade deficit was steadily mounting. It was becoming increasingly difficult for her to feed raw materials to her industry and to maintain even the previous low nutritional standards of her population.

It may have been ideologically desirable to crush all opposition, to pull out the bourgeoisie root and branch, to throw non-conformists into prison or pursue them over the frontier; but it could be economic suicide.

And in the long run economic hars-kari must mean political hars-kari even if force is used to maintain the regime.

Agricultural Problem

Similar problems arose in Czechoslovakia's agricultural organization. Food produced at home meant more currency to spare for imported raw materials and more production available for industrializing Czechoslovakia's neighbors in the Slav system.

The party line was quite clear about the use of land—it must come under state control, should be collectivized, no landowning peasants should be left, because a man who owned land was a potential capitalist.

When they gained power in February, the Communists had to decide whether to go straight into the organization of collective farms, with all the protracted disruption which that would mean, or whether to content themselves with the announced policy of splitting the land up among peasant owners.

Like other Slav countries, they chose to split the land in blocks. They set 50 hectares as the limit for any single owner. They insisted that all other land should assist themselves work on it, and within these limits, for example, they could build a wheat or new glass or capitalist land-owning peasantry.

Ranging over the whole field of the party's relative embarrassments here think that sheer economic necessity will force the country for the Communists to keep away from the drastic political measures which, in other countries, have created the kulaks and to undertake their transition to socialism with the little disruption of the national life as possible.

Pealing Bells Familiar Sound To Montrealers

Montreal, (CP)—John Donne, 17th century poet, would be at home in modern Montreal. The 17th century's favorite (for whom the bells—and there are more here per capita than in any other city in the world.

Donne wrote "...therefore send not to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee," for the installation of a new duke in an English church. It reminds us of the place bells have taken in Christian life for nearly 2,500 years.

Montreal has always been an important part of Montreal life and the bells have been here almost since Ville Marie was founded by Maisonneuve in 1642. Today, there are 133 Roman Catholic and 127 Protestant churches in and around the city—rich in history.

Walking through Place d'Armes on a Sunday morning you can hear Canada's largest bell, the huge "Grand Bourdon" (great bell) of Notre Dame church. The bell, weighing 24,780 pounds, is the 16th largest in the world, larger than the bell of St. Peter's at Rome.

"Grand Bourdon," which is rung about 40 times per year, was installed 100 years ago.

At the 281-year-old mission of St. Francois Xavier du Sault St. Louis in Caughnawaga Indian reserve may be here a bell far older than the little mission church which was built in 1845. Legend tells us the bell was given the mission by the French court before 1700. On its way over, England seized it and Irish buccaneers seized it from it to Boston. There it was bought at auction by a Protestant clergyman from Deerfield, Mass.

In 1704, Caughnawaga Iroquois raided Deerfield and "rescued" the 200-pound bell. They carried it triumphantly back to New France.

Montreal's greatest bell-ringing season as in every other Christian city is before Christmas. A beautiful experience for a tourist is to walk along St. Catharines Street in early December and listen to the bells playing carols

Despite the tremendous number of bells here, Montreal imports all of them—half from London's Whitechapel bell foundry established in 1570. The Canadian company which brings in White-chapel bells was founded in 1826.

Montreal has the only bell-ringer in Canada with a diploma in change ringing. He is A. H. Burgess, campanologist for St. George's Anglican Church and George's father was Captain of the Bath and Wells company of ringers in England. Longest peal ever rung in Canada was at St. George's to celebrate armistice day, 1918. Burgess' "victory peal" consisted of 5,040 changes rung on eight bells.

N.Z. Deer Multiply, State Hires Hunters

Wellington, N.Z. — (CP) — Deer, wild pigs and goats multiply so rapidly in New Zealand that hunting instead of being a rich man's sport can be indulged in at the expense of the state.

The rapidly increasing herds of game damage forest reserves and the pastures of New Zealand's farms. The government has found that amateur hunters cannot keep the herds in check and employs parties of professional cullers to deal with areas where the game is causing most damage.

These men earn a good living and to anyone with a love of the outdoors they look to be the envied. During the spring, summer and autumn they operate from camps established in wild forest country or in the mountains. Chamois and thar — or goat antelope — as well as several kinds of deer supply the game which falls to their rifles and the stalking calls for a high degree of skill.

Strategy and tactics are planned at conference in the winter and the hunters are allocated to the localities which most need attention. The parties then study their areas and decide whether to move outward from a central point, to work inward from the circumference, or to drive the game to an area favorable for shooting.

Some of the cullers get enormous bags. Two men have secured 80 thar in a day, and on occasion parties have shot 200 deer in a day. A party of five once killed 800 goats, the easiest prey, in a single day. The individual records are 68 deer to one rifle in a day and 1,400 a season.

Colorful Army Gathers Annual Blueberry Crop

Saint John, N.B. — (CP) — A small and colorful army, creeping across burnt-over barrens, makes every province's peak of the New Brunswick blueberry season.

The army of berry pickers ranges from school children to grandmothers who have come "for a spring fling." It's largely a family affair, with youngsters and babies filling pails, pails and baskets.

Most people think of the blueberry season as the half-way mark of summer, when they may go pick enough berries for their own cooking or preserving requirements. But many persons depend upon the picking season as a source of income, and commercial gathering of blueberries has an important place in New Brunswick's agricultural picture.

They are worth more than strawberries, raspberries or cranberries. In some years the value of the blueberry crop even exceeds that of the apple harvest. The financial returns may fluctuate sharply from year to year, depending upon the weather, the size of the crop in the neighboring Maine and availability of labor. It is estimated the commercial output this summer will be worth $250,000 — an average figure. Twice in the last 10 years New Brunswick blueberries have brought double that amount.

Four-Fifths Canned

Only about one-fifth of the berries find their way to market fresh. The rest of the annual crop goes to freezing and canning factories, principally in the neighboring Maine and availability of labor. It is estimated the commercial output this summer will be worth $250,000 — an average figure. Twice in the last 10 years New Brunswick blueberries have brought double that amount.

TO HAVE WATER BOARD

Victoria — (CP) — Victoria, Sanich and Esquimalt will soon be joined in a metropolitan water board. The provincial Legislature passed an act at the last session approving the move and Victoria city council instructed its water committee to open negotiations.

COMPLAINT OF VANDALISM

Halifax — (CP) — Residents have complained to Halifax of vandals causing damage to houses under construction in western and northern parts of the city. Unknown persons have admitted causing damage to electrical and plumbing installations.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

No reason why arguments about jump bids in bridge should go on forever. But they probably will. As long as humans are what they are, there will be differences of opinion.

It is natural to assume that a jump has some general purpose. Its basic purpose is to tell partner there is a game in their pair. Time and type of jump gives it another specific meaning.

The general idea is that an immediate one-jump slam shows quick-taking cards. Such as a couple of aces. Or combinations that can take at least two tricks fast, in case slam is tried.

If the jump is not immediate, therefore, it virtually denies two sure tricks. Or some other values that are discouraging to slam try. And the reasons for this can easily be proven.

In a recent game, my partner at the moment was more or less of a stranger to me. But he was introduced as an expert player. So I had reasons to believe he accepted this general policy of jumps.

I held the hand you see here:

♠ K 7 4 2
♥ A K Q 4
♦ J 3

My opening bid was one heart. He responded with two clubs. Mine was a bare opening. Being forced to bid once more by the takeout, my second bid was two no-trump.

He then jumped to four spades. Having support for his spade suit, I passed. It turned out that a small slam in spades was a laydown. And it was easy to see that he was peeved at my pass.

He had an immediate one-jump type of hand. If we had a slam, his bidding did not show it to me. As is customary in such cases, I said: "I'm sorry, partner."

He looked at me balefully and snorted: "Sorry, the man says. He passes up a cinch slam and all he can say is he's sorry."

What can I say after I've said I'm sorry?

Hollywood, Sept. 7 — (AP) — That international couple, Princess Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier of Monaco, are planning to produce their own picture in France.

Meredith is leaving for Paris to appear in "The Man on the Eiffel Tower" with Charles Laughton and Franchot Tone. Paulette will join him as soon as she finishes "The Mask of Lucretta."

Long Runs

Loretta Young is back at 20th Fox after an eight-year absence and has her old gang working with her again. When a speculated about whether her "Rachel and the Stranger" (with Bob Mitchum and Bill Holden) would make money, she replied: "That's why I don't produce my own pictures — so I won't have to worry about whether they make money."

Jennifer Jones says she'd like to do either "Romeo and Juliet" or "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" next. I asked if her long-run "Portrait of Jenny" is finally finished, "I think so," she answered. "But you never can be sure."

"The Heiress," another marathon picture, is expected to wheeze to a halt this week. This will show you how long it has been shooting — Mona Freeman is finishing her role in it, then did a big western, "Streets of Laredo." Now she's back finishing up her "Heiress" role.

Vacation Time

Gary Cooper's latest hobby is surfboard riding . . . Speaking of such things, I now am leaving this land of klieg lights and smog to bask in the Balboa sun for a fortnight. The AP Hollywood staff will take over. I hereby hand to them the badge of office — a golden question-mark rampant on a field of celluloid.

Editor Scores Dramatic Success With New Play

Kingston, Sept. 7 — (CP) — Robertson Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner, has scored another dramatic success with his first full-length play — "Fortune My Foe." Yesterday, it entered its second week here.

The play presented by the Arch-Sutherlands International Players, a professional theatre group, Grant MacDonald, artist on the staff of Queen's University here, has painted impressionistic sets representing an easily-recognizable illegal Kingston "clip-house" of a few years ago. In the open door he painted the skyline of this limestone city.

"Fortune My Foe," a comedy, is built around the character and difficulties of two university teachers, one old and embittered by his treatment in Canada, the other young and attracted by more lucrative work in the United States. Balancing their problems is that of a displaced European determined to remake his life in Canada by establishing the ancient art of puppetry despite a growing Canadian indifference to theatrical arts.

The work is spiced by Mr. Davies' pungent, unmalicious satire directed at such targets as Canadian attitudes to art, Communism, liquor and love.

The plays is marked with the same penetrating wit which characterized Mr. Davies' "Diary of the Samuel Marchbanks."

Acting full justice to the depth and breadth of the theme are such actors as Glen Burns, Marian Jones and Frank Wade, all of Toronto; Drew Thompson of Ottawa; Jean Cruchet of Regina; Josephine Barrington of Vancouver and Toronto; and Arthur Sutherland of Kingston.

Oshawa Defeats Brockville In Deciding Game

Trenton, Sept. 7 (CP)—Oshawa qualified Saturday to represent Eastern Ontario in the Ontario Amateur Softball Association Junior "A" playdowns when they defeated Brockville 9-3 in the third and deciding game of their best-of-three series, each team won their home game so the third game was played in Trenton.

The Oshawa club will now meet a Toronto team in the next round.

The game was closely contested until the eighth when Oshawa scored five markers.

Masovitch, hurling for the winners, went the route, striking out six and allowing an equal number of hits. Curtis, who pitched seven frames and was relieved by Collison in the eighth, allowed seven hits and whiffed a like number.

Curtis received poor support from his team-mates, who kicked in with nine miscues.

Oshawa only had a 4-3 lead going into the last half of the eighth when they came through for five runs to make the score 9-3. The Oshawa club took advantage of three errors and-wind in with three hits for the five runs in their eight-inning rally.

Oshawa took a 1-0 lead in the second inning and then increased it to 2-0 with another single run in the fifth. Brockville tied the count when they tallied two runs in the top half of the seventh.

The tie score didn't last long for Oshawa came right back with two runs in their half of the seventh to go ahead 4-2. Brockville pushed across a run in their half of the eighth inning but Oshawa then followed with their five-run rally that allowed them to coast in the final frame.

Kiwanis Juniors Win Eastern Ontario Title Defeating Ottawa 2-in Third and Deciding Game

Belleville's Kiwanis Juniors brought home the bacon ball, advanced to the semi-final series for the Junior Championship Trophy at the C.N.E. grounds they defeated the Ottawa Terriers in the third game of their best two-in-three series to become champs of Eastern Ontario.

The Juniors left no doubt in the minds of the thousands of Belleville has a real contender who saw them, that will be for the Ontario honors. Ottawa fielded flawlessly behind pitcher Art Wright, and piled seven runs on seven hits, three of them for the extra base variety.

The Juniors jumped into an early lead, which they never relinquished, as they pushed over single run in the top of the first and as Bush who walked, went second on Bennett's infield hits, third, and came home on Wright's fly to left field. They added two more tallies in the top of the third frame on a walk, two singles and an error, and took a four run lead in the fourth as Bush doubled home Wright who had walked and gone to third on an overthrow by the catcher.

Score Two Runs in Fourth

The Victorias counted their only two runs in the bottom of the fourth, on a single, double and triple, rattled off Art Wright's slants with none away. Thompson's long blast to left field got away from Semark on a bad bounce and before the right fielder could retrieve it Thompson was perched on third. Yandon lifted out to Reeves at short, who doubled Thompson off third to take Wright out of trouble.

The Victorias presented no problem from that point on, as Wright scattered three singles over the rest of the course.

The Juniors added single runs in the fifth, sixth and ninth innings to sew up the ball game and deer Ottawa into the baseball discard.

Wright, on the mound for the Juniors, struck out 10, walked none, and gave up nine hits for three runs over the route. He went the distance for the Vics walking four, striking out four, and surrendering an even dozen hits for seven runs. His mates miscued four times behind him.

Big guns for the Juniors were Soules and Jones who hit three for five. For the visitors, Wilson and Thompson had two each.

OFF THE CHIPS SPORTS BLOCK

Belleville's well-balanced Kiwanis Juniors showed one thousand of the sporting faithful yesterday afternoon that this year-the city by the Bloka has a contender for the Ontario honors as they downed the Ottawa Victorias 7-2 to take the third game in their best-in-three series to advance to the semi-finals for the Ontario championship.

* * *

The local prides looked good all the way, as they fielded flawlessly and showed plenty of punch at the plate to win going away. The Juniors took an early lead which they never relinquished and with the exception of the fourth inning, when they had a bit trouble, Art Wright, who pitched a heady game in front of an alright defence, struck out seven batters, all strikeouts coming at a crucial point in the play.

In the second inning, with one out and two on, Wright bore down to retire the side and strikeout, in the fourth, the Vics pushed over two runs on three hits with none away, and with a runner on third, Wright was yanked out of a hole by a smart double play and ended the rally by striking out the third batter. He added two more in the seventh, one in the eighth, and ended the game in the ninth by whiffing the catcher on three straight pitches.

The Juniors at long last found a shortstop. Yesterday afternoon "Hunk" Reeves gave as good a performance at short as has been seen there all season as he put out five men and had a hand in killing four others. "Hunk" started the only double play of the game in the first to choke off a threatened Ottawa rally and backed up the play on all other occasions. He handled everything that came his way in errorless style, had a time bile in four trips, scored one run, and batted in the first run of the ball game.

The Juniors had their batting eyes in yesterday as well, with everyone on the team getting at least one hit, with the exception of Donovan and Semark. Big guns at the plate were Soules and Jones with three hits in five trips. Soules, batting clean-up, was on base five times, scored two runs, and drove in two others.

The Juniors will now meet the winners of the Oshawa-Earlscourt series in the semi-final round for the Ontario championship.

John Casey, son of "Bake" Casey former great with Belleville teams in the old OBHL, is quite the fisherman, according to reports seeping into this bureau. The other day while fishing in the Trent River at Frankford, Casey reeled into a dandy, and when the battle was over he had a sure-tester, five pounder—once—once small mouth black bass. The bass, although a whopper, will not be entered in the Hunters and Anglers contest because its 11 year old caster is too young to be a member.

This is not the first good fish which John has landed. The lad brought in a fourteen pound muskie last year, and has caught several others during the course of his short fishing career.

The Commercial Softball wars resume tonight at the Alemite Field as Hounsfeas and Corbys tangle in the second game of their best three-in-five series for the league championship and the Wishing Well Trophy. Hounsfeas lead the series 1-0 and are confident that they can extend their lead tonight, but the other hand Corbys, who have never been known to quit loring, are quite sure that they will humble the "Knotheers" in three straight games, starting tonight. The first game, which finished third during the regular season's play, has already displayed of the Moose Lodge nine and the Quinte Dry Beverage crew in their quest for the title.

"We lost the first game to the Beverages too," they chorus, "and then took them in two straight. We'll do the same to the "Knotheers" too."

Right or wrong, the spries should be a dandy. Play is called for the Alemite Field at 6.15.

BITS AND PIECES—

Marcel Cerdan, the French middleweight, who narrowly escaped extinction last spring by an unknown Belgian fighter by the name of Delannoit, is in New York tonight for his coming title fight with Tony Zale on a diet of champagne and brandy, reports from New York hint....Aging Jim Bloodworth, steady second baseman for Montreal's consistent Royals, has been voted the International League's most valuable player. Bloodworth, who leads the circuit in runs batted in, is the pivot for the International's most deadly double play combo....Trenton RCAF Flyers, who take the North Hastings All Stars into camp recently by a 7-3 verdict, will attempt to repeat their victory when the two squads tangle at the Coe Hill Fair this coming Wednesday....Vancouver Canucks will conduct their hockey wars in the Pacific Coast League this winter under the guidance of former National Hockey League star, Bill Cowley....The tom-toms are sounding throughout the golfing world these days with the swift-swing and the long-walk chappies turning their eyes toward the west and Vancouver's Shaughnessy Golf Club where the Canadian Open championships will be played this month. Most of the big money winners from the United States will be there shooting for the $10,000 prize money and the honors attached to goldom's third oldest and prestige-laden tournament. Biggest disappointment of the event this year is the absence of Bobby Locke, who carried off the Seagram Gold Cup to South Africa last year. It is a passport regulation that best Bobby this time....The Johnny Greco-Clemerse minuet at Montreal the other night turned out to be a moral victory for the Montreal Boxing Commission if it served no other purpose. That estimable body declared that Clemerse was not a fit opponent for Greco and when the referee called everything off in the fourth round with a verdict of "no contest," it seemed that for once they might have been right.

Beaches Indians Longon Experience In O.R.F.U. Race

By WILFRED GRUBSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Sept. 7 —(CP)—With the handicap of producing the strongest possible Toronto team in the Ontario Rugby Football Union overcome by amalgamation of two clubs, Toronto gridiron fans have hopes that the re-instituted entry Beaches Indians, will produce the league's first Dominion Grey Cup winner since 1934.

Most of the key men of the old league, Indians and Balmy Beach, have lined up for the new squad. These, fused with a few strong additions from other senior clubs and one or two American Imports and high school players, should form Toronto's most formidable O.R.F.U. club in years.

With the big majority of players veterans of many years of senior football, the squad is long on experience. It is this factor, along with a large list of potential touchdown kicks, which makes coach Ted Reeves believe the team should hold its own in any company.

Evidence of the combines defensive strength is shown in the scores of their recent exhibition games. They defeated Hamilton Blue Bombers 13-8, Saskatchewan Rough Riders 1-0 while losing to Calgary Stampeders 16-7 and Argos 13-4.

The Beaches didn't show much offensive strength in those games but several of their first-string players were unable to make the western trip.

Snare Two U. S. Imports

Since then they have added further defensive strength in snaring two American snaps with the same surname but not related —Ray and Jerry Mackey, who has not decided whether he will play in Canada, last year played with Buffalo's Canisius College.

Reeve, who has come out of retirement to act as coach, said he doesn't intend to obtain any other Americans before the team plays their opening game against the Imperials at Sarnia Sept. 11.

Most notable of the Canadian newcomers are halfbacks Bob Hazel and Doug Pyzer, both last year with Argos. Hazel, Don Crowe and Bill Douglas will bear the brunt of the kicking and plunging while Pyzer, Garry Smith and Tommy Ford, a speedy trio, will be on hand to take care of the running attack.

Bobby Porter, who coached Balmy Beach last season, returns in a playing role this season and will be flinging his passes out of the quarterback spot. Ernie Becker or Becker is slated for the second-string quarterback job and also available for that position is 135-pound Nilo Ciotti.

Will Enter College

The Beaches had an outstanding quarterback prospect in Joe Kane, former high school star who was starred in their western exhibition tour and in the game against Argos. He has decided to enter college and will line up with University of Toronto Blues.

Reeve has capable and experienced substitute halves, including Mike King, Sam Hollingsworth and Johnny Lake, who also may be used as an end.

The line, with either of the Whelan boys in the centre slot, should be a match for any in the country. For the first-string inside Reeve has Don (Shanty) Mackenzie and Kenny George and as middles, Bob Cosgrave, Pilarz coach last season, and George Shields. The starting ends will be picked from among Harry Bunting, Bud Fowler, Dick Harrison, Verz Picard, Red Treleaven and Gurkie Lambert.

Among other lineneh are snapbacks Jake Edmiston and Juan Sheridan, insides Bob McNally and Johnny Widman, middles Dick Lewis, last year with Montreal Alouettes, Paul McGarry and Lorne Parkin.

Twin Victory by Boston Braves Leaves Brooklyn Four Games Behind Them; Sox Boost Lead

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

"They can't catch me when I'm in front."

Those words, uttered by Boston's Billy Southworth earlier this season, were ringing in the ears today of manager Burt Shotton of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Shotten received a first-hand illustration Monday of Southworth's meaning when the league - leading Braves drubbed them in both ends of a Labor Day doubleheader, 2-1 and 4-0.

A sweep of the twin bill would have boosted Brooklyn into 1st place. They now find themselves still in second place four games behind Boston.

The Dodgers were not alone in their misery. The St. Louis Cardinals, only 2½ games off the pace before Monday's games, were handed a staggering double defeat by the amazing Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-1 and 4-1, to fall into fourth place, 4½ games behind. The Pirates advanced a notch to third place, two percentage points in front of St. Louis, and three behind Brooklyn.

The fifth-place New York Giants retained an outside chance by sweeping a doubleheader from the Phillies in Philadelphia 4-3 and 3-0. They trail by 6½ games, but only four in the losing side of the ledger.

Climaxing a great day for Boston, the American - League - leading Red Sox boosted their first-place margin over the New York Yankees to 1½ games, sweeping both games from the Senators in Washington, 14-6 and 2-1. The Yankees lost a full game when they were held to a split by the Philadelphia Athletics. The Yanks won the opener, 6-4, for their ninth consecutive triumph, but the A's ended an eight-game losing string by winning the nightcap, 6-2.

Indians Lose Ground

The third-place Cleveland Indians continued to lose ground to the Red Sox, as they were held even in their doubleheader in Chicago, to skid to 4 1-2 games off the pace. After losing the opener, 3-1 the Tribe came back to defeat the White Sox in the second game, 1-0.

In the other American League twin bill, Detroit Tigers split with the Browns in St. Louis, winning the opener, 8-1, but losing the second game 11-10.

The Chicago Cub and Cincinnati Reds divided a National League doubleheader, the Reds winning the opener, 3-1, and the Cubs taking the second game, 6-2.

The Braves had to go fourteen innings before downing the Dodgers in the first game. Lefty Warren Spahn went all the way for the Tribesmen and gave up only five hits as he won his 12th victory of the year

Johnny Sain gave the Braves their fifth straight over the Dodgers, pitching a 4-0 shutout in an abbreviated nightcap.

Rookie Bob Chesnes and southpaw Vic Lombardi limited the Red Birds to a run apiece as the Pirates made it 11 out of 18 against St. Louis.

Ralph Kiner belted a two-run homer, his 38th, to account for all Pittsburgh runs in the opener.

Wes Westrum's single off Ed Heusser scored Sid Gordon from third to give the Giants a 13-inning first-game victory over the Phils. Cleint Hartung was credited with a four-hit second game seven-inning shutout when darkness halted play.

Sauer's Homer Helps

Hank Sauer's 30th home run for Cincinnati with a man on base in the eighth gave Johnny Vandermeer his 13th victory in the first game. The only Cub run resulted from Emil Verban's homer. Roy Smalley's three-run homer helped the Cubs in the second game.

The Red Sox unloaded 18 hits and a nine-run fifth inning to beat the Senators in the opener as Mel Parnell racked up his 12th victory. Jack Kramer posted his 16th win in 20 decisions in the second game.

Vic Raschi registered his 18th triumph of the season and his eighth in two years against Philadelphia, with a nine-hit first-game effort. Outfielder Hank Bauer of the Yankees cracked three hits in his major league debut, drove in a run and scored another.

Joe Haynes gained his seventh victory of the season, and his fourth over the Indians, in the White Sox' first-game triumph.

Bob Feller gained his third straight victory and No. 15 for the season, limiting the Sox to three singles in the second game.

Home run by Pat Mullin, Dick Wakefield and Bob Swift helped rookie Ted Gray and Detroit win the first game from St. Louis. Mullin hit another homer, his 19th in the second game, but a five-run third inning, and a four-run sixth, enabled the Browns to outscore the Bengals, 11-10.

Toronto Leafs In Fourth Place Of Int. League

(By The Associated Press)

Baltimore Orioles, mired throughout most of the International season in last place, are giving the clubs fighting for a play-off berth plenty of trouble.

During the last week the Orioles eliminated the runner - up Newark Bears from the pennant race and squashed Jersey City Giants' bid for a playoff berth.

Yesterday manager Tommy Thomas' Orioles dealt the play-off hopes of the Syracuse Chiefs a stunning blow, beating the Chiefs twice, 2-1 and 5-1 to stretch their winning streak to six games.

The twin setbacks knocked the Chiefs out of fourth place, Toronto Maple Leafs taking over the fourth slot. The Leafs divided a twin bill with the third-place Rochester Red Wings, winning the opener, 7-6 but losing the finale, 7-2.

Fred Wollpert held the Chiefs to six hits in the first game. Johnny Wittig limited the Chiefs to five blows in the nightcap. One of the Oriole runs in the windup was a homer by Ken Mapes.

The Leafs, who lead the Chiefs by a half game, staged a five-run fifth - inning rally to beat the Wings in their first game. Oscar Judd, who needed help from Jim Konstanty, received credit for the victory, his 13th.

Al Papai, John Mikan and Steve Gerking checked the Leafs on four safeties in the nightcap to enable the Wings to stay a game ahead of Toronto. Papai was the winner and Nick Strincevich the loser.

The pennant-winning Montreal Royals split with Buffalo Bisons, winning the nightcap, 4-2 after Buffalo took the opener, 9-7.

Johnny Bero was the star of the Buffalo victory. Bero socked two homers and drove in 4 runs. Jack Banta, gunning for his 19th victory, was the loser..

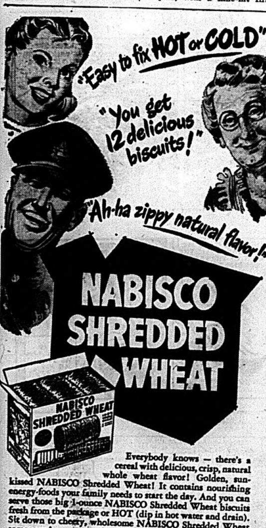
Miss Canada III Wins Silver Cup At Detroit, Mich.

Detroit, Sept. 7 — (CP) — The Silver Cup for power - boat racing went to Miss Canada III Monday after the Ingersoll, Ont. craft zoomed over the second heat at an average speed of 68.-471 miles on hour.



Driven by Harold Wilson, son of Ernest Wilson, Miss Canada's owner, the speedy Canadian entry emerged winner over four finishers. Miss Canada III had taken the initial heat for the silver cup Saturday.

The Wilson boat got the breaks on the final day of the Labor-day weekend regatta on the Detroit River. Miss Pepsi, driven by Clell Perry of Algonac, Mich., which ran second to Miss Canada III in Saturday's initial heat, broke a propeller just before the start yesterday.

Then the silver-colored Skipalong, piloted by R. Stanley Dollar, Jr., of San Francisco, was forced out by engine trouble in the 10th lap Monday after she had flashed through the second lap at a record - breaking speel of 78.182 miles on hour.

Both heats were 45 miles long over the three - mile Gold - cup course. Only four of the eight boats which started the final heat finished. In third place was Warren Avis of Detroit in Miss Frostie, while Dan Arena of Detroit, in Will O' the Wisp, was fourth.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By GORD PEPPER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Sept. 7 — (CP) — To use the mildest of terms, Canada's showing in track and field at the 1948 Olympiad at London did not approach mediocrity.

Ace (Halifax Chronicle) Foley says the question before the House is: "What is wrong with track and field in Canada?" After the razor-sharp answer "we don't have enough winners," Foley goes on to ask what Canadians are going to do about it.

Ace says that in the first place track and field no longer are major sports events in the Dominion. Where they used to get relatively full houses, they don't draw near that now. He adds:

"As long as the Olympic games are held, Canada should be represented. And if it is to be represented, it should be by a strong team.

Track and field sports need a shot in the arm all over the country. Meets should be conducted regularly and the publicity that is showered on hockey and baseball should be turned on such events."

Ace says a major reason for the sport falling on its face is that meets are often too dull for most people in this modern age. He suggests that qualifying events be held in the morning of a track meet with the finals in the afternoon for the public to see.

"There is glamor and excitement to a dash event but there is little to be found in a tedious parade of trial men plodding toward the finals.".

Track and field can come back to full bloom again but only if properly planned and executed. Fans will turn out if the events are paraded with a dash of color and participating athletes don't dawdle into position and the hordes of officials don't clutter up the infield.

U.S. Davis Cup Team Wins Match From Aussies

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 7 — (AP)—Having given one of the most devastating exhibitions of power tennis in Davis-Cup history, Ted Schroeder headed home to Los Angeles today, again snubbing the national championships which start Friday.

Ted, now strictly a weekend tennis player, only came east long enough to help squelch the Australian challengers again.

Frankie Parker, the other Californian who also covered himself with tennis glory in the one-sided 5-0, rout of the Aussies, is staying on to play in the championships, and he almost certainly will win them for the third time.

The draw for the Nationals was scheduled today. The only real foreign threat appears to be Jaroslav Drobny, the left-handed Czech. On the basis of their showing the last three days, during which they won only two sets in five matches for the Davis Cup, the Australians have nothing to offer.

Schroeder was a ring-tailed wonder in his 6-2, 6-1 victory over Billy Sidwell in the first of yesterday's concluding cup matches. The match lasted only 57 minutes and must have been one of the shortest in cup history. To give an idea of the near perfection of Schroeder's touch, he hit only 19 shots into the net in 22 games.

Parker, hitting with less power than his singles team-mate, had everything he needed to subdue Adrian Quist 6-2, 6-2, 6-3. He must have gotten some satisfaction from the fact that he quelled the Aussie leader in straight sets where Schroeder had needed four sets to turn the trick Saturday.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP)—It's generally agreed that there's no standout, blow-'em-down ball club in either Major League this season, so what happens if a key player on any of the contending clubs gets hurt...take out, say, Al Dark, Joe DiMaggio, Junior Stephens, Stan Musial, Lou Boudreau or Ralph Kiner and where would their clubs go?...Only Brooklyn seems to have adequate replacements for the Dodgers strength lies in numbers rather than individual strength.

Unfair Tactics

One of the best sports events around Greensboro, N.C., this summer has been the baseball series between Mace Brown's Red Sox and George Ferrell's Cardinals...the Red Sox are "managed" by Al Brown, 12-year-old son of the former major-league pitcher and Ferrell (brother of the more famous Wes and Rick) also has a son to pilot the Cards...The series nearly went on the rocks recently when Brown protested that Ferrell was using a ringer. The Cardinals were playing a nine-year-old girl.

Dots All, Brothers

The Cubs, and several other Major-League clubs, are trying to persuade Bobby Hatch, Boston University back, to turn from football to baseball after graduation. He didn't play college ball this year but pitched in the type world series because his dad is a printer.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reeding the paper and listening to the radio, and pop was pushing the side of his face with one finger, saying, Horse blanket to blame, I believe that tooth is starting to act up again.

Maybe it's eggs, ma said, and pop said, Yee gods, since when have my teeth started laying eggs?

Dont be silly, ma said. I'm just talking about the medical convention of the allergy specialists, and it seems a certain Dr. Bigwig read a report about one of his patients who had a misterious tooth ache that persisted even after the tooth had been extracted, and in fact it didn't disappear until the patient stopped eating eggs, she said, and pop said, if he had stopped eating entirely, probably all his trubbles would of disappeered.

According to these allergy specialists, you-can never tell what causes what, but it may be anything, ma said. For instance one doctor told about a woman patient who was allergic to her own husband's mustash for years before she realized what was causing an annoying pane in-her lung back. And then there was the case of a man who couldn't sleep a wink if there was a single mouse in the house, because mice gave him automatic insomnia. So he had to live in a house that was simply a den of rats, she said, and pop quick jumped up, saying, I can't take that risk. I've just discovered that my tooth herts because I'm allergic to radio commercials.

If anybody wants to know where I am, tell them Peet's bowling alleys, he said.

Now William, if you go anywhere for any reason, you can go to a movie and you can take me, ma said, and pop said, I can't, I'm allergic to pop-corn when it's being crunched by more than 6 strangers in my immediate vicinity. It keeps me awake even at the most boring pictures, he said.

The result being they went around to the Hewses to play

Model Railroad Visited by Many At C.N. Exhibition

Toronto, Sept. 3 — (CP) — A masterpiece of model railroading at the Canadian National Exhibition draws more visitors than almost any other exhibit in the Ontario government building.

The $900 model is a scale reproduction of a sleek, Ontario Northland Railway locomotive hauling a five-car passenger train through the Northern Ontario countryside. The system represents some 70 miles of the O.N.R.'s right-of-way from Timagami north to New Liskeard.

Northerners who see the tiny cardboard towns and villages, rolling farmland and virgin bush made of paper mache are amazed. They say the whole setup is an exact duplicate of that part of the country the provincially-owned O.N.R. operates about 40 years ago.

The electric-powered train and its 75 feet of track were built for the O.N.R. by three war-veteran model-makers from Toronto. Director of the project and chief craftsman was Al Jones, 45-year-old former R.C.A.F. man. Air Force vet Lawrence (Larry) Ord, 38, and former soldier Don Fletcher, 35, were his assistants.

The colorful scenery was constructed by Al Walker, also of Toronto. Scenery, train and tracks occupy a stand 20 feet long and 7½ feet wide.

The three builders took a month to finish the locomotive, three passenger cars and two baggage cars, at Jones' home. Scale was ⅛ of an inch to a foot. They made the all-metal cars and engine from photographs.

Jones and his companions also have a smaller — but less spectacular — railway model on display at the exhibit. This one features a lift-bridge which lowers as a four-car freight train approaches and raises after the train has crossed.

Set up Naval Lab On Pacific Coast

Victoria — (CP) — Dr. Frederick Sanders, who spent his youth in Victoria, has returned home from Ottawa to set up a naval research laboratory for the National Defence Research Board.

For him, the entire Canadian Pacific coast will be a gigantic oceanographic laboratory, with his problems centred mainly around underwater detection and communication.

Before he can solve the problem, though, he must study complicated variations of underwater temperatures, currents and degrees of salt concentration.

Many of his experiments will take him to sea on board naval craft, but most of his work will be at a shore laboratory in the dockyard at Esquimalt, B.C.

As yet, he has no equipment "except three typewriters and a lot of paper," but two buildings will be at his disposal for the installation of laboratory equipment.

"It was felt Esquimalt was so strategically placed as regards sheltered waters and good weather all year 'round, that it was decided to establish a naval laboratory here," said Dr. Sanders. "Our primary job you might call underwater physics. We would like to study water sound, refraction, electrical disturbances, and so on, set under water."

Official name of the establishment will be Pacific Research Pacific Naval Laboratory.

Tokyo—Japanese police reported today a new low—literally—in thievery.

Tests on a cable, long unused, between Japan and Korea disclosed that thieves had stolen a large portion of the cable from the ocean floor.

Jerusalem—News of a soccer match between Jews and Arabs, who first searched each other for arms, reached here Friday night.

Officers of an Egyptian position in southern Palestine, where the opposing forces face each other at short distance, visited a nearby Jewish settlement and suggested a game of soccer.

The Jews and an Egyptian team arrived the next day. Before play started the teams search each other for arms, but found none.

The Israeli team won 11 to 1 and the losers asked them over for a cup of coffee "one of these days."

Pelping—This new "gold yuan" currency which is supposed to check China's inflation may sound all right to a lot of people.

But 1,100 Chinese printers used to—in the good old days of inflation—work their presses night turning out paper money to meet the government demand.

Since the new currency was announced they haven't burned a press. And so today they petitioned leaders of North China urging them to ask Nanking "to resume this printing business."

Three Teams Set Fast Early Pace In Football Race

By The Canadian Press

With the last rose of summer hardly wilted, football is bidding for attention with a capital A. Already three teams have poked their noses out front as favorites in the championship race, the first alone had been cast at an official and the first protest is a matter of days.

Even though the Ontario Rugby Football Union doesn't start its schedule until Sept. 11, fans are talking up these three clubs from the other two senior leagues as Grey Cup favorites—the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts, Ottawa Rough Riders and Calgary Stampeders.

The Stamps enhanced their prestige in the Western Canada league by tuning in their fourth straight victory Labor Day, defeating Regina Saskatchewan Roughriders 14-8. It was this game that saw Ints fans attack the officials and a protest lodged by the Roughriders.

The Argonauts pulled into a tie for the leadership in the Interprovincial Union when they won two holiday weekend contests. The champions whipped Montreal Alouettes 20-7 at Toronto Saturday and followed up with a 16-7 triumph over the Wildcats on Hamilton Labor Day.

Ottawa, Rough Riders held a first-place tie with Argos by virtue of their 30-3 triumph over the Wildcats at Ottawa Saturday. Winnipeg or their first start 36-16 over Alouettes last Tuesday night, the Rough Riders now have recorded an impressive 66 points in two games, against 23.

Wali For Ottawa

Fans already are setting their sights for Sept. 18 when the Argos and the Rough Riders clash for the first time at Ottawa.

The Wildcats, playing their first Big Four season, are in a last-place tie with Alouettes—each with two loses and no wins.

The rumpus at Regina started when Stampeder backs ran for a touchdown on an unusual touchdown play. Gabe Patterson, Roughriders import, dropped the ball as he was tackled and Bert Isaacson picked it up, relaying it to Jim Mitchener. The Stampeder player hesitated, then spurted across the Regina goal-line and officials awarded a touchdown.

The Riders protested vehemently that a whistle had been blown then Patterson was tackled and the ball should have been declared dead.

Another argument started when officials gave Stampeders a 15-yard penalty on a forward pass play and coach Fred Grant pulled his Regina team off the field with 13 seconds to play. Officials called the game.

Hundreds of fans swarmed on the field and officials Les Ferguson and Paul Dockjak had to run the gauntlet to their dressing room. Fans showered them with programs and a few small rocks were thrown but neither official was hurt.

Jack Rowand, Roughriders president, said later he intends to protest the game on grounds Pelletier hadn't completed the forward pass which bounded into the Calgary player's arms and became the winning touchdown.

Argos Show Power

The Argos showed last-half power in winning their two weekend tilts. Behind 7-6 at the halfway mark against Alouettes, they won going away before a Varsity Stadium crowd of 10,000 after veteran middle Steve Lavantis fell on a blocked kick behind the Montreal line early in the third quarter.

The other two Argonaut touchdowns were scored by Frankie Dunlop and Fred Brown while Joe Krol, who sparked the victory with his passing and punting, kicked four points on two converts and two rouges. Virgil Wagner, Alouettes veteran United States import, scored their touchdown on a forward pass with Chas McCance converting it. Fred Kijek kicked a first-quarter rouge.

The 7-all at the half in Hamilton, Argos went on seven fourth-quarter points while holding Wildcats scoreless in the final 30 minutes. The teams played even in the first quarter when veteran outside Jack Wedley turned a blocked kick into a 35-yard touchdown that Krol converted and Bill Murmylyk converted Lon Toms' ma-ker for Wildcats.

Punted a Single

Royal Copeland punted a single for Argos in similar Labor Day rouge in the second quarter.

Argos made quick capital of a couple of fourth-quarter breaks and Krol punted what proved to be the winning rouge. Ken White Jock, Argos first United States import in four seasons, clinched the victory by kicking another single point and running 15 yards for the a touchdown in the closing minutes.

Whitlock, 175-pound halfback from Virginia State College, also punted one single against Alouettes from the fullback spot where he subs for Krol, giving him seven points for the weekend.

The Rough Riders ran away from Wildcats before a crowd of 11,000 at Ottawa Saturday scoring five converted touchdowns. Tony Golab was the big gun with two, while Howie Turner, Doug Smylie and Lally Lalonde got the others.

Hamilton scored the final touchdown of the game when Toms took a forward pass from Mel Lawson and crossed the line.

William Peter Turnesa, youngest brother of the golfing Turnesa clan, has won his second United States amateur golf championship.

Saturday, in a drizzling rain at Memphis, Tenn., he won a 2 - and - 1 victory over Ray Billows.

Turnesa, tiny automaton from Elmsford, N.Y., turned into the last nine holes with a two - up advantage and Billows couldn't rack up three holes in a row to go ahead. But by the 32nd hole Turnesa was back up front. Then he played the 34th and 35th in steady pars for halves to clinch the victory.

Victory Gift, a bay filly, captured the $5,000 - added Canadian Derby at Woodbine Park's three-year-olds at Winnipeg's Polo Park Saturday and presented a Cinderella story for owner A. G. (Scotty) Hunter.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"It doesn't work that way with widowers," I said doubtfully, and Louise laughed.

"But it does with women," she persisted.

"Isn't it rather that a woman who's been married sort of knows what men like?" I asked. "Just what — seems — well, affectionate, and what seems—you know what I mean".

"Exactly," Louise said. "Now take me. I'm not especially pretty—"

She paused on this, as if to give me time to say, "But of course you are!" But as she really was a plain, rather thick-featured women I laughed instead, and she went on. "I could get any man I liked," she said.

My thoughts instantly went to Munro Wainwright, slim and broad-shouldered, black-eyed, brown-skinned, with deep color in his cheeks, deep waves of midnight hair.

"No, I'm not after Wainwright," Louise said, as if she could read my thoughts. "But it might be—" And she jerked her head in the direction of the upper floor.

"Clay?"

"Maybe not Clay," Louise answered, pursing her lips.

"Not" — my voice fell to a whisper, I don't know why — "not the old man?"

"Oh—I—don't—know," Louise said airily, shrugging her shoulders. And immediately she jumped up and disappeared with a final wail of being late.

It left a distinctly unpleasant impression on me, her nonchalant attitude to the men of the household. Munro probably had no money; Clay was almost blind. Consequently Louise's attentions would be turned to Calhoun, the old invalid who might indeed take the great marriage vows and leave her a rich widow within a few years.

"Practical!" I said half aloud to the cold breakfast dishes. But it made me like Louise Ring the less, just the same.

It was funny to look back, months afterward, at those quiet, lonely first days at Hillyard House. I loved it; I loved it with a ridicule and jealous passion right from the beginning, but I never felt as safe indoors as out. Outside, on the cliff, or walking up the long avenue of eucalyptus and poplar trees that led due east to the road, somehow I felt secure. I felt as if the winds that were forever tossing the sea grasses on the cliff and the waves that were forever rolling in and in and in again and the gulls and the eucalyptus themselves were friendly. The ground in the avenue was carpeted with the sweet dry sickle-shaped leaves; even in the summer, the new foliage was tipping all the gloriously sprawling branches with tiny stiff scented tassels of white and pink silk floss.

When the summer sunshine was still and soft I could gather mallow and Indian brush and long-legged buttercups blown down against the grass and short stemmed poppies much paler than the inland variety. I kept little vases in my room full of flowers, and before Virginia arrived I had flowers in her room too.

But I liked the Cliffs just as well when sharp sandy airs were blowing and shutting out all the other sounds in the world except that of wind and sea. I could shout then, and run, as never in my life before had I wanted to run and shout, and nobody could hear me. Nobody within ten feet of me could hear me.

Yes, the cliffs and the shore and even the dark overgrown gardens felt safer than the house. There might be danger on the rocks and the sands; there were bad tides and one could see the vicious sweep of the undertow swirling foam away at sliding angles, tugging the waves out of shape as they came up the strand But it was open danger, obvious danger.

In the house there seemed to be hidden menace on all sides. Most of the downstairs rooms were locked on whatever secrets they held; the halls were but dimly lighted by the high old-fashioned fixtures of fluted copper and gilt knobs. Dust lay in smooth mats, like pads, under the carpets, for where one of the brass stairway rods was loose, it bulged free in a gray web; and such glimpses of the interiors of the closed rooms as I could get through the windows from the garden showed shrouded heavy furniture and book-cases shielded by glass doors

It was through a window that I first saw the picture that was afterward to become so important. It was a stiff portrait of a girl seated at a marble-topped table, with roses in a vase, a looped curtain, and a view of the sea and sailboats; these last seen through a window. I couldn't see the face; I just had an impression of fair hair and a spreading green gown. Naturally I paid it only the attention of the prying and curious then.

Everyone in the house was nice to me, including three Chinese menservants and McMurdock, the old Scotch gardener, and the cowboys who lived across the highway on the ranch five miles away, where the livestock was. I didn't meet old Mr. Hillyard in those first three and a half weeks, but Clay Hillyard and Mrs. Grizell were pleasant enough, and Munro Wainwright was a little more than that, or else I imagined he was friendlier because he was young and handsome and quite near my age. He was twenty-seven. I speculated a good deal about what Virginia would think of him and what he would think of Virginia and whether they would fall in love and whether her grandfather would approve. And I think I envied her a good deal, even before I saw her, because she was eighteen and pretty and coming to the old home under such romantic circumstances.

Clay might fall in love with her, too, of course, but she would not be apt to fall in love with her own uncle.

Virginia arrived on a languid summer afternoon; telegrams had been announcing her approach for several days, and we were all ready. Her big room next to mine had long been cleaned and aired. Not that any room at Hillyard House gave the impression of being clean or airy either, but Mrs. Grizell had bustled in and out of it busily, and she and I had freshly made the mahogany bed with the pineapple posts and put towels in the bathroom Virginia and I would share.

It had once been a large pretentious dressing room, this bathroom; it held two full-sized windows set deep in the brick walls and two enormous wardrobes with minor doors. But the walnut stand with pitcher and basin had given place two generations ago to a tin tub anchored in woodwork and smelling, as indeed everything in the house smelled, of old plaster and old wood, mice and carpets and close heavy air and old draperies.

"Should be with you at two o'clock, excited," said Virginia's last telegram, and only a few minutes after two she did indeed drive up under the long line of the eucalyptus, she herself driving the car, whose other occupants were a girl who looked only slightly older than herself, and a liveried chauffeur.

Beautiful, saucy, daring, vain, self-satisfied, warmhearted — these were some of the terms that went through my mind in the next hour or two as I watched and listened and analyzed Virginia Carolan. And the word "spoiled" colored them all. Accustomed not only to having her own way, but expecting to be admired for insisting upon it.

BANFF "MOVIE FIND"

Nancy Olson (left) a starring principal of the Nat Holt film production, "Canadian Pacific," now on location in Banff, near Calgary, Alta., welcomes Shirley Cain, 17-year-old Banff girl originally from Calgary, to the picture's cast. Miss Cain will be the only Canadian girl so enlisted by the Hollywood movie troupe, whose director is Edwin L. Martin. Randolph Scott is starred as the railway surveyor who finds the vital pass across the Rockies.

Grim Housing Shortage, Especially For Married Men, Faces Students Who Are Treking Back to College

By The Canadian Press

A grim housing shortage — especially for married couples — looks in certain cities as the first obstacle in the paths of students when they trek back to universities and colleges this autumn.

A country-wide Canadian Press survey also reveals the pretty co-ed will have a smaller assortment of males to choose from as several centres report smaller expected enrolments. The smaller student bodies will result mainly from graduation of veterans. Many universities report new courses but no worries about insufficient teaching staffs.

Married students, especially those with children, will have the toughest time finding accommodation. But women, too, will have some difficulty as landlords are said to favor men when renting rooms or apartments. Special drives are being made by student administrations in various cities to find a home for the scholars—but all report difficulty.

Most Maritime universities still will be crowded, but other facilities, including housing, have improved slightly.

Both Laval University and the University of Montreal in Quebec expect an enrolment on a level with last year, but the McGill University student body will be down.

Smaller Attendance

Ontario universities generally will have a smaller attendance. The University of Toronto expects 15,000 students compared with 17,000 last year, while the University of Western Ontario also reports a smaller expected enrolment. Assumption College at Windsor expects a slight increase.

At Toronto some 600 housekeeping units are needed for married couples. Arts, science, graduate studies and medicine are the leaders at Toronto while medicine, arts and business administration are tops at Western. No new courses are planned at Varsity but a graduate school in business administration and an expansion in the music course will be added at Western. All schools have sufficient professors.

Many New Buildings

The University of Toronto will continue its campaign to raise $13,000,000 for improvement. Of that amount the Ontario government has pledged $7,000,000. Parts of a new chemistry building and a mechanical engineering building will be ready by Christmas while a new physics wing will open with the term. A new $450,000 science building will open at Assumption.

The University of Saskatchewan's accommodation shortage is worse than ever, with enrolment down from last year because of graduation of veterans.

University of Alberta students also will have a difficult time finding living accommodation with the housing picture grave.

A decrease of more than 1,000 students is expected at the University of British Columbia. The housing lack will not be as sharp as other cities.

Trenton Rink Wins Top Honors At Local Greens

A Trenton, Kingston and Belleville "mixed" rink won the high honors at the bowling tournament held on Labor Day at the Belleville Bowling Club. There were 24 rinks entered from Kingston, Brighton, Trenton, Deseronto and Campbellford with three 14-end games being played. The bowlers were welcomed by Raymond Zufelt, president of the club, and Doug Row conducted the draw in his usual capable manner, the last draw being completed shortly after nine o'clock.

A Belleville rink composed of Mrs. Clela Irish, Herb Middleton, Mrs. Irene Ward and Austin Watkin won third prize after fighting an uphill battle in the last game. This rink has competed together for two years in succession, Mrs. Annie Watkin, being the regular member in place of Mrs. Ward, she was unable to bowl yesterday. The rink with the original members won the cup two years in succession and with a third place on Labor Day established somewhat of a record in one competition.

Dr. and Mrs. C. Allen with Mr. and Mrs. William Finley of Trenton won the cup and first prize with the highest score for three games. Mr. and Mrs. A. Armstrong with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Curtis of Kingston defeated another Kingston rink for second high, while the Belleville rink was third.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Carlaw with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smart of Kingston won the two-game high score while Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw with Mrs. Jackman and Dave Fisher of the local club won the one-game high. The greens were in excellent condition and splendid bowling was witnessed by the large gallery that followed the games.

Napanee Athletics Defeat Marines In Third Game

Napanee, Sept. 7-(Special)—Steady pitching by Jake Edwards, coupled with some fine outfielding and timely hitting, carried Napanee Athletics to a 5-4 win over Peterborough Marines here Saturday afternoon in the third and deciding game of the OBA Intermediate "A" first-round Eastern Ontario playdowns. The loss eliminated Jack Turner's crew and the lads of Joe Killorin will enter the next round with a Toronto team. The team and playing date have not been decided yet.

The victory was climaxed by a sudden Peterborough scoring thrust in the ninth inning that netted three runs and threw a shiver at the Napanee fans. Edwards retired the last two batters without further trouble.

Herbie Hayes, one of the better hitters in the Belleville Baseball League, had one of his great days Saturday as he batted in four of his teams runs and scored one himself, as he hit three-for-five including a triple that dropped at the fence in right field, 350 feet from home plate.

Peterborough threatened in the third when they loaded the bases with one away. A force out at the plate on a fine throw by "Bud" Green and a ground out, pitcher to first, prevented any scoring.

Opened in Fourth

Napanee opened the scoring in the fourth when Hayes drove in Jocko with a mighty triple to right field. The Athletics added three more in the sixth as Gerow and Jocko scored on Hayes' single to centre field and Hayes came round on Bud Green's double to left field. Napanee wound up their scoring in the seventh when Hayes drove in Scarlett with his third hit of the game.

Peterborough counted once in the bottom of the sixth and came up with a stirring three run rally in the bottom of the ninth that just failed to carry them to a win.

With one away Duggan singled to left field and Legros was hit by the pitcher. White's grounder to short hopped over Gerow's shoulder into left field and Duggan and Legros scored as White went into third. The relay squirted away from Jocko at third and White went on in with the third run.

Edwards took charge at this point tossing out Wyatt at first and beating Plunkett to the bag on the latter's grounder to the mound.

Legros of Peterborough, and Scarlett and Burtt of the locals pulled off fielding gems in the outfield with fine running catches.

U.S. Charges Reds Use 500,000 Japs As Slave Labor

Gen. MacArthur Reported To Have Sent Sharp Note

Tokyo, Sept. 8 (AP) — In a roundabout way, allied headquarters today accused the Russians of using 500,000 Japanese as slave labor to bolster the Soviet's war potentials.

It came out in this way:

Allied headquarters released a statement quoting an "unidentified allied headquarters spokesman" as saying "a sharply worded letter" had been sent on behalf of General MacArthur on September 3 to Lt.-Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, Russian member on the allied council for Japan charging the U.S.S.R. with failure to live up to its agreement to repatriate the more than 500,000 Japanese held in Russian hands.

The spokesman said "additional reliable information available to the supreme commander indicates conditions approaching slave labor" apply to those living in another Russian control.

The statement went on that the dedication is considered "over the fact this near slave labor is maintained by the Soviet and Soviet controlled areas under appalling conditions of servitude to increase the military potential of Soviet Russia."

Appeal Against Deportation Order Postponed

Montreal, Sept. 8 (CP) — The case of Count Jacques Dupe De Bernonville, appealing against a deportation order, was today postponed in Superior Court today to Sept. 15.

The iron-jawed Count, under sentence of death by France on the alleged wartime collaborationist and charged now with having assisted Canada illegally, did not appear in court.

His instructions were made by ris lawyer, Bernard Bourdon.

A crowd filled the small courtroom and about 100 who waited outside in the glimpse of the man whose picture appeared in French papers here in the uniform of the Chasseurs Alpins showed disappointment.

The case had been scheduled to appear at 10 a.m., and the crowd started gathering early, a while before that.

There was no immediate reason given for the postponement.

This afternoon it will move into eastern districts bringing relief from the oppressive humidity of the past few days. SCHUMAN CABINET QUITS, IN OFFICE ONLY 64 HOURS

France Again Plunged Into Political Crisis

Paris, Sept. 8 (AP)—President Vincent Auriol called in De Gaulle for the third time today in an effort to end the French crisis arising from the overthrow of Robert Schuman's 64-hour-old cabinet last night.

A general election seemed probable.

Auriol apparently is trying to get followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle to join a new National Union government before general parliamentary elections can be held. De Gaullists are rightists.

Schuman's government was in office 13th since the war ended and the fourth since the start of last year.

The coalition government of Robert Schuman, put together Sunday after long and hectic effort, resigned Tuesday night in the face of a six-vote defeat in the national assembly on a technical, parliamentary issue. The coalition was made up of Schuman's own movement Republican Popular, Socialists and the Radical Socialists.

Manslaughter Charge Laid After Fireman's Death

Windsor, Sept. 8 (CP)—Robert O'Neil, 28, has been charged with manslaughter following the death in hospital Tuesday night of Joseph Stevens, 37, veteran of the Detroit fireman. Sweeney died without regaining consciousness from injuries received last Saturday in the bowl, in front of an alleged "blind pig" on Pitt Street East.

O'Neil was arrested after leaving the fight and arraigned on a charge of assault causing actual bodily harm. He was fined $500 and was not posted and he has been in custody of the Windsor police since that time.

It is the first voluntary hearing will be fixed when O'Neil is arraigned on the new charge.

Sweeney suffered a fractured skull and severe concussion as a result of the fight. He had been given heart stimulants and was put under an oxygen tent for two days.

ALL SWIMMING HALTED

Bobcaygeon, Ont. Sept. 8 (CP) Medical officers today ordered all swimming in nearby Sturgeon and Pigeon Lakes after the mysterious vanishing of 200 cattle pastured on the shores of the lakes.

Veterinaries in this central Ontario town, about 20 miles northwest of Peterborough, remain puzzled after a two week study of the unidentified disease which killed the cattle.

It is not known if the waters are contaminated, but farmers have been ordered to keep their cows from grazing on the lake shore.

Three Main Hates Shared by Both Fighting Groups in Palestine Press

By DANIEL De LUCE

Jerusalem, Sept. 8 — (AP) — Israelis and Arabs, though foes, share the same pet hates.

The press on both sides of the fighting line picks identical targets for attack. They believe all that is printed, the three most diabolical enemies of Israel and the Arab world are:

1. The British government.
2. United States State Department and/or President Truman.
3. Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Palestine mediator.

Arab commentators, of course, don't spare the Jews, whom they refer to as Zionist terrorists, and Israeli writers don't spare the Arabs as murderous barbarians. But that is routine. It lacks spice.

The sharpest barbs are buried at Britain. In Israeli official circles Britain schemed for decades to frustrate the creation of a state embracing a Hebrew homeland — Palestine and Trans-Jordan.

When the scheming failed — so the story goes — Britain instigated, equipped and led an Arab invasion in a vengeful desire to exterminate Zionism.

The Arabs, on the other hand, call Israel an offering of British policy aimed at permanently partitioning the Arab world. The Arab setback in Palestine, it is further alleged, was due to the British Socialist coercion and military solemn alliances.

The Washington State Department, according to Israeli commentators, holds Arab oil thicker than Jewish blood. The department would use its influence maliciously blocking the lifting of an Arab embargo on Israel's favor, delaying $100,000,000 aid, and provoking British - American impasse. Furthermore, Bernadotte is said to have succumbed often in the past to American and British pressure.

The Arabs claim the president and the state department together betrayed 35,000,000 Arab friends by their support of the idea of a Jewish votes in the 1948 election year.

Count Bernadotte may be estimated as a sincere humanitarian by most of the world, but both the Israeli and Arabs disagree.

Israeli newspapers occasionally brand him as a Gentile stooge of the Arabs, ready to cede Israel to frontiers.

The Arab press describes the mediator as a tool of western interests in search of Jewish domination over the Middle East.

War Bride Sobs When Charge Of Murder Read in Court

Lindsay, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP) — Pretty Jane Kelly McAllister broke down and sobbed today when she appeared in magistrate's court on a charge of murder in the revolver slaying of her 30-year-old husband, John McAllister, Sunday night.

The pretty red-haired war bride answered "yes" in a faint voice when Magistrate E. A. Gee asked her whether Jane Kelly McAllister was the accused person. Previously she had been called Jean. She sobbed and covered her eyes when the charge was read.

The former Jean Mulcay of Greenock, Scotland, Mrs. McAllister wore a dark-green gaberdine suit. Her hair hung down over her shoulders.

She was not asked to plead. Magistrate Gee remanded her to Sept. 13 at the request of Crown.

Mrs. McAllister entered the courtroom on the arm of Provincial Constable Lloyd Lyle of Fenelon Falls. Her father-in-law, in a lonely bush cabin, that he and his brother built by hand, the bridal bed was slept late Sunday night and died Monday morning after his body was discovered by his brother, Jack, and beside her, constable, H. E. Richardson of Lindsay.

Police and investigators met difficulty in trying to get pictures from the accused woman. Provincial Police ordered them away from the jail where they waited for her to come out. Mrs. McAllister hid her face in the front entrance of the court but she was taken in the back door. They got some shots as she left.

Mrs. W. R. McAllister, mother of the slain man, said in an interview that although her desire to help the accused bride has not waned, she learned from a Lindsay lawyer that she probably hasn't sufficient funds to provide counsel. It is expected this will be done by the Crown.

The mother, whose home is in Hamilton, said Tuesday night: "I let her daughter-in-law in her jail cell. I wanted to show her my son's picture."

Mrs. Mulcay, mother of the accused, said she wanted to see her in-laws.

Bruce McAllister, who discovered his brother's body, said the tragedy may end the yearly visits of the McAllister family to the nearby Kirkfield district where they have a cottage. The family lives in Hamilton.

Mrs. Jean was coming here for 20 years and it's a pretty spot,' his mother said. "We drove up here last summer. I think they had a bad time. They had a little cottage but it seemed so much happier and at peace with the world here. Now it's all over I can still hardly imagine he is gone and that poor girl is alone in jail.

"It was a terrible blow to her mother and grandmother in Greenock the priest in Kirkfield has taken the brunt of our shoulders. Think what any mother would feel like to lose her daughter 4,000 miles away in this situation."

Russia Appears To be Emerging As Winners

Rome, Sept. 8 (AP)—A naval spokesman said today Russia and Italy are engaged in a quiet tug-of-war over the Italian fleet warships. He said Russia appears to be emerging as winner.

The warships include a 25-year-old battleship and several 2-year-old submarines and other craft. They were surrendered to the allies after Italian capitulation which disarmed nearly all of Italy's fleet.

But as the negotiations went into tinue over the fleet, the spokesman said Italy does not feel obliged to deliver Russia's share, considering that Russia won only a few ships.

The spokesman said Italy hopes to convince Russia it would further her own interests to renounce claim her as her share and that Russia has charged Italy with trying to wreck the peace treaty naval provisions.

Seven Provinces Will Apply For Stay in Hearings

Ottawa, Sept. 8 — (CP) — Seven provincial governments today notified the Board of Transport Commissioners that they propose to hold up the railways' latest application for freight rate increases until the Dominion Government has ruled on their request for a royal commission on the issue.

In a formal notice received by the board's secretary from counsel of all provinces except Ontario the seven made their request on Sept. 21 for a stay in hearings on the railway application.

The board, which received a 21-per cent freight rate increase in March, has already granted an interim increase of 15 per cent and a permanent increase of 30 per cent.

The seven provinces have asked for a royal commission into Canada's whole railway problem. A few days ago the Dominion Government gave the Federal Cabinet an opinion that such a royal commission could not constitutionally deal with the matter of freight rates.

The government already has ordered the Board of Transport Commissioners to launch an inquiry into the railways' basic freight rate structure. The Justice Department, in a formal opinion, has advised that parliament would have to pass special legislation in order to transfer this question from the Board of Transport Commissioners to a royal commission.

Outright Release For Luke Hamlin At Season's End

Toronto, Sept. 8 (CP)—President Peter G. Campbell of the Toronto Maple Leafs International League baseball team said today that Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin will be given his outright release at the end of the current season.

Hamlin, 42-year-old veteran pitcher, announced his retirement plans for next season," President Campbell said. "He's all baseball and he's been a great guy to have. Anything he wishes to do is okay with us."

Hamlin, a veteran major and minor leaguer, has won 194 games and lost 10 games for the Leafs in 1948.

Campbell also revealed that Leaf pitcher Jack Thompson has been sold to Philadelphia Phillies for $10,000 under the 1943 working agreement between the International League club.

Cafe Garbage Said Better for Pigs Than Feed Grain

Kitchener, Sept. 8 (CP)— City council members learned Thursday night that local restaurants discard daily as much as 700 pigs. The matter was discussed when a farmer asked for the privilege of collecting swill in the city, a privilege which many swing-razor blades have been enjoying for some time.

It was also learned the restaurants throw away enough garbage to fatten hogs than if the animals are fed corn meal.

Ninety per cent of my swill-fed hogs are fattened," said the farmer said.

"I don't say grain a farmer is fortunate to get 60 per cent in this category. The farmer said it pays him to haul the swill.

In fact, he added that it would be worthwhile for him to be had to haul it from Hamilton.

JULY TOURIST RATE UP

Ottawa, Sept. 8 (CP) —United States tourists visiting Canada returning to Canada poured into Canada over highway crossing points at an unprecedented rate for the month of July, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Volume of highway traffic crossing into Canada in July 1948, exceeded the flow of traffic in July 1947, by eight per cent and established a new record.

Dionne Quints Start High School

Studies but Did Not Try Exams

North Bay, Sept. 8 — (CP) — Five of the eight children of Dionne quintuplets, said today his Dionne 14-year-old daughters will start Grade 9 studies in September, although they did not try high school entrance examinations.

Edouard Dionne, superintendent of the Ontario Department of Education.

Mr. Dionne issued a statement on the question after education authorities had announced the quints, did not write the exams.

Education officials said the application had been made to establish an examination centre at the Villa Notre Dame school, the convent operated by nuns, near home at nearby Corbell.

They added that there was no provision under the regulations for "whereby a private centre can be established for entrance examinations or where pupils from a private school can be granted certificates on the recommendation of a principal."

An effort was made to provide a special room at Callander, Bonfield or Powassan, but this fell through because "only five were accepted."

Mr. Dionne said in his statement: "I declined this offer, knowing that the setting of such examinations would be difficult and that much publicity had been given to the fact that the quints' studies gone to such centres the public would have been attracted to the centre. It was always our policy to avoid such occasions.

He added that an experienced high school teacher had been engaged to teach the quints at their private school.

Ten girls from other places, including some from the U. S., will study with them. Mr. Dionne said they had followed with their primary school studies last year.

19 Western Sector Police Kidnapped From Fr. Convoy

Guaranteed Safe Passage From Besieged City Hall

By EDWIN SHANKE

Berlin, Sept. 8 — (AP) — Russian soldiers and their communist-puppet and Soviet-sector police kidnapped 19 Western Sector police today, after the Soviet commandant had guaranteed them safe passage from Berlin's besieged city hall.

They were taken from a French convoy at the Langenbeck-Virnow Jockey Club, a few blocks from the city hall, which is in the Soviet sector of this divided, blockaded city.

As the 19 policemen and a German photographer were assembled into a Russian truck to be hauled away, a French officer protested that the Russians were "pulling some funny business."

"You mean this is a plain double-cross, don't you?" asked an American reporter.

"Yes," snapped the Frenchman. Russian soldiers and their controlled police had thrown a double cordon around the city hall today. They prevented anyone from entering the building or bringing food in.

It was an apparent effort to starve out the 19 Western Sector police who had been brought into the building to help protect the anti-Communist city assembly meeting.

To escape arrest by their Soviet sector police, the 19 Western police took refuge in the Western Sector offices.

Convoy Surrounded

Thereupon, the French convoy, including two canvas covered trucks, started to pull away from the hall. In the party, besides police, were 11 British, American and French liaison officers and correspondents.

A few hundred yards from the building, they were flagged down by two Soviet officers and a dozen my-gunners. About 20 Soviet-Sector police lined up and formed behind a building.

The convoy surrounded. The seizure had all the aspects of a carefully-planned trap.

Russian officers identification papers may go on. A Russian officer ordered the Germans, who don't will have to come with us."

The Russians made no excuses. There was a promise made to the Russians, however, that Soviet-sector police chief, but he never arrived.

This was the second serious episode within three days involving Allied relations, but the first major incident in the civil warfare between the rival East and West fractions of Berlin's divided police force.

Before the Soviet siege of the city hall, there was a clash in the day two United States officials were detained briefly by Russian military police.

William Babcock, Deputy United States Commandant, and Berlin, and Maj. J. E. Davidson, American Army transport chief of staff, were taken into custody when they tried to enter the Soviet building Tuesday night. Babcock, a civilian, was wearing a uniform as a reserve colonel.

The Russians took the two Americans to the Russian headquarters but released them a short time later.

An Associated Press Correspondent, Richard K O'Malley, and AP photographer Henry Burmeister were roughed up by the police before they left when they aided a German reporter who was trying to escape.

Intended to Upset Talks

Washington, Sept. 8 (AP) — State Secretary Marshall said today the kidnapping of police in the Berlin city government were entirely intended to upset talks of the big four military governors on the crisis in the Soviet-blockaded German capital.

Marshall said efforts to disrupt American, British and French talks have been continuous since they started. He declined at a press conference to say what the assistance involves military measures.

Earlier the Secretary of State received from the military high commissioner in Germany a full situation in Germany and in Berlin.

This meeting followed a session Tuesday of the National Security Council at which Marshall outlined the diplomatic picture in Berlin.

It was understood the meeting with the military chief today was called to give the secretary a precise idea of the U.S. strength and capabilities of American armed forces in the area.

UPWARD PACE COST-OF-LIVING IS SLACKENING

Index Rose Only Six-Tenths of a Point During Month of July

Ottawa, Sept. 8 — (CP)— The upward pace of the cost-of-living index is slackening.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday the index rose only six - tenths of a point during July, the narrowest change since January, 1947. The advance, between July 2 and Aug. 2, was from 196.9 to 197.5.

Dominion Statistician Walter Duncan said the bureau, reflected the removal late in that month of the special 25-per-cent excise taxes imposed on a broad list of durable goods last September.

However, the steady rise of the index must be resumed when the next report, to be issued a month later, takes into account further increases in meat prices which followed the August lifting of the war - imposed ban on beef exports to the United States.

The July report showed that foods, fuel and lighting, clothing and miscellaneous items were higher, home - furnishings and services declined. Rentals, held under rigid government control, remained unchanged.

The food sub-index advanced 2.2 points and on foreseen that egg, butter and meat, which were only partially offset by sharp declines in prices.

Higher prices for coal and coke coupled with a narrow increase in electricity rates in certain centres were responsible for a jump of 0.8 points at 127.7 in the fuel and lighting index.

Scattered increases in clothing and footwear helped to push it to 175.9 while the miscellaneous section advanced 0.3 to 134.5 on increases in laundry rates and barber's fees. The home-furnishings and services index slipped by 1.4 to 161.4.

THROWN TOMATOES SPATTER TAXI, HOUSE

With the tomato season now at its height, mischievous youths about the city are finding no dearth of ammunition with which to test their throwing aim.

At least this was the inference gained from several complaints from city residents to police yesterday when it was learned that young lads had thrown tomatoes.

In one case a local taxi driver complained that while passing up Station Street he had had his vehicle splashed with juicy passengers as he drove passengers to the station, while another instance Ridley Street resident complained that the fronts and window of her residence had been spattered with tomatoes.

Names of the youths responsible were not obtained by officers.

910 REGISTERED AT COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Figures received at noon today show that the official enrollment at the Belleville Collegiate Institute for the '48-'49 term is 910.

Principal G. E. Currie stated that figures will be larger in the next few weeks as students enter classes after vacation at the school.

Break down of the attendance shows: Grade 9, 239; Grade 10, 245; Grade 11, 158; Grade 12, 113; Grade 13, 56.

Limited Quantity Cornell 595 Distributed

Ninety-seven bushels of Cornell 595 wheat, a new variety from New York State that is proving quite satisfactory in other areas in the province, were distributed between eleven farmers in Hastings County on Tuesday. In addition one bushel will be sown on the farm of Mr. D. L. Hollinger, Stirling, along side of two other popular varieties, namely Thorne's Golden Chaff and Rideau. It is hoped that next year a field testing may be held on the farm of Mr. Hollinger previous to cutting, when farmers in this area will be given an opportunity of seeing the varieties under actual field conditions. Provided the Cornell 595 lives up to expectations, there will be a large demand for sale next year from these farms to assure its spread in the county.

Two County Delegates At Jun. Farmer Camp

Two delegates from Hastings County Junior Farmers are at present at the Junior Farmer camp at Lake Couchiching. For various reasons Miss Ada Aird and Harold Junior Farmers from Rawdon to the camp this year, Jeffrey and Harold, who is president of the Rawdon Junior Institute, has been very active in her local club, should, after attending the camp, be able to give even better leadership to the Junior Institute. Bob Hoard, who has been very active in Junior Farmers work and judging competitions and was also one of the most active workers at the recent County Field Day, should also prove a valuable member to his club.

The camp, which is of eight days duration ,will have Juniors from all parts of the province in attendance as each county is allowed to send one boy and one girl. At the camp, recreation, dramatics, religious education, group leadership of all types and general fellowship are a few of the general subjects. Every day of which start at 7 o'clock with a dip in the lake and concludes with lights out at 11, is one that is continually filled with interest and education for those who are in attendance.

Utilities Commission Asks Change In Wording of Debenture By-Laws

The Belleville Public Utilities Commission will request city council to change wording of by-laws passed by the council to authorize the issue of $94,500 and for $170,800 before it commences work on the distribution of watermains in the Parkwood Heights area.

This was the decision of commission members Tuesday afternoon when it was stated solicitor they voted to request city council to change wording of by-laws which called for the commission to pay debenture charges out of revenues arising from the operation of the water utility. The solicitor advised that until the wording of the by-laws was changed to conform with the usual form, the work should not begin.

The by-laws in question were those passed by council authorizing the extension of the city watermains in Parkwood Heights and $170,800 for improvements and extensions to the water works system.

Solicitor Gives Opinion

In the opinion of the Commission solicitor, the Commission is not empowered to determine whether a full extension with the water works system shall or shall not be undertaken under the Local Improvement Act. This determination, the solicitor found, it was stated.

However, the solicitor stated, according to the wording of the by-laws it would appear that the commission had been directed to raise —debenture charges out of the revenues and that the by-laws with the extensions and improvements contemplated in the by-laws with the knowledge of the provisions of the levy clauses, it might be argued that the Commission has agreed to the necessary increase in the water rates which may be required to raise these charges.

The Commission, the solicitor stated, has full authority in regard to the amount of water rates to be charged and it cannot be so placed in this position.

In the opinion of the Commission solicitor, under the existing circumstances the Commission would be entirely within its legal rights in asking that the by-laws be amended by stating that the funds required for the debenture charges to be raised out of water revenue.

Mayor Storey Opposed

Acceptance of the advice of the Commission solicitor was moved by Commissioner Wotten and the recommendation was carried. Chairman Mayor Storey and Commissioner Wotten approved, while Mayor D. L. Storey opposed the motion.

"What about my original motion three weeks ago when the commission decided to proceed immediately with the work?" asked Mayor Storey. "I was advised by our solicitor we should not proceed until the matter is clarified," returned Chairman Duff. "Now we will have to get council amends the by-laws."

Here Mayor Storey pointed out that according to the city solicitor's report the Commission had sufficient money to pay the debenture charges out of profits. He said the commission had made a profit of $28,000.

In reply to this Secretary O. H. Scott, pointed out that approximately $72,000 would be needed to meet debenture charges on the work proposed by the commission were completed. This would include extensions in the various new sub-divisions in the city.

Council Must Set Rates

The Public Utilities Commission has come rights—council cannot set water rates," pointed out Commissioner Wotten.

Commissioner Wotten added that the request of the Commission for council to change the wording of the by-laws was "all the same thing anyway." Is there was no surplus in the revenues after the debenture charges would have to be paid by the city in any event.

The tender of Peter Simone of Port Hope for watermains was accepted by the Commission for the extension of watermains in the Parkwood Heights area. The tender for 810 ft. is the lowest submitted. The firm indicated the work would be completed under weather circumstances the Commission would be entirely within its legal following commencement.

Power Consumers Asked to Reduce Use of Current

Belleville power consumers, domestic as well as industrial and commercial users, will have to substantially reduce their present consumption this fall and winter to avoid serious cut-offs such as occurred last spring.

This was the word of warning given by H. H. Scott, local public utilities manager, at a meeting of the Commission on Tuesday afternoon when a communication from the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission was read advising that as of September 14th Belleville would be placed on a daily quota of 113,000 kilowatt hours.

Quota Exceeded

"And since receiving the word from the Commission, we have been approximately 7,000 kilowatt hours over that quota every day," added Mr. Scott. Power consumption in the city today was comparable with the same time last year, was up 20.8 per cent, it was stated.

A discussion followed as to how the cut-back could be made in a fair and equitable basis, it being noted that many large manufacturers and to commercial users may have to be required.

The answer to the problem is co-operation from the domestic consumer," stated Mr. Scott. He noted that the domestic load accounted for considerably more than 50 per cent of the power used in the city.

Heavy consumers of power were the hot water heaters, heavy duty ranges and space heaters. Domestic users were urged to use range elements as sparingly as possible and to leave out all unnecessary lights.

NOT DEMOCRATIC

Tokyo, Sept. 8 (AP)—It isn't democratic to drink liquor, a youth organization in the town of Wajima decided. The same organization adopted an abstinence program, providing a fine of 50,000 yen against any member who touches a drop. The same fine applies against anyone criticizing mistakes by fellow-members.

1,904 Registered In City's Four Public Schools

Registration at the four Belleville public schools at the reopening of school for the fall term on Tuesday, approximately 100 more than at the close of the last term.

This was stated today by Public School Inspector Lawrence of Kells who reported a total of 1,904 pupils on the roll of the schools. The figure at the close of the school term in June was 1746, the previous record being the largest registration with 933; Queen Victoria next with 276; Ann Street, Mary with 494 and King George School had 306.

Six New Teachers

Six new staff members reported for duty, replacing teachers who are on leave of absence, those who were temporary members last year and those who have left for other institutions.

The new teachers are Miss Ethel Hall, Belleville Normal School, replacing Mrs. E. Bristol who resigned; Miss Jane Coulter, from S.S. 11 Thurlow, replacing Miss Iva Rorke at Queen Victoria; Miss Enid Malcolm of Campbellford from Crowe Valley Central, replacing Mrs. J. A. Coulta at Queen Alexandra; Miss Margaret Wilson, graduate in King George School replacing Miss Phyllis Bracken at Queen Victoria; Mrs. Allan Rosie of Warsaw at Ann Street, replacing Miss Phyllis Beatty on leave of absence, and Mrs. Gordon Locklin of Queen Anne Country Mary, replacing Miss Mabel Chapman, transferred to Queen Alexandra,

310 In Kindergarten

The 310 new pupils are kindergarten students who take the places of about 180 pupils from grade one to the Collegiate Institute High School. By this means, and with the addition of a few classes, it is hoped that the public school population rises from about 1,700 to about 1,900 for September.

It is hoped to take care of this unusually large new group by opening an additional number of kindergarten pupils from the Queen Elizabeth School which will be established in the Queen Mary School. A regrettable feature is that a number of pupils in the city will be disappointed that their children cannot be admitted to the schools this fall.

Registration at St. Michael's Academy showed a total of 576, included 60 other than Roman Catholic beginners and 72 in St. Michael's High School.

Aircraft Annual Shows Russia's New Jet Planes

London, Sept. 8 (Reuters) — Drawing of Russia's new jet planes, shown in a film taken by a newspaper cameraman during the 1947 Moscow aviation display, appear in the 1948 edition of Jane's All the World's Aircraft, published here yesterday.

But in spite of this effort to portray developments in Russian aviation, Leonard Bridgman, the compiler and editor of the volume, states in his preface that Russia has given no signs of "Since the war Russia has made good use of the opportunities provided by the exploitation of the eastern German industry," the preface says.

"Experimental establishments, factories, equipment, production methods, particularly technicians have all been taken over. This, together with Russia's gigantic aircraft industry and industrial potential, has given the Russian aviation for the remarkable progress which has taken place in recent years."

What information had penetrated Russia's curtain had undoubtedly been allowed purposely to reach that far, and little authentic information concerning new Soviet jet aircraft had become available.

Of all jet civil aircraft, Bridgman comments: "Immense practical difficulties will be met before they can be a commercial proposition, but in the air routes of the world, but these problems are being energetically tackled, and there is no doubt that their solution is but a matter of time."

Many maintenance of the lead in gas turbines both of the pure jet and aircrew types, the world recognized, in the application of both types of power unit to civil aircraft, Britain is in the advantageous position of having several aircraft in an advanced stage of development."

PROPOSAL REJECTED

Bristol, England, Sept. 8 (CP) — A proposal to receive women into the Methodist ministry was rejected 258 votes to 183 at the recent Methodist conference here. The proposal was that women ministers should have the same status and receive allowances on the same scale as men, but must not depend on marriage, it brought to a head a years-long discussion of the topic.

Council May Seek Court Decision to Fix Manner Of Paying for Watermains

Possibility of court action between City Council and the Belleville Public Utilities to determine the manner of paying for new water mains in the Parkwood Heights area was seen today with the Utilities unwilling to go ahead with the work to be paid for out of profits.

Tuesday evening at council meeting there was in receipt of a communication from the Utilities requesting that council change the wording of by-laws for the borrowing of moneys to be used by the commission for additions and improvements to the water works system.

Wording of the above by-laws stated that the sums required to pay principal and interest in each year on the debentures are outstanding shall be raised annually by the commission out of revenues arising out of the operation of the water works system.

The request of the commission was that the wording be changed to read that the sums shall be paid over annually to the treasurer of the city of council for the retirement of such debentures.

Objects to Provision

The communication stated the commission had objected to the inclusion of this mandatory provision in the by-laws as passed by council it was beyond the authority of council to direct the commission to raise and pay over these debenture charges out of revenues.

The Parkwood Heights water mains to be laid under the local improvement claimed, it is financially impossible to raise water rates sufficiently to pay for the profits.

The Commission inferred in the communication that until the wording of the by-laws was changed they felt it would be impossible to proceed with the work of laying the mains in the Parkwood Heights area. Previously the Commission had decided to proceed with the work and determine at a later date the method of payment.

Financial Standing Given

Mayor D. L. Storey introduced the above communication from the Commission at the opening of the special report on the Commission's financial standing, made by the city solicitor. The report had been requested at a previous council meeting.

According to the report the commission last year had an operating surplus of $26,000 and after paying debenture charges of $70,000 will have a surplus of $4,000. In addition there were this year, extra water services, while industries were using more water, and water could be sold to Thurlow and Sidney areas, making for increased profits.

Following considerable discussion on the Commission request to change the by-laws, it was felt by laws, council decided that a special committee, Mayor Storey with the city solicitor and Aldermen Armstrong, Allin, Hyde and Duffy meet with the Public Utilities to see if an agreement can be reached with regard for water service for Parkwood Heights. If agreement cannot be reached the Mayor and city solicitor were instructed to proceed with a reference to the courts for a ruling on the by-laws in question.

Accordance With Act Claim

In interpreting the Commission letter to the council, City Solicitor Wallace stated that he had taken the attitude of the Commission was that they would decide whether or not the debentures would be paid out of profits as had been done in the past. He felt the by-laws as written had been in accordance with the Act. He said there was a possibility the Act might give the Commission to levy a higher water rate.

The Commission have made it quite plain that they were limited to commence the work unless the by-laws were changed, he charged, pointed out Mayor Storey.

"If so then the Act has no meaning," returned the solicitor. "A different way for the court will be to appeal to the courts."

Refers to Auditor's Report

The solicitor went on to say that either way, if the Commission showed no profits, the debenture payments would have to be met by the city.

Alderman Armstrong referred to the auditor's report which apparently indicated the Commission were able to meet debenture payments out of profits. Alderman Hyde, declared, however, that the only sensible way to have the mains was under local improvements. "We can't take a chance of the debentures having to be paid out of the profits," he said.

Alderman Allin felt it would be discriminatory to install the mains without local improvements when such work had previously been done out of profits. Alderman Tice pointed out that such procedure had not always been made out of profits. Against this City Clerk Holmes and Alderman Clarke stated that in their recollection there had never been any other charge in the city for water mains.

Would Cost $46,000

"A point which has not been mentioned," Alderman Armstrong said, "is that if the work is done under local improvements it will cost the city approximately $46,000 as the share for intersections."

"It looks to me like something to let the Commission down easy," stated Alderman Clarke. "I would not favor paying debenture payments come out of the general funds."

Here Alderman Allin charged that Alderman Hyde, must have had inside information on Commission meetings to know the first intimation came that the Commission were not going to proceed with the work as had previously promised.

"I am sorry to have to say this but I am only one representative from council on the Commission," stated the Mayor. "I am voted down before I go in."

Recommendation Suspended

Here Alderman Lloyd asked about the council recommendation from Mayor Storey when the Commission had agreed to proceed with the work and iron debenture charges out of profits. Mayor Storey stated that recommendations had been superseded by the Commission.

Alderman Allin stated that he had heard on good authority that unless something was done immediately in the matter of the Parkwood Heights, that Tatham Brothers would move their mill to Trenton without completing their project.

"It is a crime to hold up this work," said the Mayor. "I suggest that the by-laws be again considered and if the Commission does not meet debenture payments, that an investigation."

Alderman Duffy charged that the Commission had deliberately held up the work in order to gain their own point. "I am not a really small potatoes," he went on. "A commissioner and members of their organization are not worthy, they are not interested in the welfare of the community."

Alderman Lloyd was of much the same opinion. The Commission, in effect, tell us they will not proceed with the extension in the water rate," he said. "I call it hard-headed business."

Recommendation Defeated

Alderman Hyde here introduced a recommendation calling for the work to be done under local improvements. The recommendation was defeated with only Aldermen Hyde and Armstrong supporting the motion.

Several of the aldermen urged that council get a court ruling on whether the Commission could be compelled to do the work, or carry out of the profits as directed. This was followed by the city solicitor stating that the work be proceeded with immediately, regardless of the outcome of the court action. "I personally think the commission will go ahead with the work," he said.

The recommendation from Alderman Armstrong asking that the Commission meet with the Commission to see if an agreement could be worked out, was then voted on. Alderman Hyde was the only councillor to dissent.

Local Booksellers Had Busy Day

Local booksellers had a busy day of it yesterday when the student desk supplies of the different "brain factories" around town began to be laid in heavy stocks for the new text books for the year.

After being registered yesterday morning, the students were given the afternoon to themselves for their first purpose. Needless to say they took full advantage of the opportunity. Front Street was unusually crowded in the vicinity of the book stores. One clerk estimated that 800-1,000 students in all entered based through the store between noon and 3 p.m.

Not only the book stores, but also the soda bars came in for full rush treatment. After the day's fill of fighting their way through the crowds to get the books, most felt the necessity for the "pause that refreshes" and the soda bars did a thriving trade during the afternoon.

Except for a few stragglers, the majority completed the main part of their purchases yesterday and from today on will conduct themselves in the customary orderly fashion between the hours of 9.00 and 4.00.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto Sept. 8 (CP)—Mining issues dipped slightly today, ending slackened here today. Industrials and western oils were narrowly easier but golds and base metals slid steadily after displaying a slight firmness in the first hour.

Senior issues led the downhill march in golds and losses outnumbered gains 4 to 1 in juniors. Bralorne, Lamaque, Teck-Hughes and Wright Hargreaves were 5 to 5 cents easier and Kerr Addison, Lake Shore Hollanged and McIntyre weakened fractionally.

A few early gains in base metals were washed out towards noon. Consolidated Smelters, an early gainer, was down 1-2 and International Nickel, Quemont and International Paper all weakened fractionally. Pend Oreille dipped 15 cents and Labrador was down 20.

Steels refining oils and liquors were easier in dull industrial groupings. Brazilian Traction, C.P.R., Bank of Montreal, Massey Harris, Consolidated Paper and International Paper were also down. Acadia Atlantic, Canadian Car A, Dunlop Farmer and Howard Smith firmed.

Anglo-Canadian Pacific Petroleum, Atlantic Oil, Okalta and Foothills dipped from 5 to 10 cents in the quiet western oils.

Trenton Monarchs Suspended By Belleville Baseball Loop

In nearly three hours of besieged Tuesday evening the executive of the Belleville Baseball League reached two important decisions. The first represented and the cheese each offered were as follows:

The first was the taking of the offs, namely, that the Trenton Monarchs be suspended from further play this season and that the Picton Athletics and the Trenton Flyers meet in the final and deciding game of their series with the winner to represent the Belleville-Quinte League in the Intermediate B OBA playdowns. Several protests against the Picton Athletics, and the RCAF Flyers were aired with nothing being decided due to incomplete records and misunderstandings of one kind and another.

Most of the trouble stemmed from the reclassification of the RCAF Flyers. Originally the Flyers were placed in the Intermediate A but when it was learned that some of the players would be to posted the team applied to the OBA for reclassification to B. The OBA executive held that transfer subject to the approval of the Quinte baseball league after two votes, at a previous meeting granted the switch.

Prior to the above reclassification Trenton Monarchs and Picton had started a series which was to be a four-in-seven affair with Trenton winning the first game 5-2. At the executive meeting held last night John Haffey of the Monarchs claimed that his team was playing that game under the assumption that RCAF had already been granted a ruling and therefore the game should have been granted them. The first game is a round-robin series.

Supported by All

However, at the executive meeting on August 24, was decided that should the Flyers go B that the first Trenton-Picton be washed out. This decision was in line with this decision, that first game be washed and this was supported at Tuesday's meeting by all present but the Trenton management.

In addition to this Picton is claiming that some of the players who by default. Walt Fraser, representing Picton, claimed that Monaghan agreed at the August meeting to abide by the playoff dates but that Bill Gill lamb secretary and that a game scheduled for Thursday, August 26th, in Picton, was washed out and the Picton squad was able to field a team.

Haffey, on behalf of Trenton, stated that the notification of the playoff dates did not reach him until Thursday morning at 8.30 and that on such short notice he was unable to field a team that would have to travel 35 miles and play at 8.30 p.m. Both the managers of the Flyers and the Picton Athletics, stated that they did not receive their notification of playoff dates in the league president's office.

Could set Field Teams

Haffey stated that he called the league president that same morning and advised that Trenton could not field a team and was told that they would not have to play that night, but that they should notify the Picton management. Picton claimed that they were not told that the game could not be played until 3.00 p.m. that day.

Trenton Flyers also protested the use of an ineligible player by the Trenton Monarchs but owing to incomplete records no decision could be rendered on that matter last evening.

It was then suggested by the president that all three teams wash out their previous games and play a round-robin series to determine a B winner for this league in compliance with OBA regulations handed down from the secretary.

Trenton Monarchs and Trenton Flyers were agreeable to the sudden death solution but Picton was not.

Arrangements Come to Grief

Attempts to arrange for the completion of the round-robin series came to grief when the Monarchs stated that they could not field a team on Wednesday evening. Haffey and Picton stated that heavy rain at the canning factories in Prince Edward prevented them from playing Thursday night. Meanwhile Trenton Flyers who have a game scheduled with the Picton Flour City Star squad at the Coe Hill State Fair this evening said that they could not break the date.

A stalemate was reached with the executive unable to break it. At this point the Trenton representatives, stating that they could no play Wednesday evening whatever else the executive decided, walked out of the meeting.

At this point a motion was introduced that amounted to the effect that, "owing to the conduct of the Trenton baseball manager, the league executive has no alternative but to suspend the Trenton Monarchs from the affairs of the season in order to declare a winner for the Belleville-Quinte A playoffs by September 11, as directed by the OBA secretary." This motion was adopted.

It was then decided that the Picton-Flyers game would be played in Belleville Friday night September 10th, with the winners having the right to enter the first round B playoffs as representatives of the Belleville-Quinte League.

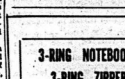
After some further discussion relative to the league's financial status and the advisability of disbanding or not on the executive, the meeting was adjourned.

Peck's Bad Boy Of Leduc Field Still Spitting

Edmonton, Sept. 8.—20 — Atlantic No. 3, the Peck's Bad Boy of the Leduc oil field, was blowing malevolent bursts of flame and rock into the sky today, but the initiative in the battle between the wild well and the men seeking to tame it seems back in the hands of the men.

Fire, visible from outside the fire area, the blaze appeared worse than ever Tuesday night. The pall of smoke, which screened the well when the fire broke out Monday, had lifted and the blazing well — head was clearly visible to observers at South Edmonton, 15 miles away.

But the well's field of activity is gradually shrinking. Huge mounds of earth are being pushed around the well by bull dozers, sealing off the blame from the remaining riches of the $300,000 Leduc oil gusher.



Surface oil, spewed up by the well in its 24-hour rampage, has burned away, leaving leaking ground flames and the heaving well — head itself as the only fire centres.

How long the yellow flames will lick the restricted area left to them is still a matter of guesswork. Field workers today continued Leduc river water into the heart of the well — a task they have been pursuing for months in an effort to choke off the unrefined flow of oil and natural gas that is costing the well owner more than $50,000 a day.

Estimates of how long the job will take range from days to months. Another highly questionable antics of the rogue well which has refused to play ball with its owners since it showered the area with a 150-foot gusher March 8.

Estimate of Apple Crop Higher

Toronto Sept. 8 (CP)—August estimates for the western Ontario apple crop, released today by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food, at 3,067,000 bushels represents an increase of 2.3 per cent over 1947 but is slightly below the July estimate of 3,100,000.

The reduction was attributed to hail damage suffered in orchards in Lambton and Middlesex counties and in the Niagara district. Dry weather affected size in some areas.

The 1948 crop of all varieties of pears is estimated at 262,030 bushels or a decrease of 26 per cent from the 1947 figure of 360,900. In the Niagara district, developments is generally satisfactory due to lack of moisture. In all other districts sizing is good with general freedom from insect and disease damage.

Peaches Need Rain

The peach crop estimate is 1,155,100 bushels, an increase of 25 per cent over the 1947 figures. The main producing area of Niagara is in need of rain to properly develop varieties. Considerable culling is necessary due to Oriental peach moth injury in many orchards.

With harvesting complete, the total cherry crop is estimated at 173,430 bushels, an increase of 47 per cent over 1947. The harvesting of good quality fruit was completed with practically no loss and trees are generally in good condition.

Estimates for grapes are for a crop of 35,700 practically the same as last year. Moisture is needed in the main producing area of Niagara.

Harvesting of raspberries continued over a relatively long period and quality was excellent with total production placed at 2,198,735 quarts an increase of 10 per cent over 1947.

Above-Average Condition

Generally, vegetables show average to above-average condition although cantaloupes, cucumbers and cauliflower have been somewhat affected by dry weather in the Niagara district. Increased interest in commercial acreages of practically all commodities are reported as compared to last year's plantings.

Premier Costello Confirms Report

Ottawa, Sept. 8 (CP) —Premier Costello of Eire Tuesday confirmed a Dublin newspaper report that Eire is preparing to leave the British Relations Act of 1936, thus severing one of Eire's last ties with the British Empire.

Mr. Costello, in a parliamentary press conference, reiterated a statement he made before a meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Montreal that the act was full of "inaccuracies and infirmities" and the only useful left to do was to scrap it.

Under the act, Eire's diplomatic representatives abroad and foreign diplomats to Eire are accredited through the crown. The Dublin Sunday Independent during the weekend said Eire "is going to be formally declared a republic."

At the conference Mr. Costello said there was no reason why Eire could not continue in "association," with Britain. but not in a formal member of the British Commonwealth.

Ireland wanted to stand on its own feet, said the premier. If partition were ended, he was certain Ireland could persuade many of its former citizens to return to the country. During the 1800s Ireland had a population of some 8,000,000 now she was down to 3,000,000.

Partition must end, he said. before Eire would consider entering into a defence pact with the countries of western Europe. He indicated unity of the whole country must be achieved before Eire would consider the defence agreement at all.

Turn Straw Into Newsprint

Holyoke, Mass., Sept. 8 (AP)—Wheat straw has been turned into newsprint, which manufacturers say may result in great savings to publishers if capable of running through high-speed presses. H. L. Kinsley, president of the Holyoke Card and Paper Co., of Cleveland, which developed the process, claims that paper made from wheat straw can be marketed for $80 to $73 a ton. Wood-pulp newsprint costs in the neighborhood of $100 a ton.

WILHELMINA CELEBRATES 50 YEARS OF REIGN

—Central Press Canadian

In 1898, when Queen Wilhelmina was enthroned as ruler of Holland, she gazed between the ranks of an honor guard of young cadets, picturesquely uniformed in the apparel of the period. She is shown passing through that same honor guard as she celebrated her 68th birthday and the 50th year of her reign as she enters the stadium to view a Jubilee play. Princess Juliana, who succeeded her mother as queen when Wilhelmina abdicated earlier this week, is with her cousin and children in the rear of the photo above.

Institute for Blind Appeals for Funds

Blindness is no respecter of persons. It comes to old and young, rich and poor. Among the blind will be found people from every walk of life, and of every racial group and religious persuasion. It may come upon one suddenly and devastatingly, or it may creep on a person slowly, steadily and relentlessly. Whether it is total darkness or only "guiding vision" it is a serious handicap, and makes necessary a great adjustment in one's way of life, and the means of livelihood.

If blindness should come there is one organization to which the afflicted can turn for needed advice, guidance, and the specialized services which are so essential to a person without sight. That organization is The Canadian National Institute for the Blind. It has the experience and the trained personnel to enable the afflicted to make the great adjustment to a changed way of life.

The C.N.I.B. is a private philanthropic agency with two main purposes: to serve the blind in every way possible, and to prevent blindness by providing examination, treatment, and glasses to those who, perhaps, could not otherwise afford them. While the Institute receives recognising grants from the Federal, provincial and municipal governments the greater part of its income is contributed by the generous-hearted Canadian people, whose faith and confidence in this worth-while organization has been growing through the years since its formation in 1918.

The Institute makes only one appeal per year in each community, and these appeals are under the sponsorship of voluntary workers, since there are no paid canvassers. The Hastings County Advisory Board is an example of this type of organization which the Institute has built up. This Board has officers and representatives in the city, and practically all the population centres of south and central Hastings.

The campaign for funds opened in the city yesterday, and it is to be hoped the voluntary workers will meet with the same generous response which the people of this district have extended in former years.

More Light on the Butter Situation

There cannot be much further argument about whether we are to have a butter shortage next Winter. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics puts the matter clearly, and commends the Ottawa Journal, when it states that known stocks on August 1 were more than fourteen million pounds below that date last year, that July production showed a slight decline and that over-all production for the year to date was lower than last year. Add to this the shortage of last year and the high rate at which butter is going into consumption and it all adds up to trouble ahead.

As has been repeatedly pointed out there is no immediate shortage nor is any shortage likely to trouble consumers for months to come. Plenty of butter for current needs is being produced now. The trouble is that not enough surplus is being made to allow storage stocks to accumulate for Winter use.

Panic buying of butter now will not help many consumers. Unless they happen to have unusually good refrigeration facilities they cannot keep butter properly for more than a few days. The real shortage will not commence to be felt till sometime next year, possibly late in January or February. In the meantime there is plenty of butter for the asking—just the same it is evident the amount going into storage is comparatively small, and the trade calls it, is rather alarming — nearly three pounds per capita in July which was the highest in many years.

Stray Dog Menace

A number of townships in Western Ontario report having paid out considerable amounts of money in sheep claims this year, remuneration to owners who have had sheep killed by dogs. Hardly a month passes that such items do not appear in orders on a township treasurer's desk. Farmers trying to build up flocks of sheep are finding it difficult to protect them and are always subject to worry from stray dogs.

The question arises: Are there too many useless dogs at large? We have a great respect for the dog, man's most faithful friend, but there are altogether too many of them roaming the countryside.

We think the law with respect to dogs running at large should be strictly enforced and the sheep be given a fair chance. — Sarnia Observer.

FISH DINNER

What lovers give diamonds' cost
They are set in a ring and are ready to wear,
Bring bouquets; in time, by good fortune enriched,
Give boxes of their wares they don't have to be stitched,
But Fishermen's friends—from the lake or the brook—
Seldom give what fish that are worth while cook.

Having fiddled more than them they're able to eat
Or have room for, labor as though bringing a treat,
Pour out of the water* they've caught in a pail
Not a scale yet removed; still with fins that flail.
And although I am sure it is done with sincere
I don't care for fish that I later must clean.

Not so with Paul Strasburg! When he shares a string,
There are smiles on all faces; the cook starts to sing.
There's warmth in my welcome, for happy am I,
To look over fish that are ready to fry.
The fact that he brings prove the heart of the man,
You can take them and pop them right into the pan.

Globe Involved In Tremendous Social Upheaval

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

This old world of ours is the setting for a vivid narrative of humanity.

I've just been studying headlines in the newspapers and most of the accounts point in the same direction. Everywhere the forces of the "left" and of the "right" are at each other's throats while unhappy "centrists" battle the forces of reaction, the latter swinging too far in either direction.

It needs only a quick appraisal to make it clear virtually the whole globe is involved in a tremendous social upheaval. It takes a deal more than a glance to see the pattern, or guess as to where we are headed.

What's your correspondent off on this speculative line of thought this morning? Well, Princess Nathalie throws by Queen Juliana in the line of heavy artillery Nathalimus, who abdicated because of the weight of years after half a century reign.

Well now, how does Nathalie's abdication affect the constitutional monarchy, for that matter) into the boiling pot of the changing world? We can't forget, of course, that unrest is seething in Hindustan and East Africa, and in what compete severance from the British Commonwealth being so, our question calls for a double-barreled answer.

Empires on Way Out

If The Netherlanders themselves want (as they do) a constitutional monarchy with a parliamentary system, there is no clash with democracy for the Netherlands rules; however, the time is rapidly passing when a nation can exploit colonies for the sake of other race. Empires are on their way out — and fast. Thus Juliana comes to her throne at a moment when the world is breaking up. Perhaps the East Indies may become part of the Dutch commonwealth, but their days as colonies certainly are finished.

That same thing can be said of Britain. It, too, is in the process of the changing times and has granted both India and Burma their independence. She retains colonies, to be sure, but they will become dominions in due course. Meantime, however, Britain herself like the royal house, which thus far hasn't presented any ideological problem for her long experience.

Both the Netherlands and Britain at the moment are politically close to the middle of the road and not in any immediate danger of running royal houses. The real danger to either of the other constitutional monarchies of Europe today are autocracies have been clothed.

This trend among the countries of Europe is significant and can't be taken as conclusive of what the future will produce. The only thing we do know — and we shall be smart not to forget it — is that the world is in the midst of a social upheaval which is going places. However, it might not be rash to say that in demolishing the old and building the new the pendulum will get a fair break.

Attorney-General Will Have Final Say on Exclusion

Washington, Sept. 8 (CP) — Attorney-General Tom Clark will have the final say on the "non-quota" exclusion of nine Communist leaders who were turned back from the border when they applied for visas to the United Electrical Workers convention in Chicago.

An official of the immigration department Tuesday said that in all previous exclusions of this nature—on the grounds that the applicants were members of affiliation with the Communist party—the temporary exclusion has been confirmed by the Attorney-General.

He said action could be expected within 10 days.

The new law, an Act of Oct. 16, 1948, provides for the deportation of aliens who belong to the Communist party.

Edward J. Kelly, Deputy Commissioner for Immigration, said he could not say whether the action which led to the identification of the Canadians as persons to be excluded under the new exclusion law should be applied.

He said they were "tagged" as persons affiliated with the Communist party — "members of the executive council identified with the border."

The nine were headed for the convention of the United Electrical Workers (UE) in Chicago, Sept. 13, when they were detained by officers of the local immigration service.

Vice-President of the Union and head of its Canadian section, Eric Jackson was arrested from Toronto-Buffalo Air Liner plane when he arrived at La Guardia Field in New York. Jackson, who was taken later to the nearby Ellis Island immigration center, was said the others excluded were J. H. Betts, Jr., Detroit; Joseph Selly, Alhambra, David Wallace, Thomas Davies, Thomas Graves, Edward Prichard and Patrick Cullion.

Alleged Leader Of 'Beanery Gang' Given Remand

Toronto, Sept. 8 (CP)— The alleged leader of Toronto's notorious street corner "Beanery Gang" and two of his henchmen were convicted Tuesday at suburban Weston of theft of an automobile without the owner's permission last Aug. 28 and receiving stolen goods. They were remanded until Sept. 15 for sentence.

Convicted were William Porter, 19, described by police as gang leader, Ronald Hewitt, 19, and Ronald Russell, 18.

The alleged charge of automobile theft was reduced and charges of theft of a camera, binoculars, leather wallet and cigaret lighter were dropped.

Trade Minister Will Take Over Chevrier's Dept.

Ottawa, Sept. 8 (CP)— Trade Minister Howe, as acting minister of transport, will take over direct contract with the freight rates issue formerly handled by Minister Chevrier when the latter heads for Paris with the United Nations meeting within the next 12 days.

Chevrier met Tuesday in one of the last meetings under Chairman Hector Dupuis with Board of Transport Commissioners and another boost in the cost of living effected likely tomorrow.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent will take over the duties of Justice Minister Ilsley when the latter leaves for Paris next week. There has been speculation that Ilsley, Canada's Socialist split personality, may be too deep to go overseas, especially if Herridon resigns.

That split, in turn, might take all the Socialists with it, and a so-called third force which has been talked of in Canadian federal politics for months would be born. Communists and the Social Credit Party of Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta and Dr. Gerald Ge Gaulle have been consistently barred from the government.

Now they are both clamoring for power. Both are confident of how they should get that chance. Dr. Gaulle has been promising for a new general elections. His new party, Rassemblement Du Peuple Francais, has not organized when the last assembly was elected.

THE TRICKS OF MEMORY

Many articles have been obtained from my radio or radion (radium emanation) treatment, which seems to shrink the adenoid tissue that obstructs ventilation of the ear, and restores the child's hearing.

My own memory—well, it irks me to think of it. Repeatedly I have suffered so much embarrassment from the sparry, tricky thing that I had to plead the time a business acquaintance was desirous to improve later phoned to ask if I'd be good enough to give him the full name of my sister-in-law whom he wished to write—I groaned and moaned my head with my fist but, having always been quick at names for the lowly, figured if I could tell him offhand what her proper name was, I had to plead an emergency and promised I'd telephone him a little later.

Of course, momentary anxiety passed as soon as I hung up, but I've had it in many other and serious situations. For instance, in important matters, I've sometimes had it happened more than once that I have had to ask the name of one of them. I attribute this to the fact that since childhood I have been afflicted with mono-aural hearing—you know, one-eared. But that's another story.

SCHUMAN CABINET

Fourteen Radical-Socialist deputies voted with the right and left against Schuman on the crucial ballot. Edouard Herriot, an old Radical leader, was elected and now president of the assembly. How into a tearful speech in which he was quitting as head of the party, he denounced as traitors all their Radical nor Socialist, but Conservative.

Radical-Socialists Split

The Radical Socialists have split over Schuman's plan to give the workers an immediate 2,500-franc (about $10) cost-of-living bonus. The national executive committee of French workers' unions had decreed Tuesday against the bonus, which would cost the state 200,000,000 all told.

Radical-Socialist votes against Schuman came mainly from the Communists and Rightists. There were 209 votes against him.

In the normal course, Auriol first called on the left to form a cabinet. The Socialists for a premier, since it is the largest party. But this action caused the Schuman cabinet to fall. Auriol's Socialist split, however, may be too deep to overcome, especially if Herriot resigns.

That split, in turn, might take all the Socialists with it, and a so-called third force which has been talked of in Canadian federal politics for months would be born. Communists and the Social Credit Party of Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta and Dr. Gerald Ge Gaulle have been consistently barred from the government.

Now they are both clamoring for power. Both are confident of how they should get that chance. Dr. Gaulle has been promising for a new general elections. His new party, Rassemblement Du Peuple Francais, has not organized when the last assembly was elected.

BOOK OF BOOKS

As Sir Walter Scott lay on his deathbed, he said: "Bring me the book." They asked him which book he meant. He said, "There is but one book — bring me the Bible."

This was not the frantic attempt of a man who had neglected his spiritual realities to settle matters between himself and God at the last minute. Throughout the whole of his life Sir Walter had been driven by the finest sense of that term. He was the kind of man in whom we can well believe that the Lord takes delight. So he knew what he was doing about the Book when he called for the Book. He had known much trouble during his long weary years, and the Bible had comforted him. He had attained great fame, and the wise counsel of God's Word could help him humble. He needed courage often, and he found it set forth in the pages of the Book.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path" (Ps. 119:105). "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God: and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness" (II Timothy 3:16).

"There is but one book," cries this man who was so truly good. There is but one book, cries the pilgrimage, his lamp in seasons of darkness. This is the book which he called for the Book that it might extend him its good benediction.

Jack Holley Named Building, Plumbing Inspector of City

Appointment of Jack Holley, local plumber, as building and plumbing inspector for the city of Belleville, was approved by city council Tuesday evening. Four applications for the position had been received with Mr. Holley receiving the majority vote of council.

Under the terms of his contract Mr. Holley will act as building inspector until the proposed plumbing by-law is passed and then will have the dual duty. Salary is to be $200 per month with a $25 allowance per month for use of his car.

Members of the local traffic committee were appointed as representatives to act on a joint committee to deal with the construction of the proposed four-lane highway from Trenton to Belleville. Appointment of the committee was asked by the Chamber of Commerce.

Prepare Boundary Line

Ontario Land Surveyor, T. J. Ransom, was authorized to prepare a boundary description of the county home property recently purchased by the city. Estimate of the cost is to be given council before the work is commenced.

Council referred back to committee a recommendation of the special property committee that a parcel of city-owned land east of the Alliance Tabernacle on Moira Street, West, be sold to a party wishing to erect a small factory. A petition from Dufferin Ave. residents for the construction of a sidewalk was referred to the city clerk for checking.

City Solicitor Pringle was authorized to defend the city's interests in a court action arising out of the purchase by the city of a highway sign from the Junior Board of Trade. An amount of $211 was stated to be owing on the account by the Junior Board of Trade and this organization is being sued for payment.

Must Remove Posts

Front Street residents and residents in other business sections of the city will be advised that hydro garbage pails are to be removed from sidewalks before ten o'clock in the morning. If owners do not pick up the pails they will be picked-up by the Public Works Department.

A recommendation calling for the city clerk to determine from the Municipal Board as to whether the city by-law changing membership of the Public Utilities Commission from three to five members is valid without a vote of the people, was defeated.

Under inquiries Alderman Ailin wanted to know if the contract for installation of laterals for sanitary sewers in the Parkwood Heights area had yet been let. He was informed that specifications had not yet been prepared. The Alderman also wanted to know why new streets were not being oiled, claiming the city was wasting money by having gravel and dust blown off the streets in reply Alderman Hyde stated no oil was available.

In Bad Condition

The alderman also brought up the fact that College Street was in bad condition following excavations. The road should be fixed, he said. Alderman Hyde said he had contacted Jamieson township officials regarding the road and nothing could be done until sewer mains were installed.

Alderman Ailin also asked if it were correct that traffic lights at the corner of Coleman and Bridge had been ordered taken out by the Highway Department. Mayor Storey replied that this was correct, the Department claiming the traffic lights created a menace at the intersection.

Alderman Tice wanted to know who was paying for pipe line repairs across the Moira River. Mayor Storey stated he understood it had been a contract job and the company was responsible.

Wants Water Line

Alderman Duffy asked if it would be possible to extend a summer waterline to the city dump to enable the caretaker to extinguish fires. Under the present system firemen were called to dump fires, a procedure which he termed a "silly waste of time." Alderman Hyde stated the matter would be investigated.

Alderman Lazenby asked why school signs on the West Hill had not been erected as was ordered by council. He also asked regarding the disposition of a complaint by a South Foster Ave. resident that the construction of Ted's Restaurant had cut off his view.

In reply Mayor Storey stated efforts to effect an agreement between the two parties concerned had proven fruitless and reminded Alderman Lazenby that he had been a member of the council which approved of the building.

Committee Named to Investigate Zwick's Island as a Park Site

Zwick's Island as a potential park site to be improved and operated by the city, was discussed in council Tuesday evening when several of the aldermen were loud in the disapproval of present park conditions in the city.

The discussion was started by Alderman Lattimer following the reading of a Parks Board report in which it was shown that the city had approximately $1,000 of the parks board appropriation had thus far been spent on Exhibition Park.

Mr. Lattimer asked for that report, stated the Alderman, "It shows that most of the board's money appropriation is being spent on the exhibition park. This city is not maintaining a park system merely for the playing of baseball."

Alderman Ailin agreed that the city parks system was in bad shape and stated they were drawing unfavorable comment from visitors to the city. Of course money should not be spent on Exhibition Park. Some of the other parks should get some attention —Victoria Park for instance, there is no water there now."

Waste of Money Claim

"I don't see the use of spending money on Victoria Park," interjected Alderman Lazenby, "Victoria Park will never be a decent park until we get a sewage disposal plant."

Here Alderman Lattimer asked regarding Zwick's Island, stating that this site had been talked of for many years but nothing had been done.

"I would say to sell Zwick's Island to private interests who are willing to develop a recreational park," stated Alderman Armstrong. "Then the city could realize on any cost to the taxpayer."

Alderman Ailin was of the same opinion stating that the Island be sold and use the money for other park sites.

Opposed to Selling

Alderman Tice was opposed to selling the site claiming the city should spend money on the area and make it a real beauty spot. Alderman Brown was of the same opinion, stating that Zwick's Island was the only natural park site left in the city. "I suggest a ways and means committee be appointed to investigate the possibilities. A beach could be made there. The city property is all there."

Here Alderman Lattimer mentioned that a petition is now circulated about in the city to have the proposed community centre on the Zwick's Island property. The petition proposed by the Inter-Service Club would, if signed by ratepayers, The idea would get public support, he said.

As suggested by Alderman Brown, Alderman Ailin, Alderman Lattimer, Lummiss and Brown was named to investigate the possibilities of Zwick's Island.

Unemployment Fund Now Totals $500,000,000

Ottawa, Sept. 5 —(CP)— Payment of unemployment insurance could continue at its present level for at least two years of a stiff depression, a government official said today.

Disclosing the insurance fund is now $500,000,000 Col. J. J. Bisson, head of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, said the back-log is large enough to endure a period of low employment.

If 20 per cent of those employed—now 4,000,000—were out of work, Col. Bisson declared in an interview, payments of insurance payments could go on for between two and three years."

At the height of the depression after the First World War, the corresponding unemployment figure was 23 per cent.

However, Col. Bisson said that if a period of unemployment persisted for a long time, he imagined the unemployment insurance scheme would need further government assistance to keep going.

It is financed by employee-employer contributions, with the government contributing one-fifth of the total of that intake. Also, the Dominion bears the administration costs, amounting to about $17,000,000 a year.

In almost exactly seven years' operation up to July 31, total revenue under the plan has been $604,365,000 and benefit payments $131,324,000. This has left a balance of $473,171,000.

Harsh Realities Face Youngster in Morning

School has really started with a vengeance for one little Belleville lad.

Walking sleepily into the kitchen this morning rubbing his eyes and hitching up his sagging pyjamas the little fellow was greeted up with a start — "Spell 'necessary,'" commanded his mother.

Pencil and paper were shoved into his weary fist as he sank onto a chair. "c-e-c-e . . . he pencilled laboriously. "Then he yawned. "Hurry up," said mother, "there are ten more."

"I do this," explained the anxious mother, "because he's so much brighter in the mornings. The mistakes he makes in spelling the night before, he always gets again in the morning."

BEAUTY

By HELEN JACKSON

HAND BEAUTY POSSIBLE TO EVERY WOMAN

One night recently in the Gay Nineties as the era of women's compression. Her waist was compressed in a steel girdle commonly known as the corset. She popped out above and bulged below her waistline, but that eighteen-inch waist deserves a little credit.

She bandaged her neck with tight, whalebone collars. She bought shoes two sizes too small to "break them in," a period of agony. No doubt about it her shoes were much too full of feet.

She wore shirt-tail gowns that took an unbelievable time to get on. She packed herself in layer after layer of wardrobe. The policy of expansion applied only to her bust and hers she wore the limit.

Hands were supposed to be small, white and dimpled. Large ones were a disgrace. We have come a long way from those ideas now. Hands should look strong and capable. They should be well cared for, their charm is not only in lovely skin texture, but in graceful movements. They speak a language of their own.

Observe what women do with their hands during a social evening. It is a game that is fun to play. You may pick up some interesting ideas to use. You also should do with yours when you realize what they are doing.

Let us take a look at the sweet, young girl. Her hands are cupped around her face, her head rests upon them. She is the picture of wistfulness. She is unconsciously emphasizing her pose because a good-looking male is in the offing. Her hands rule in the attempt to draw away from the face. And from the hair, too, for girls like to twiddle with curls. Twisting with their hair are either self-conscious, vain or they are nervous.

Nervousness is also present when the fingers play with a handball or a rough nail saves. Fingertwidding is a confession of interest a pretty one. During conversation it distracts others' attention from the face. Girls like twiddling their own fingers. Poise is the rule, poise and ease of movement.

The gay nineties might be called the era of women's compression.

Never fold your hands or arms against your body. That attitude suggests figure upset rigid and unyielding. Often it pulls the shoulders forward, giving them an awkward, ugly line. Clasping the hands behind the back denotes lack of affectation.

We judge individuals by "the hand they offer. A limp response shows lack of social grace. The friendly woman will give a friendly pressure.

Even chatting with friends, let the hands be relaxed in your lap, or placed reposedly on the arms of chair, some women can't talk without waving their arms about. It's ridiculous to say that that shouldn't be done. It depends upon the type of woman, and the way she uses her hands. She may use a shoulder shrug, she may just about drive you nuts. Everything depends.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa (CP) — If the housewife wants to keep on friendly terms with her food budget these days, careful saving is necessary.

And when it comes to providing the family with well-balanced meals, the national health and welfare department claims that money isn't everything.

In fact "a low - cost assortment of foods may give better returns in nutrition and health than a more expensive one," says the department in its new 32-page booklet on "Healthful Eating."

Canada's health rules the booklet contains charts on the food values of various common foods.

It also runs the gamut in diet from what the pre-school child should eat for breakfast, down to the kinds of food Grandma should have for dinner.

In addition it outlines several "low cost" menus which run from blue tone, very good looking to top winter standard and cut a figure that will look well over both tailored and soft clothes. The coat is particularly smart in shape for 1949.

By FRUNELLA WOOD

This is American broadtail, a hardy sheared lamb, and when cut into a worldly silhouette it gets around with the most precious furs. Here Esther Breed has dyed the broadtail a midnight blue tone, very good looking to top winter standard and cut a figure that will look well over both tailored and soft clothes. The coat is particularly smart in shape for 1949.

For the school - child, "the provision of an adequate noon meal is most important."

The teen - age should continue to eat the same type of food as those eaten by younger children, "but should eat considerably larger quantities so that the greatly increased energy needs are met."

When it comes to careful food buying, the health department has the following suggestions:

1. Buy food in as large quantities as possible and buy in bulk rather than fancy packages.

2. Fresh foods usually are cheapest and most nutritious when bought in season.

3. Locally grown fruits and vegetables usually are the least ex-

It's Back to Days Of Scarlett O'Hara In Evening Styles

New York, Sept. 8 — (CP) — It's back to the days of Scarlett O'Hara in women's evening styles, according to the fashion designers at Jay Thorpe.

However, that is only one aspect of the new fall collection shown to the press Tuesday.

Departing from frothy bustles, bell-shaped skirts, peaniery and hooped petticoats, the designer switched to slim knitted gowns with tailored lines.

One, a beige-and-gold dinner dress, has imported French gold buttons and buttonhole, faced in bronze taffeta, slashed several times to the knees.

There are knitted suits and afternoon dresses as well, with a multitude of detail knitted into them.

Bearing a striking resemblance to tweed was a black-and-red wool suit with high collar and cutty-corner pockets. A cats-and-ball afternoon dress, strapless, had jewels knitted into the skirt all the same.

Some fur coats were shown in the collection, most being from the Canadian supply from the conventional fur coat styles.

A coat, Persian lamb was the source of inspiration for a black bouclé with a high collar, full back and silver buttons.

Capes were represented by a black velvet with the mink design running circularly around the shoulders and vertically from the shoulder down.

pensive.

Even the cheaper cuts of meat are as high in food value as the more expensive ones, provided their weight is not due to bone and gristle.

Every Man Has His Breaking Point - A Sad Story With a Happy Ending

By R. U.

Hardrock R. Crusher, the First, became slightly miffed one night several years ago and subsequently blew up two trestles and three miles of railroad track with a home-made atomic bomb. Hardrock is living alone at the government expense, and will continue to do so for the next fifty years.

The story concerning Hardrock is a long one that we shall tell in its entirety. It began innocently enough when the executive of the Flathead Express Railway decided to build the line two miles from the Crusher hacienda. Old man Crusher, who had slaved for years in a boiler works and was almost stone deaf, weakened slightly at a $50,000 bribe and consented to have the line built.

However, the line was no sooner completed and in operation when Crusher discovered that he could not sleep because of the noise of the whistles. He asked politely that the executive of the Flathead Express Railway consist in blowing the whistles. The executive just chuckled. Then the Crusher by the clause since the old man had failed to read the paragraph in invisible ink at the bottom of the contract which stated that the blowing of whistles, the more piercing the better, was mandatory.

Crusher Irritated

Crusher was irritated but there was nothing he could do. He pointed out to the man in charge that the train could not leave the track, (at least was the impression that he had received after watching for several years) and that if stuffed more than ridiculous that a big snorting machine like an engine needed the devil's blow pipe to clear a bit of track not five feet wide. He explained that a silent warning sign was just as effective as an imitation banshee and that if people were so stupid that they blundered into the path of a train, it was only poetic justice.

These little points were laughed off by the board of directors, most of whom lived out in the country about umpteen miles away from a medium sized railroad, let alone an engine. They thought that old man Crusher was tinkering his dotage and that the line was making him irritable. Besides, the employees working on the night shift loved the howling because it dispelled their lonely nest.

A Determined Man

Crusher was a determined man and when he returned from the asylum after a temporary loss of sanity caused by lack of sleep, he vowed that he would do something. He did. He wrote a nasty letter to the president of the railway challenging him to a duel with shotguns at ten paces if he persisted in ordering the sounding of whistles and the clanging of bells after ten o'clock.

This attempt at forcing a solution was brought to nought when the president replied that he was a fisherman and not a sheet shooter.

Crusher hung on grimly all through a beastly spring but he reached the breaking point one hot summer night just after midnight.

It had been a long, long day, started rather early by the blast of a railway whistle. At 4.00 a.m. Crusher leaped out of bed and spent the next five hours pressing spikes with his fingers to soothe his ravaged nerves.

At noon he was partly mollified by a raw steak and a take powder of old razor blades. He did not mind the whistling during the afternoon too much but by 7.30 that night he was ready for bed. And then the fun started.

Floor Heaved Badly

Just as Crusher was dozing off, the floor heaved badly to port as the Flathead Flyer came to within the bridge and came to a noisy ball-jangling stop. When the train pulled out half an hour later, taking its infernal bell with it, Crusher slowly sank back into the arms of Morpheus.

A sarsaphilling whistle sent the temperature up ten degrees in Crusher's room and when he had climbed down from the chandelier he felt that the time for action could not be lost. He descended into his basement and emerged an hour later carrying a battery, evil smelling package that eventually was fastened to mile-high trestle. Several smaller bundles of similar nature were deposited for more than a mile on either side of the trestle and then Crusher waited.

Rest is History

The rest is history. At exactly 2.00 a.m. a train approaching the trestle sounded its whistle and the whole abutment went up in a spectacular explosion that awakened the country for miles.

Crusher was arrested to bed the following morning snoring peacefully. At the trial Crusher's only comment was "I'd do it again in a minute."

Crusher's lawyer entered a plea of mil defence and when the judge was pronounced at 25 years he returned a verdict of not guilty. Crusher was then declared insane, him a hero and today he is living on a government pension. His home has been made into a memorial and the Flathead Express Railway has used nothing but rubber tired coaches ever since.

Pennant Fever is Soaring In Pittsburg for First Time Since 1938 as Bucs Now Second

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Pennant fever is spreading throughout Pittsburgh for the first time since 1938.

Not since the Pirates blew the pennant to Chicago Cubs 20 years ago in the last week of the season has a pirate entry been a strong contender for the flag at this stage of the race.

The flag-hungry Pirates are in second place today, four games behind the league-leading Boston Braves.

Manager Billy Meyer's hustling crew wrested the runner-up slot from the Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday night, beating the thundering St. Louis Cardinals 6-3. The Dodgers who were idle trail the Pirates by .0007 of a percentage point.

Fritz Ostermueller, one time property of both Brooklyn and St. Louis stopped the Cardinals on seven hits as the Pirates made it three in a row over the Cardinals.

Ostermueller held the Cards scoreless until the ninth when Don Lang followed a single by Stan Musial with his fourth home run of the season.

The loss cut the Cards' fourth place margin over the New York Giants to a half game. The Giants were both ends of a doubleheader from the Phils in Philadelphia, 6-5 and 8-3 in 11 innings.

Sid Gordon sparked the Giants to both triumphs. The slugging third sacker cracked two doubles and drove in three runs in the first game and broke up the second when he belted his 30th homer with a mate aboard in the 11th inning. Gordon also sent the game into overtime, singling home Cliff Hedley with the tying run in the ninth inning.

The setbacks dumped the Phils from sixth to last place.

No games were scheduled in the American League.

60 Aspirants For McGill Team Out to Practice

By The Canadian Press

More than 60 players applied for berths on the 1948 edition of McGill University Redmen football club for the first practice session Tuesday at Molson Stadium, Montreal.

Of the players were put through a two-hour scrimmage and drill with a light workout scheduled for Wednesday.

Holdovers from last year's squad which finished third in the Intercollegiate Football League include Murray Hayes, Doug Heron, Rocky Rochford and Lorne Daggett. Newcomers include Ronny Sharp, formerly with Ottawa Trojans of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Two Cape Breton hockey players, Hughie Campbell of Sydney and Elmer MacGillivary of Reserve Mines, have been invited to attend Lake Placid, N.Y., training camp of the New York Rangers. They will train this weekend to take part in Rangers workouts.

Both were star forwards with Halifax St. Mary's Juniors for the last three years.

The 1948 International Snowshoes Convention will be held in Montreal some time in January, it was announced at Sherbrooke, Que., during the weekend at an executive meeting of the association. Last year's convention was held at Quebec.

An important four-day race meeting is opening at Lancaster, Eng., Wednesday, but it's the finish of everyone is waiting for. The King is scheduled to leave Saturday from Balmoral Castle, for the St. Leger stakes, last of England's three-year-old classics. Besides boasting the fattest purse of English racing, the St. Leger also has added interest for the King in a royal entry—his filly, Aliabella.

The Indiana State Fair's grand circuit program got off to a belated start Tuesday at Indianapolis, with four 1,500 events run in the mud. Winners were: 13 class race —So Long, 2 class trot—Volupton; 23 class pace — Major Castle; 2 class pace—Mighty Cox.

Some National League pitchers won't believe it but Stan Musial is human, too. The great St. Louis Cardinal outfielder is suffering his first big slump of the season.

Musial lost 13 points during the last eight days including Monday's doubleheader when he went eight for nothing. He collected only four hits in 28 chances and dropped from 3.52 to 3.469.

Despite the posedive, he still is far in front of his league's batting race. Teammate Country Slaughter maintained his .325-mark and his grip on second place.

Marcel Cerdan boxed only four rounds Tuesday at Loch Sheldrake, N.Y., but he intensified his training program in other directions for his 15-round middleweight title fight with Tony Zale in Roosevelt Stadium Sept. 21. Rocky Caffarello and Jimmy Manno were the next two rounds with the Frenchman.

The torrid American League pennant race has its counterpart in the battling championship feud between Boston's Ted Williams and Cleveland's Lou Boudreau, separated by only three points. Williams, who at one we Junctures this season, threatened to run away with his fourth hitting title, Tuesday led Tribe boss Boudreau by only .370 to .367. With less than four weeks of the season to go, the swat battle is strictly between Williams and Boudreau.

Cornwall Fiyers spotted Ottawa Ste. Anne's six goals Tuesday night and went on to win, 20-17, in the third game of their best-of-seven series for the Eastern Ontario Lacrosse title. Cornwall leads 2-1 in games. The rest will be played in Cornwall and Alexandria.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 3 — (AP) — A big cigar and an intent look decorated Ted Schroeder's rough-hewn face as he sat in the marquee at Forest Hills and watched Frankie Parker making hash out of Australia's Adrian Quist in the final 1948 Davis Cup match Tuesday. He was frankly puzzled over the United States' easy victory . . . "We know we are good, but were not that good," he murmured. "We were playing over our heads' . . . Schroeder refused to agree with the theory that Davis Cup competition should be abandoned, for a few years, until a new crop of players develops . . . "We were down for a good many years, but we didn't give up and we got the cup back" he insisted. "This is a great international contest and the only way you can develop young players is to have them play . . . but maybe we can't for some of us to step aside and let younger players develop."

To the Fotal

Schroeder's theory is that there was just one point between the lopsided challenge round and close series — maybe even an Australian victory . . . If Jack Bromwich had been in there it would have been different. We would have lost the doubles and he might have beaten me or Parker . . . But both of us — myself . . . Bromwich was only one point away from winning at Wimbledon and if he had won there, the Australian Association would have invited him to play here . . .

With baseball being pushed off the sports pages by the early advent of football, it should come as a surprise to no fans, that today we shall have a "Football Edition". This unique scramble was brought about by the announcement, that today, Bill Hunt, local hockey player with city juvenile and senior "B" sounds for the post now at Hyde Park, Ont., to take art Ice Secretary, and the hockey wars go well promoted by Claude Kenley.

The Scottish Hockey League, which is staffed almost exclusively by Canadian players, opens its 39-game schedule on September 18. Hence the advanced departure of this year's squads. This season, ninety young hockey players from all over Canada, with the exception of Scotland, will be greeted by several of the boys who went over last year and who, for sundry reasons, including the scenery and the football girls, are still there.

Young Hurst who started his hockey playing with the local juveniles, graduated two years ago in the Junior "B" ranks and completed two seasons with them. Last season he tried out with Cobi Rochats of the Junior "A" OHA league. Last May 15, he tried out in Toronto for a berth with one of the teams going to Scotland, and was included among the ninety players picked from 600 who reported. Who were at the tryout school. He will play with the Dundee Tigers.

Of the ninety who will make the trip this season, sixty are slated to go by boat with the remaining thirty going over by plane. Hurst is one of the thirty in the flight that leaves Malton airport today.

In addition to the several scheduled league games, the Tigers will play an exhibition series in Europe starting in January with stops to be made in England, France and Switzerland. All are headed for Scotland from this area are Joe Ahkins and Tom Goodfellow of Kingston.

Coe Perdue, writing in the Peterborough Examiner, states that "It appears improbable that Peterborough will be having a pro club for baseball, football or hockey this season in Riverside Park before any pre circuit will show interest."

Believing that the prospect for a pro team in the foreseeable future are anything but clear,

A gentle man, who prefers to keep his identity a secret, was a sudden'n man Tuesday morning after an experience that would have brought tears to a less stout heart. It seems that Monday evening he went to his cabin along the lake shore sometime after the new moon had well set, and was not settling in well himself, when he retired to a shadowy spot, was rudely awakened at 6.00 a.m. by an ear-splitting rekel which he dimly determined was the alarm clock.

He rose, shakily, and was groping blindly in the pantry when his hand encountered a bottle of a brand of fruit Juice. He sipped with the soothing nectar and had consumed half of it when it dawned on him, with sickening haste, that what he was pouring into his protesting stomach, was a strong dose of vinegar. Oh well, every man to his own tastes.

Oshawa Hunters, who succumbed to Toronto Earlscourt in the first game of their Junior OBA playdowns last Saturday, repeat what the Earlscourt pilots did in the 9-inch battle by the name of Resch, throws that ball like a pea. Resch, who is needed, is a big league prospect, rumored 17 Oshawa batters. Yipe!

Brantford Flyers took the Inter-County Junior OBA title last Saturday defeating Guelph 6-0.

BITS AND PIECES:

Jerry Hyde and Austin Watkins, two of the younger bowlers at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club take off tomorrow morning for Toronto, and the Globe and Mail's Scotch doubles....Even as this edition hits the streets the Toronto Athletics will be taking on their second round opponents in the Intermediate "A" OHA playdowns at Miles Wadsel Stadium in Toronto. Game starts at 4.30 p.m. with the return game to be arranged with the conveyer....Napanee Legion downed Markham 12-11 the other day in the first game of their series for the championship of Lennox and Addington and the right to enter the Intermediate "C" playdowns. Philadelphia's Phenomenal Phillies, those amazing Athletics who surprised everyone during the first three quarters of the AL race, have a bit the phils and are now deep in fourth place, 9 1-2 games off the pace. . . Pittsburgh's astounding Pirates, no doubt aware of the Phillies' pennant scrambling syllabics, are making a real challenge in the National League. . . Billy Meyers' boys, who were picked at the start of the season to finish near the second division, are now in third place 1-3 a game behind the Bums and four and a half away from the pace-setting Braves. . . The 5-4 whitewash which the U.S. Davis Cuppers handed the Aussies is said to have surprised the head of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association. It surprised the Australian team, too, judging by their post-game predictions. It looks as though the hopes of the other challengers rests in the hands of the promoters who might help international tennis more than they know by hiring ten or fifteen of the nation's best netters. Then the competition might not be so one sided. . . And the youngster in the geography class, when asked where Cleveland was, said, third in the American League, period.

Hamilton Tigers Will Have Young Team in League

By TOMMY MOORE

Hamilton, Ont. Sept. 7 (CP)—Hamilton Tigers embark on their first Ontario Rugby Football Union campaign with the youngest team in the history of the club that switched from the Big Four Union to the O.R.F.U. this year.

Playing coach Frank Filchock, committee room storm centre last season when the Tigers placed last in the Big Four, has plunched 11 players from Hamilton junior ranks for the 33 man squad which opens its scheduled season at home next Saturday against Windsor Rockets.

Filchock, one of the outstanding forward passers in United States professional football before he was suspended after the 1946 season and came to Canada and teamed Joe Bloomingdale from Pittsburgh are the team's only certain American imports.

Juniors making their fling at senior football include backfielders Ralph Smith, Gerry Walsh, Jack Stewart, Joe Capriotti. Tom Hickey who didn't play last season, Rudy Manorek, Charley Harrison, Joe Chilcott and Bert Tipoff, former Toronto player. Then there is young George Ferbergya who looked in some solid work at quarterback last season in his first senior season.

Three top notch players are trying out to snapback — Jake Gaudaur, who was with Montreal Alouettes last season, Louis Defrancisco and Bill O'Brien, veteran linemen include George Zarek Eddie Bevan. Pat and Al Santucci, Eddie Bumbacco, Dan Defrancisco, Stan Wolkowski, all from the Tigers and Jack Strachan, Ray Jones and Leo Biant, with Hamilton Wildcats for the last two seasons.

CUBS SIGN LYNCH

Chicago, Sept. 8 — (AP)—Chicago Cubs announced Tuesday night the signing of Danny Lynch Jr., 21-year-old shortstop, who was made a free agent by baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler last week.

Chandler freed Lynch from his Pittsburgh contract when investigations revealed the Pirates paid his father, Mr. Dan Lynch, Sr., $600 as half a year's advance salary as a one-year's contract as a scout.

BRITAIN'S BRAWNY BOY . . By Alan Mayer

Unicycle, Tricky to Ride, But Provides Lots of Fun

Here is a suggestion for those who are way, way down on the new car lists and are still cherishing the dream of riding. Buy a unicycle. Yes, a unicycle, one of those one wheeled contrivances that are standard props in circuses and exhibits on accident prevention.

"They are tricky to ride," states John Baxter, Montreal high school student who was visiting in the city recently, "but they are a lot of fun as well."

And John should know, because he is one of the four former pedestrians in Montreal who has been converted to this mode of travel.

"One of my chums in high school took one last year and I decided that I would like to own one, for the novelty of nothing else," he states. "So I bought this one about a month ago and since then I figure I have been in the saddle about six hours. It's a tricky thing to ride. There is no gear and all the thrust is straight down.

Asked how one manages to gain forward speed John stated that the rider leans forward and then pumps the pedals to keep the wheel under him.

"You never know when the wheel is likely to dart out from under you," he said. "To turn, the rider swings his body and in going around corners one just leans over to one side or the other."

John's cycle was specially built for him by a bicycle repair man in Montreal and represents a cash outlay of $75. The single tire, which takes quite a beating, is made of heavy 30 pound pressure, and replacements are frequent. The saddle, which is very deep and narrow has a built up horn at its forward end and lacks only a lariat, a seabard, and a clinching strap, to double as a real Western seat.

Frequent Spills

The cycle, which is painted in alternate white and black rings, has been freed from a considerable portion of its paint by the frequent spills of its rider.

"It took me two and a half hours to learn to ride 50 feet in a straight line," John confides, "and it will take about twenty hours to learn to ride backwards." Already the man is thinking of riding backwards!

The unicycle, in addition to its singular characteristics is also free from any Montreal traffic ordinance. It is not a bicycle, a wagon, or a car.

"The police keep us in the street though," John says, although they are clearly confused by it all."

"One of the best things about the cycle is the number and variety of comments which it draws from spectators," John states. "Since first appearing on the streets with it I have been approached by several persons who have said that they once rode unicycles in the circus. They would have tried it again but they were all out of practice."

Won Few Bets

"I have won a few bets with it too," he says, peering anxiously over his shoulder for signs of the Montreal vice squad, no doubt. "I won a dollar from a man who said that I couldn't ride it" and three girls, who bet me a quarter, failed to pay off."

While in Belleville John bought a licence for his cycle. Although there was no information concerning the assessing of unicycles readily available, he was capable business personalities in the city hall charged him the going rate for bicycle licences and let it go at that.

When asked what gave him the perseverance to learn to ride this unusual vehicle, John said that in the circus, bears rode bicycles and that if a bear could ride a bicycle, he could certainly ride a unicycle.

Steve Wozniak Favored to Win Lake George Swim

Lake George, N.Y., Sept. 8 — (AP) — With a gigantic splash 136 marathon swimmers plunge into Lake George at 10 a.m. for the start of a 12-mile swim for $6,000 in prizes.

The swimmers of both sexes, many of them with backgrounds for the long pull, enter the water at Bolton landing. The swim from there to the dock in Lake George village is expected to take from eight to 10 hours.

Prizes range from $1,500 for the winner down to $250 for any swimmer who completes the course. The Drew Pearson Trophy also will be awarded to the winner and the Grantland Rice Trophy will go to the first woman finisher.

Favorite is Steve Wozniak, 33-year-old Buffalo veteran. He outdistanced a field of 54 last Friday in winning $5,000 first prize in the 21-mile Canadian National Exhibition marathon at Toronto.

Clarence Mc Phee of Bridgeport, Conn., who, at 68, has rounded out half a century of long-distance swimming. Annually, for the last 30 years, McPhee has negotiated the 10-12-mile course on a lake near his home.

Chicago Hawks Open NHL Season Against Detroit

Montreal, Sept. 8 (CP) — The National Hockey League announced today a 130-game schedule for 1948-49 which sends Chicago Black Hawks into Detroit for an Oct. 13 meeting with the Red Wings in the earliest season opening joust on record.

New York Rangers meet Canadiens in Montreal the following night and by Saturday, Oct. 16 all six teams will have played. Toronto plays host to Boston and Canadiens do likewise for Chicago on October 16.

Opening game of the Boston season is October 20. New York and Chicago make their initial appearance on home ice Oct. 27.

The 60-game season closes March 20, with all six teams playing that night. A year ago the N.H.L. season opened October 15 and finished March 21.

Toronto Maple Leafs play two games in two nights on 19 occasions. Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks also play 17 such double headers. Boston Bruins and New York Rangers each play 16 times on successive nights with Rangers playing three games in as many nights at one stage of the race.

Of Toronto's 30 home games 23 are on Saturday, 4 on Wednesday being scheduled for Wednesdays. Montreal Canadiens have 19 Saturday dates, with the remaining 11 Canadien home games on Saturday.

Chicago plays 17 Sunday night games, one more than New York and two more than Detroit.

Boston's 30 home games are split up into 15 games each on Wednesdays and Sundays and four on Saturdays. Detroit Red Wings play 15 contests at the Detroit Olympia on Sundays.

Double Triumph Moves Chiefs Back Into Fourth Place

(By The Associated Press)

Kermit Wahl, 26-year-old infielder from Syracuse Chiefs, continues to demonstrate that he will be in the running for a berth with the parent Cincinnati Reds next spring.

Wahl who can play either short or third, was considered a tight hitter until this season. His current batting average of .250 and impressive but his extra-base output has surpassed his previous best marks in every department by a wide margin.

Among Wahl's 122 hits are 20 homers, 8 doubles and two triples, baggers. In addition, he has driven in 74.

Wahl enjoyed a big night at the plate Tuesday night as the Chiefs moved into the first division by scoring 5-1 and 16-1 triumphs over the last - place Baltimore Orioles.

Catcher Wahl socked two homers and drove in four runs to allow Tommy Hughes to coast to his second victory. Hughes limited the Orioles to four hits.

Wahl belted his 20th four-bagger in the nightcap, the blow coming in the eighth inning with two mates aboard. Austin Knickerbocker also collected a three-run homer for the Chiefs.

The triumphs moved the Chiefs back into fourth place, half a game ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs and a game and a half over third-place Rochester Red Wings, who, along with the rest of the league, were idle.

Zale Predicts He Will Flatten Cerdan in Five

Chicago, Sept. 8 — (AP) — Middleweight champion Tony Zale left today for his Jersey City N. J., battle with Marcel Cerdan Sept. 21 with the uncertain prediction that it will take him at least five rounds to flatten the French challenger.

"I understand Cerdan is a come-on-in fighter," said the sturdyGary, Ind., belter as he wound up preliminary work for the 15 - round title go. "If he is, I'll tag him for keeps around the fifth round."

This was a distinct change from Tony's pre-fight comment on his rubber bout with Rocky Graziano at Newark last June.

Then, the 26-year-old "Man of Steel" declared in his best phlegmatic manner that he would knock out the then - champion Graziano in three rounds. No ifs, ands, or buts about it.

And that's exactly what Zale did in regaining the title from the Rock in the finals of their fierce three-bout series.

Banks won the righthanded pitching berth easily, drawing 21 votes, Bob Porterfield now with New York Yankees, was second with nine.

Syracuse's Frank Fanovich earned the southpaw mound berth. Fanovich drew 11 votes with Jersey City's Jack Kraus next with six.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Akosiay Cupert insults his own bridge intelligence. He has the makings of a capable player. But he handicaps himself. This he does by adopting senseless interpretations of unsound bids.

One of his current pet foibles is prolific use of that oddity known as an exploratory one club opening. It is an opening bid or one club with or without a biddable club suit.

This is a screwball bid that started out as an exception. But he makes a rule of it. It may come in handy once in 1000 cases. He applies it in 99 out of 1000.

His opening was one club with the hand you see here:

♠A 10 6
♥A Q J 5
♦K Q 6 2

You may well believe it was not the right kind of a club suit for such a bid. It is not the right kind of a hand for such a wrong opening. It is a deliberate misuse of a bad bid.

The result was disastrous for his pair. It turned out that his partner got no chance to learn his distribution. They wound up in the worst contract for their side. And it cost plenty.

Correct opening bid with this hand is one heart. Next round it shows the diamond suit. Thus will partner be told the true division of its cards. Only thus can he decide his best co-operation.

There are circumstances under which a wrong one club bid may be used. This is not one of them. It must not be used when the hand has a true bid. Nor should it be used by a player who does not know why.

The original fault for the use of this phony bid lies with the experts who suggested it. They should have made it plain that this is an emergency bid for a peculiar situation.

For more than a decade I have been running into players who use the one club exploratory opening. Few take time to discover its cost. Less know its original purpose. May be I should tell you.

By HOWARD C. HEYN

Hollywood, Sept. 8 (AP) —"I like stories about guys who get knocked around," tall, raw-boned Robert Ryan told me, "because most people do get knocked around."

He was referring to his forthcoming picture. "The Set-up," about a declining boxer. "Just a guy, kinda dumb, who fights because that's the only job he knows. The world is full of people like him, and they're not all boxers, either."

Little Sympathy

Bob fights weariness much of the time, and he gets little sympathy. He told me:

"Everybody says 'Boy, would I like to get tired on your salary!' You stand in front of a camera a few minutes, and then go to your dressing room.' They persist in thinking that acting is a cinch. Well, we get good doughsure, but we get tired too. Anyway, I don't stand in front of a camera much, I'm riding a horse, or getting socked."

Bob grew up around boxers and he says he probably would have been a professional fighter if his father hadn't convinced him that fighters were washed up at 30.

The only fight Bob is worrying about now is the one he's training for. Seems RKO can't find a professional opponent as tall as Ray. A actor won't do because the fight can't be faked. The story covers a period of 80 minutes, and the film will be just that long too.

COMPLAINANT A "SISSY"

Brantford, Ont. — (CP) — A local magistrate described the action of a man who went to a doctor after getting a black eye in a fight as "sissy-like." A man pleading guilty to common assault was given suspended sentence and the magistrate ruled that the doctor's bill was the responsibility of the complainant.

Houstons Take Commanding Lead In Final Series

Houston's "Knothoiers" took a commanding lead Tuesday night in their final series with Corbys when they took the second straight game of the best three-in-five duel, 9-1.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle until the ninth frame when the Houston bats exploded for five hits, two singles, a double, triple and home run, to pound over six runs for a convincing win. Going into the top of the ninth Houstons were leading 3-1 in a thrilling, well-played ball game that was marked by the steady fielding of the Houston infield with Cochrane's centre field handling six chances and Clarke in left field handling five, in errorless fashion.

Houstons opened the scoring in the first as Woods got on on an error to the shortstop, advanced on Wardhaugh's sacrifice, and scored on Adams' single to left field. The Knothoiers added two more counters in the fifth on hits by Adams, Spafford and Culkin.

Corbys counted their lone tally in the bottom of the seventh on a walk, a sacrifice, and Latchford's double to left field.

Plenty of Power

Houstons lashed out with plenty of power in the ninth frame to pour over six runs to take the game in a very convincing fashion. Adams singled to open the inning and Spafford and Locke got on on errors that saw Adams and Spafford score. Culkin singled in score Locke, and came in on Clarke's mighty home run to left field. Cook tripled and scored on Woods' double. Bland flied out to left field, Wardhaugh popped out to second base, and Adams grounded out second to first to retire the side.

Baldwin on the firing line for Corbys, was in trouble most of the time with walks but in most cases was equal to the occasion, twice retiring the side with the bases loaded. Two double plays by his mates saw him through the worst of the crisis. Houstons pulled off one double play during the game.

Baldwin went the route for Corbys, giving seven, striking out five, and giving up an even dozen hits for nine runs. Cook went the distance for Houstons, walking five, striking out two, and giving up three well scattered hits for one run.

The Line-ups:

Houstons—Woods 3b; Wardhaugh 2b; Adams c; Spafford ss; Locke 1b; Culkin cf, Bland rf, Clarke lf, Cook p.

Corbys: Mills 2b; Miller cf, D. Sword ss; Hunter lf, Storms 3b; about physiology instead of telling how the functioning of the human organism enters into preventing the abundant energy we need if we are to do the things we want to do . .

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

With school days here again the subject of "school children's health" is brought to the attention of business men by the current monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada.

"It is at the school that for the first time every child's health can be assessed and deficiencies corrected," says the letter.

"There, if anywhere is our golden opportunity for constructive work in building a healthy Canada.

"The only limitations on health service in any age are the bounds set by the growth of scientific knowledge, the willingness of those in authority to introduce advanced ideas, and the readiness of people to pay the cost — a price which is low relative to the resulting good . . .

"Health education should be spread through the whole curriculum instead of being tacked on as an appendix to a course in physiology and hygiene. One of the dullest books we know is one on hygiene which teaches about physiology instead of telling how the functioning of the human organism enters into preventing the abundant energy we need if we are to do the things we want to do . .

Little Benny's Note Book

I was standing around the locker room with Shorty Judge and Glasses Magee talking and arguing about different subjects such as whether it would be worth while to be bald headed just to have a free excuse to never go to the barber shop to have your hair cut, and whether it's really easier to do your homework while the radio is going, or whether it just seems easier because your father and mother dont see how you can do it, and the different things that make grown up people manifest the silliest, and Shorty Judge said, I know what I'd do if I ever thawt it was my duty to make my father and mother mad.

What, I said, and Shorty said, I'd go out of the room on a drafty day and leave the door open after me, and when they yelled after me mad I'd just come back again with a innocent expression and say the door must still open and ask them what they wanted.

Well, boy that's a swell way, I've did that evenh without trying, Glasses Magee said, I know what I'd do if I was really trying, he said, and Shorty said, What?

I keep on trying to detract their attention, while they were telefoning at there was some thing awful important I had to ask them, and, when they finely interrupted themselfs to ask me what was the matter, I'd ask them something useless such as what time was it, or did they know they had a long while thrawd on their sleeve, Glasses said, and I said, I know what I'd do, I'd hide under the dining room table just at meal time and listen to them talking and wondering about what was making me so late and getting more and more worried and going out to the frunt door to look for me and coming back again, and suddinly I'd jump out yelling, "Here I am, I been here all the time."

Being the end of the subject on account of Shorty and Glasses being called in for supper and me going home hungry without being called.

North Atlantic Security System Urged by Speaker

Yellowknife, Sept. 7 (CP)—External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday that the Canadian government "has been urging at home and abroad" the "immediate establishment of a North Atlantic security system."

He was speaking at the Canadian National Exhibition directors' luncheon in his first major address since the selection as National Liberal leader.

He said that "if the United Nations . . . present conditions cannot—and we know it cannot—guarantee the security of its members, that does not mean we need sit, head in sand, wait for war, remain and aggression to attack and destroy the democracies one by one."

"The North Atlantic system would comprise . . . the United Kingdom, the United States, Canada and the free countries of western Europe," said Mr. St. Laurent.

"We think such a system could create and maintain the necessary preponderance of defensive force over any possible adversary or combination of aggressive adversaries."

He said if co-operation to preserve the peace within the United Nations "is impossible on a universal basis. It is possible for the free and peaceful democracies to organize their forces on a regional basis, to ensure collective resistance to and collective defeat of aggression, direct or indirect, from whatever quarter it comes.

"Such collective action, even if at the beginning only on regional basis, is urgent and necessary in the threat of aggressive and expansionist Communism, harnessed to the instrument of a great power, is too great, too direct, and too immediate for us to do nothing until all the freedom loving nations reach agreement in fact together."

He said a collective arrangement such as he proposed "can positive as well as negative value. It could make for prosperity as well as security but has as the ultimate hope of establishing freedom, order and welfare over a wide area.

"Under present conditions, that seems to be our best formula for peace; the concentration of an overwhelming superiority of moral, economic and physical force on the side of those who do not wish to live by force but are resolved to do so together, is the necessity is forced on them.

"If we can think about it, it may then come to pass that the forces of aggression, respecting our power for war and convinced of our will for peace, will abandon their mad designs, dismiss their unjustified suspicion, and begin to co-operate with others without requiring that they become mere satellites."

GAUGE FOREST AREA

The forest area of Canada is approximately 1,230,405 square miles.

Pair of Cockatoos Valued at $1,000

Whitby, Ont. (CP)—Five varieties of monkeys, the only mated pair of sulphur-crested cockatoos in Canada, a Blue Merle dog and a sundry other exotic inhabitants of Donald McDonald's Sheridon Aviaries moved from a ranch near Whitby recently to a new home and more spacious quarters at Maple Grove, Ont., two miles west of Bowmanville. New name of the ranch is 'Jungle Land.'

The strangest hobby in Canada, begun two years ago by the son of a Presbyterian missionary who was brought up in India, is today expanding to a business attracting nation-wide attention.

Recently a sulphur-breasted toucan from South America was imported and sold for $90. More were ordered by Whitby. There are magpies, budgies, Mexican red cardinals, zebra finches and doves on Mr. McDonald's ranch, but the monkeys attract most attention from passers-by on Highway No. 2. Ringtail monkeys, marmosets, spider and squirrel monkeys are kept in stock.

Practically all the animals reach here from South America by plane to Malton airport, New Toronto. They spend time in quarantine in the United States and have a clean bill of health before entering Canada.

Talk Easily

The cockatoos readily learn to talk and Donald McDonald children, Ronny, Betty and Jimmy, teach the birds to say short sentences easily. Visitors are usually greeted with "Get outta here," "Hello," "Van and cigarette!" and other startling phrases by the birds which look more like stuffed ornaments than living creatures.

The mated Cockatoos are valued at close to $1,000. They are the only pair in Canada since importation was barred about 10 years ago. Mr. McDonald, Billy, is more loquacious than her mate, Theresa.

While in India, Mr. McDonald learned the ways of these animals and birds, and how to care for, feed them and train them. Many varieties of monkey sell for less than $100 each—fully housebroken and taught a few tricks. Dozens have been taken to the homes of prominent Toronto and Montreal families. They are easy to feed—they'll eat prepared baby food, potatoes, bread, rice and vegetables.

When the animals first arrive they are inclined to be nervous and perhaps bite, but a few days of careful training makes them as desirable a house pet as any cat or dog.

Light, Permanent, Attractive

ALUMINUM ROOFING

Wherever a low cost, durable roof is required aluminum does the job. Especially efficient roofing for churches, schools, homes, factories, warehouses, barns, sheds and smokehouses. Aluminum is attractive and modern in appearance. As it weathers, it remains light grey in color.

PERMANENT-

Aluminum does not rust, rot, shrink or warp. It is weather-resistant in itself — without the aid of periodic painting or maintenance.

Speedy Installation-

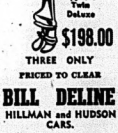
Aluminum roofing is easy to cut and requires less time in shaping odd pieces. This soft metal is easy to form, too, and makes bending simpler. Can be applied with aluminum nails with special sealing washers or standard galvanized steel lead-washered roofing nails.

Reflect Sunlight-

Aluminum reflects the sun's hot rays. Keeps cool, even temperature inside building in summer, and warm in winter.

SANITARY-

Water carried from an aluminum roof is clean, non-toxic. Cannot interfere with animals or plants.



Immediate Delivery on Aluminum Roofing

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

Her beauty was very striking, fresh and creamy and untouched at eighteen. Her hair was black and silky and wavy, like that of a baby cocker spaniel, her eyes very blue, and her skin clear; her white teeth shone dazzlingly when she laughed, and she laughed constantly. She seemed years older than her age, competent and self possessed, not at all confused by the situation.

Her friend's name was Billee Hornleigh. Billee was pretty, too, not more than twenty. The chauffeur was Walter Burton. He was presently to take the car to Reno, about a hundred miles away, where his old employer, Billee's aunt, was staying, but meanwhile he and Billee would stay with us for a few days. This was unexpected by Mrs. Grisell, but with true grit she accepted it, and as Walter Burton immediately assumed a comfortable blue sweater and matching slacks everyone seemed to take the situation quite for granted, and we all walked through the garden and out onto the cliff together.

Walter was between Billee and me, Virginia and Munro strolling along ahead. Clay was with us for a while, then he took a favorite place in the curve of a sunbaked rock; his eyes made it impossible for him to do the scrambling and slipping and dodging of waves that made beach walking so exciting.

Virginia was evidently very fond of Billee, and admiring her. She seized an opportunity to tell me that Billee was in love with Walter Burton and that Walter was not really of the social status of a chauffeur. He came from a fine family. Just what Billee's feeling for Walter was I presently discovered for myself by an episode that occurred before we all started in the car to drive over to see the ranch five miles away.

Billee had gone downstairs first. Somethng delayed me for a few seconds, and when I went out on the porch Billee and Walter were in the car, Virginia and Munro and Clay were all there going with us, and obviously Billee believed herself unobserved, for she was leaning forward into the back seat of the car, with her dark curls against Walter Burton's red head and her arms about his neck.

Walter saw me and jerked back his head, and Billee turned about with an angry flush on her cheek, curtly, and subsided into the back seat. Munro and Virginia immediately joined us, and with the two men in the front seat, Walter pointing the way, we had a joyfully noisy drive to the ranch. We all wanted to help Mrs. Grisell, and all being young and driving along new roads and adding to the day's experience, it was easy to be gay.

I heard Billee say in an aside to Walter, Burton as was evidently an answer to some reproach from him: "She won't care she'll not give me away," and as she said it her bright eyes came to me and she half winked and half laughed in a way that suddenly and oddly warned me my heart. There was a certain mood in Billee that was nothing short of "bewitching."

The way to the ranch lay straight through the little settlement of Indian Mills. Like so many other California towns, it had a stirring history of pioneer and prairie — wagon days and, like so many others, it had fallen into quiet now. There were an empty hotel, a gas station, a score of scattered cottages, and one general store, where everything was supposed to be on sale. Cowboy knives and camping tin cups, magazines and hardware, groceries and standard patent medicines and gypsy handkerchiefs, and poison - oak specifics and ready made cotton dresses were all there.

We didn't go into Beaman's Country Store on this first day but drove through town and up into the bare wide hills, and here by the ranch, crowded out in a tangle of buildings that were slivered by the weather into lovely tones of gray.

Old farms age more prettily than old houses. They are always alive, whereas old houses can die. This old ranch spread out down the hill, looking down at the ocean only a few miles away, was honestly and pleasant and of course useful — perhaps that was the secret. There were acres of peartrees and a few other fruit trees; cows were dreaming home along the hills through the gathering afternoon, and there was hanging on the bars of a corral, watching a boy tame a leaping bucking-bronco, chosen horses were running free about an adjoining corral, galloping occasionally with a rocking motion or standing still at the fence with their heads laid over one another's shoulders in a fashion infinitely picturesque.

We joined this group and wandered about through grates and all said good-by to Mrs. Grisell, who received with a little air of proprietorship and importance when they talked to Jed Potts, the foreman. They frowned with serious attention as he showed us the Alderneys, the three hysterical colts, the little new calf bucking into a bucket of mash. Jed brought Virginia two warm eggs from the chicken house; on one of them carved a sett little festiver. He offered them to her as a matter of course, the new guests of the ranch, and he knew as well as she did that she was beautiful.

The fog was rolling in steadily and chilly when we went into the high-lipped old "cookhouse" that stood in a grove of eucalyptus and spruce. A queer place; a man's house, with no women about. There were no flowers in the "decorated, to begin with, and the kitchen was full of vans. Empty cans were in the sink and half-filled cans were on table and stove. There was much unscrubbed woodwork and a general impression of fats; fats pilled on tea floor and fats smoking on the stove and fats dark in coffee tins and fats — "Have you got meat, Potts?" I asked.

"We get bacon here, our own," he said. "And I've got a little porker here in the deep freeze that got squealin' in the grist, Munro," he added. "He oughta be butchered, but the boys don't know how to handle him."

"Barbecue him," Munro said promptly.

"Aw, no, they want fixin's with him," Jed protested. "Apples and mashed potatoes and gravy. Pork ain't no good just eatin' it off your hands."

Without the slightest premonition that I was going to say anything I said, "I could cook you a roast pig dinner."

WALKS TO DEATH "TOUCHED BY THE LORD"

Violet Goglia, 18, above, who walked into the Madawaska River at nearby Barry's Bay, Ont., and was drowned. There is rejoicing instead of mourning at her farm home where her family says

I'd helped out too often at Mrs. Liffey's all through the long years, sometimes as waitress, sometimes as dessert cook, sometimes the main dinner - getter, to have any misgivings about it.

"Ever cooked a pig?" Jed said, his eyes brightening.

"No, but I've done the gravy and potatoes, and they're just as important."

"Honey, you can't cook," Virginia said, surprised and perhaps a little dashed.

"Well, but I can," I answered, already embarrassed, already retreating.

"Jed'll hold you to that," Munro said, coming into the conversation as he turned back from some talk with Burton.

"I don't care," I said stoutly, scared to death.

"Listen," Jed said, "one of these days we want the girls up from Indian Mills to dance here on the new barn floor. How's about it?"

"Oh, heck, Jed—" Munro said heartily.

"Jest four of us," Jed said, — "and you folks from the house. And Liberty here'll do the cookin'."

"You see, we have a new floor on the biggest barn, Virginia," Munro said, taking her name as easily as Jed had mine. "The old floor simply gave way."

"Rattlers. Used to come up thru the knotholes," Jed said, headed farm hand named Willie Phillimore said morosely.

We all looked at least we Californians did, for the rattlesnake terror is something more than a lingering stroke in the East, both actual, and in the imagination, but they haven't much effect upon one's thought or fears upon this gala day. Billee looked a little frightened.

Well, then, it was arranged that we were to have a roast porker for the basis of a feast, and ourselves and the ranch hands and a few of their girl friends for guests. I had fancied the baby pig as being quite small; it appeared that he weighed thirty - eight pounds dressed, and would feed that many persons. Munro was made of my confidence that I could manage to cook such a dinner, and as we drove back to Hillyard House I felt happier and younger than I had for many a month.

We were a queer enough company at dinner. Clay, with his bandaged eye and strong glasses, was at the head of the table; Virginia was next to him, and then Munro and Louise Ring. Billee sat on the other side of Clay with Burton, chauffeur, next to her, and Mrs. Grizell, who had her meals with us most of the time, finishing that end, and that put me at the foot of the table between Mrs. Grisell and Louise.

Between the housekeeper and the nurse — well, that was all right. I wouldn't let it chill me; I did my best to keep up the conversation. Billee and Virginia seemed to find the situation tiring and did a good deal of giggling; Clay hardly spoke at all, and Munro and Burton were strangers, of course, and didn't seem able to hit upon any subject of mutual interest. We all talked roads and cars and motor racing sporadically, but when Virginia said that when traveling she and Billee always had to have Burton right in the next room because they were nervous at night, I could feel waves of icy disapproval coming my way from the cell, like opening an icebox, and I didn't like Munro's shrewd look.

Altogether, social chat was a struggle that first night. But Mrs. Grisell, Hillyard House were dreary enough to simply take the edge off any atmosphere; we were all breathing from the very back of our lungs, nobody was relared or comfortable.

Virginia Carolan had met her grandfather only an hour earlier, going up to Mrs. Liffey's for the ordeal of the introduction. Old Mrs. Liffey, a gentle, was still an extremely handsome man; in his youth must have been extremely attractive. I had seen him only in glimpses through his bedroom door, sitting—erect. He looked like a cavalier of old France with his pointed white mustachios, heavy dark brows, silver hair in rich curls about a monastic bare crown, keen eagle eyes.

He slept late, and his morning hours were occupied with his breakfast, bath, barber, masseur, and the perusal of the morning paper, and the almost invariable dictation of letters, also taken by Munro, to some editor, politician or large figure.

Even when he went to sleep, not to awaken until three. Then came dining and dressing, manicures and combs and toilet waters, and then his assumption of one or another of several magnificent brocade dressing gowns. After all this he was ready for callers, radio entertainment, phonograph records, chess, his meal, permitted sips of sherry, and his carefully selected dinner.

Clay was his only worthy chess opponent, and nothing could interfere with that particular engagement night after night.

Clay and chess and well, too, for old General Parrell at Mrs. Liffey's, who at one time had been state champion, was my teacher, and besides that, we used to have tournaments at the library every year, and I always followed them attentively and on one occasion played a board when one of a score of players failed to appear. But I was far too shy ever to sign for either contest. Clay for an hour, and even if I had done so I knew nervousness would make me play badly and win the contempt of both men with a first and last effort.

On this first night Virginia spoke rather subdisedly of her grandfather; his invalided old age seemed apparently impressed her exuberant self-confidence. Her visit to him was perhaps one reason why dinner took on a note of hopeless dullness. She was chilled and we felt it. Everything we said dwindled toward silence almost before the sentence was finished; words seemed to drop into a dark pit guiltily, or rather crawl into it, like creatures trying to escape notice.

"This is the most awful place I ever got into," Virginia said to me that night when we had gone upstairs to bed. It was only about nine o'clock, but night hours had a way of seeming much later than they were at Hillyard House. Billee and Virginia began their little quiet now. There were an empty hotel, a gas station, a score of scattered cottages, and one general store, where everything was supposed to be on sale. Cowboy knives and camping tin cups, magazines and hardware, groceries and standard patent medicines and gypsy handkerchiefs, and poison - oak specifics and ready made cotton dresses were all there.

Robt. Eggleton Celebrates 93rd Birthday

Stirling—Friends will join in extending congratulations on one of Stirling's best known men, Robert Eggleton who celebrated his 93rd birthday on Friday, September 3rd. Coming to Stirling some thirty years ago Mr. Eggleton followed the occupation of carpenter and contractor until a year ago and many of the buildings of the district are the result of his handiwork.

Despite his years, Mr. Eggleton enjoys comparatively good health and takes a keen interest in every phase of local activity. Mr. Eggleton spent the day quietly at his home on Mill Street and many friends called on him during the day.

"He's worn those since he came home. The good eye is sensitive and will be for a long time."

"And where will he go back to being a doctor?" Billee asked.

"Reasons. He's got a small laboratory right here on the premises."

"Good start for a murder story" I remember saying it in a perfectly lighthearted way, and I remember her quick glance.

"Oh, he's got poisons enough there."

ATTEMPT TO LEARN WHETHER PRICES ARE 'ARRANGED'

Prices Commission Hears Two Versions of Argument at Hearing

Ottawa, Sept. 9 — (CP)—D. R. Stewart, president of the B. V. D. Company Ltd., Montreal, told the prices commission today that knit-shirts are sold to retailers "with a view that they be sold in a certain price class."

He emphasized, however, that B. V. D. does not "dictate" retail prices. The company does not put retail price tags on shirts when they leave the B. V. D. factory at St. Romuld, Que., he said.

B. V. D. is one of five major producers of shirts in Canada, spokesman for John Forsyth Ltd., Hamilton, said. Wednesday the company advises retail price tags on its shirts. A representative of Chisett Peabody and Company of Canada Ltd., Kitchener, said the firm does not set retail prices "in any way, shape or form."

H. A. Dyde, commission counsel, said today that men's shirts have the highest retail mark-up of any product the commission has investigated.

Word Includes Price

"Does the retailer know from the price you charge him at what price he should sell a shirt retail?" asked Mr. Dyde.

"He would recognize the approximate retail price," Mr. Stewart replied.

Mr. Stewart said B. V. D.'s percentage of profit is "less than it was when the government ordered us to state in a certain manner."

"But the man or woman who buys the shirt isn't interested in percentages," he said. "He is interested in how many dollars he has to pay."

Mr. Stewart said the dollar margin is up because of increased costs — "but the profit is less percentage.

His company, a subsidiary of a United States firm and with headquarters in Kitchener, had "definitely kept within the law" partly on the advice of legal counsel.

Otto F. Dannecker of Waterloo, vice-president and managing director of John Forsyth Ltd., Kitchener, said his company puts retail price tags on its shirts. That was to indicate the top price at which a certain shirt should be sold to the public.

F. H. Leacy, acting chief of the prices bureau, told the commission Statistics said the retail price of men's shirts of the same work shirts has increased by more than 100 per cent since 1939. During the same period production dropped.

By July 2, with the general cost of living index at 155.7, the men's shirt index was 227.9, Most of the increase had taken place since price ceilings and subsidies on shirts were removed by the government a year ago.

Mr. Leacy said a "low-price" shirt when available, sells for about $4. The cost to the retailer $2.50. Therefore, the margin of profit was $1.50 on $2.50, or about 60 per cent of costs and 37 per cent of the retail price.

He said that as a general rule, shirt-manufacturers "mark-up" the retail price. It was in connection with this statement that Mr. Richardson and Mr. Dannecker later outlined their companies' practices.

Mr. Leacy said production of men's shirts dropped from 710,-300 dozen in 1939 to 15,000,000 in 1945. The output had been increased by 4,000,000 in 1947 and a "further small increase" was expected this year.

PARACHUTE JUMP FROM AIRCRAFT TAKES 3 LIVES

Five Others Survive When Plane Crashes

...Edmonton, Sept. 9 — (CP) — The mystery of why three men plunged into the night to their deaths from a crippled aircraft Tuesday was probed by United States Army Air Force officials today.

Ordered to bail out together with two other passengers when their twin-engined Dakota transport developed an oil leak while flying from Edmonton to Minneapolis, the three U. S. airmen died when their parachutes failed to open.

The pilot, Lieut. Brock Dubell of Philadelphia, who ordered the fatal jump, stuck with his ship together with the co-pilot and flight engineer, Lieut. Lane Cleary and Staff Sergt. Christopherson of Seattle.

Dubell managed a crash-landing 42 miles east of Lodge, Alta., and he and his companions dragged themselves from the plane before it burst into flames.

Lieut. Dubell suffered rib and pelvis fractures, possible internal spinal injuries. His two companions were uninjured. The five surviving passengers, one escaped without injury, were taken to Edmonton, with a fractured spine.

Names of the others involved were withheld by U.S.A.F. officials pending notification of next-of-kin were notified.

From his hospital cot, Lieut. Dubell told how he had to cut the tails of what happened in the night sky. In the flames of disburning Atlantic No. 3 oil well early a few miles away.

He was unable to say from what altitude his passengers had jumped — only that all had fallen clear of the doomed plane.

A ground search party found the three bodies lying close together at Hay Lake, 10 miles from where the plane landed.

All Automatic Water Heaters In Ontario Ordered Cut Off

Toronto, Sept. 9 — (CP) — The Ontario Hydro Commission today sent instructions to all municipal Hydro Commissions in Ontario banning the use of automatic water-heaters as from today, it was learned.

Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the commission, was out of town and could not be reached for comment. Just two days ago however Mr. Saunders warned the additional use of such heaters on the cloudy days now upon the heaters, might possibly be "the straw that breaks the camel's back" in referring to the possibility of power shortage.

In line with the instructions, officials at Peterborough, London and other municipalities today cut off electricity from all automatic water heaters; At London an immediate saving of 4,000 horsepower was reported.

The step came five days before the cloudy days of fall when the Ontario Hydro Commission has said that widespread conservation measures are to go into force.

50 RUSS PLANES VIOLATE DANISH RIGHTS, REPORT

Naval Units Also Seen In Territorial Waters

Copenhagen, Sept. 9 (CP) — Danish naval authorities said some 50 Russian planes violated Danish territory in flights about Bornholm Island and Russian naval units were seen today north of the island near Denmark's territorial waters.

The authorities said Soviet destroyers and a few heavy cruisers were easily recognizable as they neared Danish waters. They said they believed these warships were part of naval manoeuvres.

The population of the island was reported jittery over the incidents.

There are no soldiers on Bornholm at present. The Danish garrison of about 1,500 men was called home on Monday for demobilization, and the new garrison will not arrive for some time.

One group of Russian planes flew over the island, it was said by the authorities said, adding that they thought the Soviet craft came from bases in Germany.

The Russian flyers crossed the island from different directions, authorities said.

Russian forces occupied Bornholm Island in the spring of 1945 and remained about 10 months. The withdrawal took place in the spring of 1946, after repeated Danish protests.

A Danish Marine ministry spokesman stated that the Soviet planes flying over Bornholm Island over and near Bornholm since 6 o'clock this morning. But there were considerable numbers of fighter planes and bombers and their activity was considerable, he added.

A letter report from Bornholm stated that nothing had been seen or heard of any foreign planes since noon, when "dozens of aircraft engines was heard, but nothing was seen owing to poor visibility."

Use Battering Ram

The western-sector police had used a battering ram to break down demonstrations invaded the city hall, using battering rams while Soviet troops armed with Tommy-guns stood by.

Kotikov accused the American police of protecting "reactionary and blackguards." Howley, in a personal visit to Kolkov, had said the blame "rests upon the Russians because the German police were only carrying out orders."

The Communist press indicated there would be a drive for a new campaign to oust the elected anti-Communist administration.

An appeal to revolt against the legally-elected government was issued with a resumption of the Communist "fright campaign" as the Soviet blockade of Berlin went into its 78th day.

The blockade announced for the second day in a row their air force would conduct manoeuvres in the corridors used by Britain and United States planes flying into Berlin.

Wednesday's Soviet air operations were reported by American pilots as "nothing abnormal."

Bullet Hits School Boy During Talk in Auditorium

Toronto, Sept. 9 — (CP) — Wally — known by his chums as 12-year-old Michael Sztvsk today was accidentally shot in the foot at the Auditorium in Forest Hill Junior high school.

Police said that another boy had a revolver in his coat pocket and the gun discharged, the bullet narrowly missing the gun-carrying student whose name was withheld. He was suspended.

Young Sztvsk, son of Elie Sztvsk who was convicted a year ago by the Toronto Symphony Orchestra last season, was performing with the orchestra at the age of nine in a performance of the "Toy Symphony."

The bullet wound was not serious but Mrs. Elie Sztvsk said her son was in great pain.

Police at the Auditorium in Forest Hill police said the gun discharged while three grades of pupils were crowded in the auditorium listening to an address by principal L. G. Chalmers.

The boy who carried the gun until the suspended constable police have completed their investigation: "There may be police action, and it will be dealt with by the school," said D. M. Graham, secretary of education in the suburban municipality.

Leader in British Labor Warns Against Communist Infiltration

Margate, England Sept. 9 — (CP)— One of the top leaders of organized labor in Britain Wednesday warned the trades union Congress that forces of Communism are "at work" in world trade unions and have penetrated even the British Trade Union movement.

Arthur Deakin, member of the T.U.C. General Council and leader of the Transport and General Workers Union, said the World Federation of Trade Unions is rapidly becoming nothing more than a platform for furthering Soviet policy."

He also charged Communist inspiration of a resolution calling on the T.U.C. to remove barriers to solidarity within the W.F.T.U. The resolution was sponsored by the Builders and Tobacco Workers Union.

T.U.C. efforts within the world Federation had repeatedly been obstructed, he said. The T.U.C. had tried to get the resolution withdrawn, but the delegate we have been discussing this resolution with us in the past few members of the Communist Party and we do not free to depart from the party line".

His statement was loudly cheered as the resolution was defeated by an overwhelming show of hands. A.C.C. Bowden, of the Bakers Union, disagreed, however that it was Communist inspired or that Communist influences were at work in his organization.

The T.U.C. earlier had told the government in effect to watch its step in the Communist field of labor and steel industry. It rejected a resolution introduced by J. Gardiner of the Amalgamated Union of Foundry Workers who admitted "I am a member of the Communist Party."

The annual Congress accepted by an overwhelming vote an amendment sponsored by the Iron and Steel Trades Federation to recognize the need for "care exercised by the government in determining the future of coal and steel and rejecting and request for emergency action.

HIGHER REVENUE NOT SUFFICIENT TO MEET COSTS

Railways Have to Assume Costs of 120 Millions and Only 70 Millions of Revenue

Toronto, Sept. 9 (CP)—Additional revenue of increased rates railways is insufficient to meet increased costs R. C. Vaughan, President of the Canadian National Railways, said today.

In a speech to the directors luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition, marking "Transportation and Engineering Day," Mr. Vaughan said:

"The Canadian Railways have to assume new cost's amounting to more than $120,000,000 while additional revenue accurately increasing. To offset them the railways will receive only about $70 Additional revenue of $70,000,000 a year."

Strong and healthy railways were the foundation of Canada economic system and it is important to the common welfare that they be enabled to "improve their services," he said. "Trucks and planes have a job to do and they are doing it effectively, but it is not to their interest they can ever replace the railways . . .

"The railways however are suffering under the handicap of existing costs of material and labor, and under the restraint of a rate price ceiling. The railways were granted a 21 per cent increase in freight rates, from April 8 last. Actually because of the exceptions on which the new rates could not be applied, the overall increase was only 13 1-2 per cent. This financial benefit was meant to enable the railways to meet existing costs but did not take into account the increases that in material, labor and other costs which there have been many.'

Fire damage to the building which had been closed for the night only half an hour or so before the fire was discovered, was considerable.

Violence Breaks Out in Berlin

Berlin, Sept. 9 (CP)—Russian and Communist-controlled German police fired on Berlin anti-Communists Wednesday after a crowd stoned a lecpiced of Russian and German police into the Soviet sector.

Part of a crowd of 200,000 Germans who took part in a massive anti-Communist demonstration in the Western sector of Berlin surged toward the Soviet sector as the meeting ended.

At the Brandenburg gate, inside Soviet territory, the marchers attacked a jeep bearing five Russian soldiers, and stoned and beat its occupants.

British sector police attempted to push the crowd back from the Soviet zone, fearing incidents which provoke shooting.

At least one German anti-Communist was known to have been hit by the fire of the Russian-backed German police.

The Brandenburger climbed to the top of the Brandenburger Tor and tore down the Soviet flag there, the German reports said. The Brandenburger Tor marks the boundary between the Soviets and British sectors. The road through the Brandenburg gate is closed by about 70 eastern sector police.

Polio on Increase While Other Ills Steadily Decline

Ottawa, Sept. 9 (CP)—Dr. Pierre Lepine of Paris, noted French doctor, said today that research into the causes of poliomyelitis should be re-orientated.

Dr. Lepine, head of the virology department of the Paris Institute, told the 19th congress of association of French language doctors in Canada that polio has been on the increase in almost every part of the world while other infections have been steadily declining.

Sickness and fatigue have shaken the Old Guard of the Labor party elected in 1945 from which Attlee chose his inner circle of colleagues. Miss Ellen Wilkinson, fiery veteran of Labor's early campaigns and minister of education, is dead.

So is Joe Westwood, former secretary of state for Scotland.

By JAMES McCOOK

London, Sept. 9 — (CP) — Medical advice to Prime Minister Attlee to restrict his outside engagements for a stubborn attack of an early duodenal ulcer is an unexpected blow to the young government's big three.

But 65-year-old Attlee, simply took over their work as well as his own when they were indisposed, and seemed no more than tired despite his exhausting duties.

Dry Weather Costs Farmers Ten Million

Toronto, Sept. 9 (CP)— Agriculture Minister Kennedy indicated Wednesday night Ontario farmers would lose between $10,-000,000 and $20,000,000 this year as a result of dry weather.

The minister estimated farmers' losses would amount to between one and two per cent of the total crop production. Unofficials of Mr. Kennedy's office had set the value of the crop projects," at $1,000,000,000.

th. situation as the worst in his life time, Mr. Kennedy said.

"Farmers can't get their fall wheat in the ground without rain, and this week's hot weather has crop prospects," he said.

Diplomatic Title High Commissioner May be Changed

Ottawa, Sept. 9 (CP)—The question of a change in the commonwealth diplomatic title of "high commissioner" may be one of the things discussed at the approaching conference of prime ministers in London, government sources said today.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King Canada's representative. The prime ministers of the other commonwealth Dominions also will be there. The conference was called at Britain's initiative.

An official spokesman said a change in the title has been "in the cards" for several years. It has been suggested by several countries that the term ambassador had the title, used by envoys from one part of the commonwealth to another, should be changed, possibly to "ambassador."

A change of that type would put high commissioners on the same diplomatic footing as other envoys in the capital in which they are stationed.

Russians Tell U.S. Authorities to Mind Their Own Business

Reject Protests Concerning 38 Red-Held German Police

By EDWIN SHANKE

Berlin, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Russians today told United States authorities in Berlin to mind their own business.

They rejected an American protest against the invasion of American officers in Berlin's city hall Monday by Russian-controlled police who dragged off 19 western-sector police.

Answering the written protest by Col. Frank Howley, United States commandant in Berlin, the Soviet commander, Maj.-Gen. Alexander Kotikov, told the American formally "not to interfere in matters which don't concern them."

Kotikov's letter followed rejection of French protests which demanded the release of another 19 anti-Communist western-sector police who were kidnapped by Soviet-sector police at dawn Wednesday while travelling in a French convoy under a Russian guarantee of safe conduct.

The letter to Howley was published prominently on the front page of Tagliche Rundschau, official newspaper of the Russian military administration.

The letter, one of the sharpest in a long series of exchanges between Kotikov and Howley, ignored the fact that the Russian-controlled police broke into the American offices, brushes aside a United States liaison officer, rifled the files and seized one of the 19 police who had sought refuge there.

Yesterday's Shower Not General in District

While appreciative of yesterday's brief shower, district farmers today said that rain was still very badly needed for pasture pastures and to make fall cultivation easier.

The shower which passed over the Bay of Quinte district shortly after noon on Wednesday was not of general intensity, some districts reporting only a brief rain, while in other sections a heavy rainfall was seen.

With wiring contractors having now completed their work and with new lighting installed in the building, the Stirling County Courthouse and the various offices present a vastly different appearance from the former dingy interior.

The main court room is now lighted with 16 heavy candle-power lights recessed into the ceiling and with frosted glass covering. The walls and ceiling have also been painted a lighter hue, considerably brightening the room.

The law library has also been completely done over with fluorescent lighting being installed for general lighting effect while the various racks for the legal volumes are individually lighted. fluorescent lights are also installed in the barristers' quarters and in the judge's and local masters' offices.

Work on Mains Will be Started Without Delay

There will be no further delay in the commencement of construction of water mains in the Parkwood Heights district, but city council and the Public Utilities Commission will appeal to the courts as to the proper method of retiring debentures issued for the cost of the work.

This was decided Wednesday at a special meeting between a special committee of council and members of the Commission when the Commission members agreed to proceed immediately with the work. Tuesday the Commission had intimated they would be unable to proceed with the work of installation of water mains until the wording of a council by-laws authorizing the issuing of debentures was changed.

The Commission objected to the clause in the by-law which called for the Commission to raise out of profits the amount required to retire the debentures. The Commission had wanted the work to be done under the Local Improvement Act, claiming it was impossible to pay the cost out of profits. However, the city council directed the debentures be paid out of profits.

The matter to be decided by the courts will be: Whether the debentures are to be retired out of profits of the Commission, or whether they shall be retired out of the general tax rate.

Present at the special meeting were Mayor D. L. Storey and City Solicitor R. A. Pringle, Aldermen Armstrong, Allin and Duffy, Chairman M. J. Ruttan and Commissioner Wotten with the Commissioner and D. D. Arnott and Secretary-Treasurer, O. H. Scott-attending the meeting.

Tonight there will be a special meeting of council to ratify the agreement.

IN MEMORIAM

McKNIGHT—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Alexander McKnight, who passed away Sept. 9th, 1947.

A year has passed, the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far off west.
I miss you so late as the time passes
Than I did on the day at your passing.
For absence can never close the door of my heart.
And the image I pay love to still glowing.
Your heart was the truest in all the land
Your love the best to recall.
For no one can fill your place
Alone.
You are still the dearest of all.
Lovingly remembered by his wife
Violet.

BLY—In loving memory of Myrtle May Bly who passed away four years ago today, September 9th, 1944.

Peaceful be thy rest dear daughter,
It is sweet to think of you asleep,
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Ever remembered by mother and dad.

Business Spotlight

By The Canadian Press

Typical of comment on business prospects are two from American sources, as quoted by the Wall Street Journal. They are on United States conditions, but are representative of what is being said about the North American economy generally.

Distributors Group, Inc.: "Buying power for the entire nation has

It is goods that still are lacking. When the fact that 'cold cash' expenditures (including both the European recovery program and national defence will grow in the next year or two is borne in mind, and that the present shortage in many lines, particularly in heavy industry, shows little sign of slackening, spendable income seems likely to increase, not decrease.

W. E. Burnet and Co., New York stock brokers, think along a somewhat different timetable line, though hopeful in the long range. They say:

"Our long and great business boom becomes more and more vulnerable. Its age and intensity would indicate danger, if there were no other unfavorable factors.

"Selves, pipe lines and business drawers are becoming amply supplied. It is a fair assumption that the end is here, if not already passed. A change has been long expected. Its magnitude or delay should not lull us into a belief that we won't descend from our present business boom plateau.

"The readjustment will not be of long duration — a year at most. It will cause a drop in national income of not over 25 per cent. The commodity prices of not over 20 per cent. Stocks of stocks to not under 140 in the Dow-Jones average."

Markets Wednesday

Wednesday's markets remain cautious, partly in nervous anticipation of a readjustment, and partly because of the worrisome international situation. American and Canadian exchanges were treated yesterday. Grains were somewhat better but with declines in some deliveries.

Saving of Electric Power Essential

The warning which Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario issued this week emphasizes the acute situation in regard to water reserves. In fact, there are no reserves Mr. Saunders stated, and as a result, power restrictions may be enforced earlier than September 13th the date they were to go into effect.

Even with the saving made by the restrictions there is no prospect that further cuts, and appeals to save power will be announced from time to time if the dry spell continues. The experience Hydro consumers had late last winter should convince them of the seriousness of the situation. Regardless of whether or not users of powers were included in the list advertised last Saturday everyone can do his share by instituting the utmost savings in none use of electricity.

Unfortunately appeals in the past have not been heeded too well. It is only when drastic action is taken that it is realized previous warnings were not cries of "Wolf, wolf." The earlier we save, the longer will we be able to put off the inconveniences that are likely to come during the winter.

Rural Churches Have Neglected Look

Any one driving through the country can observe that most rural churches present a drab appearance that is most uninviting. The majority of them are situated on a barren piece of ground with no attempt made to improve the exterior appearance. Weeds often fill the surrounding ground and occasionally a broken down fence contributes its share to the desolate and bleak picture. We always have felt that any edifice devoted to Christian worship should be a structure to be proud of rather than be an object of neglect.

There are probably all kinds of reasons which could be given for the above state of affairs. Lack of funds, no time, and most important, no one to promote the task and get it done. However, if there is the will, there is a way. Many farm homes have their own lawns and shade trees. The owners are busy people as most farmers are but they take time to keep the grass trimmed and otherwise beautify the property in which they live. If that is the case then it should be possible for a congregation to provide means to have a lawn planted around the church and a few hardy trees placed that would, in a few years, develop the property into an attractive place.

This is not the first time we have noted the above in this column but it is something which can bear repeating. Sometimes it takes a bit of prodding to get things done. If only one or two progressive congregations can be persuaded to initiate these improvements in their churches, then the idea would be copied by neighboring groups. Some day we hope to hear of one church which has had this attention given to it. We will be glad to spread the story. Who will be the first?

Uncongenial Railway Cars

There should be more chance for fun on Canadian railway trips. People on club and charter cars should be able to play bridge or rummy without being cramped over by trimmers and other passengers—often tripping them up in the process. The furniture could be grouped so as to encourage rather than repress any human desire for the social amenities. At present, with seats nailed at wide intervals to the floor, or ranged with depressing formality along each side of the car, there is no opportunity for friendly talk and genial group fellowship than in the waiting room of a dentist's office.

American railroads have long been several jumps ahead of Canadian lines in this respect. Perhaps the American railway which is now providing not only fridge tables but benches for bridge is being brought to heel by the travelling public. Partners can cause enough trouble without inviting additional spats through second-guessers who have seen all the hands. But this innovation only emphasizes the social deficiencies of Canadian railway travel. Give Canadian passengers the basic facilities for cards and conversation and they will be willing to leave the kibitzers' accommodation to the American lines. — The Ottawa Citizen.

The beauty contest which seem to come into full bloom in late August merely prove what observers have generally known, that there are pretty girls in every community, comments the Ottawa Journal.

JUST FOLKS

"THEY SAY"

"They say" he leads a double life
"They say" he often beats his wife.
At club affairs and parties gay
Somebody whispers this: "They say."

And round and round the gossip goes.
But who "they" are, nobody knows.

"They say" but with that opening phrase
There never comes a word of praise.
"They say" he steals; "They say" he lies
And never pays for what he buys.
But if you question: who are "they?"
Not one who's quoting them can say.

"They say," but since no ops can name
The ones of who start these tales of shame,
Which me, I let the scandals die.
Doubtful of all of them am I.
I find it much the better way
Not to believe a word "they say!"

GREEK GENIUS FOR WORDS

The Greeks had a word, "idiotes," which meant a superior person who insisted on living selfish Me by himself and for himself, instead of putting his gifts at the service of his fellows. From this Greek word "idiotes" we get the English word "idiot."

To us an idiot is an imbecile. But there are a lot of idiots in the world who are listed in the social register, inscribed on the tablets of the mighty, living in fine houses on the right side of the tracks, and yet idiots they are just the same. Every snob is an idiot. Every loafer who refuses to take a man's part in the world and, without working, lives on money which has come to him without any efforts is an idiot. Every gifted man or woman who refuses to use these gifts socially is an idiot.

And why are they idiots? Because their conduct partakes of the pattern described by the Greek word "idiotes." They put superior persons — or allegedly so — who insist on living selfishly by themselves or for themselves instead of putting their gifts to the service of their fellowmen.

All except the snob, and he is an idiot just because he is a snob.

Seattle — Pte. Wally Monette, 18, home on furlough from Fort Monmouth, N.J., thought it would be nice to invite some friends out to the family home.

But, as told by the police:

The teen-aged friends kept inviting other friends until some 400 teen-agers eventually were visiting inside and out of the home. Cars lined the curbs for blocks.

The youngsters ate every bit of food in the house, including all the canned goods and a quantity of frozen meat.

Monette's mother, Mrs. Mabel Champion, arrived home and tried to bring a semblance of order. She had to wait in line 15 minutes to get inside.

She attempted to shoo the visitors away from the front door, but they piled in the back door and window.

Eventually the "guests" dispersed and still Mrs. Champion was inclined to view the whole thing tolerantly. Then she discovered someone had also made off with $250.

Newburgh, Ind. — John Stacer, crippled Newburgh justice of the peace, needs only a cane to get around on land, but he walked stick to good use on the water Wednesday.

Stacer found a 70-pound catfish on a line he had set in the Ohio River. A gaff hook with which he tried to land the huge fish broke. Stacer then grabbed his cane, hooked the crook on the gills of the fish, and fought it into the boat.

A companion, Allen Perdy, helped Mr. J.P. land the fish and verified the story.

Bonanno, 30, speeded up his cab and shouted back: "If you shoot me the cab will be wrecked and we'll both get killed."

The response came back: "Please stop and I'll pay the fare."

Bonanno stopped — in front of a policeman — Kim Allerton, 23, was arrested on a charge of attempted robbery.

Mackenzie's Column:

Kidnapping Prime Example Of Communist Tactics

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

We have a prime example of Communist tactics the world over in Washington's charge that the Russian gunmen and their German puppets in the Russian Berlin police after the latter had left the city hall in the Soviet zone, acted under a Russian guarantee of safe passage.

The Red manoeuvre was just as bold and cold-blooded as that. It was another move in the Russian campaign to unseat the duly elected Berlin city council and install a pro-Communist.

State Secretary Marshall, at Washington, has taken up a step further by stating the Communist attacks on the Berlin city government are largely intended to upset talks of the Big Four military governors on the crisis in the Soviet-blockaded German capital.

And why should the Communists be bent on disrupting the Berlin conferences? Because as this column has pointed out before, Communism does not want peace.

Part of the fundamental doctrine of Communism is world revolution is to create disorder and despair, for which people progress by peaceful methods.

Chance to Consolidate

That's why this columnist has been predicting that the tension reached between the Reds and the western democracies would be relaxed. It was to give the Communists a chance to consolidate their gains and get over their fresh offensives. The current conversations on the Berlin crisis may result in some sort of agreement, but it won't mean anything. It will be just temporary peace may be better than no peace at all, for long as isn't achieved by appeasement.

Poland is providing us with further evidence of Communist tactics. Communist "liberators" have launched a drive for the avowed purpose of "liquidating the exploiters and spitalists" among the some 15,000,000 peasants in that country.

Larry Allen, Associated Press correspondent, in Warsaw, reports from usually reliable sources state Russian-manufactured tractors owned by so-called "rich peasants" are being confiscated. Farm devices driving farms have been torn down in some places. Red action cards have been sent out to spread the word that compulsory crop production must be put on a common basis, that is, by force.

You would think the Communists would dare crack down on the peasants, who are folk like the Poles, who time and again have fought for their freedom. But Communism is as hardboiled as the Red action cards. It suspects that it is more than a little worried by disaffection among the satellite states. Aprropos of this, Tito has just levied former deputy premier of Czechoslovakia who now is in London declares that "the pretence of unity in the Soviet bloc has been shaken."

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Toronto, Sept. 9 (CP)—Three-year-old Kevin Bowles was crushed to death under the wheels of an ice truck Wednesday. A few feet from the doorstep of his east-end home, Eyewitnesses said the child was sitting on the running board of the truck when the vehicle started, throwing him under the back wheel.

Persuaded Not To Appear

Seoul, Sept. 9 (AP)—An assassination rumor today kept President Syngman Rhee from a farewell gathering at Kempo airport. The head of the Korean Republic in South Korea was persuaded not to appear. But despite the fact Seoul's police chief reported the rumored plot had been foiled, "Communist youngsters" had attempted to learn when Rhee would be there.

One of my more lawless friends has had telephone trouble. He has a distinguished voice, who persists in dialing my friend's number in mistake for pop corn.

There is only se digit different in the two telephone numbers. But despite the fact that she had made the mistake a dozen times, a few weeks, she never seems to learn. In her great good humour, at the moment my friend says hello, she begins:

"I send me right away two dozen eggs, a pound of butta, Champion, a few bags sugah . . .

Formerly, my lawless friend, in a fury, would bawl, "You're not the wrong number!" And bang up.

But lately, he has thought up a better idea. As soon as Mrs. Topdraw begins her haughty order over the phone, he says promptly and firmly, "Yes, ma'am, yes ma'am," as though he were taking the order down diligently. When she has finished, he assures her the order will be delivered immediately. Then he goes into the garden and feels good.

Three times in a week he was startled to hear Mrs. Topdraw on Mrs. Topdraw. It was amusing to sit in the garden and imagine Mrs. Topdraw indignantly telephoning the grocer and demanding to know why the order had not come. But then, my friend's conscience began to trouble him in the grocer's behalf. Perhaps his little joke might be costing the innocent grocer a lot of trouble. He would be the loser of a good customer. So last evening, he dropped into the grocery store, explained his trouble, and outlined his little joke. The grocer, would bawl, the grocer.

"That woman!" exploded the grocer, hotly. "I've tried every way I know to get rid of her. She costs me more than all the rest of my customers put together."

Which gives rise to the reflection that people who are a nuisance to anybody are a nuisance to everybody.

All Parliaments Of Commonwealth To be Represented

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Sept. 8 (CP)—All parliaments of the British Commonwealth will be represented at the first post-war plenary parliamentary conference of the Empire Parliamentary Association, which opens here Oct. 19, association officials told the Canadian Press.

Invitations were sent to 87 members of the 37 overseas branches and leading citizenries from all Dominions and colonies will be present.

The Canadians will participate in all activities and the members of British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Alberta were among those who have already accepted invitations.

Largest Ever

When Prime Minister Attlee addressed the opening session he said it probably would be the largest gathering of its kind other authorities added it now is expected to be the largest meeting of commonwealth parliamentarians ever held. It will include representatives of the Dominions of India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

Delegates will begin their actual discussions in London after visits to Canada, the United States of Europe and the United Kingdom.

Founded 37 Years Ago

The non-party association was formed in 1911 and provides machinery for ready interchange of information and ideas between members of commonwealth parliaments in the United Kingdom and other branches, although it does not attempt to hold frequent meetings and consider subjects such as commonwealth foreign and defence policy.

The October conference will be the seventh plenary session since formation.

Young Talmadge Wins Primary For Governor

Atlanta, Sept. 9 — (AP) — Georgia today made ready to usher in a second generation of "white supremacy" rule under Eugene Talmadge, the state's next governor.

Young Herman Talmadge, jubilant over an apparent landslide in Wednesday's Democratic primary for governor, set the stage for a special legislative session to fill a term ending in November.

He wouldn't wait for the regular meeting in January to assume the office, however. Meanwhile, the mantle is generally cast for turbulent days early in January.

For the tobacco - chewing, 85-year-old Talmadge, famed politician, triumphant in his first campaign for governor since 1940, would bring long-sought revenge over Acting Governor M. E. Thompson.

The first act opened with a death blow to Thompson, 1948, Eugene Talmadge, Herman's father, who died during campaign with rural voters had elected him governor four times, died in his daughter's home.

In a dramatic pre - dawn session, the Legislature on January, 1947, elected "Hummon" to succeed Ellis Arnall. Hummon arose scholarly M. E. Thompson, who abandoned an educator's career to accept politics, claim the office also by succession from Lieutenant-governor.

Changed Locks in Night

Hermon Talmadge changed locks in the Capitol by night to capture the governor's office. After a bitter court battle, the confusion because the state had two governors, Talmadge walked out quietly when the Georgia Supreme Court ruled Thompson should serve as acting governor from pending an election to fill the remaining two years of the elder Talmadge's term.

Staking his campaign on a fight against President Truman's civil rights program, he led today with an indicated county unit vote of 314 to 82 for Thompson. Only 206 units are needed to win under Georgia's unusual county - unit system, similar to the National Electoral College. The system keeps political power in rural areas.

But unlike his father, who trailed in popular votes in 1946, Talmadge also hauled the the upper hand in the total count— 365,025 to 327,626.

The count today was based on unofficial returns from 157 of the state's 159 counties, and 1,393 of 1,763 precincts.

SO YOU MUST AVOID STARCHY FOODS?

A person might survive for several months without starch, in a vegative way, but who wants to live like a vegetable? Even the basic diabetic diet includes a reasonable amount of starch — three slices of whole-wheat bread and a dish of cooked daily, besides a generous portions of 5 per cent vegetables such as tomato, cauliflower, string beans, cabbage, egg plant, asparagus, one egg, two portions of fast one-fourth pint of cream and one ounce of butter daily.

What irks is the fact that many of these misguided ones go about "eliminating starch" or getting my co-operation in the mischievous business. In the heydays before 1922, the hucksters and quackery promoters contrived to implant a good many erroneous notions in the ill-judged minds of the ignorant American people. Ignorance of physiology and hygiene, one of these erroneous notions being the obsession about starch.

Although it is not feasible to "eliminate" starch from the diet we must admit that many who believe they can't handle starch are not entirely wrong in the idea.

There are two large groups of the population whose capacity to assimilate and utilize starch and, or sugar) is subnormal, less than it should be. First, people who do not get enough vitamin B complex daily, and second, people who do not chew their food properly.

The constant effect of vitamin B complex deficiency is lowering or hampering the capacity to utilize carbohydrates (starch or sugar).

An inevitable effect of the loss of one or more teeth and failure to replace them with functionally efficient dentures, is impairment of starch digestion, which in a healthy person not only begins but takes place in the mouth during mastication or chewing and continues in the fundic or upper end of the stomach for an hour or so after the food is swallowed. If the food is gulped down without chewing or washed down with liquid, this ptyalin digestion of starch does not occur—but undigested starch is carried on through the stomach into the duodenum, where the pancreatic digestion takes place. Starch is not taxed to handle it.

Most men live longer than their grandfathers. Women have a better life expectancy, too. So have children — not only that, but children nowadays spend more of their years getting an education.

Thisbe facts have had significant changes in the family man's financial obligations. They mean that he must be prepared to support everyone in his family longer—including himself!

Fortunately, there is an effective way of meeting financial obligations of this nature—a well-planned insurance programme. Life insurance is a sure means by which a man can provide protection for his family in the event of his death, or an income for himself should he live to retirement age.

The family man is wise to review his insurance requirements in view of changing conditions. If you have any expert advice, a representative of The Manufacturers Life will be glad to give it to you.

WEDDINGS

RYAN—DEVINE

Picton (Special)—St. Gregory's Church, Picton was the scene of a lovely double-ring wedding ceremony on September 4th at 9 A.M. when Margaret Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Devine of Picton, was united in marriage to Daniel Joseph Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ryan of Picton. Rev. Father J. C. Clancy officiated, while Father Shea, O. M. I., was in the Sanctuary.

Tall standards of pink and white gladioli decorated the altar and the church pews were marked with white satin ribbon. The wedding music was played by Sister Mary Gerard. Miss Mary Jean Hennessy sang, "On this Day, O Beautiful Mother", "Ave Maria" at the offertory and "Panis Angelicus" at the communion.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory satin dress with waist and peplum trimmed with chantilly lace and a full skirt of satin and lace. Finger tip sleeves and high round neckline. She completed her costume and wore a single strand of pearls and the floor length veil swept back from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white roses and gladioli.

Barbara Devine, of Picton, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a rose taffeta gown with tiered skirt and short sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of cream roses and maidenhair fern. Lee Ann of Picton was groomsmaid.

Maid-of-honor, Miss Doris Devine, sister of the bride, wore a pink net dress with matching peaudress fashioned with flowers and feathers. She carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and fern.

Little Sharon Eves was flower girl and wore blue taffeta trimmed with blue lace and a nosegay of yellow roses.

Messrs. Peter Wright, James Ryan, brother of the groom, acted as the altar.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, Mrs. M. A. Devine in blue crepe with black accessories and a corsage of red roses and the groom's mother, Mrs. William Ryan in grey with black accessories and a corsage of pink rose buds.

London Weddings Lacks the Color Of Pre-War Days

By JOAN CAPREOL

London (Reuters) — British socialites trying to put on fashionable "beadline" weddings on a pre-war scale this summer are running against austerity snags.

Prominent families still choose London church settings for their marriages. Top hats and morning dress have made their reappearance and crowds of housewives are once again travelling from all over London to act as enthusiastic audiences.

But the wedding hosts and hostesses are finding that they can not accommodate as many guests or provide the lavish feasts of old.

Gone are the days of a wedding such as that of the Duke of Marlborough at the Earl of Rosebery's daughter, at Berkeley Square in 1937, for which invitations were sent out champagne and a buffet-menu costing more than £1,000 (about $4,000) by a catering staff of 70.

Now most wedding receptions are held in the home and are "an unheard-of thing before the war," observed one society host.

Less Catering Now

"We used to cater for 200 big weddings a year in private homes in the country and in London," said Lucullus, top catering firm. "Now we do about 60."

The Lucullus wedding used to have 400 to 600 guests. Today it has 150 guests, 100 and 200. We used to send staffs of 70. Now we get about 30.

"Buffet menus still look the same as before the war," he said. "They are not as well garnished or decorated, but they don't taste the same."

The church for fashionable weddings is St. Margaret's, with its greystone, soot-smeared parish church of St. Margaret, in the shadow of the Westminster Abbey. But while it is the coziest of society — wedding church, St. Margaret's, official place of worship for members of Parliament, is also one of the most costly.

One of the principal reasons for the popularity of St. Margaret's is that its position and setting provide a background in which the bridal retinue is shown off to greatest advantage.

WHAT IS SUPER-WETTING ACTION?

See for yourself! Take a length of cotton sewing thread. Roll it into a ball. Drop it into a glass of water. It floats, because it cannot completely wet for a long time.

Now drop another little ball of thread into a glass of water and FAB. It sinks, becomes completely soaked at once. This shows just shows you how FAB makes water wetter . . . actually penetrates oil washable materials faster . . . loosens dirt and soil. Plain Wedding Rings Are the Fashion Now

New York — (CP) — Society girls still want fancy wedding rings, but there's a definite trend back to the plain and simple ring of grandmother's day, says the American Natural Retail Jewelers Association which held its annual convention here recently.

One jeweler said most American girls insist on double - ring ceremonies and refuse to have rings matched. Most men refuse to wear rings and so the girls must wear them plain and simple, too.

Another jeweller said men's wedding rings became popular during the war when servicemen wanted some token of the girls they left behind.

THE SECRETS OF HILLYARD HOUSE

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"Lucky he's so good-natured," Virginia hazarded.

Louise Ring looked at her with the same quick glance, the same half-narrowed eyes. "You think Clay bit?" she asked.

"Isn't he?" asked in turn.

"Well, I was wondering if he gave that impression," Louise said reflectively.

"You don't think so?"

"He's very quiet," Louise said after a moment. "You never know. I suppose if he married and had a kid," she added, looking at Virginia, "the old man would leave a lot to the Hillyards."

"Not everything," Billee countered swiftly. That old effect she had of being more concerned in Virginia's affairs than Virginia was. "When her grandfather — and what's darling old thing he is anyway — wrote her that he wanted to forgive and forget the past, he said that in any case she would be provided for."

"Oh, I suppose so," Louise said.

"But that doesn't account for the Hillyard money."

"The government will get it anyway, Virginia," I put in soothingly, for she looked ruffled and Billee actually angry.

"Even if the government gets half," Louise pursued it ceasingly, "the other half isn't — alfalfa."

"It would be to Clay Hillyard's interest to kill the old man," Billee Mornleigh said sulkily, "before he has a chance to decide whether he likes Va or not."

"He'll like me," Virginia said serenely.

"It'd be to your interest to do it because you're the direct heir," I contributed, looking at Virginia. "Dr. Clay Hillyard is only his nephew's stepson."

"It'd be to my interest," Louise said, "to give him a pill-and-then-cry Clay, now while Clay gets it all."

"Then you could give Clay a pill too," I reminded her. "You could fix his morning coffee while you were in the honeymoon suite at Pebble Beach Lodge."

"You can't get away with two murders," Billee said, somewhat uncertainly, not all joking.

"Women have. There was a nurse once — up somewhere near Boston — Louise began. She paused. "It was three husbands and one husband's children and her own child," she went on after some thought. We all laughed. "Everyone wants to murder someone," said Louise.

"But what does his will say?" I asked.

"As I get it," Louise said, "he hated Virginia's mother because she ran away with the chauffeur."

"She did not," Virginia said, flushing.

"Well, I don't mean that he was not perfectly all right, only that the old man was furious."

"My father had been in the first big war," Virginia said proudly. "He came out here because he liked California, and he got ashma and couldn't take an indoor job and so he took up driving for a joke. But his mother was one of the Crandalls of Crandallsville—"

"Well, anyway," Louise said, "your grandfather said he was never going to forgive your mother. They lived in San Francisco then — or at least your grandmother did — and they had only this one child, Lily, and it seems that Lily also committed the sin that there wasn't a son, and your grandfather'd always said that your mother's husband must take the name Hillyard. And then she ran off with a Cuban — Pedro Carolan — and he took Clay, who was about seven then, and had the name and adored this place."

Virginia and Louise had listening. Billee's eyes flashed.

"He won't marry," Billee said. "Clay! No, I doubt if he will now, with his eyes like that," she added.

"You like him," Billee said shrewdly.

Louise Ring's rather hard, handsome face flushed; she laughed.

"Not Clay Hillyard!" I put in, interested.

"Well, girls, fix it up between you," she said dryly. But in spite of herself her eyes met mine and they understood each other. She might sincerely appreciate the good common sense of capturing either Clay or his sensible uncle, but I'd seen her look at Munro Wainwright and I knew.

"Isn't Dr. Hillyard sort of — well, definite — sure of himself?" I asked. "He never seems to be listening."

"And if he's that way now, when he's practically helpless," Louise answered briskly, "imagine what he was when he was a major in the Army! I'll bet he was one of those men who make a private stand still, saluting fifty times, in the middle of the sidewalk."

"Maybe he despises women," I offered slowly.

"Detests 'em," Louise agreed.

"Except Mrs. What's-her-name," Billee amended.

"Mrs. Greer. Oh, that!" Louise said carelessly. "That's one of those strong silent affairs in which both parties repress their feelings to the point of never speaking to each other at all, as far as I can find out."

"Then you've seen her?" I asked eagerly. For some reason the affair of the unknown Mrs. Greer had an enormous fascination for me.

"Oh, yes, she's been here."

"What's the husband like?" Billee inquired.

"He's — just a husband," Louise said with sudden feeling.

"Oh, fascinating!" Virginia said and we all laughed.

"I should think Dr. Clay might be rather nice," Billee said dreamily. "Have we settled all our moves for murdering him?"

"Oh, stop it!" Virginia said nervously.

"I must have some news," I said. "Let's see — I have secret information about his youth — sixty years ago—"

"No."

"No, that'd be a motive for him to murder you," Billee objected.

"I suppose someone has to murder someone," I said.

"In a house like this?" Virginia asked with a shudder.

It seems funny to remember it now; all of us in my dark big heavy bedroom, in our wrappers and slippers, cold-creaming our faces or manicuring or doing up our hair, sitting on the edge of the bed or perching on the big table, Virginia's first night at Hillyard House, all of us just getting started making friends and talking murder.

Funny to remember it now!

Virginia naturally wanted to see the whole of the house. There wasn't very much for us to do afternoons, and before she had been at the place very long we had got hold of Mrs. Gritzell and engaged her to take us over everything after luncheon.

But just before that two things — or rather three things — happened that somewhat mystified me at the time and that had some significance in the light of later events. One concerned Munro Wainwright. Contrary to everything I had expected, he had evidently been quite bowled over by Billee rather than Virginia, and she gave more than one evidence of reciprocating the attraction. When we were all together they exchanged completely revealing glances — Billie dimpling and lowering her thick black eyelashes coquettishly when she spoke to him, Munro unable to do much as pass the butter at breakfast without some brief special phrase for her. "Lady Caprice" and "Miss Behavior" were two of his names for her.

If he went for a stroll there were innumerable places where Billee had to have the help of Munro's big hand. One of my first thoughts was to watch how Louise Ring took this and she seemed for a while at least to be completely unconscious of it.

The day before Burton and Billee left for the drive to Reno, Burton came out onto the terrace where Billee and I were basking in uncertain noonday sun, waiting for the clanging of the old-fashioned luncheon bell. The morning had been windy, with great blankets of fog rolling in from the hills; now the sun was struggling through and the wind had died away and we were baking happily, for everything that was cold and wintry and gloomy lived on in Hillyard House well into the summer, and mornings and nights were cold up here on the Pacific shores.

I was stretched in a deck chair, drowsily studying the general decay and overgreenness of the terrace. Originally it had commanded a glorious view of the sea and the dunes that stretched in golden ripples along the low cliffs to the north and south. But two generations of neglect had shut away the view behind low-sweeping pine branches, tangled ivy, and rank rose vines. Moss and dampness and creeping grasses had displaced the old flags and snarled over them and been dried and rain-drenched and made new again, so that one could hardly see the original at all — managed to walk down the shallow, distorted, old but smoothed steps to the garden.

Billee was near me in a basket chair; I had my back to her and my eyes shut when Burton came out through the opened French door that led into the disused conservatory outside the dining room and said sharply:

"Look here, kid, this thing isn't funny."

"Careful," she said in a tone hardly audible, and although I couldn't see her I knew that she nodded like a warning toward me.

"I know it — I don't mind Libby," he said. "What I want to know is where I stand."

"Why, I suppose you stand where you've always stood, Doodoo," Billee answered lightly after a perceptible pause.

"Yep. And where does this lug Wainwright stand?"

"You mean Munro? Don't be silly," Billee said scornfully.

"It's not utterly silly. Quit kidding. You know what we said on the trip — that night outside Salt Lake City."

"Why, I suppose you stand where you've always stood, Doodoo," Billee answered lightly after a perceptible pause.

"Yep. And where does this lug Wainwright stand?"

"You mean Munro? Don't be silly," Billee said scornfully.

"It's not utterly silly. Quit kidding. You know what we said on the trip — that night outside Salt Lake City."

"I'm serious," I said, rising.

"Munro's your property, isn't he, Libby?" he said, and caught at my hand and pulled me down to sit precariously on the edge of the deck chair beside him.

"Completely," I conceded in a tone that made it a joke.

"We're engaged, she and I," Burton said sharply, scowling.

"We are not." She denied it quietly, her face flushing.

"We are, darling," he said. And to me he added, "We ought to be, anyway."

I felt my own face reddening uncomfortably and I made an effort to loosen Billee's hand. But her fingers held tightly.

"I mean everything I said, and I still love you, Doodoo," she said with a little angry feeling, "but now's no time to talk about all that. Tomorrow we'll be on our way. Please don't make a fuss."

"You've fallen for Wainwright," he said.

"Billee, — telephone call from Aunt Rose," Munro said from the doorway. "You're to join her at the Deepwater Lodge at Tahoe Thursday night — that's tomorrow. That means a hundred and forty miles driving for you, old boy!"

He looked, as always, cold and triumphant and very handsome as he stood there; there was a little amused twitch at the corner of his mouth, is if he knew exactly what anger and resentment Burton was feeling and liked the sensation of baiting him.

"Stop teasing," I said sharply as I walked by him. He caught my undertone, looked amazed and wheeled about as that he went with me as I went into the house.

"My dear girl," he said, very low, "I wouldn't for the world do anything that you didn't like!"

It took my breath away. Why should he waste that passionate apology on me? But Munro had a way of taking one's breath away; I think he had that same effect on every woman.

"Anyway, you like me well enough to scold me like a good mama," he said. It was one of those things that a woman remembers in the very tone in which it was said. What followed wasn't at all clear to me then. The lunch bell rang immediately, and I had no time to analyze it — or try to — until later.

"I don't understand your game, Miss Liberty Dryden — that's the name, isn't it?" he said, laughing. "But I think you are rather deep. Get me?"

LEADING HORTICULTURISTS PROVE PARMONE
STOPS EARLY DROP OF APPLES AND PEARS
PARMONE CONCENTRATE
PARMONE IS A HORMONE CONCENTRATE. ONE 4 OUNCE BOTTLE MAKES 100 GALLONS OF SPRAY

PARMONE causes apples and pears to cling longer and more firmly to the tree, thus preventing or greatly reducing pre-harvest drop. With PARMONE, the picking season is lengthened, there are fewer windfalls. Fruit has time to reach full maturity, thus improving in colour, quality and size.

Does Not Delay Normal Ripening

PARMONE does not delay normal ripening, hence fruit should not be left on the trees beyond the proper picking stage. With most varieties, a single application of PARMONE properly timed is usually sufficient.

PARMONE has been thoroughly tested by leading horticulturists in Maritime and Ontario apple orchards, and has amply demonstrated its effectiveness. This year, insure better fruit by spraying with PARMONE as soon as dropping begins.

Price of Men's Shirts Doubled Since 1939

Ottawa, Sept. 9 (CP)—The Prices Commission was told Wednesday that the retail price of men's shirts has more than doubled since 1939.

T. W. Leacy, acting chief of the prices branch of the Bureau of Statistics, gave this testimony as the commission launched a study of shirt manufacturing costs and prices.

"Most of the price increase occurred during the last year. There was a particularly large jump of 34 points in the (shirt) index for March 1 of this year," he said.

Calling prices and subsidies on men's shirts had been removed Sept. 15, 1947, but not until March 1, 1948—5 1-3 months later—had there been any effect on the cost-of-living.

At July 1 this year, the over-all cost-of-living index was 155.7 but, despite the shirt rise to 227.8, the index for all men's clothing was 190.3. The shirt-index increase had contributed 0.54 points to the general increase.

"An ordinary low price shirt, when available, sells for about $4," said Mr. Leacy. "The cost to the retailer is approximately $32 a dozen, including sales tax of eight per cent and freight.

"The mark-up in this example is therefore $1.38 on $2.50, or approximately 60 per cent of cost and approximately 37 per cent of the retail price.

Advise Retail Price

"The manufacturers of shirts customarily advise the retail price. When the retailer puts on a sale of shirts he does not advertise specific manufacturers' branded shirts at these sale prices."

Mr. Leacy said production of men's shirts fell from 710-303 dozen in 1939 to 554,050 dozen in 17943. It jumped to 854,-677 dozen in 1946 and 1,043,484 dozen in 1947. A "further small increase" was expected for 1948.

Of the 20 companies making fine shirts — as opposed to work shirts — there were five "large firms":

The B.V.D. Company Ltd., Montreal Tooke Bros. Ltd., Montreal; Penmans Garment Ltd., St. Hyacinthe, Que; Cluett Peabody and Company of Canada Ltd., Kitchener and John Forsyth Ltd., Kitchener.

These companies had 2,120 of the 4,127 employees in the industry in 1946 and paid $2,700,000 a little more than one half of the industry's wages and salaries.

The 1947 output of shirts "was sufficient to provide only 1.1 new shirts during the year for each one of the 4,440,000 men of ages 15 to 74 in the population.

Three Officials Testify

Three officials of Cluett Peabody testified after Mr. Leacy completed his evidence. They are F. Marshall Richardson of Toronto, vice-president and managing director; Cecil J. Hodgson of Montreal, assistant secretary and controller, and Charles W. Curran, director of merchandising.

H. A. Dyde commission counsel asked whether Cluett Peabody sets retail prices for the retailers who sell its product.

"We definitely do not," said Mr. Richardson.

"Do you suggest prices?" asked Mr. Dyde.

"We do not see them in any way, shape or form."

Pressing this point, Mr. Dyde said he accepted the statement. But he asked again: "Do you suggest ever to a retailer the price at which your shirts should be sold?"

AS REDS MUSCLE INTO BERLIN'S GOVERNMENT

German Communists are shown as they battered their way into Berlin's city hall in a successful attempt to overthrow the elected city government of Berlin. In unprecedented lightning-fast action, the Red action squads beat up two U.S. reporters and seized the council chamber. The regular elected city government later met in the British sector of Berlin, where they will attempt to carry on the business of government. This storm of violence marked the third time in two weeks that Communist-led agitators forced the elected city government to call off a meeting in a drive to take over power. Russian-backed police and Soviet Tommy-gunners kidnapped 19 western zone Berlin policemen as they left the Berlin city hall under a Russian safe conduct guarantee.

Big Ferry Dock On N.B. Coast Costs Millions

Cape Tormentine, N.B. — (CP) The world's largest ferry dock, under construction in this village at the easternmost tip of New Brunswick, already has cost $1,000,000 and will cost at least another $1,000,000 expenditure before its completion.

The dock is designed to withstand the severe ice conditions of Northumberland Strait and the propeller wash of the Abegweit—world's biggest ice-breaking ferry which plies the nine miles between Cape Tormentine and Borden, P.E.I., and represents Prince Edward Island's main link with the rest of Canada.

The dock is being built with huge concrete cribs, prefabricated and launched 20 miles away at Pugwash, N.S., and towed to Cape Tormentine by tugboats. The hollow cribings weight up to 1,800 tons and some are 72 feet long, 29 feet wide and 34 feet deep. Upon arrival they are manoeuvred into position, sunk, and then filled with concrete.

Twenty-one are being arranged to form a causeway 750 feet long, a pier 250 feet long and a 100-foot breakwater.

Causeway and pier, with their over-all length of more than a quarter mile, are buttressed against the elements by 500,000 tons of rock from quarries at Wallace, N.S. A whole buttressing has been shunted in daily. The vast project has been under way since November, 1946.

The Heavy Springs

A system of springs has been devised to cushion the Abegweit's impact against the dock when she has to crush in through heavy ice. Engineers searched the country until they found a firm which could fashion 404 coil springs from tempered steel bars three inches in diameter. When installed the springs will have cost more than $300 each.

The new ferry pier, from 61 to 125 feet wide, will be criss-crossed by railway tracks and switching yard for the railway cars moving to and from Prince Edward Island by the ferry and Abegweit. There will also be a warehouse and automobiles using the ferry. The switching yard and road will be sheltered by a concrete wall 13½ feet wide, built to rebuff ice which sometimes smashes into shore in thick blue sheets four or five miles square.

The only comparable dock, at the Abegweit's P.E.I. terminal at Borden, is being extended but will be slightly smaller than the one here. The ferry is capable of backing any ice in open water but could be handicapped in winter by the present inadequate landing facilities.

The new $4,000,000 wharf at Cape Tormentine, plus $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 worth of improvements at the ferry will enable the $7,500,000 Abegweit to maintain a regular schedule no matter what conditions prevail.

BRITAIN MAY AMEND CIVIL AVIATION ACT

London, (CP) — Amendment of the Civil Aviation Act may follow a new system of "free flights" into Britain, employed by air lines which actually are competing with the government-controlled companies.

Some companies which have been refused permits to fly a commercial service to South Africa, for example, make Paris their European terminus, then issue a "free" ticket for the last leg of the flight to London.

Some observers anticipate a spread of the practice, with charter companies under-cutting the corporations.

LITTLE KNOWN POLITICIAN MAY BREAK DEADLOCK

Henri Queuille Will Try to Form Govt.

Paris, Sept. 9 — (AP) — De Gaullists demanded today a revision of the French constitution as their price for support of a cabinet Conservative Henri Queuille hopes to form.

The followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, wartime Free French leader and first postwar provisional president after the Germans were chased out, are rightists. Paul Giacobbi, head of the De Gaullists in the National Assembly, said he insisted on elections next month to the council of the republic, the second French chamber.

Queuille is trying to form the 14th French cabinet since the war. Robert Schuman's government resigned Tuesday after 64 days in office.

He immediately ran into Socialist opposition when he informed them of De Gaullist demands. He has said he cannot form a cabinet without Socialist support. He scheduled another meeting with Socialists for this day and probably will tell President Vincent Auriol afterwards whether he thinks he can form a stable government, excluding Communists.

Queuille, a 64-year-old doctor from Limoges, was elected to the lower house of the war. A Radical Socialist (Conservative), he has held several cabinet posts since the war and was Minister of Public Works and Transport in the government which fell Tuesday night.

At an early-morning press conference after consultations with party leaders, Queuille indicated he did not wish to form a government that might be unstable.

He declared that the ever-mounting inflation and other financial problems were the gravest facing France. Queuille added he hoped to set this morning with the man he hoped to have as Finance Minister, the broad outlines of the financial and economic program to be assembly. He did not identify the prospective Finance Minister.

"The financial situation," he said, "is such that it makes necessary a quick vote on financial laws capable of maintaining the value of money. They must be voted without delay."

Almost as he spoke, the dollar marched an all-time high of 620 francs on the black market as Frenchmen tried to get rid of money in a stable currency.

One of the new measures taken by the Robert Schuman government in its 64-hour term in office was ordering the payment of a 2,500-franc ($8.33) bonus to almost all land and sea workers have been accepted for salvage operations in the Mainland forest fire area.

He expects the successful tenders to be known in a few days.

No estimate has been made of the number of cords of pulp and timber, and the percentage of the original stand that can be salvaged, he said. The reason for this is that the fire damage was spotty, with a lot of timber recoverable in some areas and less in others.

FRANCE BECOMES HOST TO U. N.

At a special ceremony in Paris, United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie (left) accepts from former French Premier Robert Schuman a golden key as a symbol of France's temporary surrender of sovereignty over the Palais De Chaillot. The U.N. General Assembly will meet there starting September 21. Schuman said that France "is proud and grateful" to have been chosen to play host to the U.N.

In this night scene the inferno lights up the sky for miles. Only hope of sub-luing it lies in possibility of flooding the depths of the well in order to smother the wild-running oil at its source. Five-Minute 'Ice Pick' Operation On Brain Helps Mental Cases

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 9 (AP)—A new "ice pick operation" on the brain is helping to restore sanity to some patients at state mental hospitals.

The new technique, known as a transorbital lobotomy, was described by Dr. J. L. Knapp and Dr. Edward F. Reaser, superintendents of two West Virginia hospitals, in a report to the State Board of Control.

Dr. Knapp said although the operation is performed directly on the brain it is simple enough to be performed by any surgeon in the hospital staff. Most brain operations have been done by a specially skilled neuro surgeon. The new technique was developed by Dr. Walter Freeman of Washington. It gets its name from the use of a special surgical instrumen, resembling a common ice pick.

This is driven carefully upward through the eye socket, without damaging the eye, into the brain. Then it is moved from side to side, cutting certain brain tissues and nerves. The skull is not opened, and the entire operation requires only five to 10 minutes.

The exact effect of the operation is not known. It is believed, however, that the cutting through a section of the brain the old path of worries which caused insanity also are cut. New pattern then can be developed through recreational, occupational and other standard types of treatment.

Thus far, most of the operations have been performed at the two West Virginia institutions with no ill effects more than a common black eye. Others are planned the doctors said.

The operation is not cure-all they emphasized, and it is too early to judge its full value.

50,000 Made Idle When 170 Workers Stage Walkout

Action Boosts to 115,000 Through Strikes in U.S.

Chicago, Sept. 9 (AP)—A strike involving only 170 independent union workers made idle some 50,000 automobile workers in Detroit today.

The 50,000 laid off in auto plants boosted to more than 115,000 the number of workers made idle in the country's major strikes. Some 64,000 workers are involved in strikes in the west-coast oil and shipping industries and in the trucking business in the New York area.

A walkout of 170 plant guards at the Briggs Manufacturing Company in Detroit was followed by a shutdown of eight plants and a layoff of 25,000 workers. The plants closed after members of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.U.) refused to cross picket lines.

About 19,000 employees at Chrysler Corporation and 6,00 at Packard were laid off because of a shortage of Briggs bodies.

The strike by the members of Local 114, United Plant Guard Workers of America (C.I.O.) was called in support of demands for 15 minutes paid preparatory time.

No Settlement in Sight

There was no indications of an early settlement in the auto plant wages strike involving some 15,000 workers or in the work stoppage of 25,000 C.I.O. longshoremen over a contract dispute.

In the west-coast refinery strike, however, there was a cautious note of optimism after negotiation sessions with one of the six major struck companies and the oil workers union, (C.I.O.)

A state conciliation supervisor said after a meeting of union and company officials that "certain possibilities for a settlement this week have been developed" but a statement is reported to have advised. a Royal Commission can undertake only part of what the provinces want.

Apply For New Boost

Meanwhile the railways, which got a 21-per-cent increase from the Board in March, have applied for a new 20-per-cent hoist.

The province gave notice this week that it will not pay and will move the Board defer consideration of the new case until ended rules on the Royal Commission and to let their appeal from the old verdict.

Coming on on a solo attack from another angle is British Columbia, which has a separate case before the commissioners for removal of the "mountain differential," an increased rate of some hauls over the Rockies.

On the political front, the Board is trying to keep three balls in the air at once—the general enquiry the railways' new application and the B. case.

FREIGHT-RATES TANGLE CONFUSES EVEN EXPERTS

Seven Provinces Do Not Want Inquiry But Ask for Royal Commission

Ottawa ,Sept. 9 (CP)—If the man in the street goes dizzy trying to follow the gyrations of Canada's freight-rate involvements, he's in good company.

Even the experts get confused now and again so fantastically complex is the network of entanglements that form the background of this month's round in the battle over railway tolls.

The next round, it appears now, is to be Sept. 27 skirmish on whether or not a railway application for a rate increase is to be heard now.

The federal government has ordered a general inquiry into the whole freight-rate structure by the Board of Transport Commissioners, with a view to levelling off regional rate inequalities.

Seven provinces—all but Ontario and Saskatchewan—want that and have asked the cabinet for a Royal Commission to investigate all Canadian transportation.

The cabinet, which at first rejected this request, now has it under reconsideration. Cabinet referred it to the Justice Department is reported to have advised. a Royal Commission can undertake only part of what the provinces want.

And it was held as close to Ireland as Mr. Costello could get in Canada—the home of Hon. J. J. Hearne, high commissioner for Eire.

Cattle Rustlers Active in Lambton

Sarnia, Sept 9 — (CP)—Lambton county's cattle rustling toll is well over the 30 mark, police said today. Latest victim reported is Adam Scott of R. R. 1, Bickford.

Police said the rustlers who have been plaguing district farmers in the last two months only move one or two animals from each farm. They seldom return to the same place.

It is believed herds are spotted in the daytime and the cattle loaded in the early morning hours by dropping the tail gate of a truck over the farmer's fence.

ONTARIO WILL SALVAGE FIRE-DAMAGED TIMBER

Toronto, Sept. 9 (CP) — Deputy Minister Frank MacDougall of the Lands and Forest Department said today lumbermen have been accepted for salvage operations in the Mainland forest fire area.

He expects the successful tenders to be known in a few days.

No estimate has been made of the number of cords of pulp and timber, and the percentage of the original stand that can be salvaged, he said. The reason for this is that the fire damage was spotty, with a lot of timber recoverable in some areas and less in others.

Farmers Begin Loading Stock To Return Home

Young farmers had their innings also, winning prizes for their ability to judge cattle, sheep, hogs and other agricultural products.

One of the national horse show Wednesday night is a crowd of some 2,500 saw a frowded program of equitation events, including some excellent high jumping. The Thomas A. A message from Auckland said there was a tidal wave at Nukualofa, in the Cook Islands 800 miles east of Tonga, but that no damage was reported.

An Australian Associated Press dispatch from Suva, Fiji, suggested the earthquake might have occurred at Niuafoo Island, about midway between Fiji and Samoa. The residents of Niuafoo Island have moved to other islands in the past year because of damages caused by a volcano.

Importer Accused Of Horsewhipping Daughter's Lover

London, Sept. 9 (AP)—A wealthy importer was accused today of horsewhipping Kenneth Coates, who admitted intimacies with the importer's actress daughter, Jacqualine Cano, 20.

Coates, a former R.A.F. officer, told the court Horace Cano horsewhipped him with a whip and hit my back, arms, legs and face." On cross-examination, he said he was the father of Miss Cano's unborn child and that they had been in love on several occasions.

Cano is a London city councillor. His daughter's screen name is Jackie Henderson.

"I did not seduce her," the 24-year-old Coates said. "There was willing co-operation."

Coates testified Coates went to see Cano July 11 and they drove into the country. The father challenged Coates to a fight in a country lane and started beating him with his fists, the prosecution continued. When Coates refused to fight, the prosecutor said Cano took a riding whip from the car and went to work.

Cano is accused of causing Coates "grievous bodily harm."

Wild Well Brought Under Control

Edmonton, Sept. 9 (CP)—Fire at Atlantic No. 3 oil well was out today and Alberta Conservation Board officials commented injection of water into the producing zone had choked off the crude oil and natural gas.

At 9 a.m. EDT today the well was brought under control, the 60-hour raging holocaust of oil flmied out and the six-month-old battle to control the unchecked production appeared won.

I. N. McKinnon of Edmonton, Conservation Board chairman, said that injection of water into a relief well "definitely affected" the flow of gas and added it is planned to keep pumping water into the formation.

Firemen Will Employ Means To Obtain Award

North Bay, Sept. 9 — (CP) — A spokesman for members of the North Bay fire department said today the city firemen will employ every legal means to obtain higher wages and shorter working hours awarded them recently by an arbitration board.

City council Wednesday decided it would not accept the board's decision until voted to do so, and said its acceptance will be conditional on permission from the Ontario Municipal Board to increase taxes to meet the higher wages.

The firefighters' spokesman said they would not strike, "as we are employed to perform the duties of protecting the lives and property of citizens."

The arbitration board's ruling fixed the total wage bill of city firemen to approximately $11,900 per year.

Smoke-begrimed and weary firefighters, with the reflections of the flames lighting up their strained faces, labored through the night in their battle to bring under control the huge fire which is now consuming vast quantities of crude oil at Atlantic No. 3 well in the Leduc oil field near Edmonton. The fire started Monday and may rage for days. It climaxed a six-months rampage at the wild well.

Belief in Superstition Sometimes Brings Many a Pitfall to Man

By B. U.

Mockridge C. Wrottle was, perhaps, the most superstitious person ever to miss a golden opportunity because of his superstitions. This unlucky fellow probably cause there were twelve others at the table. He was not an irrational type, he just did not believe in giving fate odds.

Mockridge was extremely high strung. So high in fact that he needed an extension ladder to get out of bed in the morning and on days when the wind blew across him from south to north he gave off a thrill hum that somehow attracted pekinese.

This peculiar nervous condition probably cause Mockridge undue concern, and led to his stubborn adherence to carrying a rabbit's foot, a five pound bag of salt, and a small hammer. He never explained the presence of the hammer.

Despite all his precautions Mr. Wrottle was plagued with ill luck. His rabbit's foot cost him $12.00, a jail sentence, and his friends.

It happened this way. He was walking through the workroom of an exclusive fur store when he noticed an unusually small and furry paw protruding from a pile of rabbit skins. Thinking that one paw in ten thousand would never be noticed he drew his jacknife and severed the foot.

He was apprehended the next day by a lurking agent of state police, directed by a hysterical fur owner. He was wearing, strangely enough, Mockridge. In his illimed haste, had hacked away a portion of a chinchilla that had been matched with several others at great expense for purpose of making a wrapper for one of the guardian angels stars. All was ruined—including Mockridge

Returned to Pitfalls

Mr. Mockridge was paroled he returned to the pitfall in life into which an unrelenting fate seemed to guide him. As he boarded a street car he felt that a monstrous stroke of misfortune was being directed at him and to ward away the danger he dipped into his five pound bag of salt and threw a handful of the crystals over his right shoulder as directed. The throw carried Mockridge, the salt, and a near blind pedestrian right into a lawsuit; with the pedestrian claiming heavy damages, or a least a chance to throw salt at Mockridge.

Evading black cats has caused Mr. W. no end of pain and discomfiture.

One dark night, while attempting to run around a black cat Mockridge dashed up an alley right into the middle of an illegal dice game, the arms of the gambling squad, and a charge of being a "Wrottle in".

The races alas, proved the undoing of Mockridge C. Wrottle. Threw Shoe Over Shoulder

Mr. Wrottle was walking past the track one afternoon with his eye out for ladders to walk around when he spied a horse shoe in the street. Such amazing good luck left Mockridge speechless, temporarily, but recovering what was left of his senses he grasped the shoe firmly in his right hand and threw it over his left shoulder with all the strength he could muster.

It was a ten strike. The shoe, which disappeared over the wall surrounding the track struck No. 10, the leading horse, right between the eyes and dropped it like a sack of meal. A rank outsider, in more ways than one jumped over the leaders which had piled up alarmingly, and was the only horse to finish. It cost the punters nearly $500,000 and several bookies had to sell their Cadillac cars to make ends meet, Mockridge just met his end.

Moral: Do not look over the four leaf clover, look under it. There may be man-easting mole there.

London —(CP)— The Balkans long synonymous with wars, intrigues and cloak-and-dagger activities, seem to be running true to form, even on the athletic field.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug, said yesterday that among the events at the Balkan track games starting at Belgrade Sept. 16 will be the "bomb throw."

Melbourne — (Reuters) — Three lion cubs escaped from their cages at Melbourne zoo during the fiercest hirricane to strike the city for 35 years.

They were only six months old, however, and were found squatting dejectedly among a number of unconcerned kangaroos.

Leominster, Mass. — (AP) — Two months ago Simon Caisse, 71, reported the theft of a $90 pocket watch, which wasn't working.

Someone returned it recently, putting it inside Caisse's rear screen door.

The watch now runs.

San Francisco — (AP) — One fossil peanut caused the downfall of an elephant.

May, a zoo inhabitant, reached too far out for the peanut, and fell into an eight-foot-moat.

She had to spend the night there. A ramp will have to be built to get her out.

DUTCH FOLK GREET THEIR NEW QUEEN

Her royal majesty, Queen Juliana of Holland, in her first drive through Amsterdam as sovereign, at the Dutch people, is offered flowers by Elaje Jansen, a pupil of the Pazzel-chool in the Kattenburg quarter of the city. The royal consort, Prince Bernhard, acknowledges the offering with a salute while Princess Beatrix, opposite the queen, gazes shyly at the little girl who proffered the gift. Between the queen and prince is Princess Margriet while Princess Irene is hidden behind Beatrix.

Food Shortage to End In '49 is Prediction

By OVID A. MARTIN

Washington —(AP)— The war and post-war period of shortages and high prices of farm and food products is drawing to a close.

A new era of surpluses is at the threshold.

Surpluses will develop first with the major food materials such as the grains. They will come later in the case of finished products, such as meat, dairy and poultry products, sugar and food fats.

Already the United States is beset with apparently excessive supplies of potatoes and dried fruits. A wheat shortage which plagued the country only a few months ago has disappeared. Farmers are harvesting the second largest wheat crop in history. There will be plenty to meet all our needs andassed perhaps a record quantity abroad.

The 1949 corn crop on record is nearing maturity. Livestock feed bins, which had run dangerously low as a result of last year's corn crop failure, will be overflowing.

It is quite possible that the end of next year's harvest will see the end of the food shortages and the end of rising food prices.

But this would bring back many of the problems of depressed farm prices and income which plagued farmers — and the country — during the late '20s and '30s.

Farm Officials Worried

Already farm officials and farmers are beginning to worry. Wheat prices have dropped more than 30 per cent in six months. They now are down to the level at which the agriculture department is required by law to support them. The regular market is unable to take all wheat being offered.

As a consequence, much of the new crop is being stored by growers under government price-supporting loans. This is being expected to happen with corn this fall.

Should next year's crops be large ones, the result could be troublesome farm surpluses. These surpluses would move into the hands of the United States government. Price support laws require the government to take them over.

The government would be faced with the problem of what to do with the surpluses. There are a number of possibilities.

Undoubtedly there will be pressure to have the government to sell these surplus supplies to domestic users at cut-rate prices. Or the government might protect farmers' income by buying the entire farm production — not just surpluses — at prices promised farmers and resell at the cut-rate prices.

It is quite likely that cut-rate "dumping" of surpluses abroad, particularly in western Europe, may be one means used in the years immediately ahead to dispose of surpluses.

There always is the possibility that the government will return to a "hand-off" farm policy such as existed before the New Deal. Under this policy if farmers produced too much they suffered in terms of low prices.

Number-one Pest, Aussie Rabbit Is Big Money-Earner

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — Australia's No. 1 pest, the rabbit, is also another second-best dollar earner. In the last financial year this country earned more than $30,000,000 by exporting more than 90,000,000 rabbit skins.

For years the rabbit has been the landowner's worst enemy, but it has been a great friend to the trapper. Many landowners have been forced off their properties and bankrupt because of the destruction caused by the rabbit, while many trappers of the past have been able to buy land with money won from the rabbit skins.

More men have earned a living trapping, handling and processing the rabbit and its by-products than in any other industry in Australia. All through this winter trappers have been earning up to $300 a week trapping on the out-back properties.

But farmers and ranch owners still see the rabbit only as a pest. They claim that more money could be made by sheep and cattle off land destroyed by the rabbit than by the exporting of skins. Millions of dollars a year are spent in trying to exterminate rabbits but so far no method has proved successful.

At a meeting of sheep breeders in the southern districts of New South Wales early this year it was suggested that £1,00,000 ($2,320,000) be offered as a reward to anyone discovering a means of wiping out the rabbit. The reward, they said, would be small compared with the benefits that would result.

Fences Not Repaired

Post-war shortage of wire mesh for repairing the fences that help to keep rabbits in check has caused considerable increase in their numbers all over Australia. Records show that the first rabbits were brought to Australia in the early days of the colony of New South Wales, as it was known then. Thirteen brought out as "pets" had, within a few years, increased until they overran the area in which they were released. They quickly multiplied westward to the fertile land west of the Blue Mountains and swept down into Victoria like a flood.

Settlers of the period erected wire-mesh fences in their path but they got through and continued their journey westward across the continent. West Australians felt safe with the Nullarbor Plain between them and the invader but they reckoned without his resourcefulness. He merely waited 14 years for an extra wet season and then stretched across the desert.

When it was reported in West Australia the premier sent an expedition to check if the report was true. The expedition returned within three months with the news that rabbits had not only crossed the Plain but had done so in alarming numbers.

The premier, Sir John Forrest, immediately ordered a wire-mesh fence to be erected across the continent. The fence was pushed north in feverish haste and just as everyone began to feel safe the rabbit was found on the other side. He had rounded the fence before it had gone 700 miles.

A second fence further west was put up parrael to the original with a similar result.

Prairie Harvest no Longer Attracts Hordes of Workers

Regina — (CP) — Much of the color has gone from the Prairie harvest scene along with the toil once involved in reaping Canada's top commodity.

Power machinery — more and more in evidence since the mid-'30s — has slashed the labor demand and speeded up harvest operations.

But Saskatchewan's farmers girding for the annual onslaught that puts them on top in Canadian wheat production, still know they're heading for days that may last 18 hours or more.

From early August till late September ranks generally as harvest time. Early-ripening wheat has been developed to speed operations and beat the deadly fall frost that has plagued Saskatchewan farmers since the turn of the century when wheat changed the province from an outpost.

The farmers may be delayed — as this year — by late spring and tardy rains. Or his operations may be suspended by early snow.

Preceding those harvests of the past were special excursion trains that hurled thousands laden with husky men from Cape Breton's coal fields, Maritime lumber camps, Quebec and Ontario farms and factories.

For fabulous meals, a bunkhouse bed and $6 to $10 a day — plus money with a nickel bought a cigar — they tramped behind horse-drawn binders to pile sheaves into stooks that dotted the wheat fields in regular patterns.

Used-Stationary Threshers

Then with racks, they loaded the sheaves and drove to the stationary thresher where straw belched out one spout and grain out another.

Hungry men — a light setter wasn't considered a good worker where feed five times a day by a harassed housewife whose main task was rain that would halt threshing and leave stranded on her hands hordes of mouths to feed.

That scene began to fade with the advent of the combine or reaper-thresher that cut and threshed the grain in one operation. During the last decade many farmers continued using the old stationary thresher because they couldn't afford to buy new equipment.

With the return of wheat and markets, there appeared tractors and combines to cut the seasonal migration to a comparatively trickle. Only 500 workers are expected for the Prairies this year.

A modern crew of three men, truck and a self-propelled combine methodically threshes as much in a day as five times that number of men could have managed formerly.

And in good grain country where heavy soil assures top yields, a fine midnight in harvest time will show a dozen outfits rumbling steadily through the crop, their brilliant headlights shining for miles.

Meanwhile, trusting and weedgrown in almost any farm-yard corner is it hasn't been sold for scrap, is the old stationary thresher sitting beside a binder or two and perhaps an antique steam engine or old-style gasoline job. Today's harvesting doesn't have that personal touch.

Four Beaufighters Missing From Great Britain

(London, Sept. 9 — (Reuters)— Four Royal Air Force Beaufighters are missing from the country because a elaborate host coasted slickly through offRightsman.

Scotland Yard has appealed to Continental police to help discover where the planes have been taken. They have been suggestions, it may have been Eire.

The twin-engine Beaufighters were bought from the Ministry of Supply as surplus by a charter company which resold them to persons claiming to be representatives of a movie company.

For a price said to be well under £2,000 (£20,000) each the planes were delivered at a private airfield six weeks ago. For some days a busload of men and women "extras" with camera equipment arrived at the field and the four planes were taken aloft. But while rumors seemed to be grinding.

Then on the bank holiday some men appeared at the airfield, producing "certificates" from the Ministry of Civil Aviation and flew away the four planes on the understanding that the film was to be completed at Exeter.

But they did not arrive in Exeter and Scotland Yard officers found the ministry had issued no certificates under which they could be flown away.

Merchants Down Kiwanis Juniors In Semi-Finals

Led by the fine five hit pitching of Dick Fitzpatrick, Belleville Merchants downed the Kiwanis Juniors 5-3 last night in an interesting game of ball at the Fair Grounds. The win gave the Merchants the first game in a best two-in-three semi-final series for the league championship. Fitzpatrick was in fine form as he set the Juniors down, with five scattered hits, two walks, and eight strikouts. The Merchants scored those all important runs by playing everything for one run.

Merchants opened the scoring in the first inning as Wardaugh got on on an error and advanced on Fitzpatrick's sacrifice. He stole third and came home when the catcher tried to throw out Carson who had walked, at second.

Merchants added another tally to the credit on a single and two errors and brought over two more members in the top of the fifth on a walk, a sacrifice, a hit, an error, and a wild pitch. They wound up the scoring in the ninth frame with Bennett scoring on a triple and an overthrow. Juniors got one run in the 8th when Reeves singled in Semark who had received a life on an error to the shortstop. Lockyer's home run in the fourth ended the match with two away and no one on was the other Junior tally. Sunday Last Fewer

The jubilants Merchants, who took the game in their stride, played a sober type of ball, with no one getting excited as the game went on, not seeming anxious to become more, and more lulled by what was taking place.

A light, low hanging fog, which began to drift over left field in the late innings brought on an objection from Merchants shortstop which lifted the fans from their lethargy momentarily.

The Juniors were definitely not playing the class of ball that carried them to a victory over Ottawa here on Labor Day. However, their lack lustre performance in no way dimmed the Merchants victory. Fitzpatrick was asked on the game's end time, keeping them off balance and bewildered by a curve and a knuckle ball that just was not there when the batters swung.

Don Semark went the route for the Juniors, walking five, striking out seven and giving up seven hits for five runs and the verdict.

Kingston Locos Lose Second Game To Peterborough

Peterborough, Sept. 9 — (CP)

Fred Garvey's single in the eighth scored two runs to give the Petes a 7-6 verdict over the Kingston Locos here Wednesday night. It was their second win in as many starts of the C. O. H. finals.

The homesters had to come from behind after spotting Locos five runs in the first game. The Petes gave Bill Edgar, who pitched well after the first heat, shaky support. He allowed but two earned runs as he gave up nine hits and fanned 10.

The next game will be in Kingston Thursday night.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

That meeting of the executive of the Bellerville Baseball League Tuesday night, though not conducted exactly according to parliamentary procedure, did what few politicians seem to be able to do by sheer force of argument, that is, bring a situation stalemated. The memorable meeting, as you should have heard in last night's edition, smashed the Trenton Athletics from the Belleville Baseball League for the remainder of the season, and decided that the ECAF Flyers and Picton should have a chance to fight it out for the right to represent this league in the OBA "B" playdowns.

The first point was merely a matter of procedure, because, for all intents and purposes, the season is over now, but it did open the way for the other two squads to settle their differences on the diamond, and advance in the OBA playdowns.

The executive, though more than somewhat trapped by the OBA secretary in the matter of declaring a winner by September 11, did not help matters too much by holding the meeting so close to the deadline. Had the meeting been held on the weekend, all the unpleasantness might have been avoided, and the Intermediate B contender could have been determined on the diamond performance. If it is fair, one of the teams involved in the race has been suspended, leaving the other two to fight it out in what amounts to a sudden death game.

The whole matter seems to have arisen over a misunderstanding on the reconstruction of the ECAF Flyers, who dropped out of the Belleville league at the last meeting. Many of the players were likely to be posted before, or during playoff time. The OBA gave its sanction to the lower classification, subject to the approval of the league executive. Then, at a meeting of the executive in August, the Flyers request for a B rating was voted down 4-3.

Prior to the vote it was agreed by those present that a claim from the Trenton Athletics would be disregarded as they have been the first game in a best four-in-seven series, be wiped off. Trenton won the game 5-3.

After considerable discussion, it was decided that the vote was invalid and this meeting was authorized by the Fair Grounds where a ball game was in progress. After the ball game the matter of Trenton's claim was reopened with Sgt. Kelly, as manager of the team, stating the team's reasons for wanting a lower rating, and agreeing that if the lower status was granted the Flyers would keep the players for the round robin series with Trenton and Picton. This was voted on and the Flyers request was approved.

Tuesday night the Trenton management stated that the Monarch had played ten game in Picton on the assumption that the Flyers had already been granted a championship, and asked that they be awarded the game. Picton felt that the game should be played out and the additional game, however, made it impossible to rule on the player's eligibility.

A suggestion that a sudden death series be played met with Picton's disapproval and a schedule for the completion of the round robin series could not be drawn up owing to the inability of the Monarch to field a team for Wednesday because of too short notice, and Picton's inability to get their players out of the factories Thursday night. So it all off the Flyers had a game scheduled with the North Hastings All Stars for the Coe Hill Fair, Wednesday night, and did not feel that the date could be broken.

At this point, stalemate set in, and when no solution could be arranged, the Trenton representatives walked out, leaving the league heads no alternative but to suspend them and arrange for a date between Picton and the Flyers to determine a winner in compliance with OBA specifications.

In a conversational chit-chat after the main issues had been dealt with, president Kelly made the very sound suggestion that the league executive be composed of men who have no connection with the teams either as players or managers. It is a suggestion which this bureau would like to second. We would also like to suggest that, when appointed, or elected, as the case may be, be men known for their common sense rather than for their baseball knowledge. If there are candidates with both qualifications, so much better. Let this group of men draw up the schedule, outline a program for the conduct of the teams, and be the general governing group whose decisions regarding all matters pertaining to the local league would be without question. In this way future unpleasantness can be headed off before it has a chance to grow.

Belleville Merchants, showing some unusual strength, took the Kiwanis Juniors to camp last evening at the Fair Grounds by a respectable 5-3 margin. Dick Fitzpatrick, on the firing line for the Merchants, scattered five hits over the nine inning contest while limiting the Juniors to two. He struck out eight and was in front of the batters all evening.

The win gives the Merchants a one game edge in their best two-in-three semi-final series with the winners having the right to meet Napanee for the title. The Juniors were away off form, impotent at the plate, and lackadaisical in the field, but they have no alibis for the loss because the Merchants won the game on their merits. Date of the second game, which should be a honey, has not been announced as yet.

Head-on Crash Injures Woman

Mrs. William-C. Farley, Ottawa, is in hospital here with facial lacerations following a head-on crash east of Trenton Wednesday afternoon which saw four other persons slightly injured.

Suffering bruises and a shaking up were Mr. Farley, Mr. and Mrs. Alex G. McIntosh of Toronto, and Mrs. Marie Vanier, also of Toronto.

Provincial Police reported that the accident occurred when a car driven by Mrs. McIntosh, going west, went out of control and crashed head-on with the Farley vehicle. The highway was wet at the time of the accident. Both cars were badly damaged.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 9 — (AP)— It probably would be poetic justice if Billy Meyer, who toiled to develop players in the Yankee farm system for so many years, should help the Pirates against the Yanks in the World Series . . . and if that should happen, Billy probably would put in several sleepless nights thinking about the power produced by his ex-pupils . . . Rookie Hank Bauer (not eligible for the series) gave Meyer a sample one day when Billy was managing Kansas City and Hank was playing for the blues . . . Meyer was coaching at third when Hank lined one right at him. Billy made one move before the ball struck him under the heart and he went down and out . . . the fans were about ready to buy flowers, but Meyer recovered and resumed his duties the next day . . . Thereafter Billy was exceedingly cautious when Hank approached third plate and he always tabbed Bauer as a real Powder River puncher.

Free-for-All Develops After Umpire is Struck

Sudbury, Sept. 8 (CP)—A free-for-all in which outfielder Art Reidstad of Timmins Combers struck Umpire Joe MacDonald in the eye broke out after Copper Cliff Redmen edged out a 8-7 victory in 13 innings over the Buzzers in the third game of their best-of-five Nickel Belt senior baseball playoff series here Wednesday night.

The free-for-all started to develop after MacDonald called Frank Ovis of Copper Cliff safe on a close play at third on a fielder's choice. A heated argument followed with the umpire being shoved around by the Copper Cliffers.

If Ovis had been called out the Redmen would have lost the game. Centreton now leads the series two games to one.

Reidstad's blow which struck the umpire was thrown after the game ended.

MacDonald today won his eye report with league officials and disciplinary action is expected to be taken.

With the score 4-4 at the end of regulation innings, the game was a see-saw struggle until Berk Keasey came through with a two-run single in the 13th.

Letty Steimakowich received credit in the victory after relieving Fuz Didone with the bases loaded one away from the top of the 13th.

Tim Gaudette scored, cost right-hander Bill Soltisk the verdict after he had set the Redmen down on a three-hitter. Box Score.

Things Look Dark for Rest Of American Loop as Boston Takes Longest Lead of Year

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The outlook appeared gloomy today for the rest of the American League as Joe McCarthy's battering Boston Red Sox boasted their largest lead of the season.

Coming from behind in typical fashion, the murderous Sox overcame their rivals, New York Yankees 10-6 Wednesday night to increase their margin over the runner up New Yorkers to 2 1-2 games. Their previous best advantage was a game and a half.

In drawing first blood in their all important three game series with the Yankees, the Red Sox kept two winning streaks alive. They extended their latest to eight straight, and now are just one consecutive triumphs apart from matching the all time best they copped 22 of their last 26.

The Sox gained their latest triumph the hard way. Hardly when they found themselves had the game got under way trailing 4-0. Five singles off started Joe Dobson gave the Yankees four runs in the first inning. Undaunted, the Red Sox bounced back with a hit off Frank Shea in their half of the same inning to take a 5-4 lead.

Birdie Tebbetts' two-out triple drove in Wally Moses and Billy Goodman with the lying mark. Billy Hitchcock followed with a single to score Tebbetts.

After the Red Sox moved in front 6-4, the Yankees tied it up with single runs in the sixth and seventh innings. Yogi Berra's 14th home run furnished the fifth and Hitchcock's fumble, Tommy Henrich's single and Hank Bauer's long fly produced the other.

Johnson Gets Credit

The Sox quickly untied the score in their half of the seventh. With Jeff Dorgo on the mound, they put together three hits and three walks to pour four runs across and put the game out of the Yankees' reach. Lefty Earl Johnson, who had replaced Dobson in the seventh, was credited with his eighth victory against two defeats.

The third place Cleveland Indians scored an unearned run in the last half of the 11th inning to nip Detroit Tigers 8-7 and remain 4 1-2 games behind Boston.

Larry Doby, who rapped out four singles to extend his consecutive hitting streak through 19 games, scored the winning run.

Bob Lemon, trying for his 20th victory was shelled in the 7th. Zoldak, fourth Cleveland pitcher was credited with the victory.

Philadelphia's fourth - place Athletics swept a twilight-night doubleheader from Washington Senators, 10-7 and 5-3, to reduce Boston's margin over them to nine games.

Double Play Halts Nats

The A's had to survive a ninth inning rally to win the opener. A leaping stab of Mickey Vernon's liner when Washington Ferris Fain converted into a game ending double play halted the Nats after they had tallied four times and loaded the bases. Carl Scheib gained his 12th victory with a seven hitter in the nightcap.

Exploding for four runs in the eighth inning, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Reds in Cincinnati and strengthened their second place position in the National League pennant race. They now own a half game advantage over the idle Brooklyn Dodgers and trail the leading Boston Braves by 2 1-2 games. The Braves and Dodgers were idle.

Johnny Schmitz limited the Cardinals to two hits in St. Louis pitching Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 triumph. He also fourth-place Cards' consecutive lead and dropped them to 5 1-2 games off the pace.

Andy Seminik walloped a two run homer in the top of the ninth to enable Philadelphia Phillies to nip New York Giants 5-4 the win enabled the Phils to climb out of the cellar by a half a game over Cincinnati.

Veteran Players Provide Backbone Windsor Rockets

By GEORGE TATHAM
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 8 — (CP) — Veteran players, with a smattering of rookie talent, provide the backbone of the 1949 Windsor Rockets who open their fourth Ontario Rugby Football Union campaign at Varsity Stadium here at Hamilton next Saturday.

George Reynolds of Windsor youth who got his football training at the Detroit Institute of Technology, has proven the outstanding newcomer. He shone in the Rocket backfield in two pre-schedule games where his passing arm accounted for most yards gained in each contest. He is labed for regular backfield duty in his first season of senior football.

Veteran campaigners Johnny Renna, Bill Hands and Stan Gerbula will team up with Dengal in the backfield on a fifth squad which has been thoroughly overhauled since last year.

Sam Sasso, former Rocket player and mentor, and Mike Hedgewick of Sarnia, former Canadian Tiger football fame, have taken over the coaching reins this year from Art Massucci who handled the team in 1947.

Two of last year's standouts George Dawson and Steve Chamko won't be with the Windsor squad went to the Big Four Montreal Alouettes while Ottawa Rough Riders of the same league signed quarterback Dawson.

Rookies Ray Gonzales, Mike Georgo and Fred Mundry have all been trying for the starter spot with either Gonzales or Mundry expected to start against the Hamilton squad.

Also slated for backfield duties are Len Camlis, Del Willick, and Charles (Red) Hartwell, a former outside wing; Vic Dowe, former centre; and rookie Bob Hollup and Bill Autterson.

Flory Fiero Ghetti, an O.R.F.U. All-star in the late thirties will team up with Jack Morsean at middle guard. Paul Dazzi and Leo Herbert are slated to go at tackle. Vic Schmidt, converted from inside to outside, will share his duties with Stan Skoreski.

Bill Conner and Julius Gall will see outside action along with Harrison who will play there as well as in the backfield.

Other veterans plugging for position include Gene Mangrum, Syd Lyvinsov, Joe Scislowski, Joe Leahy, Joe Purdyk, Gord Wilson and Hank Chaplinski.

Vancouver, Sept. 8 — (CP) — Two top, golf stars have created a teapot tempest on the coast by their failure to enter the $10,000 Canadian Open Golf tournament which opens in Vancouver's Shaughnessy Heights course Sept. 22.

Defending champion Bobby Locke of South Africa is not entered.

United States Open champ Ben Hogan hasn't said "yes" or 'no' but his silence is being taken as consent.

Pat (Vancouver Sun) Slattery writes that Lockes refusal to enter means "the British Empire doesn't stand a ghost of a chance of winning."

"Locke out of the way, the field is cut and dried for an American victory.

"This isn't meant to be a slam at Stan Leonard or any other Canadian professional, but let's face it. Who have we got who could stop the Yankee tide?"

Reluctant Ben

Slattery says everything possible has been done to bring Hogan here for the tourney.

"About this stage of the Canadian Open I couldn't care less if Hogan comes or not for decides to stay home and play jacks.

"If the guy has to be coaxed for months and finally enticed with a $1,500 guarantee then I'll settle for characters like Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum and Skip Alexander."

Slattery contends the open is a prestige event which is too important an event for name golfers such as Hogan to pass up for some other event.

"The money doesn't rank with some other tournaments, but I'll lay you 20-1 being Canadian open champion packs a lot more weight than being winner of the Richmond Open or the Split Lip, Virginia, Invitation" he says.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

No doubt you have bumped into what is called the exploratory one club opening. It is an opening bid of one club with or without a bidable club suit. You must have seen it abused and misused.

This bid is a hybrid; an offshoot of a union of contradictory bridge minds. It was a compromise between an instinctive player and his rule partner. It became an expectation that satisfied both.

The instinctive player sometimes got a hand that was not quite sound enough for a rule opening. To him it looked too good to pass. But, when he opened, his pair too often got into trouble.

It irked him to refrain from bidding such hands. It rubbed in to be criticized for their bad results. And his pocketbook was hurt when it caused partner to disbelieve his good bids.

At times when his opening was strong, partner figured he had stuck in one of the light things. When his opening was light, the partner reckoned it might be a strong holding.

Suggested the rule player: "If you must open a non-ruler with one, up ins off to it." Replied the other: "Okay. I'll open such a hand with a club and you can be suspicious unless I rebid."

Thus, one club as an opening started as a glorified psychic; a phony or gambling opening. It gave partners a cheap chance to learn if they had anything. Hence its name; exploratory one club.

Many are ignorant of its original purpose. They fail to confine it to the exception for which it was intended. Or they are incapable of safely manipulating the later rounds of bidding.

I saw a player open with one club when he held this hand:

♠J 10
♥A Q J 9 6
♦A K 7 4 2
♣9

It is a sweet opening bid of one heart. Does such a player need the exploratory one club opening? Like he needs another hole in his head.

Hollywood, Sept. 9 — (AP) — Eleanor Powell, whose talented tapping toes earn her $3,000 a week, says she's quitting her dancing career for good.

"I'd love to have another child," the shapely brunette wife of actor Glenn Ford explained. "I'd be ashamed to tell you how many more I want. I love children. No, I'm not expecting one now.

An imminent 10-week night club tour — her third across country in the last three years — will be her last, Eleanor said. She may do one more movie dance, a part just offered her, "to see how I look in color," and possibly a show at London's Palladium next spring. Then retirement.

After 22 years, Eleanor thinks "it's about time I quit dancing." She started at 13, at $75 for three nights a week in an Atlantic City hotel. "I was on Broadway, I was in Ziegfeld's last show. I've had my own radio program. If I play London I'll realize my dreams and there won't be many things left to conquer."

Not Glenn's Idea

Was her total retirement Glenn's idea? He filled a pipe, shoved his hat back and said, "I haven't said anything one way or the other. I don't believe in that. Glenn first saw Eleanor from the balcony of a New York theatre where she was dancing in

"At Home Abroad" 10 years ago. A few years later they were introduced by Pat O'Brien at a dinner party in his home here.

Eleanor, at 17, had been declared "the world's fastest feminine tap dancer" by the Dancing Masters of America, a professional group. Their scouts, listening from under theatre stages, made their choice on the sound of candidates' taps.

Jerry Kerschner Wins First Place In 12-Mile Swim

Lake George, N.Y., Sept. 9 (AP) Twenty - three - year - old Jerry Kerschner pocketed $1,500 today for his victory in the 12-mile Lake George Swim.

The husky athlete from Columbus, O., achieved his first major professional swimming triumph Wednesday by capturing the gruelling event in 4 hours and 59 minutes.

It was the second time in less than a week that his long-distances swimming prowess netted a bonanza. He won $1,000 last Friday by finishing third in the 10-mile Canadian National Exhibition swim at Toronto.

But Wednesday he defeated the $5,000 first-prize winner of the Toronto marathon, Steve Wozniak of Buffalo.

Wozniak, 33, negotiated the Lake George course in 5 hours and 18 minutes, crossing the line 19 minutes behind Kerschner. Wozniak won $500 of the prize money awarded the 11 contestants who swam the full 12 miles.

Several finished after dark and the 11th crossed the line at the stroke of midnight.

One Woman Contestant

Probably the most popular competitor was Shirley May Francer, youngest of the 29 starters and the only feminine contestant.

The 16-year-old high school junior from Somerset, Mass., finished 10th. She ended the race at dusk after 9 hours and 42 minutes in the water. She won $350 in prize money and will receive the Grant Land Rice Trophy awarded the first woman to finish. Third place and $250 went to Tommy Park of Hamilton, Ont., who swam in second position most of the way. Park covered the 12 miles in 5 hours, 25 minutes, just seven minutes behind Kerschner.

Charlie Grover of Cambridge, Mass., a pre-medical student at Harvard, returned fourth in 6 hours, 21 minutes. He won $150 for this and then remained in the water to try for the $500 endurance award.

He was joined at midnight by 50-year-old Paul Chotteau, veteran Florida swimmer who finished at that dark hour as the 11th and last of the starters to go the full route.

Chotteau spent 14 hours and 6 minutes in the race itself, then circled near the finish line with Grover in a duel for the endurance money. They still were at it early this morning.

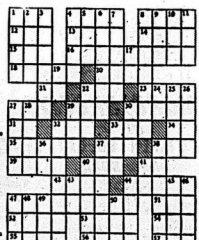
I was watching pop smoke the 2nd half of his fast cigar, seeming like a comfortable time to bring up the subject again about my old roller skates needing new ones, and I said, Hay pop?

Hay, pop said.

Meeing what, and I said, I've certainly been good lately, you'd hardly recognize me.



I dident I'd noticed a change in you, and I'm relieved to hear the cause, pop said. I had an idea you might be coming down with a cold, he said, said, I've been doing everything ma told me to without a single argument, and she's been feeling me plenty.

That's fine, pop said. The keeper of life is based on a sistem of dubble entry book keeping, and each time that you're very good . ballances another . time when you weren't so good. For instance I remember one time when you persisted in tipping your chair back at the dining room table after repeated warnings, and you lost your ballents and grabbed the tablecloth and spred ruin and devastation, including water in my lap, he said.

Aw limminy, pop, that was at least 2 years ago, I said, and pop said, Really? It seems like yesterday to me, but I suppose you have more of it ahead of you, he said.

Anyays, pop, to prove how good I've been, I even did things I was suppose to do without even being reminded, such as shining my shoes before I went downtown with ma, I said, and pop said, That ballences the time you put salt in the goldfish bowl to find out if goldfish would be happy in the ocean.

Aw shucks, pop, how can you and each time that you're very remember so far back? I said, and pop said, Oh, I suppose I just have a naturelly retentive memory for things passed as well as present(, such as the fact that new pair of roller skaes. In fact it wouldn't serprise me if you and I took a little trip to Stern's hardware store and picked out a

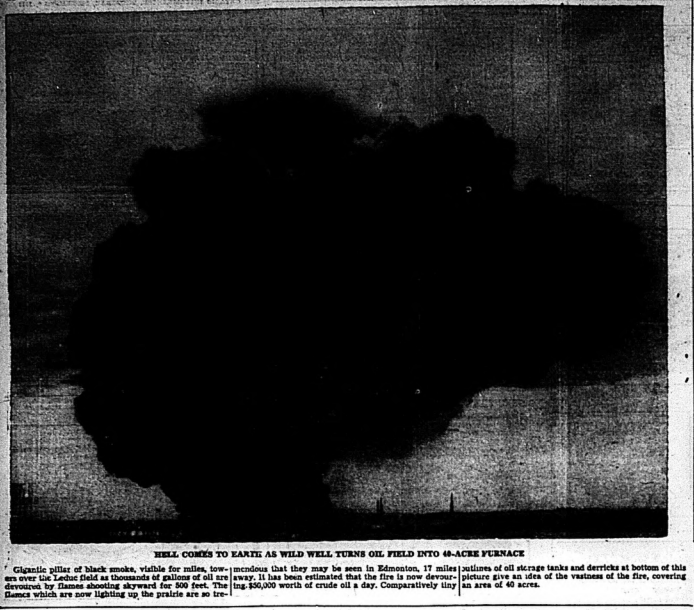
Gas and Stomach Disorders Made Her Nervous, Rundown



"Suffered 3 Years," Says This Woman. Got Bad Rheumatic Pains. Always Tired; Could Not Sleep Well. Tells How Syntona Helped Her.

"For the past three years I suffered from awful spells of nervous indigestion with gas and pains after eating," said Mrs. Lavina McEwen, Lucan, Ontario, in a recent report.

"Many days I didn't feel like eating at all. My head would sour and rise in my throat, gas formed in my stomach and I suffered from headaches. I got very nervous, my nerves all on edge. My entire system was run down. I felt very easy condition of my stomach. I suffered from rheumatic pains in my shoulders and arms. I was always tired, but could not sleep well. My son, who is a druggist, advised me to try Syntona. After having tried a lot of different things without benefit I was badly run down, nervous, tired, could not sleep, suffered from gas and stomach disorders, and decided to try Syntona. After using two bottles I felt a difference in the world to me. Even from the first bottle I noticed my food beginning to digest better and my nerves were getting steadier. I rested well and I am entirely free from all gas, sourness and distress. My nerves are steady, I sleep as that's sober sound, restful sleep, the aches and pains have left my body and I feel like a different person from what I did a few weeks ago."

Why not let this grand Herbal Compound help you as it has so many other locals, men and women? Its speedy, effective and pleasant action has surprised nearly everyone who has taken it.

HELL COMES TO EARTH AS WILD WELL TURNS OIL FIELD INTO 40-ACRE FURNACE

Gigantic pillar of black smoke, visible for miles, towers over the Leduc field as thousands of gallons of oil are devoured by flames shooting skyward for 500 feet. The flames which are now lighting up the prairie are so tremendous that they may be seen in Edmonton, 17 miles away. It has been estimated that the fire is now devouring $30,000 worth of crude oil a day. Comparatively tiny pictures of oil storage tanks and derricks at bottom of this picture give an idea of the vastness of the fire, covering an area of 40 acres.

Wings Strengthen Hold on Third In Int. League

(By The Associated Press)

Rochester, Syracuse and Toronto Maple Leafs, are waging a spirited battle for the two remaining playoff berths in the International baseball league.

Two spots already are clinched with league-leading Montreal Royals and runner-up Newark certain to be half the entires in the Shaughnessy Cup playoffs which follow the regular season schedule.

Rochester's Red Wings strengthened their hold on third place, Wednesday night, winning a doubleheader from the Royals 5-1 and 5-3. Dick Burgett drove in what proved to be the winning runs in each game. His single brought in one of the two runs Rochester scored in the final frame of the seven-inning opener. He batted in two runs with a double and two singles in the nightcap.

Stan Lopata's home run over the left field wall in the eighth inning gave Toronto a 5-4 victory over Buffalo and put the Leafs into a fourth-place tie with the idle Syracuse Chiefs.

John Macfarlane pitched three-hit scoreless relief ball for seven innings as his Newark mates came City 7-5.

FOUR PLANES MISSING

Manila, Sept. 9 — (AP) — Four United States fighter planes which took off from Clark Field here Wednesday morning for routine training were unaccounted for today.

At least 16 planes were reported in the flight which encountered bad weather off the northwest coast of Luzon. All except four were unaccounted for, the United States Air Force said.

Angler Jumps To Another Boat In Landing Fish

Wedgeport, N.S., Sept. 9 —(CP) — Three international angling parties crowded the heels of the United States team today as the International Tuna Tournament moved into its second day.

The American edition of modern Izaak Waltons took the lead Wednesday in the opening day of the four-day classic by landing five tunas.

It was a day of thrills and controversy after Lou Marron, an American from Brielle, N.J., jumped to another boat to land his fish.

The first boat had broken down under the stress of fighting a tuna hooked only a matter of minutes after the contest began. Marron's second catch, a tiny tuna weighing only slightly more than 100 pounds, was landed with little difficulty in about 15 minutes.

The Cubans were second in this fifth International bluefin match with three fish caught while the other two teams in the contest, the British Empire and Argentina, had hooked one and two fish each, respectively.

Edlef Hoemann of Buenos Aires, who had never fished tuna before, was the hero of the day when he landed two, one of which he hooked two minutes after the contest began.

Col. Leslie E. Sadler of Chagford, Devon, England, landed the British Empire's only catch after a 100-minute, four-mile battle that found its trembling kind in the shallows off Tusket Island.

First Resistance To Dismantling Plants Reported

Hamburg, Sept. 9 — (AP) — The first active resistance of Germans to dismantling of factories for reparations was reported from the Ruhr today.

A spokesman for the iron and metal combine of Geisenkirchen said 4,000 workers employed under Military Government contract would be "withdrawn from the job."

The men have been employed on dismantling and packing for removal plants listed for reparations. The spokesman said in the future the workers would dismantle only factories engaged in war production. (The Allied program is roughly divided into two parts: war plants and factories declared surplus to the German economy.)

The workers' resistance forced management to withdraw them from the work, the spokesman said.

FOUR MEN KILLED

Helena, Ont., Sept. 9 (AP) — Four men were killed 1st Wednesday in the collision of a Great-Northern Railway freight engine and a rail work car 20 miles north of here. Railway officials said four other men are in serious condition in hospital. Twenty-one others received minor hurts.

Private Burial Rites for Benes Will be Held

Prague, Sept. 9 — (AP) — Private burial rites for former president Eduard Benes will be held at his country home tomorrow, official sources said today.

The body was taken back to Sezimovo Ustl, where Benes died last Friday, after a closely-guarded state funeral here which displayed Communist apprehension over possible anti-government demonstrations.

The Czechoslovak statesman will be interred Friday in a tomb on a hillside of his little country estate overlooking the winding Luznice River, which rolls through the countryside of southern Bohemia.

Premier Anton Zapotocky mustered hundreds of troops, police and factory militia for Wednesday's state funeral. Hundreds of thousands of mourners who packed the line of march were cut off by a wall of human flesh and steel from any chance at what the ministry of interior said might be an attempt to "desecrate" the funeral.

Among the precautions was a change in funeral plans which saw the body carried to Pankrac prison for official rites.

The change in route protected President Klement Gottwald from more than a brief exposure to the crowds that jammed Prague streets for the funeral.

President and Mrs. Gottwald arrived five minutes after the scheduled starting time for the rites in the Hall of Fame at the National Museum and left before the Grosnjin Hall. Gottwald did not appear in the funeral procession nor did he take part in the ceremonies at Pankrac prison.

PILOT, STUDENT KILLED

Decorah, Ia., Sept. 9 (AP) — Robert Sattre, 14, Iowa's youngest flying instructor, and three students crashed to their deaths Wednesday night when a kit of landing flares apparently ignited, turning their plane into a flaming torch. The four-place plane burst into flames several hundred feet in the air as it was about to land after a night training flight.

BROUGHT TO LANDING

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 9 (AP)—Capt. Mike Morse, National Airlines pilot, brought a DC-4 to a safe landing here Wednesday with one of its engines afire, and aided 13 passengers in filing from the craft without untoward incident. Morse said he saw fire blazing from the engine as he came in for a landing, but knew the plane was in no immediate danger.

CHAINED BOOKS

The custom of chaining books to stands or reading desks was common in parts of Europe in the 15th and 16th centuries.

SAILS FOR LIVERPOOL

W. H. Vaughan, executive editor of the Windsor Daily Star, is pictured as he sailed aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada for Liverpool, Eng. Mr. Vaughan will spend about six weeks in England, during which time he will combine a business and pleasure trip.

Wages, Newsprint Costs Increase

Toronto, Sept. 9 — (CP) — Wages and newsprint, which account for more than half of newspaper publishing costs, have increased in Canada by 95 and 100 per cent respectively since 1941, according to figures in possession of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association.

These figures were referred to in a survey of Canadian newspaper price increases, which showed that 60 per cent of Canadian dailies now charge five cents a copy.

No figures are available to show the total overall increase in the cost of producing Canadian newspapers, the C.D.N.A. said.

The Canadian Press in a dispatch Aug. 27, through an erroneous interpretation of available figures, said publication costs had risen more than 200 per cent since 1941.

THE MAN WHO CAME BACK

Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet boss in Berlin, is shown (left) as he arrived in Berlin for a resumption of meetings of the Allied military governors which were interrupted when Sokolovsky walked out some time ago. The meetings are seen as an indication of the early lifting of the blockade that Russia has kept clamped on Berlin. Four-power talks in Moscow are believed to have been responsible for resumption of meetings by the Berlin military governors.

13,000 FILIPINOS HUDDLE AT PORTS AWAITING RESCUE

Deadly Gases Pour From Erupting Volcano

Manila, Sept. 10 (AP)— Deadly gases poured again tonight from erupting Hibokhibok volcano on Camiguin Island as almost 13,000 Filipinos huddled in two southeastern ports awaited rescue by ship.

The Philippine coast guard's cutter Anemone messaged briefly that all towns on the tiny southern island were deserted except two on the southern end. Both, the cutter said, were jammed with refugees threatened by chlorine gas emitted by the volcano in its 50th consecutive day of eruptions.

The Anemone said there were increasing volcanic explosions from the mile-high mountain during the night.

Brief messages from Camiguin tonight failed to say how many of the islanders were removed today but conservative estimates here placed them at about 1,000.

It was said that all of the Philippine navy on the island were safe as late as 7 p.m. came from volcanologist Alejandro Alcaraz, who had been earlier, broadcast an urgent appeal for ships to take off the 12,000 inhabitants as the poisonous gases spread southward from the volcano.

"The volcano exploded at about 7 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) and is now nearly an oily choking, detected. I consider it dangerous for anybody enough to warrant extreme precautionary measures. Ash particles were acidic and-the air had a yellowish tinge during the activity. There is no casualty report from last night's activity.

"Because of the mass evacuation of the island came unsolicited. The volcano had subsided Thursday. Some refugees actually had started back home. Always after 100 hours of activity the volcano might spew forth lava in any direction." Deadly gases killed 1,305 Filipinos during an eruption of Taal volcano near Manila in 1911.

In addition to the menace from the gas, authorities in Manila worried by the opening of a third crater in the west slope of the mile-high volcano, Mt. Hibokhibok. It was the largest formed since the current eruption began.

Claxton Calls Upon Youth Of Canada to Step Forward And 'Help Guard Our Country'

Ottawa, Sept. 10 (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton in an interview today called upon the youth of Canada to step forward and "help us guard our country."

As he spoke, the Defence Department—sparked by a special committee—was wading into the greatest drive for recruits in Canadian peacetime history.

They are to fill an unlimited number of men to fill out the air service organization that will spend an estimated $200,000,000 this fiscal year.

Mr. Claxton said in the interview that "the international situation has produced changes in policy and conduct in every part of the world."

It had "produced an attitude in Canada towards defence different from anything we have ever had in peacetime.

"We are busily engaged in building up forces" we regard as the minimum necessary to meet defence needs of Canada. Our forces are not going to be large but we want them first-class—second to none anywhere."

The $545,000,000 budget compares with the $13,000,000 voted in 1931, eight years before the Second World War.

Lt.-Col. J. M. Delamere, chairman of the three-man inter-service recruiting committee, says the "high flyers" will be wanted. He indicated it will support the drive through advertising. Helping too, will be the CBC and a group of private radio stations.

Other officials spoke of the two years in which the Allies "almost were caught unprepared." They added:

"We'll be ready next time."

As to incentives for enlistment the official said the government has under consideration the problem of the welfare of dependents and allowances.

Already constructed for married members of the forces are some 2,400 homes, another 4,000 are under construction.

"The government has not forgotten the single man," said Col. Delamere, new, modern quarters for unmarried soldiers are under consideration.

This coming summer, he continued, the army will be equipped with new light serge uniforms and a different type of headgear. The present type, too, is considering a new headgear, smarter and more comfortable than the field service cap.

"Two trends will be noted in the future of Canada's defence," added Col. Delamere, one is towards an increase in the three services as much as possible. The second is towards fighting in the skies.

"The army of the future is being made airborne," he said.

The Royal Canadian Air Force training of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at Edmonton and Rivers, Man. Other regiments in Canada soon will follow."

TWO PRISONERS, SHOT, WOUNDED BY PRISON GUARD

Trying to Escape From Road Gang

Toronto, Sept. 10 (CP)—Two unidentified prisoners at Burwash Industrial Farm near Sudbury were shot and wounded by a prison guard during an escape attempt Tuesday, it was learned today.

A prisoner who was released yesterday from the provincial institution said he understood the men were hit with shotgun pellets as they made to escape from a road-working gang. He said the prison-workers were each entrusted with a ticket line of guards.

C. P. Neelands, Deputy Minister of Reform Institutions, said today that neither prisoner was seriously wounded. He was reportedly shot in the head and the other in the leg.

Mr. Neelands declined to release the names of the prisoners, who now are in the jail hospital.

The prisoner who was released yesterday said here the guards had formed a ring around the prisoners working on the road, and the men made a bolt to get out and one guard fired a shotgun.

Mr. Neelands said the guard fired to prevent the men escaping into the bush.

Last October prisoners rioted at Burwash, causing a royal commission after several hearings recommended dismissal of the prison staff. Last month Ralph Gibbons, a guard at the jail to become superintendent, was replaced following escape of five prisoners, some of whom are still at large.

Settlement of Crisis May be Impossible After Street Fight

Berlin Civilians, Russian Troops Clash in Square

By EDWIN SHANKE

Berlin, Sept. 10 — (AP) — Bloody street fighting in blockaded, divided Berlin sharpened fears today settlement of the German crisis may become impossible.

Allied sources voiced open concern mounting tension between communist and anti - communist Germans might pile up to a point where four-power negotiations now being held on the Berlin blockade would break down completely.

Thursday night's street fighting between Berlin civilians and Russian troops, supported by Soviet-zone German police, was the life of one German youth and injuries to at least 23 other Germans, police reports said.

The clashes occurred near the historic Brandenburger gate which marks the division of Berlin into east and west. After 200 Germans had demonstrated in a nearby square, Russian troops arrived.

Crowds hurled rocks at three Russian soldiers who joined them and at Russian-controlled police.

British - sector police headquarters reported 23 casualties.

Russian military police and their German stooges fired shots in the throngs of anti - communist demonstrators.

British - sector police headquarters reported 23 casualties.

The police spokesman claimed the demonstration was directed against the Soviet military administration. It carried a veiled threat against Russian leaders, renewed demands for ousting the elected anti-communist city government.

Dusting off their best invective, the communist papers branded "fascist rowdies" for the riot.

The communists formed a so-called socialist unity party (S. E. D.) called on Berliners to boycott anti-communist - organized mass meeting today into a counter - demonstration.

Allied observers said they felt the outbreak was deliberately resulted from a sudden outburst of pent-up emotion.

Second Shooting Incident

Thursday night's street fight was the second shooting incident in Berlin current crisis. The other occurred July 14 when Russian sector police fired upon German police in Potsdam, suburb, during a black - market raid in downtown Potsdam. Two Germans died.

In London the Premier's tribute:

Clement Attlee paid a truly great citizen. The death of Bishop Seager has left a gap in the community great throughout Ontario, not only in the greater part of its own communion but in those of every denomination who recognized the great powers of leadership which he raised him to the position in the Anglican Church Metropolitan of Ontario.

It is particularly unfortunate that he was not given the opportunity to interpret the Lambeth Conference to which he had looked but returned before his death. Four Canadian Delegates Refused Entry into States

Niagara Falls Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—Four more Canadian delegates heading for Labor Union conventions in the United States were barred at the border Thursday.

Two United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) delegates and two representatives of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O.) were refused entry. Previously, delegates of conventions of the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.) and International Chemical Workers (A.F.L.) were turned back by U.S. immigration officials.

The labor delegates said no reason was given in refusing them entry. In Toronto, a U.S. immigration spokesman said information on any person should be personal entry. They were not required to give a reason for refusing entry. Five delegates are going to 24 hours and wages conference of Canadian Employers' Welfare Councils in Racine Wis- and the Minneapolis delegates to an International Union Convention in San Francisco. Refused entry were William Mac Nin, an officer of the Farmers' Harris U.A.W. local in Toronto, and Henry Ingalls, a member of the shop committee. A third delegate was allowed to enter.

C.S. Jackson, an International Vice President of the U.W.W. and elected anti-communist city government.

Russian Bombers Roar Over Danish Island of Bornholm

Copenhagen, Sept. 10 (AP) Russian bombers roared over the Danish, island of Bornholm this morning for the second straight day.

A foreign office spokesman said he may decide to ask Minister Denmark shall lodge an official protest with the Soviet government" when foreign minister Gustave Rasmussen returns tomorrow. He is attending a Scandinavian Foreign Minister's meeting in Stockholm.

Col. H.E. Christensen, Danish Commandant of Bornholm, said in an interview in Ekstra evidently were off course and the flights had not been provocative in character.

"It is evident the Russian violations of Danish territory were taken place during great Russian military and naval manoeuvres in the Baltic area," he said.

"During the hazy weather planes have lost their direction and have involuntarily violated Danish territory in their search for landmarks."

All Nine Provinces Within Scope Of Health Plan

Ottawa, Sept. 10 (CP)—All nine provinces are within the scope of the federal government's $30,000,000-a-year health program today, three days after its first clause was tabled.

Health Minister Martin disclosed Thursday night Premier Duplessis of Quebec is now ready to co-operate. He made the announcement at the concluding session of the 19th congress of the Association of French-Language Doctors in Canada.

Mr. Martin had been made known earlier in Quebec that a proposed $62,000 a year under a program of federal grants-in-aid for the development of Federal proposals for a comprehensive health insurance scheme.

Announced in parliament May 14, it encompasses grants for health surveys in every province, for campaigns against venereal disease cancer and tuberculosis, for research, for training personnel and for hospital construction. It will raise annual health expenditures by all three levels of government to $130,000,000 a year and, Mr. Martin has said, it will be increased.

The Minister told the doctors Mr. Duplessis "informed me yesterday that the Quebec provincial government would take advantage of the plan."

Administration of the money would come under the jurisdiction of the provinces. Co-operative arrangements were being made to "determine the mutually acceptable conditions in connection with the grants."

In his wake, Dr. Marc Trudel, Minister Without Portfolio in the Duplessis government, said Quebec would accept the scheme "providing it did not take the shape of a trojan horse." The province was opposed to state health programs as enforced in some countries.

The first cheque was mailed out by the program's headquarters in Ottawa today, giving $29,485 to Ontario as the first instalment of the $130,000,000 it will receive for its health survey. The health organization was the first request received, but others are coming in now.

Taximan Robbed Of $50 by Three Gun-Toting Men

Toronto, Sept. 10 (CP) —three gun-toting bandits early today robbed taximan Nathan Borenstein of $50 and forced him to get out in a north Toronto Park and sped away in his cab.

Borenstein said he picked up "three fares" at the downtown Queen-Yonge area. One man who was asked to drive them to a certain address. Near the destination one of the trio, sitting beside Borenstein, shoved a revolver in the taxi driver's ribs. A second gun was shoved into the back of his head and he was ordered into the back seat.

The cab was driven to the park where Borenstein's pockets were emptied as he offered no resistance.

The automobile was later found abandoned on a west Toronto street.

Regulations on Power To Heaters Clarified

Toronto, Sept. 10 — (CP) — With skies generally sunny — in Ontario today, the Ontario Hydro Commission said it did not believe that any municipalities had cut off service to automatic water heaters, as was done yesterday in some places where all power was ordered to the power load for lighting.

The individual cuts yesterday were permitted because the commission was using every means possible to conserve power throughout the province - wide emergency that got into effect at midnight Monday night.

The Hydro Commission today corrected what it said was an erroneous interpretation of the regulations effective next week. Only all electric heaters are to be cut off.

The regulation sets forth that unless water heaters are equipped with thermostatic control, installed on tanks which are thermally insulated, no power may be supplied for water heaters that are leaving or replaced after Nov. 1.

In other words, water heaters installed after Nov. 1 must conform to the thermostatic requirements.

New-Type Warplanes of US Air Force Feature Jet Engines in Fighters

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP) — The United States air force has a fledgling force of new-type warplanes and $9,000 more than last year's ago.

It took stock of its position today as Sept. 18, the first anniversary of its status as a separate, independent arm of the fighting services approached.

In the last year, said an air force statement, 10 new models have been introduced, including three fighters, two bombers, three trainers, a trainer, a pilotless jet target aircraft and a cargo glider.

Jet engines are used exclusively in all the new fighter types and in the two bombers.

The fighters include:

The Curtiss-Wright F-87 "all-weather" craft designed to battle under virtually any climatic or local weather condition. The original model had four jets, but the production-line version will have six.

The North American F-86, the delta-winged jet which set an unofficial world's record of 669.78 miles an hour at the Cleveland air races last week.

The McDonnell XF-88, the parasite fighter designed to be carried by the B-36 and B-29 and the B-36 long-range bomber for release in the target when interception is encountered.

The fighter models was the first two-place Lockheed F-80, intended for use in teaching pilots of conventional craft how to move over to the swift jet types.

The Northrop XF-89, an air force unveiled the knife-winged fighter which flies in the 500-mile-an-hour class and carries eight jets in the XB-47 is considered the largest bomber in size.

It also came up with the Northrop B-49 "flying wing," a jet version of the XB-35 bomber, powered with standard reciprocating engines. The "wing" is powered with eight jets.

Among the new transports is the Consolidated Vultee XC-99, transport sister of the B-36 bomber, which the air force calls "the world's largest land plane." It can carry 400 fully-equipped combat troops or 50 tons of cargo.

Diefenbaker Proposes National Council to Develop All Resources

Toronto, Sept. 10 (CP)— John G. Diefenbaker said today he would like to see established a "national development council," consisting of Dominion and Provincial representatives of labor, agriculture and business, to formulate plans for the development of Canada's natural resources.

Mr. Diefenbaker, Progressive-Conservative member for Lake Centre, in an address prepared for delivery to the Rotary Club of Toronto said many "process vastly more of our raw products than any other Canadians, thereby preserving our heritage, becoming an economic satellite of other nations."

Eighty-five per cent of Canada remained to be developed.

"It will not be developed it left to the state," said Mr. Diefenbaker, "Collectively mentioned as candidates for the industrial leadership of his party."

Turning to Communism, he said the time had come to bring Communism "under the law" for "he who believed in freedom should demand that it also should be put in the law, in place of the laws which permit Communists to operate with impunity."

Another major challenge to free enterprise" was Socialism.

"I believe in Anti-monopoly interference by the state," he said, "but monopoly economy of half a century and half state enterprise in industry cannot long exist."

Roaring Blaze At Leduc New Still Razed

Edmonton, Sept. 10 — (CP) — A charred pock-marked crater of scorched earth today housed the strangled Atlantic No. 3 oil well as workmen mopped up after extinguishing the roaring blaze that consumed $750,000 worth of its oil in nine days.

Blue flames still licked sullenly at isolated pockets of escaping gas near the crater, but the flood of water pumped to the heart of the rogue well had choked off its uncontrolled flow of oil and gas, finally smothering the orange conflagration that had lit the night sky since Labor day.

The wells six-month rampage ended early Thursday night with a tremendous gusher that roared 200 feet into the air. Well off March 8, continuing with a steady seepage through ground fissures and crevices, reached a climax in Monday's blaze, the worst oil conflagration in Canada's history.

Fire-fighting holes fed water into the oil bearing area which soon neutralized the well's oil and gas pressure, and finally capped it with a permanent check on its activities.

The rest of Leduc's $500,000,000 field swelled by the rich new Leduc-Woodbend field, 10 miles southeast, was not affected by the blaze.

Oil men and engineers, foreseeing such an outbreak ever since the first floods of oil drenched the countryside, had already been primed when the blaze began.

With almost mechanical efficiency, bulldozers pushed great walls of earth within 300 feet of the fire in less than 24 hours, effectively sealing off the blaze from the riches of surrounding wells.

POWER-SAVING PROGRAM OPENS BEFORE DEADLINE

Flat - Rate Water Heaters Shut Off 12 Hours Due to Shortage

Toronto, Sept. 10 — (CP) — A lot of Ontario people who couldn't get hot baths Thursday found that the Ontario Hydro Commission was getting off to a fast start in its power-saving program.

Industrial power restrictions, previously announced, are to go into effect at midnight Monday night. But many Ontario municipalities have turned off automatic electric water heaters.

The Ontario commission explained that municipal commissions had been advised that effective Thursday, for seven days when demand for lighting power is increased, they might shut off power to the water heaters.

A number of municipalities scanning gloomy skies did just that. Among them were Kingston, Peterborough and Toronto, which cut off hot water supplies for 12 hours. The service was restored Thursday night but may be cut off again for the next eight days.

The appliances affected are the electric water heaters which do not go through the hydro meter and which may be cut off from a heavily loaded circuit affecting power supply to the remainder of the building.

When a heater shut-off on Thursday was independent of the regular seven-day cycle of the week. As from Sept. 14, water heaters will be cut off all the time unless they are equipped with thermostatic controls and installed on tanks which are insulated.

Other restrictions in effect next week ban power for display signs —airheaters, grates, radiators, coolers or any other device for space heating in hotels, tourist cabins, shops, offices and commercial premises.

HEAVY DRUM OF TAR TAKEN FROM FISHERMAN

The loss of a 40-gallon drum of tar was either heard to take that C. MacDonald, commercial fisherman from Point Anne, but at least the owner had the satisfaction that the thief or thieves had to work for their ill-gotten gains.

Two weeks ago Mr. MacDonald left a barrel of tar valued at $17.50 on the bay shore near the Quinte Fisheries on the Bay Bridge Road. Today when he returned to use the tar in tarring his fishing nets, he discovered that the full drum was missing with an empty one left in its place.

Chamber Ready To Co-operate With Utilities

Several items of business were dealt with at the first meeting of the Chamber of Commerce for the '48-'49 year, held Thursday afternoon at the Golden Arms.

The motion put by Mr. McConnell and seconded by Mr. Bateman that a letter be sent to the Chairman of the Belleville Utilities Commission requesting that a meeting of the retailers and manufacturers be called together to the imposition of the Hydro restrictions, with a view to deciding the most satisfactory arrangement for all concerned, and stating that the Chamber of Commerce was solidly behind any action which would be forthcoming in the committee and would back it by newspaper and radio publicity.

It was decided to ask the members, by means of the next bulletin, for any suggestions regarding nominations for delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce to be held in Vancouver, September 26-27-28.

The secretary was requested to contact Woolworths, Ryan Construction, and Mrs. Walker to suggest to them that building material now piled over a wide area in the vicinity of the rear of Woolworth's be piled so that a maximum parking area be left clear.

It was moved by Mr. Haig and seconded by Mr. Lattimer that a recommendation be placed before the Board of Trade for a more to-date map of the city be drawn showing all streets in the new sections, with the main highways clearly marked, and that this be made of suitable size to be used in printing tourist booklets for the city.

Stated by School Superintendent W. J. Morrison to be an exceptionally large enrolment for the opening of the fall school term, a total of 290 students reported for classes at the Ontario School for the Deaf on Wednesday. Six new teachers reported for duty at the O.S.D. for the forthcoming school term. These are Mr. Colin Cameron, Miss Helen McCammon, both of Toronto, boys' and girls' general training teachers, respectively, and Miss Mildred Smith, Miss Helen O'Grady and Mr. Robert Sinclair, all of Ottawa, and Miss E. V. Gardiner of Lyn.

Rev. R. E. Veasey, pastor of the Baptist Church for three years, has accepted a call to Burke's Falls. He will preach farewell services on Sept. 19th. Next Sunday members of the I.O.L. and L.O.B.A. will parade to his church for a farewell service.

Watermains in Parkwood Heights Will be Started Immediately, Court to Decide Debenture Payment

City council last night ratified the agreement between the special committee of council and the Parkwood Heights Association Wednesday when it was decided to immediately commence the laying of watermains in the Parkwood Heights area with details of the payment of debentures to be decided by the courts.

The question to be ruled by the courts is whether debentures will be paid out of current funds or the general tax rate.

In opening the council meeting Mayor D. L. Storey stated council had met jointly together merely to ratify the agreement for the Commission to commence the work in Parkwood Heights and to have the details of paying debentures ruled by the courts.

"The question is," he said, "is the Commission fully in favor of sufficient profits to pay the debentures can we force them to retain the rates satisfactory, or lower the debenture charges."

"The Commission members admit that council has the right to determine whether the holdings shall be paid out of profits, but they say we cannot tell them to keep the rates."

Would Not Accept Authority

Alderman Allin noted that the Commission would not accept the authority of the municipal committee to ratify the agreement but that it would be necessary to call the entire council. "The onus for the decision in this area be left clear."

It was moved by Mr. Haig and seconded by Mr. Lattimer that a recommendation be placed before the Board of Trade for a more to-date map of the city be drawn showing all streets in the new sections, with the main highways clearly marked, and that this be made of suitable size to be used in printing tourist booklets for the city.

Alderman Armstrong thought the Commission should assume the responsibility of debenture payments. "If we are going to have a commission then I think that they must assume some liability. Otherwise there is no use having a commission."

The by-law covering the agreement to commence the water mains was read but Alderman Hyde intimated that if that is to meet debentures for all contemplated water mains, the rates would have to double the water rates.

"This would have to come out of the domestic consumers," he stated. "The Canadian National Railways would not pay the extra charges for water at the Ontario School for the Deaf on Wednesday. Payment on this bill was larger than is customary as in many cases students do not arrive until later.

Six new teachers reported for duty at the O.S.D. for the forthcoming school term. These are Mr. Colin Cameron, Miss Helen McCammon, both of Toronto, boys' and girls' general training teachers, respectively, and Miss Mildred Smith, Miss Helen O'Grady and Mr. Robert Sinclair, all of Ottawa, and Miss E. Man Changes His Mind And Pays $19 Fine

There is a popular saying that it is the privilege of every woman to change her mind, but we suppose a man can claim the same right.

At least that is the right a man charged with drunkenness rules to pay the police court this morning — but it cost him $6 to so.

When apprehended by police officers by company with two others who had been imbibing too freely the man claimed innocence. He swore that so far as to say that he never indulged near any intoxicants.

This attitude was held right up to the time he appeared in court and officers had been called in to testify. When the charge was read to the accused he promptly answered "guilty."

The regular fine under the L.C.A. is $19, fine and costs, but the costs in this case were increased by the magistrate to $9. The accused paid the $19.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

There can be no doubt Canada's exchange position — her holdings of gold and United States dollars — has improved significantly, the monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia comments, adding the prospects for the second half of the year are quite favorable.

It cautions, however, such an appraisal "certainly does not mean Canada's exchange problem is solved or approaching solution."

The review notes that in the 18 months from June, 1946, to November, 1947, Canada's exchange reserves fell from $1,607,000,000 to $480,000,000.

"This represented an average loss of $86,000,000 per month — a rate of loss which, if continued, would have wiped out the remaining reserve by early this summer

The United States were some $160,000,000 greater than a year earlier and imports were down by nearly $150,000,000.

The review further notes expected expansionary gold were somewhat larger in the first half of 1948 than in the like period of 1947, and the volume of tourist account has probably been more favorable.

Also, in 1947, Canada retired substantial amounts of debt in the United States and made the contribution in gold to the International Monetary Fund.

"Without the European Recovery Program," the review says, "Canada would have been faced with far more difficulty of readjustment.

Security exchanges weakened further Thursday. Grains ended weak in Chicago but were firm in Winnipeg.

Blames Hoodlums From UEW Union For Free-for-All

Peterborough, Sept. 10 (CP)—Leionel Edmunds, chairman of the shop union negotiating committee at the Johnson Outboard Motor plant today blamed what he called "organized hoodlums from the United Electrical Workers" union for starting a fight at Labor meeting which broke up in wild disorder Thursday night. Police estimated 600 men were involved in a free-for-all that lasted more than an hour. Apparently no one was injured apart from flat fights.

Edmunds said "organized hoodlums from the United Electrical Workers tried to upset a union vote we were taking and when I told them we wanted no Communists in our factory the fight started." The men are employees of the Johnson Outboard Motor Co.

The meeting was called to return by a new agreement with the company raising wages between nine and 11 cents an hour. "We have 625 signed members in the Independent shop union," said Edmunds. The fighting stopped the vote, which was being taken today holds the Johnson plant.

L.B. PEARSON LIKELY TO ACCEPT CABINET STATUS

Will Take Over External Affairs Department Now Held by St. Laurent

Ottawa, Sept. 10 — (CP) — Appointment of L. B. Pearson, Undersecretary of State for External Affairs, to Cabinet status as Minister of External Affairs is expected to be announced this afternoon by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Authoritative sources confirmed that "one Cabinet change" is to be announced shortly.

A meeting of the full Cabinet has been called for 3 p.m. EDT and Mr. King is expected to acquaint his colleagues with Mr. Pearson's acceptance of the post.

The meeting likely will be short and Mr. King then will drive with Mr. Pearson to Government House where he will be sworn into the Cabinet by his Governor-General.

Later, Mr. King will call a press conference and make the formal announcement.

There was a suggestion that Mr. King also would announce the appointment of Norman Robertson, now Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, as Mr. Pearson's successor in the External Affairs Department.

Mr. Robertson, who formerly was the Department's Undersecretary, came to Ottawa last week-end from London on what he termed a brief holiday. However, unofficial reports suggested his visit had more significance than that.

If Mr. Robertson receives the suggested appointment, Mr. King also will have to designate a new High Commissioner to Britain.

Mr. Pearson will succeed Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, the newly-elected Liberal leader who is to succeed Mr. King as prime minister when he retires towards the end of the year.

Mr. St. Laurent, while he will give up the External Affairs post, is expected to retain the Justice portfolio, which he holds also in an acting capacity, until Mr. King formally retires. When Mr. St. Laurent takes over the prime ministership, Premley Garson of Manitoba is expected to be appointed Justice Minister.

Marilyn Robinson Holding Edge In Beauty Contest

Atlantic City N.J., Sept. 10 — (AP)— The mid-west United States today held an edge in the talent-and-curves race for the 1948 Miss America crown.

Dark-haired, blue eyed Marilyn Robinson of Ogden, Utah, and Beatrice (Bebe) Shopp of Mooreina, Minn., with brown hair and blue-green eyes, were tonight's competition before an estimated 8,000 persons in Convention Hall.

The Utah beauty won the talent competition with a dramatic monologue as a mother talking to her dying son in a hospital. Eighteen year old Miss Shopp showed up best among the contestants in bathing suits.

Still contending for the title is Miss Canada. 23-year-old Betty Jean Ferguson of Halifax, who Thursday night paraded in an evening gown she bought at the last moment.

Miss Ferguson had hoped to wear an evening gown selected in Canada but it failed to arrive in time. Instead, Miss Ferguson who won the Miss Canada title at Hamilton two weeks ago bought a gown here. It was of white satin, strapless, with a net front that ends in the floor. A green satin bow was tied behind in a bustle effect.

Police Justified In Breaking Into Apartment

Toronto, Sept. 10 (CP) —Toronto's police commission after a lengthy hearing Thursday decided not to take action in the complaints against five policemen who battered the doors of two apartments in an evening in building, in a mistaken search for an alleged bookmaker.

The commission decided the officers were justified in executing a search warrant. But the warrant was for an apartment which the alleged bookie left some time ago and during the search the police battered down the doors of a second apartment belonging to Cs. Mackenzie Waters.

Testimony at the hearing was that after battering in the door of the apartment for which they held the search warrant, the police smashed in what they thought was a back door. Actually it was the door leading to the apartment of Col. Waters.

R.W.D. Sinclair, K.C., counsel for Col. Waters, told the commission the incident was a brutal intrusion on decent citizens.

Magistrate Robert Browns said "the whole thing was a blunder. What do you want us to do?"

Mr. Sinclair replied: "We don't want anything. We just wanted the commission to know what the police did."

It was explained that spoliges have been paid and material damage has been restored.

Saturday is the day everyone who has missed seeing the big 14-day fair makes sure of attending. This last-minute urge is expected to build up another big crowd figure, to make up for Thursday when continual threat of rain reduced attendance to 145,200.

Sparkling performances at the National Horse Show Thursday night highlighted a day devoted to transportation. A showing of western Horses ridden by cowboys, some in chaps and other accoutrements of the old west, took oldtimers back to one of Canada's first modes of travel.

Today is Interprovincial and Service Clubs' Day. Clubs chief which have been giving active support to the fair and enjoyment to countless youngsters they sponsored in trips to the show, finally have their innings themselves.

Weekly Livestock Review

Toronto, Sept. 10 — (CP) — Cattle prices took a 50-cent jump on heifer steers and heifers on the livestock market this week. Good to choice quality beef was scarce, bulls, hogs and lambs went off on their own tack, however, and ended lower for the week. Bulls were ready to $1 lower, Hogs dropped $1 to $2 and lambs eased $1 Thursday-weight. Cows and calves remained steady.

The cattle run of 8,130 head was considerably higher than last week's 4,903 and included some 1,060 stockers. The run consisted especially of plain to medium cattle. Exporting was rather light. The quality of offerings were variable to attract United States buyers. The best price paid for mighty steers was $23-$27.

Butcher steers sold at $16-$22.50 with one small lot at $24. Butcher heifers were from $16-$21 and boners sold downward to $12. Butcher cows brought $12.50-$17.50 with canners and cutters selling downward at $7.50-$13.

Bulls sold at $14-$18 for light bolognas and good butcher bulls closed at $20-$23.

A plain quality run of stockers sold slowly at $15-$19. Fed yearlings were scarce at $20-$25. Good dairy quality milkers and springers sold at $150-$175 each.

Calves were 2,554 head. Good to choice vealers from 300 to 350 pounds weight moved readily at steady prices. Other grades were slow and slightly lower. Heavy calves sold at $16-$22 and grassers were mostly $12-$15.50.

Hogs totalled 1,939 hogs were offered. Following other markets Toronto hogs dropped 75 cents at a lumbredweight, closing at $23-$23.25 for Grade A and $22.50-$23.25 for Grade B1. Sows sold 50 cents lower at $24.

Sheep and lambs totalled 3,900 head. Lambs were down $1 at $22 for good ewes and wethers with $1 discount on bucks. Cull lambs sold from $13-$17 a hundredweight. Sheep were mostly $5 up with some better ewes at $9.50.

The Ancients Enjoyed Pork, Too

A few days ago while glancing through an English periodical we were astonished to learn it is exactly one hundred years ago that a weaver from Yorkshire exhibited the first white hogs ever seen. While we have never given any thought to the matter, it would only be reasonable to presume that some hogs had been white since the beginning of time.

Our interest having been thus aroused we determined to follow the subject a bit further by checking the information in the encyclopedia. Apparently this authority had never heard of this white hog for not a word was mentioned about it. There were, however, columns on swine and seeing that the succulent meat from this animal is used almost daily by nearly every one in one form or another, it might not be amiss to give some of the history of this common but useful creature.

It might appear that the source of the hog is shrouded in mystery although it is thought to have developed on the Asiatic continent. An emminent Chinese scholar estimates that swine were domesticated in eastern Asia about 2900 B.C., whereas the European records indicate a period of domestication about 1500 B.C.

We are told, also, that the flesh of the animal has been used by all people who came in contact with them. In fact the Romans and Greeks were highly skilled in the art of preparing and serving pork. The meat has the advantage to that of other animals because of the variety of ways it can be preserved and still retain its goodness. Some of these forms of course include salting and smoking so the meat may be kept in an edible condition anywhere up to six years.

Down in Virginia a ham is not considered choice until it has aged at least two years. By this time the ham is coated with a kind of green mold, and does not present a very appetising picture. A story is told about a New York businessman who happened to be visiting this State, and thinking it would make a nice gift, bought one at a fancy price and shipped it up North to a friend. Some time passed without hearing anything about his gift so when he returned home he called up and asked him how he liked the ham. His friend replied by saying he was very sorry he had not been able to use the meat because it was in such an unfit condition, that it was all covered with mold, and so he had thrown it out in the garbage.

Contrary to common belief by city folks a hog is not a dirty animal but gets that way either because of neglect by its owner or because it likes to wallow in mud when given the opportunity. The mud is cooling and helps to drive away the flies which can annoy even a hog it seems.

For some strange reason hogs will not eat tomatoes so we are told. Just why they turn up their noses at this tasty vegetable when they will devour practically anything else is unknown. It cannot be the color for they love apples of all hues. Perhaps, it may be the acid. It could be, of course, that tomato acid is the same to a hog that certain types of cheese do to humans. In that case the animal's discrimination should be applauded.

If pigs are raised on corn, which is the chief food in the central part of the United States, it requires about 1,447 pounds of grain for each hundred pounds gain in weight. This type of feeding produces what is called a lard hog. The bacon hog which is raised chiefly in Canada is given a variety of grains such as barley, oats, wheat and a good quantity of milk or whey.

The hundred years since the first white hog was displayed have served to concentrate the production of a few main breeds depending on the purpose which the animal is to serve, whether it be for bacon or lard and sausages. In Ontario the white Yorkshire is the favorite, so the next time you enjoy some prime cured bacon or ham it might be well to offer a bit of silent homage to that ingenious and nameless British weaver from Yorkshire who made it possible for so many to enjoy this favorite breakfast delicacy.

Tourist Courtesy

An American tourist was nicely backing into a parking space the other day, when a very smart local car squeezed in behind him and took the space he was so carefully trying to secure, says the St. Catharines Standard. He got out of his car and sought a member of the police force and asked the constable if such a practice were legal in Canada. The answer was "No."

Thereupon the constable proceeded to the scene to make things right. He certainly gave the American visitor the space.

But, lo and behold, on the Canadian gyp car were to be found two of those stickers: "Be courteous to visiting tourists."

And I think
They're asleep, there comes the cry:
"I want a drink."

When I've settled in my chair
For a rest,
Cometh Janie down the stair
On tip toes.

When I ask the reason why
Down she comes,
"A mosquito," she'll reply,
"Hums and hums."

When to answer every call
Up I creep,
I wonder will they ever fall
Fast asleep?

FORMULA OF SOCIAL BETTERMENT

(Reg. U. S. Patent Off.)

One does not have to be a pessimist or a crepe hanger to realize that the conclusion that moral conditions in America at the present time are disgusting. Almost every variety of wrongdoing seems to be on the increase. Juvenile delinquency, intemperance, immorality, and divorce are probably doing the nation more basic harm than any other three social misbehavior.

Most moral evils begin in the upper-classes and percolate into the lives of the more humble folk. Likewise, better moral conditions are probably doing the nation the humble folk who succeed at last in making the whole life of up.

society more wholesome. Things have come to such a pass in our country — and perhaps it was only to be expected after a great war — that we confront the prodigious task of making over again the moral life of America.

We can be pretty sure how this must take place. Society has been corrupted from the top down; it will have to cure from the bottom up. The people who make a big splash in the world usually do nothing at all to help society. Its pleasant or profitable to be splashed. Those who bring about great social betterment usually come from the ranks of modest men and unconspicuous station.

Let us not forget the formula: Society propels from within and down and cures from the bottom

Eight British Industries Plan Plants in Canada

Toronto, Sept. 10 — (CP) — Ontario Planning Minister Porter said Thursday that eight large British industries have been given the go-ahead signal from the British treasury to obtain dollars for establishment of branch plants in Ontario.

The new industries are expected to spend about $2,000,000 for plant construction and will employ more than 2,000 skilled and semi-skilled workers when operations get underway.

Since a conference between Premier Drew and officials of the British treasury last July, negotiations have bounded ahead, Mr. Porter said. Arrangements have been at the conferences to have restrictions loosened.

Within the last month the following industries have started or announced plants in Ontario. They are: Austin Motors, Leyland Motors, Lime-Sand Mortar, Ltd., Fye Company, Photographic Survey Co. Ltd., Spratts Patent Ltd., British Glues and Chemicals, Ltd., and Peek Frean and Co., Ltd.

Mackenzie's Column: Political Crisis Causing Weak Spot in Defence

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

Frances perpetual-motion political crisis is rapidly developing into a dangerously weak spot in the defense of western Europe against communist aggression.

Because of its strategic position and its industrial strength — the strength now greatly depleted by political and economic ravages — is so badly crippled by her continual internal political upheavals her weakness is a vast encouragement to the Russians to push their ambitions.

There is no doubt, for example, the French situation is in no small degree responsible for the brazen defiance displayed by the Reds towards the western Allies in Berlin. Communism dares the United States won't allow itself to be pushed out of the German capital.

One speaks with vast sympathy for as France has suffered so greatly and so gallantly as France. This fifth struggle in a half century. Always ready to defend their honor and security with their blood, the French have also have been with them on the battlefield can testify.

Suffering From Delusion

Yet France now seems to be suffering from a delusion which threatens to bring her annihilation in the world. Great nations which work for peace by unity under the gunfire have now slackened in both their internal and international unity on the basis that "war is over."

That is the tragic fact is that the war isn't over. Russia knows it isn't. Stalin knows it and he is the one who is waging it. She is making use of the weapon known as the "cold war." That is, she achieves her results by bullying and using the methods short of war but without letting loose bombs. If France continues to encourage Russia to make "cold war," and Russia continues to indulge in "cold war." That is, she achieves only to turn her final aggression may take.

All of which is by way of leading up to the fact that at this time not only for international cooperation and democracy, but for greater unity within the United Nations.

In time of "shooting wars" national disagreements are submerged in the interest of one state. One would think the same procedure would be followed in the present "cold war" which represents the greatest danger democracy has faced. It is doubly dangerous because of its insidious nature.

Of course wouldn't be presumptuous enough to offer political advice to France. It may be permitted, however, to note what seems obvious, namely, that sufficient "settlement collaboration must be established among the numerous political parties working to combat the fearful danger of Communism. The completion of the parties knows that a great majority of the people are anti-Communist.

Put Tag on Shirts To Suggest Price Commission Told

Ottawa, Sept. 10 (CP)—Two of Canada's five big shirt-manufacturing companies have put on tags to "suggest" retail prices, the Prices Commission has learned. Spokesmen for the other three firms make no suggestions direct or indirect as to what the public should be asked to pay.

The facts are among the highlights of the commission's first two days of a straight, week-by-week to the shirt industry. The Commission adjourned Thursday until Tuesday, when the investigation will be continued. Wholesalers and retailers are scheduled to testify next week.

The companies which tag their shirts are John Forsyth Ltd., Kitchener, and Tooke Bros. Ltd., Montreal. The three which don't are Penman's, Peabody and Company of Canada, Ltd.; the B.V.D. Company Ltd., Montreal, and Canadian Cottons Ltd., St. Hyacinthe, Que.

Spokesmen for all companies emphasized their interest in the welfare of the public and consumer. Small retailers were particularly hard hit when business was dull among the advantages ascribed to it by the physicians of these countries.

Asks Furthest Question

H. A. Dyde, Commission counsel, asked at one point Thursday if "you have a policy that you have that mark-up to stay in business?"

"I certainly do," said George H. Imrie, merchandising manager of Tooke Bros.

Mr. Dyde said he wonders why manufacturers don't concentrate on retailers' prices.

"It doesn't stay in business," Mr. Imrie said, "we don't sell either."

Thursday's testimony also included the remark by R. H. Spencer, president of B.V.D. Company, that he considers some shirt prices "out of line."

Referring to shirts which retail at more than $5.95, he said: "In terms cost of British materials is the reason.

"Nothing in the world has gone up as much in price as cotton piece goods," he said.

"...we're forced to buy from England at the best price we can the last to say I think the Canadian public were paying proper prices for what they are getting out of it."

Statistician Says Arithmetic Was Little Wobbly

Ottawa, Sept. 10 — (CP) — F. H. Leacy, a government statistician, said Thursday that his bike arithmetic had been a trifle wobbly on the hooley question of the mark-up on retail costs of men's shirts.

Wednesday, speaking of $4 shirts before the Prices Commission, Mr. Leacy said: "Suppose the retailer is approximately $32 a dozen or $2.66 each, plus 25 cents of eight per cent and freight. The mark-up in this example is therefore 33 per cent or approximately 60 per cent of cost and approximately 37½ per cent of the retail price."

Thursday found himself faced with a check-up from the shirting trade. Retailers pointed out that the $4 shirt was not like a shirt, but $2.66, and that the mark-up was not 33 per cent — but 50 per cent, not 60.

Mr. Leacy admitted Thursday that he had been "off a couple of bucks" but contended that he was correct in the $4 shirt at $32." This would leave his original mark-up 50 per cent, he said. "But now," he added ruefully, "I see they're all wrong and starting too low and that it should be closer to $31."

He also pointed out this:

At 2.66 a shirt, the mark-up is 25 per cent of cost all right. As about 33 per cent — not 37 — of the retail price.

And 37 per cent, he emphasized, is within the 33⅓ per-cent mark-up which the commission witnesses — spokesmen for manufacturing companies — said is the "traditional" mark-up.

EARLY UP AFTER DELIVERY

In 1,000 obstetric case in a hospital in Canada, according to a report published in American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, the patient is allowed out on the fourth day or before, and the others after the fifth or sixth day after delivery.

Lead author Leopold argued this as radical I hasten to mention that other obstetricians, in the past eight or ten years, have been getting patients out of bed the third or fourth day after delivery and discovering that this practice favors better results than the older practice of keeping the puerpera confined to her bed for ten days to two weeks.

From similar reports on early rising after delivery, giving the observations of obstetrician in Chicago, Baltimore, Montreal, London, Oakland, Canadaigua, and Yale, Leopold winds up his points hither and yon it appears that this practice has several points of merit. It gives the oldlie-abed-and-get-flabby routine. Among the advantages ascribed to it by the physicians of these countries are these: (M. F. E.)

CracksmenBlamed For Break-ins

Cornwall, Sept. 10 — (CP) — Police today blamed a gang of professional crackmen for breakins at four establishments at Moulinette, 12 miles north of here, during the night. Preliminary investigation indicated the loot was small.

Nitroglycerine charges were used to at least two of the breaks but no burglars were found. The blasting in the early hours did not investigate.

At the plant of Canada Packers a large safe was blown open but the strong-box containing $1,000 was harmless and the safe undamaged and remained intact. At the Finch Creamery the office cabinet was smashed open and windows were broken. The egg grading station and C.P.R. tool shed were also entered, a quantity of tools being stolen from the latter.

Springfield—Rattles and teething rings are kid stuff to 18-months-old Lawrence Phillips.

He'd rather have—and gits—two good 12-cent cigars a day.

His father, Mrs. Lawrence Phillips, says the child has never smoked, but never shown any ill effects from his cigar-smoking habit.

She says everyone in the family including his grandmother and baby sister, has had a turn at one in the family who smokes cigars.

Mrs. Phillips told reporters he buys his own cigars when he goes shopping with her—and shows partiality for the 12-centers.

Milwaukee—Jerome Mackey, 30, found out Thursday that no matter how polite you are, you can't ask a lady for a kiss.

Mackey, a fat company repairer for Mrs. Robert Adamczewski 23, testified he asked her to kiss him after being called to her home to fix a leaky pipe. Her husband, she said, chased him out of the house.

"I asked her for a kiss," Mackey admitted. I said "would you please give me a kiss.

"And I said it in a polite tone, too."

Judge Thaddeus Pruse wasn't impressed. He fined Mackey $15.

Hostility Inevitable In Family Life Says Mental Authority

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New York (AP) — Don't expect your husband or wife to love you all the time — or you're in for trouble.

And when your young child gets angry with you, even to saying he'll gladly kill you . . . don't punish him. Take it easy. All children feel that way at times.

And don't bring a load home by overworking the old adage—"Don't put off until tomorrow what can be done today." It makes for a neurotic kind of life.

All these are just some of the cautions for those who want a happy home life, says Dr. Luther Woodward, field consultant of the National Committee for Mental Health.

A lot depends on the kind of people who live in the home, and what they do and think.

One cause of trouble is the movie and fiction idea of "they lived happily ever after." Dr. Woodward said. A wedding is pictured as the scene of happiness, and the first month of marriage as the happiest. That's nonsense, he says, and when tempers flare and quarrels start, the disillusioned spouse may start to worry and brood.

"Probably no one loves anyone 100 per cent of the time. Some anger and hostility is natural and inevitable. If married people understand that, they can make allowances, and not let it upset them and avoid serious quarrels that leave scars.

Safety-Valve Tactics

And, he continued, "there's just no way to bring up children so they will be angelic and obey at some time. When you do have to punish them or direct them something, they may get violently angry, hating you. Even threatening you. That's all right. We don't punish them. Punishment would only add to their resentment. Listen to the child, let him know you understand what he means, and be willing to play with him as soon as he's ready. His anger blows over much sooner, and he avoids nervous reactions and lasting resentment.

Homes need safety-valve people, Dr. Woodward said. "At least one member of the family and preferably all, should be good at relieving others of their troubles, good at draining off their feelings of hostility, fear, and anger.

In many homes, he added, the enjoyment of today is spoiled by someone's nagging about past mistakes, or about possible future troubles.

"Families should use the present to enrich each member's years and satisfactions as much as they can. Following the old adage of not postponing till tomorrow what can be done today can produce a nation of neurotics. Instead, people should do today what is important today, and forget the rest that doesn't mean laziness or lack of foresight."

"Mental health suffers from strong ideas about too much authority, or too little discipline. The mental health of children suffers when they are pampered or denied too much. But it also suffers when they are made to make their own decisions too early, before they have had time to work out any set of values.

"The real goal is to teach children to discipline themselves. The way to do this is first to give them a congenial, happy home. Give them a backlog of satisfactions, so they can take it when the parents have to clamp down and say No."

Missionary Couple Find African Natives Interesting People to Live Among, Greatful for Help Given

By R.L.

Long ago when some Portuguese explorer wandered through the wilds of Africa they were stopped in their journeys by a violent thunder storm which took place every month from the east coast. Gazing skyward they were terrified by the reverberations and rumblings which took place all around the towering hills. As the thunder gradually died away, lightning flashed they whispered fearfully amongst themselves "Sierra Leone"—which when translated means Mountains of the Lion for they truly believed the noise was the roar of many lions.

It is here in this mountainous country that Dr. and Mrs. E. F. McCarty have their mission under the sponsorship of Wesleyan Methodist Church.

On Leckure Tour

Dr. McCarty a doctor of divinity, was in charge of Publicity and Secretary for the Wesleyan Methodist Church from 1919 to 1944, and during that time carried out duties in Africa, and also established foreign missions in South America. He is at present on a 8,000 mile tour of United States and Canada. He stopped in this city Wednesday night to acquaint the people of Belleville with his work.

While Dr. McCarty has many interesting things to tell about his work, perhaps a description of the native approach to civilization may be with these strange uneducated people, who are bounded by so many superstitions, customs and superstitions might be interesting. Just how they came to think about teaching the word of God to another human being who is the first place unfamiliar with the English tongue, and in the second place has no conception of civilization as we know it today.

Natives Very Superstitious

Mrs. McCarty explained the approach which she and her husband employ. Their first approach she said, believes in God and is born with that belief. Their second she explained, his belief is not in God but Christians know Him, but rather in the spirits they are looking out for his welfare.

So numerous are superstitions and fears of the native and so great is the power of mind over these fears that a direct approach, education and confirmation of the existence of God is a revelation and joy to them. The difference in the Christian native and the pagan is remarkable, said Mr. McCarty said.

Death is a time of great sorrow and misery to the native. He is terrified before that death and when a death occurs in his family.

"One woman," she related, "came to me weeping and moaning over the death of her baby daughter. She had hung bone and egg-shells in great quantity at the front of her mud hut to keep away spirits of death. When I explained to her that all Christians believe that death is not forever and that someday our loved ones are with us again, she thanked me and was overjoyed."

"It is not difficult to persuade the natives of the existence of God she claimed. Their sorrows and privations are great and they call on a power greater than themselves at all times to take care of them.

Polygamy Customary

"Polygamy abounds in Africa," commented Dr. McCarty, "and it is our job to convince a man who has several wives that he would be better off with only one. But a great number of wives is a sign of wealth and status in an African does not support his wife, they support him by all he has a they do for him."

However, went on Mrs. McCarty, the African husband does have one wife and feel that their problems have been considerably reduced for them. Having so many wives brings about many domestic strife and troubles.

One of Mrs. McCarty's household problems is the army ants which travel in a wide column through the country, the houses and gardens. In order to sleep they must be sure that the legs of the bed have no crack or hole and that all bedding is kept from hanging down. This keeps the ants away from them. These ants are extremely destructive and will kill chickens or ducks. Dr. McCarty said that at one time he had, put some young ducks in a box and hung them on clothes line to protect them from the ants.

Ones Used for Torture

These pests were once a primitive method of torture he explained. The victims were bound and put in the path of the ants which actually ate them up.

"Yes, it's always hot and humid," said Mrs. McCarty, "but only the coolest of cotton dresses and of course the natives wear less than that. We stop work for a few hours every afternoon because of the heat."

Dr. and Mrs. McCarty look after a number of sick people who cannot get to the doctor, "if they are too sick for medications we send them by truck to the nearest doctor. However, the hospital with 40 beds is further to a miles away."

The nation in the territory allotted to the McCarty's are divided into four tribes each speaking a different language. They have all different in temperament and must be dealt with in different ways. Most of their converting is done with the help of an interpreter, as many children in schools are teaching English so that its use is becoming widespread.

Attacked by Disease

The native is addicted to a peculiar type of ulcer, Mrs. McCarty said, which doesn't seem to affect the peoples in cooler climes. She said the ulcers are so big and eat so far into the flesh that the bones are exposed and they are treated easily by healing with a medicated solution and they spread fairly well in this treatment. The children are attacked by a deadly malady which begins as a bluish spot on their faces and if not caught in time will eat away their jaw tissues.

The people she works with, she said were very friendly and in such great need that they appreciate deeply when anything at all was done for them.

Mrs. McCarty directs the women's activities, home-making, first aid and Christian education.

The purpose of the tour which she and Dr. McCarty are making is to appeal to the people over here and make them understand the great need of these less fortunate beings who are after all entitled to all the benefits afforded by our advanced civilization.

Since coming to Belleville Dr. McCarty has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Ketcheson, Bridge Street.

Women's Hospital Aux. Provides Many Services for Patients' Welfare

A nurse and doctor are standing in a front street waiting window. The doctor in his white gown and mask and the nurse—crisp and efficient is ready to obey his orders and she carries a tray containing anything that is necessary for the patient.

This picture is not real, but they could be, and these two serve to illustrate the public with the work that is being done by the Belleville General Hospital and more particularly the many activities in which the Women's Hospital Auxiliary of Belleville is engaged.

Holding Tag Day

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary are holding their tag day this coming Saturday and the money contributed by the public will go towards:

Providing an annual scholarship of $200 to enable a student from the School of Nursing to take a post graduate course in the course offered in Canadian universities.

Maintaining an indigent fund to provide comforts for patients who could not otherwise afford them.

Maintaining a Good Samaritan Cupboard which provides layettes for needy infants upon their dismissal from the hospital.

Providing Christmas gifts and Easter baskets each year for appendicitis, tonsil, children and ward patients.

Providing special sewing for ward patients, O. R. socks, incontinent sheets, etc., and many other worthwhile activities.

No Part in Administration

It is not the purpose nor the desire of the Auxiliary to participate in the administration of the hospital. Their sole object is to assist the hospital board and superintendents by performing services and providing needed equipment which will increase the comfort and raise the standard of technical care given to patients.

The Auxiliary plans, this fall to open and operate an Opportunity Shop at Market Building. This shop will provide a centre for the sale of both new and used articles which either donated or articles to be sold on consignment basis. The operation of the shop will be carried on by volunteer workers and all proceeds will be used directly for the benefit of the hospital.

Since this work is considered vital, the City Council has requested that it be continued, resulting that a volunteer group of ladies interested in the welfare of the hospital, they were

Hottest Pennant Race in Major League History is Temporarily Eclipsed by Barney's No-Hitter

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The greatest pennant races in major league baseball history were forced to play second fiddle last night to 23-year-old Rex Barney, who only a few short months ago was struggling to stay in the big time.

Barney tripped loudly on the door to pitching greatness Thursday night when he hurled a no-run, no hit game against New York Giants. It was the first such game of the 1945 National League season and the second in the majors this year.

Barney's superlative pitching enabled Brooklyn Dodgers to defeat the Giants 2-0 at the Polo Grounds, and advance to within 3 1-2 games of the league-leading Boston Braves.

Only six balls were hit to the outfield and all were easily handled.

Barney who was at all times aware that he was in the process of pitching a no-hitter, said he "threw right from the first pitch that I had it tonight. Her called the 'My fast ball was really hopping out there," he said.

Only Four Reach First

Only four Giants reached first base as Barney faced 29 batters. He fanned four. Five others were out on pop fouls. Two New Yorkers got on via walks and two on Brooklyn errors. Her retired the last 20 batters to face him.

The only other no-run, no-hit game this year was spun by Bob Lemon of Cleveland Indians who blanked Detroit Tigers 2-0 June 30.

The triumph was Barney's 13th of the season. In three previous seasons with the Dodgers he had won only nine games, and had pitched only one complete game in the first three months of this campaign.

Walters Knocked Out

Despite their victory, the Dodgers remained in third place as the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates behind the five hit pitching of Elmer (Dutch) defeated Cincinnati Reds 6-1. Manager Bucky Walters needing only two more triumphs to reach 300 in his major league career, started for the Reds, but was knocked out in the sixth to be charged with the defeat.

The victory boosted the Bucs within three games of the Braves who were rained out of their game with the Phils in Philadelphia.

Stan Musial broke out of his batting slump by collecting four hits in four times at bat to lead St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 victory over Chicago Cubs. Harry Brecheen pitched the shutout for his 17th triumph.

Sox Increase Lead

The pennant hungry Boston Red Sox increased their first-place margin in the American League to 3 1-2 games over the Yankees, defeating the New Yorkers for the second straight time, 9-4.

It was Boston's ninth straight victory, seventh in a row over the Yankees, and 24 out of the last 27 games. Ted Williams, with 2 hits and three runs batted in, paced the Red Sox nine hit attack.

The third-place Cleveland Indians inched within a game of the Yankees by nosing out Detroit Tigers 3-2 in 13 innings in a night game in Cleveland. Eddie Robinson singled home Ken Keltner with the deciding run.

Bob Feller and Hal Newhouser matched brilliant pitching for seven innings but Feller gave way for a pinch hitter in the 7th and Newhouser yielded in the 8th.

St. Louis' Browns took both ends of a double header from Chicago White Sox 5-3 and 4-2, in the only action in the American League.

DON BLAIR

Don Blair, classy young leather pusher of the Brockville Athletic Club, who will trade punches with Oshawa's Rod Henry, in the second main bout of the boxing show to be presented in the Memorial Arena this coming Wednesday.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

Sports fans in the city should have no trouble finding something to their liking this evening. The wrestling matches at the arena promise plenty of action while followers of softball can take in the third game in the Hamilton-Oshawa series for the Whiting Well Trophy. Baseball enthusiasts, by trekking to the Fair Grounds, will see the RCAF Flyers-Petes tilt with the winners being chosen to represent the Belleville Baseball League in the OBA Intermediate B playdowns.

In the main bout at Memorial Arena Dangerous Dan O'Connor will match grips and grunts with Australia's Fred Atkins. The villainous O'Connor, who would like nothing better than to spoil the Aussie's chances of a shot at Whipper Watson and the British Empire title, will be doing his dirtiest, which is quite something too, to defeat the awesome Australian, in the quickest and most painful manner possible. On the other hand Atkins will be after the win as just another stepping stone to a chance against the Whip. And if he has to step on the O'Connor genitalia early and often to do it, that is too bad for O'Connor.

Two fast, rugged preliminary bouts have been lined up, with "Strangler" Bob Wagner slated to strangle "Handsome" Ben Sharpe of the Hamilton Sharpes, while Lee Henning takes on Ed Meske. Same time, same place, same prices.

Up at the Fair Grounds, come 1.30 p.m. the RCAF Flyers tangle with the Picton Athletics in the third and deciding game of their series, with the winners having the right to enter the Belleville "B" OBA playdowns as representatives of the Belleville Baseball League.

At 6.15 at the Alemite Field, the Houston "Knotheirs" and Corbys will square off in the third, and what may prove to be the last game of the best three-in-five series for the league championship and the Whiting Well Trophy.

"Knotheirs" after winning much the regular season with eight wins against one loss, have played their way into the playoffs as champs and have won all four. On the strength of their record during the season they rocketed into the late-in finals and so far have proved to be of championship calibre.

Corbys, however, are not to be taken lightly. They lost a few games at the start of the season, but improved steadily in the latter stages of the campaign to finish in a tie for first. They eliminated the Moose Lodge from the playoffs in straight games and then upset the Quaker Dry Beverages in the semi-finals in two straight games after losing the opener by thirteen runs.

Play in both games with Houstons has been close with the winners tallying two victories in the latter innings on sheer power. Corbys feel that they can snuffle the Houston's bats this time and climb back into a contending spot. Houstons, however, rated in their records and stats to be the class of the league, they eliminated the Moose Lodge from the playoffs in straight games and then upset the Quaker Dry Beverages in the semi-finals in two straight games after losing the opener by thirteen runs.

The Earlscourt-Oshawa series was short lived as the Toronto squad ousted the Motor City boys in two straight games. Earlscourt-Oshawa next meet the Kiwanis Juniors with the first game scheduled for Wednesday, September 19, at the Fair grounds, with the second game scheduled for Saturday, September 15, at Hamilton. The Juniors were given plenty of action next week, because in addition to their OBA playoffs they will also meet the rejuvenated Belleville Merchants in the second game of the Belleville Baseball League's semi-finals series on Monday. Should a third game be necessary, it will be played the following night.

Ole Olsen, who frankly admitted that he would be satisfied if the Leos did not take the Peterborough Marines in four straight games, must be just about paralyzed with surprise. His Leos, suffered their second straight defeat at the hands of the Petes the other night and new trail two games to none in the best-four-in-seven series. The Petes who was calling for the four wins after the Petes had scored three.

A card from the Boss, who is taking leave of the profession for ten days, arrived at the office this morning by moose carrier. The card was written on a sheet of birch bark, obtained from Algonquin Park bearing the words "This is the Shangri-La of the north, absolutely out of this world." (We knew it was a long way but we did not think it was quite that far.) He goes on to state that the alarm clock is a tame chipmunk and that an enraged a deer poke his muzzle in the tent and asks where you're from. Oh! for the call of the wild!!!

Toronto Leafs Defeated By Buffalo Bisons

(By The Associated Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs' chances of qualifying for an International League playoff berth appear dim today.

Dick Porter's hustling young crew is in fifth place, half a game out of fourth — the last playoff berth — but the club has only two games left to play. Syracuse Chiefs, in fourth slot, have six games to go.

The Chiefs can clinch a post-season berth by winning four of their remaining games. If the Leafs lose one game, the Chiefs need only to win three of their six contests.

Buffalo Bisons, already eliminated from the post-season parade, dealt the Leafs a virtual knockout blow Thursday night by trounding them 9-2.

Right-hander Saul Rogovin scattered nine hits in stopping the Leafs for his 17th victory. The Bisons pounded five Toronto hurlers for 11 hits, including rookie Johnny Gorsica's 20th home of the season with two aboard in the third inning.

Rain washed out the three remaining contests.

Paddy De Marco Meets Pep In Non-Title Bout

By JACK HAND

New York, Sept. 10 — (AP) — Paddy de Marco of Brooklyn, a rising star in the lightweight boxing class, makes his most important start tonight at Madison Square Garden against featherweight champion Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., in a non-title 10-rounder.

Winner of 32 fights in 34 starts in a professional career dating back to 1942, De Marco comes up to the Pep scrap with a string of 21 straight victories. The most impressive links in that success chain were two decisions over rugged Terry Young of New York.

De Marco, who finished training at 134½ pounds, will have a weight pull on the 126-pound champ who has lost only once — to Sammy Angott — in 133 outings.

Now 20-year-old Paddy makes the big grab taking 88 Pep, who is one of the best fighting men of our day. A slick boxer who has a good wallop for a featherweight, the Hartford stylist is a solid 5-to-13 choice to rack up another scalp.

Win, lose or draw, De Marco will remain a promising lightweight, with the fighting fire like Williams' tile in another year or so when he reaches the age of 21 and becomes eligible for 15-round championship fights in New York State.

Short Football Season Makes Every Game a Playoff Match

(By The Canadian Press)

Even though it starts in 100-degree heat and extends into zero weather, Canada's football season still stands a short time between every game amounts to a sudden-death playoff.

That's apparent today from a glance at the standings. Here are the Dominion's three senior leagues eligible for Grey Cup play but each is faced with a different task.

In the other two circuits are just about a dozen for playoff positions.

For what he termed "security reasons," he refused to release any names.

The four teams in the venerable Ontario Rugby Football Union join the playoff jostling this weekend, during which all 11 of the Canada's cup-hunting teams will see action.

The O.R.F.U., reduced to four clubs by the loss of Ottawa Typhons and the amalgamation of Toronto Balmy Beach and Indians, gets under way Saturday at Kingston and Hamilton. The Beaches Indians play host Saturday against the Imperials while Windsor Rockets meet the Tyrones at Hamilton to start in the circuit, at Hamilton.

In the Big 4's Interprovincial Union, which started on the bottom two clubs face win-or-lose games this weekend with the two league-leaders. Hamilton Wildcats, tied for 1st by Toronto Argonauts at Hamilton Labor Day, play a return engagement with the champions while Montreal Alouettes tackle the Rough Riders, who hold a 26-18 decision over them, at Ottawa.

Yet to Win Game

Both the Wildcats and Alouettes have yet to win in two games. Dominion's three senior leagues eligible for Grey Cup play but each is faced with a different task.

In the Western Canada League, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders are just about down to the crucial-series stage in their weekend games. With Calgary Stampeders sitting on top of the heap with 6 points against two losses, the battle seems to be between these two for the second playoff spot in the three-team circuit.

Both Bombers and Roughriders have won one game against three losses. They clash in a big game at Regina Saturday. The winner gets on to play the high-flying Stampeders at Calgary Monday night.

Two Canadian Horses Expected To Show Well

Westbury, N.Y. Sept. 10 (CP) — Two Canadian horses, both 4-year-olds, will be among the entries in the Nassau two mile pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

In the 1 1-2 Downing Stake, Dr. Blanton paced the course in 1.11 4-5 for a world's record . . . and was coasting in the stretch. The "Doctor" has also set another record in 1 1-4 miles by clipping the distance in 2.31.

The Nassau late entry is fresh from a season of distance races on Canadian tracks. The distance racing is expected to give Tip an advantage over many of the entries who have been entered in one mile events.

ON THE WAKES WAGON

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — A city council water-wagon driver here for 28 years was recently charged with driving his motor while under the influence of liquor. The magistrate who didn't convict him because of good character, remarked: "In future, when you're driving your car, remember you're on the water wagon."

Toronto, Sept. 10 (CP) — Time was when amateur hockey teams did their player hunting secretly, but that procedure has changed.

If a club had its eye on a sharp-shooting wingman in the old days he was approached quietly by officials. A secret meeting was arranged and if terms were satisfactory, the winger signed on the dotted line.

Soon, however, players were hunted openly. When a club spotted a man they liked in another city or town, a letter was written asking him to drop down for a practice session, all paid. And if everything went all right the club had a new man patrolling the ice lanes.

"But that letter method may become passe before long, judging by the advertisement we came across a few days ago," says Harry (London Free Press) Eisen. "It seems there is a scarcity of senior calibre hockeyists around Kitchener (ex Ontario Hockey Association senior entry) . . . and apparently there are few establishment senior clubs on the loose elsewhere.

"So the Kitchener coach, hoping that he'll unearth some hitherto undiscovered stars in the hinterlands, has advertised that the Kitcheners will be only too happy to give prospects a trial."

Eisen says he thinks the idea has plenty of merit and that the advertising department of the newspaper will agree.

"Just imagine looking through the help wanted: 'Wanted: Right-winger, must be able to skate and shoot well. Between the age of 19 and 26. Experience not necessary, but an asset. Please state full particulars in first letter.' " Last Chance

Ivan (Hamilton Spectator) Miller says that if Hamilton Wildcats want a little luck now, chances are they'll rub the head of wingman Art Cousins.

Viscount Alexander, Governor-general of Canada, kicked off to open the Ottawa - Hamilton game Saturday and handed his hat to Cousins while he was doing the booting.

"Art promptly stuck it on his head for the brief ceremony, so now it's a bad omen, instead of shaking the hand that shook the hand of John L. Sullivan," it will be 'rub the head that wore the hat of a great hero.' "

TURNED TO GOOD ACCOUNT

Stockholm — (CP) — When lightning recently struck a motion picture studio here, setting it on fire and partly destroying it, the scenes burned the disaster to useful purposes. A number of scenes for a forthcoming "atomic war" film were made in the wrecked studio.

COLONIAL COPY

The early American eating places were patterned after the inns, taverns and coffee houses in England and on the continent.

In the International lightning class yacht regatta at Point Abino, Ont. Swindeman and his crew of Bob Swindeman and Dave Wright finished the six-mile course in 1:06.55.

The new Rose will spoil you for any other truck you have ever driven. You'll enjoy the amazing ease of handling; have an 8 ton load in any weather, like a charm. The Gold Crown engine is built specially for trucks—the frames are cold-riveted and much heavier. The dual-action primary brakes are a real safety feature. And you can carry more payload on a Rose. Each of wheelbases, putting a little extra profit in each trip that is straight "velvet". Repair costs are cut to a minimum—because Rose are problem-built by men who manufacture only trucks and buses, and one plan for trucking economics from the ground up.

REALTOR

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Maxnie Pugh Laytor opens every hand with a club—and this is a promiscuous user of the exploratory one club opening. This means an opening bid of one club with or without a biddable club suit.

If his opening hand is weak or strong, he opens with one club. He may have a biddable suit in spades or hearts or diamonds and bid in clubs. Or more than one suit. But he opens with one club.

Do I approves of the exploratory one club opening? No more than I do of any other unsound bid when a true bid is available. No man I do of fooling partner when it is not necessary.

Is there a spot for such a phony bid? Sure, there is. But the restrictions are many. And few players will control themselves that far. This is why they dare not be told it can be used at all.

Neither this nor any other unsure bid should be employed by poor players. Extend that to include average players. Include all players who do not know all the bridge rules confidently.

Never use it unless expert enough to handle the second round. Never throw it in unless partner is expert enough to read the curve. Never use it as dealer or second hand.

Its use should be confined to third or fourth hand in only an expert pair. And then only when teaching no more than suits whom true requirements. It should be missing one value; no more, no less.

There is no true opening in this hand:

♠K J 7 6 3
♥Q 9 7 5
♦A 8 3
♣A 4 3

It has a biddable spade suit. It has four high cards with two aces tricks. But it has only four tricks. It lacks a fifth trick to make it a true opening of one spade.

After dealer and second hand had passed, an expert may hate to pass this hand. He could not be blamed for opening it with one club. But he should be an expert who knows the reasons.

The Movie Column

By JACK QUIGG

Hollywood, Sept. 10 — (AP)— It's fashionable in Hollywood these days to admit you're a ham, but Douglas Fairbanks thinks even honesty can be carried too far.

"For my dough, false modesty is just as distasteful as pride," he observed during a reflective moment in the dressing room. "Truth is, it's a type of bragging, and I'm getting sick of it."

He quit acting for every actor he knows in running around confessing how bashful he is, and added:

"Even they're hams. Why shouldn't an actor be a ham? It's part and parcel of his business. What's wrong of all is the ham who admits it."

Phone Solution

A ship - to - shore phone call from the Cornel Wilde - Patricia Knight, honeymoon bound on the Queen Elizabeth, solved a knotty transportation problem for the couple. With time off for a tour of Europe, they were unable to book passage. Rita obligingly arranged for chartering a plane for the Wildes her suite on the return voyage.

For good luck, Walter Huston will play his roles in his son John's films. He'll read poetry a bank official who interviews Walter Connor for a job in 'Rough Sketch', John's latest.

Wild West Dept.

Indian lore slowed down shooting at the "Canadian Pacific" Company's Alberta location. The redskins weren't hostile. They photographed too pale and had forgotten their tribal markings. Suntan make-up and some fast research enabled the show to go on.

Flinties who sweated out the summer months in Hollywood are on planning delayed vacations. Hedy Lamarr and her youngsters are heading for Lake Tahoe and Canadian born Raymond Massey leaves shortly for relaxation at Sun Valley . . . the Robert Prestons are being rugged with a pack trip into the high Sierras.
